Select Poetry.

One Loving Heart.

One loving heart is more to me
Than aught that fortune can bestow;
The treasures fancy the distant see,
That with such radiant lustre glow,
The glory of a monarch's throne,
Not half the pleasure can impart;
Of all earth's treasures, I would own
One loving heart!

The victor's crown, the poet's wreath,
The heathen that the world may fling,
A momentary fragrance breathe,
'A moment's triumph bring;
But long [illegible] remains, shall love
New fragrance find new joy impart,
E'en when the deities bloom above
One loving heart!

How sweet the spell it throws around
Our homes, tho' humble they may be,
And where one loving heart is found,
'Tis always Paradise to me.
O fate, my hopes then may'st bereave,
And bid my cherished dreams depart;
Take all things else I prize, but leave
One loving heart.

SCOTCH POLITICAL MARTYRS.

Thomas Muir—His Early Life—Outlawry and visit to Paris—Death of the King.

BY R. MACFARLANE.

PART I.

IN the administration of justice and prompt execution of law, Scotland, at the present time, is a model nation. Her laws are not perfect, but under them her people enjoy more rational liberty, perhaps, than the citizens of any other country. Such justice and such a measure of liberty, however, are of comparatively recent date. Freedom of speech upon a reasonable basis has only been secured within the last half century, and not without much struggling and suffering on the part of many worthy men. The political history and traditions of the Scottish people present numerous instances of oppression very peculiar to their character. A knowledge of many of these cases has been extensively disseminated, while the facts of others have been confined to a very limited number of persons. The memory of Scotland's later political martyrs deserves to be cherished by every liberty-loving heart, because those men suffered not only for the freedom of their native land, but in a noble sense, for "the rights of man," which is a higher principle than mere national independence. In my boyhood, during winter evenings, when sitting by the ingle side in old Rutherglen, I had heard many touching stories respecting the adventures and suffering of the young and gifted reformer, Thomas Muir; and, ever since, the mention of his name makes my heart thrill with peculiar emotions. I have thought that a condensed narration of his life and that of some of his associates would be of interest to my readers of the SCOTTISH AMERICAN JOURNAL, as quite a number of persons who had professed the same principles, had labored to advance them, and in several cases suffered for them, found a refuge and a home in America. With some of them I was well acquainted; and several of their descendants occupy places of trust in this republic, and in the Dominion of Canada.

Thomas Muir was born in Glasgow in the year 1764. His parents were quiet, respectable people, belonging to the wealthy manufacturing class. The father was owner of considerable property within the city, and of a beautiful small estate and mansion at Hunter's-hill, a few miles distant. A very loving and lovable family was that of the Muirs, consisting of the parents, an only daughter, and the son, who is the subject of our story. From infancy, he was designed by his parents for the ministry. His disposition was so generous and gentle, it was believed that the pulpit was the place best suited to his tastes and feelings. To qualify him for this profession, he received a classical education, and completed a course of theological studies in the ancient college of his of his native city. But from marked abilities which he had exhibited as a debater while a student, several of his friends advised him to devote his life to the profession of law, as they believed he was endowed with just such talents as would make him highly distinguished at the Bar. With the consent of his parents he then entered the University of Edinburgh, studied for for some years with reference to law, and in 1787 became a member of the Faculty of Advocates. His mind was highly cultivated, his morals strict, and his person handsome. At the Bar his ability soon won for him a creditable share of practice, and he appeared to be rapidly advancing to prominent rank in his profession. At that time, political life, with all its practical blessings, as we now understand them, was at a low ebb in Scotland. In fact, the country was virtually ruled by a few Tory magnates, at the head of whom was Harry Dundas, Lord Advocate, a man of remarkable ability, courtly manners, and many good streaks of character, but a very despot in politics. The whole country electorate of Scotland numbered only about two thousand voters. These returned thirty-one of the forty-five Scottish members of the House of Commons, the fifteen other members being elected by Town Councils, some of whom were self-appointed. An independent news-paper was unknown, and when Henry Dundas, subsequently Lord Melville, went up to London, it was commonly said "he carried all Scotland in his pocket," for he was dispenser of Government patronage, and all the placemen lived in the sunshine of his favor.

The Church of Scotland was entwined with the very heartstrings of the Scottish people, and Thomas Muir was an elder in that church. When in Edinburgh, chiefly, his righteous soul was vexed at beholding the subserviency of high placemen to that political despotism which overshadowed the land; and was grieved at witness the trafficing which those called "the higher classes" felt for the landless artisans and mechanics. His conscience moved him to lift up his voice for a reform of Parliament, and his eloquence soon roused public feeling and attracted public attention. In 1792, five years after commencing his professional career, he stood forth publicly denouncing corruption in the State, and the arrogance of those who were clothed with official authority. Associations were formed in different parts of the country to agitate for reform, and one of these, organized through his efforts, and called the Glasgow Reform Association, was sustained by many of the leading merchants and manufacturers of the city. Among the latter was the generous David Dale, Esq. (grandfather of Robert Dale Owen, of New York), a gentleman always engaged in good deeds. Perhaps the period was importune, although the cause was just. High hopes for the advance of liberty had been raised, quite naturally, by the first flare of the French Revolution. The common people of Scotland were brooding deeply over their wrongs, and the eloquence of Muir vibrated upon their hearts. At this juncture the fears and feelings of Government were in ferment, and down to Edinburgh came the great Dundas to crush out Mairs influence and efforts. Quite a number of prominent persons in high positions, who at first seemed friendly to reform and favored the cause, shunned the company of the eloquent reformer almost immediately on the arrival of the Lord-Advocate in Edinburgh. Measures were at once instituted to strike down the young advocate by the preparation of a huge bill of indictment against him. His speeches were garbled; he was charged with sedition; and the bill ended with the demand "that he should be punished with the pains of law in order to deter others from committing like crimes in all time coming." The object of the bill was mainly to muzzle all public sentiment in favor of Parliamentary reform. By the Scotch and English law, the sedition charged upon Muir was no crime. In the meantime, however, the bill was masked till all things were fully matured, hints only being thrown out about it. Somehow Muir was advised to leave Edinburgh for a season and go up to London to consult with the gifted and learned Sir James Macintosh, a true friend of freedom, and also to visit Lafayette in Paris. Soon after he had left for France, out came the odious bill of indictment. It was left for him at his father's house, near Glasgow, commanding him to appear before the Lord's Commissioners of Justiciary in Edinburgh on January 2nd, 1793. It was impossible for him to return and meet the charges on the day commanded. Unfortunately, he arrived in Paris but a very short period before the execution of the unfortunate Louis XVI. This tragedy sent a thrill of horror throughout all Europe, and although Muir associated with none of those who were prominent actors in the death of the king, his very presence in Paris at this time was used as a kite on which to fly accusations against him. It was asserted by some of his enemies that he was a commissioner from Republicans in Scotland to urge on the execution of the poor monarch; and the Rev. James Lapslie, minister of Campsie, travelled over the country proclaiming him a miscreant. As this minister was afterwards placed upon the "pension list," the very best evidence of his principles was thus afforded by the price of fifty pounds annually received for them. Soon after the death of poor Louis war was declared between France and Great Britain, and a blockade was established over the French ports. It appears from some letters that Muir was not fully aware of the indictment issued against him until the 8th of February, on which day a letter from his father containing the information reached him. In answer to it he stated he would return to Scotland whenever he could obtain a passport and find means to escape the blockade. He said, "To shrink from danger would be unbecoming my character. I dare challenge the most minute investigation of my public and private conduct." The Lords of Justiciary had been very respectfully informed that he could not appear before them on the day of citation, and that a delay in pressing the charge would be merciful as well as just. But no attention was given to this suggestion. In haste, and with apparent pleasure, they issued a sentence of outlawry against him at the request of the Crown law officers. Its import was to seize Thomas Muir wherever he was found within the British dominions; also to confiscate all his moveable goods for His Majesty's use. Here we have a Court record of the condition of Scotland's politics in January, 1793. One of her gifted and generous sons outlawed for not appearing (when it was impossible to do so) to answer an accusation for sedition, which was freedom of speech in advocating political reform and denouncing public corruption. But Thomas Muir was yet to have his trial.

Thomas Muir, as we have said, was in Paris when Louis XVI. was executed. Did he compare favorably the peace and plenty of his native Scotland—having only about two thousand and fifty voters for members of Parliament—with the universal suffrage of France, her constantly clanging guillotine, her starving people, and the "Reign of Terror?" Being deep of thought, well versed in classic and legal lore, he probably reasoned philosophically respecting eternal principles and inconsistent men. As great writers had aforetime been committed in that same city of Paris by the predecessors of him who had just perished on the scaffold. In the name of religion, on St. Bartholomew's Day the streets had flowed with the blood of pious men and women, and heaping pyres of [illegible] cloth beget injustice, kings and peoples may do wrong—may be despots, cruel, vile; but truth, liberty and justice are nevertheless good and God-like. Thus Muir may have reflected, and would have cogitated well. He knew that the court, church and camp of France had for centuries been covered all over with the leprosy of infidelity, united with the grinding tyranny dedicated upon the suffering poor. The lowly people had been held under the upper and nether millstones of Court Bishops and Ignatious nobles, and what God's government would have went to vindicate!

Muir's return to Scotland, his trial and sentence, will be given in our next number.

A Lecture on Geology.

DELIVERED BEFORE THE THAMES TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

BY THE REV. J. BECKET, THAMESVILLE.

Does the teaching of Geology contradict or illustrate the teaching of the Bible?

In endeavoring to answer the question as to whether the teaching of Geology contradicts or illustrates the teaching of the Bible, it will be necessary first to notice what geology actually teaches which appears contrary to the teaching of the Bible, and then to consider whether this is a real or an apparent contradiction.

The first thing that meets us in geology as conflicting with Scripture are the numerous and unmistakeable indications that the earth has been in existence for immense periods of time before that which is generally understood to be the time stated in the first chapter of the book of Genesis. Geologists all agree in affirming that if fossiliferous rocks, or such as contain remains of animals are not less than six or seven miles in perpendicular thickness, and further that these rocks are composed of hundreds of layers of different kinds and that all of these appear to have been formed in the same way as rock are now being formed, at the bottom of the ocean, and of lakes, and other large bodies of water. Consequently these formations must have occupied an immense period of time. Without going into detail concerning the vast cycles of time that must have elapsed during the formation of these rocks, it is sufficient to notice that when we consider the slow progress by which rocks are now formed it is obvious that more than six thousand years would be required for the formation of six or seven miles of such rocks. If we suppose that these were formed faster than rocks are formed at present, we are met by other facts which show that the general mode of their formation was similar to that which exists at the present. These as well as all sorts of rocks which now compose the crust of the globe to the depth of several miles appear to have been the result of secondary causes; and further, the same general laws seems to have prevailed on the globe, and to have affected all the changes that have taken place on it and within it. All the geological changes which the earth has undergone and is now undergoing appear to have been the result of the same agencies and these agencies are heat and water.

That order and system prevailed in the formation of the materials that compose the crust of the earth to the depth of several miles receives further confirmation from the fact that the remains of animals and plants found in the earth are not mingled confusedly together, but are found arranged in regular order. They generally appear to have lived and died near the places where they have been found. Then again as millions and millions of these are often found piled together so as to form an entire mountain, this is another indication of the earth's being more than six thousand years old, for the periods requisite for the formation of these mountains must have been immensely long. Besides there are several other facts discovered by geologists which testify in the same direction and seem to show distinctly the antiquity of the earth's existence.

We will give a few of these, as follows:—

1. The present continents of the globe, with perhaps the exception of the highest mountains have for a long period constituted the bottom of the sea, and have either been elevated into their present position, or had the waters drained from their surface.

2. Satisfactory evidence is given of five distinct periods, each of which had a distinct group of animals and plants, and that all these have successively passed away before the races that now exist were created.

3. The climate over the whole globe appears to have been as warm or even warmer in the earlier ages, in which animals and plants have lived, than it is now between the tropics. The slow change from heat to cold appears to have been the chief cause of the successive destruction of the different races, so that new ones were created better adapted to the altered condition of the globe. As each group seems to have occupied a great length of time, the inference is that vast cycles of ages have elapsed since the earth became the abode of animated beings.

4. The earth's surface has been greatly changed by the action of the waters of the sea and rivers, as well as by the atmosphere. In several places solid rock has been worn away by the ocean 10,000 feet, and courses have been cut hundreds of feet deep and several miles in length, both of which must have occupied an immense period of time.

5. By the action of ice and water at a comparatively recent date, called the Drift Period, both Northern and Southern regions have been worn down, the force in general having been directed towards the equator.

6. Since this Drift Period the ocean has stood some thousands of feet above its present level in many countries.

7. In some parts of the world the continents seem to be undergoing important changes, some places rising and others sinking; hence it is reasonable to suppose that in early times such changes may have taken place very frequently and on a very large scale.

Lastly, all the changes which appear to have taken place on the surface of the earth seem to have an ascending scale of gradation. First, beings of a low order of life, then beings of a higher order, and last, man the highest and most perfect of all. This in itself is a presumptive argument in favor of the teaching of geology, since man has been the characteristic of the Divine Being in the work of Providence and Redemption.

The question now arises as to how this is to be reconciled with the statements in the first chapter of Genesis. Is it not there stated that God created the world in six days and rested on the seventh? And have we not undoubted evidence from various sources of the genuineness and authenticity of Scripture, of which the book of Genesis forms a part. In addressing ourselves to the consideration of these difficulties it may be well to bear in mind that this is not the first case in which science and revelation seem to conflict with each other.

To everyone who honestly examines the external, the internal, and experimental evidences of the inspiration of the Scriptures there cannot be the slightest ground for fear that the world of God will suffer from the discoveries of His Book of Nature. There is not the shadow of a doubt the Scriptures are the infallible Word of God, and consequently our only infallible standard and guide; yet it is also true that the book of Nature has God for its author, and therefore, when these are both properly understood they will instead of contradicting harmonize and even illustrate each other. Not a few get over the difficulty by maintaining that God created the earth in the form in which it is at present, and that accordingly it came into being at the time generally understood by the statement in Genesis. This is not satisfactory to any reflecting mind, while it is not attempted to deny that God could have done so had he pleased, yet there is an air of probability amounting almost to certainty that he did not do so.

From what we know of the Divine Being there is an adherance to order and certain modes of working in what He does that leads us to believe that the position in which the crust of the earth now is, is not the same as that in which it was created.

As Dr. Guthrie says when we see a broken statute with part on the ground and part still erect, we conclude that such was not the way in which it was made. In like manner when we see the remains of animals in a petrified state, and some half-digested in the stomach of others, we are liable to conclude, and we think with reason, that these were not created in this state. It is not reasonable to attribute anything to miraculous agencies that can be accounted for in any other way.

Let me now turn to revelation and see how it and geologists agree. At the very outset we are met with the statement "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." That God was the creator is here asserted, and we cannot deny it if we believe that the Bible was the inspired Word of God. But the question remains as to when the beginning was. Might it not have been at the beginning of six immensely long periods as well as at the beginning of six days of 24 hours each? If that were true the globe must have been in existence long before the six days so definitely described in the Mosaic account. The first verse simply informs us that the first act of the Diety was to create the heavens and the earth out of nothing. There is nothing here to prevent the supposition that between what is recorded in the first and the second verse an immense period of time intervened between the first act of creation and the six days work. That the creation of matter was prior to, and distinct from the work of the six days, was the opinion of Justin Martyr in the second century, of Augustine Bishop of Filipo, and of Gregory in the fourth century; of Theodoret Bishop of Cyprus in the fifth century, and of Bishop Patrick, 160 years ago. All these opinions are the more valuable in as much as they were given long before the discoveries in geology were made. To agree with these views, and use the word day as meaning a long period of time is all that Geology requires. Against this use of the word day it is urged that—

1st. If these days are geological periods, where is the authority for keeping a sabbath of 24 hours? To this it can be replied that the Sabbath institution demands a seventh of our time, and as the Sabbath of 24 hours bears the same proportion to the six days of the week, as the present epoch of the world's history does to the six periods of creation, there is sufficient and even binding authority for keeping the Sabbath of 24 hours.

2nd. A second objection to this meaning of the word day is that the phrase "Morning and Evening" was used by the Jews for the period of 24 hours, and would be so understood by them, and according to this view the writings of Moses would be misunderstood. To this the reply is that the word day is not always used in a literal sense in the Scripture. Gen. ii, 4, and compare ii 17, with iii. If we take this word literally we get no evening for the first day. See verse 5.

3rd. It would be impossible that there was no rain between the two long periods previous to the account given in v. 6. To this it can be replied that if these were only two natural days, why would it be stated that there were two days without rain, an event which often occurs.

4th. Why is there only mention of man being created on the sixth day? Moses does not profess to give a history of all the animals created during that period, but only that the creation of man was the characteristic of that period.

5th. Vegetable creation is mentioned before animal, which is contrary to the order Geologist find. To this we reply, for all that we know there may be a vast tract of remains yet unexplored, and we must bear in mind that the discoveries of Geology are not all yet made.

ARGUMENTS IN FAVOR.

Having thus considered the objections to the interpretation which Geologists give to the first chapters of Genesis, let us consider a few additional reasons in their favor.

1. In Genesis i. 2, we have a description of the state of the globe after its creation and before the creation of light. It there was no interval between the calling of matter into existence and the giving of the command "Let there be light," why would such a description of the earth's waste and desolate condition be given?

2. No human remains are to be found in any of the formations previous to that found in the sixth period, that is, no human remains have been found below those alluvial deposits which are now forming by lakes, rivers, and the ocean.

3. God works gradually, as in Providence and in Redemption.

4. More weighty is the argument that in Genesis there is no record of the morning and evening of the seventh day, hence the probability that this is still the Sabbath of creation, the day in which the Creator signifies the rest for His creative power and work, by the consummation of the glorious work and crowning act of redemption. "For one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day."

We are still however, met with the objection as to the introduction of death into the world. Geology teaches that by the discovery of the remains of animals, &c., that were in the world long before the creation of man, and thus contrary to statements in both the Old and New Testaments.

As I have not space to examine this objection closely, I will give two interpretations that have been stated in reply.

1. Man was an exception to the rest of creation and therefore while the lower animals were all subject to death, he alone was exempt, and that had he never sinned he would after a period of probation have

To William Hall, Esq., and others.

GENTLEMEN,—Youre requisition asking me to become a candidate for Election to the Dominion Parliament is so largely signed by Electors from all parts of the Riding, that I feel it my duty to place myself at your service, by accepting the candi dature. I thank you, gentlemen, for your confidence in my integrity, patriotism, and loyalty. Such ability as I have, if elected, I will exercise in the consideration of the legislation brought up in Parliament, voting for good measures irrespective of the party advancing them.

My love for the Country, which affords us so good a home, will compel me at all times to endeavor to protect the libertics of the people and the rights of all classes without distinction while it will be my aim to preserve unsullied the honor of the Country and the integrity of her soil and rights.

British connection I deem honorable, and necessary for our highest prosperity. In matters of trade I wish to see the utmost freedom prevail.

I condemn the granting of public lands en bloc to individuals or corporations, for any purpose whatever.

I wish to see the strictest parliamentary control over the public expenditure.

I desire to see a pure election law, and a measure to secure the independence of parliament.

The present Government, under the Hon. Sir John A. McDonald, does not possess my confidence, and while I will support such good measures as may eminate from it, I will yet feel it my duty when called on, to vote in it, want of confidence.

While I believe that we should have a liberal railway policy to develope the resources of the country, I am of opinion that it should be our aim to prevent reckless expenditure and to insist on such economy and exercise of skill and judgement in location of railways as will secure the greatest benefit at the smallest cost, at all times keeping our expenses so low as to cause the burden of taxation to fall lightly on the people, thus inducing immigrants to our country and securing contentment and happiness amongst our people.

Trusting to have many opportunities in the canvass of-more fully explaining my views.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
JOHN BERTRAM.

To the Electors of the West Riding of Peterboro'.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by the friends of the Dominion Government to become their Candidate in your Riding in the approaching contest, I have agreed to become the standard-bearer of the party of Union and Progress.

The last few years have seen great changes in the position which we occupy, and from being a small colony of Great Britain, Canada is developing into almost national greatness. These changes have brought about a new condition of political parties, and since Confederation all prior issues have become dead, and should be forgotten, and worthy men who were formerly opposed to each other politically, have united to carry out to successful completion the great scheme of Confederation. This has developed a great party who acknowledge Sir John A. Macdonald as their Chief,—and to this party I belong.

I approve the policy which has been pursued by the present Government in the past, and will assist them if honored with election as your representative, in developing and carrying forward, successfully, their Railway and Canal Policy, which is so essential to the prosperity and greatness of our Dominion.

I think the action taken by the Parliament of Canada, with reference to the Treaty of Washington, was wise, patriotic, and loyal to our British connection, and and as such must meet the warm approval of every one who at heart desires the cords, which bind us to Britain, strengthened.

I am of the opinion that all honorable endeavours should be made to secure such Tariff arrangements as will give our people a free market for their produce in the United States; and, failing to obtain this, a Tariff should be imposed by our Government to afford proper protection to Canadian producers.

I think all measures should be fairly considered upon their merits, without reference to the source from which they may come; and all measures that I believe to be introduced for the benefit of the Dominion shall have my support.

While claiming for my self freedom of judgement, and being ready to allow the same to those who are politically opposed to me, I shall always condemn and oppose any action that may be taken for merely partisan or factious purposes; and I highly disapprove of any political party advancing views and urging principles which they hope may assist them to power and then to be thrown aside as having served their purpose.

I feel that—from my long residence in Peterborough, and from the nature of my business transactions—I have acquired a knowledge that will enable me intelligently to consider measures which will tend to develop our resources and increase our trade and prosperity.

I shall take every opportunity of seeing as many of you as I possibly can during the campaign, and will be glad at all times if any of you desire further information as to views, to be asked as to such matters as may not have been touched upon in the narrow compass of a formal address.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
W. CLUXTON.

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 1st 1872.

Editorial Items.

We regret to learn that F. H. Burton Esq. M. P. for East Durham, died on Sunday at 4 o'clock.

INQUEST.—On Thursday evening the body of John Clancey was found in the river below Lakefield. Dr. Clegg, who was in the Village at the time, held an inquest, when a verdict of "Accidental Drowning" was returned.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We regret to learn that Mr. Duncan Clegborn of Port Hope, died instantly on Friday last. Just five minutes before his death he said to a friend that he never felt in better health. He was then talking with some friends, and was sitting on a stove, without any premonitions he fell off it and expired in a moment. Several Doctors were called in, but no use, the vital spark had fled. What a warning to be ready.

PERSONAL.—We have pleasure in announcing the return of Geo. T. Leonard, Esq., after a trip for health and pleasure. He has been away only a few weeks. We are glad to learn that his trip has much benefited his health, and that he is enabled to return to the duties of his office with renewed vigor.

Mr. O'Beirne has been appointed a Notary Public, for Ontario; and Dr. King of Bailieboro an associate Coroner in and for the united Counties of Northumberland and Durham.

RUNAWAY.—On Friday evening, while Messrs. W. H. Scott, J. Burnham, and J. F. Dennistoun were proceeding to a political meeting at Youngs' Point, the horses shied and ran away, throwing out Mr. Scott, who we regret got hurt, but not seriously, we trust. The others also received a few scratches.

FIRE.—On Monday about 11 o'clock a fire was discovered in the sheds of some dwellings on King Street. The Engine was on the ground in good time; in seven minutes steam was on and the Engine throwing water. A shed and stable were burned and a house belonging to Mr Boulton was a little singed. The timely arrival of the Engine was the means of saving several buildings in the vicinity.

FIRE IN OTTAWA CITY.—On Tuesday an extensive fire occurred in the capital of the Dominion. The loss is calculated at $89,000. A woman named Evans was burned.

PIC-NIC EXCURSION.—The Sabbath School of the First Presbyterian Church will have their Annual Pic-Nic on Tuesday the 6th inst. The steamer "Whitle-Wing" has been charted for the whole day, and will leave the wharf on King street, at 8.30 a.m. returning at 7.30 p.m Tickets tor the Excurision are fifty cents and can be had from any of the teachers.

Mr. Augustus Roche of Dummer has sent us a card for publication, which we do at his request. Our friends, however, need not be alarmed, it is not likely more than two candidates will go to the Polls. These will be Mr. Ingram and Mr. Grover Let Reformers see too that early voting and an earnest effort will be made on the 12th inst., and victory is certain.

VERULAM.—We have received a letter from Verulam anent some disputes arising out of roads and fences. As we cannot see the good the publication of it would secure, we must decline to do so, and advise the parties to settle this dispute in some other way than through the news paper.

The Leader threatens to publish the names of every elector who votes for Mr. O'Donohoe. Surely the great Leader will not attempt intimidation. If the citizens of Toronto East desire notoriety they will honestly and fearlessly go and cast their vote for Mr. O'Donohoe the Reform Candidate, he is an honest and reliable Reformer and gentleman, of whose antecedents they need not feel ashamed.

Mr. Fraser of Brockville lately addressed the electors of Kingston. A few extracts from his speech may not be without interest to the electors of this County.

To the Electors of this County we would say work for Messrs. Bertram and Ingram everywhere, and do not forget that there will be but one day of voting. Go early to the Polls therefore on that day, and take as many friends with you as possible. Vote against the John A. party, the enemies of the Dominion, who have bartered away our country, our rivers, our fisheries, and who are about to hand over to some gigantic company or companies 50,000,000 acres of the best land of the West, beside millions of dollars without any parliamentary control

A CONTRAST—When Sir John A. Macdonald visited Peterboro, about 200 to 300 staunch reformers went to hear his defense, so as to have a hearing of both sides of the questions of the day. But on Monday evening last, as soon as Mr. Fairbairn arose to clear up the slanders raised against the Reform party in Ontario, almost all Mr. Cluxton's supporters who were in the Hall, went out. They could not bear explanations and departed in haste. Is this this the way to find out truth? It is true that few converts, for the present, if any, are made at any of these meetings. But surely no one will be so completely wrapt up in his own ideas as not to listen to reason.

The supporters of John A. viz—two for Ottawa city and Mr. Cockburn of Cobourg have been elected by acclamation, and one Reformer, Mr. Cartwright of Lennox.

THE SECRETARY OF MR. CLUXTON'S COMMITTEE ON RAILROADS—Dame Rumor has it that Mr. H. H. Smith, Secretary of Mr. Cluxton's Committee has tried to obtain the names of the employees of the Midland Railroad so as to secure instructions from the President that they should vote for Mr. Clarxton. Will Mr. Smith inform the electors of Peterboro of the truth or falsity of the rumor. Surely the employees of the Midland know how to vote without instructions from an employer. Can Mr. S- not appeal to reason rather than force.

THE LISTS—The Voters List for 1873 will be used in the following Municipalities—Peterboro and South Monaghan in the West Riding, and Otonabee, Harvey, and Galway in the East Riding. The lists for 1873 will be used in the other Municipalities in both Ridings.

WEST RIDING—The Proclamation for the West Riding is at last up. The nomination is on the 10th and Polling on the 20th inst.

The nomination of Candidates for the East Riding will take place at Norwood on the 5th of August, and the polling on the 12th of August. Remember there will be but one day of polling.

The Leader says John A. never did so noble an act as when he struck Mr. Carruthers.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD'S TACTICS.—On the day of Nomination at Kingston, John A. struck Mr. Carruthers his opponent with his fist, and all the Conservative press of the Country justify the rowdy act, even those who preach peace have been heard to say that the act was right. Well, we will leave them to reconcile these things as best they can, but the Country will not so easily acquit the Minister of Justice.

Mr. Ingram's meeting in Keene last night, was a complete success. Mr. Grover was in the Village but would neither attend Mr. Ingram's meeting nor allow any one to speak at his on Mr. Ingram's behalf, and as soon as done speaking retired. Mr. Dumble who was present was loudly called for, and addressed those who remained. The followers of Mr. Grover were few and noisy indeed. But like Mr. G's speech, far from the great issues.—Otonabee is about to give the Reform Candidate a sweeping majority.

ENNISMORE.—Mr. Cluxton addressed the electors of Ennismore on Mondy evening. Mr. Dormer of Lindsay was brought down on his behalf and talked at some length on the religions questions of the day, trying to to array Catholics against Protestants in this contest. Mr. Q. T. Leonard, Barrister of this town addressed the meeting in favor of Mr. Bertram and was well received. We would not accuse Mr. Cluxton of endeavoring to arouse religious animosities, yet it is difficult in this instance to entirely free him from being partaker in Mr. Dormer's sins. Why was Mr. D. brought from Lindsay if not to arouse his co-religionists, on the ground of religion alone to take a side in this contest. The Review harped on this question during the past election for Ontario until its readers became disgusted, and now we find them ready to descend to any depth to secure a vote even of the Catholics whom he last year represented as disloyal, and all of "that kidney" were represented to be.

COWARDLY—A Placard was found on the door of Mr. Wm. Harty. Kingston, on Sunday morning, with a pistol and dagger drawn on it, and underneath these a threat that "if he did not cease using his influence with his co-religionists tor Mr. Carruthers, his life would be taken." Kingston is the seat of the residence of Sir John, who is Minister of Justice. Is this the equal justice that he deals out in that celebrated city? For seventeen years the Roman Catholic electors have supported the Conservatives, but now that they are about to vote for a Reformer, they are threatened with death by the pistol or dagger. The actions of John A. at Kingston, or the cowardly threat of the Placard cannot be charged against any sensible and honorable Conservative, but nevertheless their cause suffers by such conduct. If citizens of every creed and color are not to be allowed to exercise their Franchise without fear of molestation, then the sooner this is known the better. Matters in Kingston show the desperate straits to which Sir John A. and his friends are driven. Surely the good sense of the Kingstonians will refuse to re-elect a man who so far forgets his honor, dignity, and high office, and bemeans himself by fighting on the hustings. Such a statesman would not be tolerated an hour in England.

EAST RIDING—Monday August 12th is the polling day in the East Riding in the same places as at the last Municipal election, except in Dummer, where one polling place is changed about five miles (from Warsaw to Batten's School House) to suit some parties. Warsaw vicinity it is well known is strongly Reform, perhaps by this dodge they hope to prevent a few Reformers going to the Polls in this hurried season of the year. They will find themselves mistaken however.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR AGENTS.—We have received from the publishers of Wood's Household Magazine, two beautifully tinted Crayon pictures representing the heads of a little boy and girl, and "Our Hope" and "Our Joy" are just the names for the dear, bright, happy little faces. L. Prang & Co. originally published them at $4, but they are now offered with Wood's Magazine for one year at only $1.50. They are to be introduced by agents, who are allowed a handsome commission on this price, which is a most desirable business for canvassers. While the Magazine alone is richly worth the money, the pictures are charming, and must be seen to be appreciated. For full particulars address S S. Wood & Co., Newburgh, N. Y.

THE LADY'S FRIEND FOR AUGUST.—The leading engraving in this number is that of most lovely lady on a balcony, waving a handkerchief—a beautiful picture. "Moonlight at Sea" is also something exquisite. The illustrations of stylish costumes and tasteful novelties in dress are rather more than usually captivating, we should say. Music—"I've brought Thee an Ivy Leaf." An excellent little "Dolly Varden" story by Miss Fannie Hodgson leads off the literary matter, and the new serial "Only a Wish" is commenced. "For a Dream's Sake," by Mary N. Prescott, is a good story, though it makes the young reader exclaim—"Is that all?" The Serial by Mrs. Wood is one of the very best; and the shorter one by Amanda Douglas is in the most popular style of the author. Altogether this August number of the Lday's Friend presents as entertaining a feast of light reading for the warm weather as could well be found. Price, $2.00 a year. Four copies $6. Eight copies (and one gratis) $12. "The Lady's Friend" and "The Saturday Evening Post," $4. Published by Deacon & Peterson, Philadelphia. Single copies for sale by all News Dealers, and by the Publishers, price 20 cents.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.

LAKEFIELD.

Mr. Ingram addressed the electors of the East Riding at Lakefield on Thursday evening last. The meeting was very well attended and was remarkably orderly throughout. The system of interrupting the speaker by asking questions was stamped out by the excellent chairman Garrett Galvin Esq., who said any person might address the meeting in favor of Mr. Grover, or at the close ask the speaker questions, but that no interruptions during speaking would be allowed.

Committees were formed after the meeting, and there is every prospect of a large vote for Mr. Ingram even in Lakefield, notwithstanding the spirit of a few who would fain control these things.

Messrs. Kidd, Edmison, and Stratton briefly addressed the meeting on behalf of Mr Ingram. No speaker fyled an appearance for Mr. Grover.

WARSAW.

Mr. Ingram had a large meeting at Warsaw on Friday, and was well received Mr. Fairbairn addressed the electors at this place. The meeting was all for Mr. Ingram.

On Saturday evening he held an enthusiastic meeting at the old Dummer Town Hall.

His canvas progresses admirably everywhere.

This week he will visit other places of the old townships, and next week he will go up the Bobcaygeon Road.

Mr. Ingram addressed the Electors of Douro at the Town Hall on Monday evening. The meeting was well attended and orderly and a very generous support was promised him

Mr. Grover at Ashburnham.

On Saturday night Mr. Grover addressed the Electors of the Village and of the Town of Peterborough. Mr. John Burnham in the chair. We had not the pleasure of hearing the portion of his speech referring to the Intercolonial Railway; but the Fish question was not neglected. Mr. Grover informed the electors that the advantages were all on the Canadian side, as the fish in the American waters were very valuable—but the bait was especially valuable, costing more than the fish—one barrel being worth a barrel and a half of fish. He explained the modus operandi of catching the fish in detail, and said that on the Great Treaty he had voted for John A—but every one present knew this before.

To a question of an Elector as to "what about the fish," he answered by asking:—"When did yon know you had any fish?" The Treaty in his opinion was a boon to the fishermen, and he voted on the Treaty for John A.

The Pacific swindle is all right in his eyes. The Government knows how to spend the money and they only, they are the country's benefactors, and to them all power should be committed. The patriotism of Grits was not worth a snap of his (Mr. Grover's) finger. On the mention of the word Grit he became peculiarly wrathy, almost gnashing his teeth at them. He concluded by stating that he had supported John A. during the last five years, and if re-elected would do so again.

Mr. Fairbairn addressed the Electors on behalf of Mr. Ingram; and in a telling speech showed that Mr. Grover's course had been contrary to the best interests of the Dominion—that his following of John A. Macdonald had been of the most servile kind and without investigation—that the giving up of our Fisheries was a loss to the country and a stain on our escutcheon, and that no country with the least sense of honor would ratify it.

The rejected of the West Riding filed an appearance and in a rehersal of his buncombe in the West Riding essayed an address. Forgetting his celebrated return to the department of Agriculture and also his unblushing falsehood at the last annual election of members of the West Riding Agricultural Society in order to defeat Mr. Walton, he boasted of his honor and truthfulness, but few believed he possessed an iota of either.

Mr. J. F. Dennistoun tried to put himself right on his systematic attempt to cast disloyalty in the face of Ontario Reformers, and sought to get himself out of it by saying,—O, No, I did not say Ontario Reformers are disloyal, but that they associate with disloyal men in Lower Canada.

Do they forget that the Rebel Cartier is now the bosom friend of Sir John A. and his party? Do they forget the annexation speech of Mr. P. M. Grover in the Peterborough Town Hall a few years ago when he declared that Canada would never prosper until it became annexed. Until American Citizens would come amongst us, and American capital and American enterprise control the destinies the country. It is true he explains this away by saying it was done to averse the people of the Town and County to such public works of improvement as railroads, &c. Annexation, however, was advocated, and if the people could have been induced to sympathize with him few know how much further he would have gone. Disloyalty is too near home for them to talk about it.

The Slanders.

The John A Party leaders having pursued a systematic course of slandering Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie, a hence meeting was called in the Music Hall, on Monday evening last, to hear Mr. Bertram's views and to refute the false issues raised in the present contest.

Mr. Bertram in a very able speech defined his position, and went over the great issues of the day in a very clear and masterly way, showing conclusively that the John A Macdonald party do not deserve the support of this province nor of the Dominion. He went on to show that the grant to Nova Scotia, known as the "better terms" was contrary to justice, to the Confederation Act. and likely to be subversive of all fair dealing between the Dominion and the provinces. He showed that it was granted to secure the alliance of Mr. Howe and of his followers, and prevent the preponderance of Ontario in the House of Commons. The choice of the Intercolonial route he showed was foolish, causing an extra outlay of millions of dollars, and likely to be a charge on the finances of the Country for all time. The Pacific Railway Bill he characterized justly as a huge swindle to obtain a number of members of Parliament some 40 or 50, we think, to be the party [illegible] and he said that he would [illegible] and would [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and been elected against the Reform party that George Brown had spoken and written and said before, and the things against Reform Conservatives alleged against them are said things, had never. What has the Reform party of to-day to do with them? There was, and he said it honestly and sincerely, nothing in the writings of George Brown years ago to prevent the Catholics of to-day from following Messrs Blake and Mackenzie. Yet Hon. Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Moylan were stumping in the West, exciting a feeling against Reformers on the ground of these writings. He was not a member of the Catholic League, but he had attended the first meeting at the Hon. F. Smith's house, and his feelings were in accord with the league. The priests of the meeting the above gentlemen have broken, so that he considered it so far public, that he could discuss it. At that meeting it was declared that the Catholics had been twenty years without rights, that they had been ostracised. And who did it but Sir John, who had power over the patronage? Hon. Mr. O'Connor was in the chair, and was made a member of committee to wait on the Bishops, and did not differ one jot from the sentiments of that meeting, that the Catholics could not join either party, nor by act or word did he say that he could not ally himself with the Reformers No reasons were advanced why anyone present could not do so in heart and votes. It is now the same as then; there has nothing occurred to change opinion, except it be that since then they have become the Hon. John O'Connor and the Hon Frank Smith. Yet Mr. O'Connor had placed it on record at a recent meeting that he calls Catholics base and cowardly slaves for joining the Reform party. In doing so he insults the Catholics of Brockville and South Grenville who are to a man with Reform. The Hon. Mr. Smith had always been a Reformer, as such was appointed chairman of the Roman Catholic Convention in 1867. What had occurred to change him? The late Hon. T. D. McGee said of the Hon. George Brown, that he was a Liberal, honest at heart, meaning good, and did not in spite of all that he had then so recently written, scruple to sit with him in Council in 1864-5-6, when Sir John earned the epigram of being the hero of the Double Shuffle. He had heard the Hon. Mr. McGee say many years ago that there was nothing to prevent him allying himself with Mr. Brown, and if so, why were Messrs. Smith and O'Connor so particular? He was not sure but that they were playing a double game. Did they not know that the bitter writings complained of were penned by the pen dipped in gall of the Hon William Macdougall, the one to this day write as direct things, as witness a speech lately made in his own constituency. He had given reason why he (Mr. Fraser) supported Mr. Blake. Beside, why should he not follow Mr. E. W. Scott in confidence. He had himself some experience, and knew that liberality was to be found among Protestant Reformers. When he first sought legislative honours in Brockville, his Reform Protestant friends sought to him, and worked hard for him, reducing the usual majority from 300 to 25. (Applause). He was not hounded down by them, but he had to suffer many bitter things from the other side. The Protestant Reformers had been loyal and true to all they professed Roman Catholics. (Cheers). The South Grenville Conservatives went to the Reform Committee and offered an unopposed return to any man they would name, save him, [Mr. Fraser,] if they would throw him over. But no, they stuck to him and carried him through, though he was now under protest. And that was on religious grounds alone. There was no reason why Roman Catholics could not follow Reformers in the Dominion Parliament as in the Local House, and he would ask his Catholic friends in Kingston to support Mr. Carruthers. (Cheers.) There was no reason why he should not achieve one of the greatest victories over a man more responsible than any other for legislation. They had the means of punishing him, and anxious eyes and hearts were looking to the result of the contest.

Mr. Fraser retired amidst a perfect burst of applause which rang out again and again

Loyalty of Sir John's Followers.

(From the Globe Correspondent.)

HALIFAX, July 22nd.

Besides the "three black crows" recently noticed by THE GLOBE, Sir John A. Macdonald has a fourth one which he is using to frighten the electors of Ontario. And this is the shape the crow takes: "See the men who are supporting the Reformers in Nova Scotia. Look at Jones and his friends. They are Anti-Confederates and traitors, and therefore loyal men in Ontario are bound by their allegiance to the Queen to vote for Sir John A. Macdonald's Government." For many months Sir John's court journal at Ottawa has been harping on this story, and the new Toronto organ has seized on it with avidity, showing that Sir John regards it as a useful cry.

It is a little singular that the most of the men whose utterances gave a tinge of disloyalty to the Anti-Confederate party in Nova Scotia—if it was at all open to the charge of disloyalty—are now basking in the smiles of Sir John A. Macdonald, and are patted on the back by his organs.

Begin with Mr. Howe. I heard him at Dartmouth, in 1866, declare that the men who were advocating Confederation could only be compared to the Indians who, in days of old came down the Shubenacadie Lakes and murdered the peaceful settlers of the little village across our harbour. A little later, at Mason's Hall, in this city, he told the people that it was their duty to resist Confederation at all hazards, and declared that rather than submit to it he would himself take up arms. Again, before the elections in 1867, in addressing a monster meeting at Temperance Hall, he reiterated his previous sentiments, stigmatised the men who carried Confederation in Nova Scotia as "rascals," and called on the people to punish them by excluding them forever from public life. And from one end of the Province to the other he addressed the people in language approaching nearer to treason than that of any other member of his party. At a convenient moment he forgot all his big words, "accepted the situation" for the Province, and situation with five or six thousand dollars a year for himself, besides fat offices for other members of his family, and joined hands with the "rascals" Tupper and Archibald. Yet this man, who did more than any other to excite the discontent in Nova Scotia and to bring upon the Anti-Confederates the charge of disloyalty, is now held up by Sir John's organs as a loyal subject, a faithful public man, who is not only fit to associate with the loyal people of Ontario, but is fit to be one of their Government; while Mr. Jones and his friends"—the men who gave to the Anti-Confederate party whatever spice of disloyal character it possessed—are by the same sheets stigmatised as traitors! But Howe is now the colleague and servile follower of Sir John A. Macdonald, while, Mr. Jones is rash enough to declare that he has no confidence in that gentleman. Mr. Howe is very "loyal" to Sir John. Mr. Jones don't profess very much loyalty.

Turning from the robust use to the shadow, we have the case of Mr. Jeremiah Northup in view. Mr. Northup was never known to have a political opinion of his own. His has often been the echo of Mr. Howe. When the latter gentleman was agitating the country by "disloyal speeches (or what were called disloyal by the organs of Sir John), Mr. Northup was repeating them just as a parrot repeats the words of its master. Thus Mr. Northup became loyal by calling himself so for John, the shadow had to be provided for also. And so Mr. Northup became the Honourable Senator Northup, an excessively loyal subject, and a good union man! The organs hold him up to the people of Ontario as such while they denounce "Mr. Jones and his friends" for no other reason than that they did not put themselves in the market like Messrs. Howe and Northup.

Mr. E. M. McDonald, M. P. for Lunenburg, is another of the loyal men whom the people of Ontario are asked to admire while they condemn Mr. Jones as a traitor. Were it not for the superior claims of Mr. Howe, Mr. McDonald might be called the champion traitor of the anti-Confederate party. He used the strongest language he could command to denounce Confederation and all connected with it. He declared that "the act was wrong and rotten to the core, and never could be made right," and counselled the people to resist it. But a promise of the Collectorship of Customs at Halifax—which office he is now about to receive—caused him to atone for his disloyalty by becoming a thick and thin supporter of Sir John, and the organs invite the electors of Ontario to hurrah for him in conjunction with those other good Union men, Howe and Northup, and to abhor Jones as they would the Evil-One.

Were it necessary to enlarge the list, I might show how such "traitors" as A. W. Savary, of Digby, Stewart Campbell, of Guysborough, and others, became transformed into good Union men by the same pleasant system of regeneration as that used in the cases of Howe, Northup, and McDonald. But it would only be a repetition of the story already told, and the electors of Ontario may require to have their attention directed to the point to understand the whole matter. It is plain that Sir John and his organs don't care a fig about Confederation or loyalty. If "Mr. Jones and his friends" would consent to sell themselves as other anti-Confederates did they would to-day be applauded as loyal Union men by the journals which, in obedience to their master's word, now denounce them as traitors

But it is not necessary to justify Mr. Jones by instituting a comparison between him and the unprincipled anti-Confederates who are delighted to form the trail of Sir John Macdonald's party. His record can stand on its own merits, and he can challenge his traducers to show in it one act or one word that does not do him credit. His conduct as a member of the anti-Confederate party won the respect, not only of all his friends, but of the unionists as well most of whom regard the course pursued by Howe, Northup, McDonald, &c., as contemptible. His wealth places him above the suspicion of being actuated by any mercenary motive in entering politics. Indeed, I know that were he to consult his own feelings or interests, he would not seek to continue in public life, and that he has only consented to become a candidate again at the earnest request of his political friends. No man stands higher in the mercantile community than he does. His political popularity is shewn by the fact that though he was formally nominated along with his colleague, Mr Power, several weeks ago, the government party have been unable, up to this time, to induce any of their number to enter the field, and the present prospects are that Jones and Power will be re-elected by acclamation.

The question of Confederation having been settled, and Repeal being admitted on all sides to be hopeless, the old anti-Confederate party may be said to have ceased to exist. Its members have chosen between the two great parties in Canada, and this is the result: Mr. Howe and others who, like himself, deserted the Confederates the moment they saw lucrative positions awaiting them as the reward of their treachery, are to be found battling for the maintenance of Sir John A. Macdonald's government, while "Mr Jones and his friends," including nearly all the honest anti-Confederates in the province, are willing to assist the Reformers of Ontario and Quebec in overthrowing that ring, and giving the country a pure and vigorous Government. In short, the vultures of the anti-Confederate party naturally flock to the side of Sir John A. Macdonald, and the honest men as naturally rally around the Reform standard.

As the organs are making strenuous efforts to impose on the people of the Upper Provinces by representing the Hon. Charles Tupper as the greatest Unionist in Nova Scotia, I purpose making "Dr. Tupper and Confederation" the subject of another letter.

BLUENOSE.

To the Electors of the East Riding of Peterboro.

Honest Electors want to find
A candidate of upright mind,
Who none can turn or lead astray
From duty, promise what they may,
One who knows the country's need
And who will fight to see it freed
From corruption in high places,
Which a country's eye disgraces.
Such a candidate want we!
One that's liberal, bold, and free,
Unshackled by the party chain
That binds the office hunting men,
We do not want one who will lie
And promise what he ne'er will try,
And show no after he's got in,
He looks on lying as no sin.
We want no speculation jobber,
Lest he join some country robber
And be like some we've had before,
Scheme for himself the gaudes are
Office, and such are hard to sunder
While there's any chance of plunder.
The one we choose would need to know
Wants of the country high and low
From woodmen in the forest wide,
To those who cut for pleasure ride.
The one who really would suit best,
Would be one who himself has dress'd
The ground, where wild deer did once roam,
Has made himself a goodly home,
Earned what he has by honest labor,
Not by pilfering from his neighbor.
A bargain 'tis do what you can,
For Mowing sweeps the man.
And whether he cannot go',
We shall find he will not stir
At home when polling day comes round,
But let their votes for him be found.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY

Job Moses' Perideocal Pills.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied on.

TO MARRIED LADIES.

It is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

These Pills should not be taken by Females during the FIRST THREE MONTHS of Pregnancy, as they are sure to bring on Miscarriage, but at any other time they are safe.

In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affection, Pains in the Back and Limbs, on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Ayarrica, and Whites, the Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed; and although a powerful remedy, do not contain iron, calomel, antimony, or anything hurtful to the constitution.

Full directions in the pamphlet around each package, which should be carefully preserved

JOB MOSES', NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR

$1.00 and 12½ cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., general agents for the Dominion, will ensure a bottle, containing over 50 pills, by return mail.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is last superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Sold at Peterborough by Dr. Taylor, A. W Kempt Wm. Coulter and Ormond & Walsh. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter, Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhoea medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife:—Charles, be reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Relievr or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

Pumps, Reapers and Mowers

To the Public in General, and Farmers in particular.

PUMPS.

Henry Owens

Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalelled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell

Cheap for Cash.

He has also purchased the machinery and facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. Parties ordering Pumps please state depth of well and all other necessary particulars.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year Woods Self-Rake Reaper and Mower, Catton Chief Mower, and Johnson's Self-Rake Reaper, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the 1st day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

HENRY OWENS gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are Rowe, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the smell of Oils which they may contain.

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALASAYA.—This elegant and agreeable preparation has speedily become a favourite on account of its reputability in the cure of Diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys. It relieves at once, and is a specific for Diseases after eating, Dyspepsia, acidity, or heartburn, headache, and constipation of the bowels, all of which arise from a feeble digestion, and consequent poor blood. It enables the stomach to digest food readily, and in sufficient quantity to nourish the system thoroughly, and prevent decline, and running down with chronic wasting diseases. In convalescence and recovering from, and in delicate children, it is unequalled as a tonic in restoring vitality to the system. A few doses will show the patient that it is doing him good. Try it, and be convinced. Sold by all druggists. Prepared by Dr. WHEELER, Chemist, Montreal, and Proprietor of Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calasaya, to whom all orders should be addressed. Price $1.00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

YOUNG AGAIN.

An old man sits in his high-back'd chair
Before an open door,
While the sun of a summer afternoon
Falls hot across the floor;
And the drowsy click of somewhere's clock
Has noted the hour of four.

A breeze blows in and a bumble bloom out,
From the scented morning air,
And it flutters now on his wrinkled brow,
And now it lifts his hair.
And the laden lid of his eyes drops down;
And he sleeps in his high-back'd chair.

The old man sleeps and the old man dreams,
His hands relax their feeble hold,
And fall to his lap in rest,
'Tis a old man sleeps, and in sleep he dreams,
And in dreams again is blest.

The years unrolled their fearful scroll,
He is a child again,
And mother's tones are in his ear,
A drift across his brain!
He chases gaudy butterflies
Far down the rolling plain.

He plucks the wild-rose in the woods,
And gathers eglantine,
And holds the golden buttercups
Beneath his sister's chin:
And angles in the meadow brook
With a bent and naked pin.

He loiters down the grassy lane,
And by the brimming pool,
And a sigh escapes his parted lips,
As he hears the bell for school—
And he wished it never were nine o'clock,
And the morning never were full.

A mother's hand is pressed on his head,
Her kiss is on his brow—
A summer breeze blows in at the door
With the roar of a leafy bough;
And the boy is a white-haired man again,
And his eyes are tear filled now.

About Dolly Varden.

Dolly Varden was a very nice girl and a very good girl. If it were not otherwise they wouldn't have named certain dress goods, smoking tobacco, and agricultural implements after her. She lived in London when she lived, but she has been dead these many years. Poor girl! But then we must all pass away and the greatest female of the day may die next week, and the week after her name go forth on a new bed-ticking or new patent scoop-shovel.

Dolly's father was a very humble man. He has also been dead for some time; but he hadn't any "Dolly" before his name, and consequently his name won't be cherished. He was humble but honest. If he had been humble and dishonest he would have been a remarkable man. He worked at the smith business. The smith business has grown since his time, as any city directory will show, but Varden's relations don't claim any credit for it. Mrs. Varden died when Dolly was a mere infant. Dolly grew up as children often do. She had her struggles with rash, croup, measels, whooping cough and such things, and got the better of them. When ten years old she was the handsomest girl in London. He father said so, and he was qualified to judge. She continued to grow handsome as she grew older, and at seventeen was an angel. She had forty admirers at this time, every one of whom insisted on sitting up with her on Sunday night. She had to range them around the room "mark" them in rotation. None of them were lower than a lord, and she hadn't it in the heart to turn any one away. It was probably this "sitting up" which killed her. She hadn't pursued it more than forty nights before she began to fade. She practiced with Indian clubs and dumb-bells, ate oat meal and prepared wheat, but the fiend of death could not be thwarted. Sitting up with forty lords forty nights was the same as as sitting with one lord for sixteen hundred nights. Some American girls may wonder that she broke down under it, but Dolly was angelic and frail.

Dolly finally died. She faded and faded and the allopathy and homeopathy and cold water doctors couldn't save her. The forty lords attended the funeral in a body, each one knowing that she would have married him but for the unfortunate circumstance. The funeral was a grand affair, and everyone did the best to make Varden enjoy it but the poor man couldn't. He pined and faded, and in about twenty-five years his heart broke with grief, and he was laid beside the daughter.

This is all—these are all the reasons for a "Dolly Varden" excitement in dry goods and other goods. But these are enough. Any young man who will deliberately swear that he won't wear a "Dolly Varden" shirt bosom—any man who goes back on a "Dolly Varden" cane—any farmer who won't buy a "Dolly Varden" shovel—any hotel keeper who won't have "Dolly Varden" puddings—in fact, any one who will maliciously sneer at the poor dead girl, or refused to be "Dolly Vardened" ought to be shot with a cleaver.—Detroit Free Press.

Parson Welch was the Congregational minister at Amesbury, Mass., some two or three generations ago. On one occasion he was called on to marry a rustic couple. According to his custom, he began with—"Please join your hands." Thereupon the groom with his right hand takes the bride's left. "Please join your right hands," The groom, a little confused, let go his grasp, and with his left hand takes the bride's right. Your right hands! Please join your right hands!" The groom thinks a moment, lets go his grasp again, and turning round seizes the bride with both hands, her right with his left, her left with his right, and exclaiming, "I've got her!"

SMILES AND TEARS.

The radiant [illegible]
That gild [illegible]
That [illegible]
To [illegible]
Are [illegible]
That [illegible]
'Tis first the cradle, then the [illegible]—
The lesson of our years.

'Tis smiles and tears, then tears and smiles,
In ever-changeful flow;
'Tis hopes and fears and fancy's wiles
That come, and come and go.
The glowing orgasm of life we view
Through youth's romantic eye
Too soon to learn they are not true,
And bid them all good-by.

We greet the smiles of those we love,
And joy to think them nigh;
Then kiss the tear, and sigh to prove
That those we love must die.
We find the heart with fondest dreams
Of future joys in store,
And cheer the soul 'neath hope's gilt beams
Till hope shall be no more.

The blushing morn, with crimson glow
That gilds the hills afar,
Will sink in shade beneath the flow
Of evening's paler star;
And spring that comes to greet the flowers
With radiance on her brow,
Will soon forsake her fairy bowers
To sleep in winter snow.

Oh! like the clouds before the breeze,
That come, then disappear:
Or like the leaves upon the trees,
That autumn frosts will sere—
Our hopes and joys live but a day,
So rapidly they pass;
For soon, full soon, they glide away,
And leave no empty glass.

But as each bud and flower distils
Some hidden perfume rare,
As each fading autumn fills
With choicest fruits and fair,
So as from each hour secure
We take pleasure as they fly,
From each passing scene allure
The sweets before they die.

RECIPE TO MAKE A FASHIONABLE WOMAN.—Take nine pounds of flesh and bones—but chiefly bones—wash clean, bore holes in the eyes, and cut off the small toes; bend the back to conform to the Grecian bend, the Dolphin Dip, the Kangaroo Droop, the Saratoga Slope, or the Bellfrey Break, as the taste inclines; then add three yards of linen, one pair of false calves, one hundred yards of ruffles, and seventy-five yards of edging, eighteen yards of dimity, one pair of cotton hose, with patent hip attachments, embroidered, one pair balmoral boots with heels five inches high, five pounds whalebone and strips, seventeen hundred and sixty yards of steel wire, three-quarters of a mile of tape, ten pounds steel cotton or two wire hair crimped, one hundred and fifty yards of silk or other dress goods, five hundred yards of point lace, fourteen hundred yards fine [illegible] and other trimmings, twelve gross of buttons, one box pearl powder, one saucer of carmine and an old hare's foot, one bushel of false hair frizzled and frotted a la maniac, one peck of hair-pins, one lace handkerchief of nine inches square, with patent holder. Perfume with otter of [illegible] with a few drops of the "Blessed Baby" cologne. Wear.

WEARING FLANNEL.—The majority of people are not aware of the beneficial effects of wearing flannel next to the body, both in cold and warm weather. Flannel is not so uncomfortable in warm weather as prejudiced people believe. Frequent colds and constant hacking coughs have been cured by adopting flannel garments. There is no doubt that the wearing of flannel will cause those who prefer wasp-waists to health; for for in that case the flannel can be cut loosely fitting waists, always fastening at the back. There are scarcely any of the bad effects of sudden changes of weather felt by those who wear flannel, and persons especially should endeavor to wear it such for their little people in preference to showy outside trimming

SAYING GRACE.—A clergyman was driving his gig, in which he was accompanied by his daughter Grace. The gig came in contact with a large stone, and was in danger of being overturned. The father, anxious for the safety of his child threw her out upon a plot of grass, and she escaped unhurt; but in attempting to jump out himself his greatcoat became entangled with the wheel of the carriage, by which he received considerable injury. His friend, observing him half asked him if he had met with an accident. "I got myself severely injured," said he, "by saving Grace." "It is the first time," replied the punster, "I ever heard of 'saving grace' hurting anybody, especially a clergyman of the Church of Scotland."

A BEAUTIFUL HORSE.—There is nothing that can contribute so much to render the horse beautiful and elegant, to improve his condition and make him all that is desirable, as "Darleys Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses with decided success, and so well pleased are they with it that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency; it may be given at all times with perfect safety. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

"Horrible!" what can be more terrible? I would rather be dead than blind! such was the exclamation of one of our most intelligent citizens, and yet how few there are who take proper care of there sight, many persons using the very commonest Spectacles and thereby risking the loss of that precious gift Vision. We would suggest to our readers and friends that our reliable and well-known townsman, Dr. Taylor, M. D. is sole Agent in this District for Lamarus, Morris & Co's Perfected Spectacles; they are universally used throughout Canada and the United States, and all who wear them, say they are the best Spectacles made.

WHY WILL YOU SUFFER.—The "Canadian Pain Destroyer," instantly and permanently removes all pain from the system, and is decidedly the best medicine ever known for the cure of rheumatism, pleurisy, neuralgia, tic douloureux, tooth-ache, cholic, burns frost bites, &c., and is so cheap that all can afford to buy it. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Loss of memory is ever the first indication of a disorder or degeneration of nervous element. The rapidity with which the mind is restored by the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is perhaps the best proof of its power in re-establishing the strength of the nervous system.

THE WAY "to minister to a mind diseased" is to take Peruvian Syrup a protected solution of the protoxide of iron, which restores the digestive organs to perfect health, thereby restoring the mind to its natural vigor.

Henry K Bond, of Jefferson, Maine was cured of spitting blood, concern and weakness of the stomach, by the use of "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment."

Two or three colds in succession will, with many constitutions scarcely establish the seeds of consumption in the system, thus converting what was originally a simple curable affection, into one generally fatal Quinsey, pleurisy, bronchitis and [illegible] the business of everyone to take care of a cold until it is get rid of. Fortunately 'Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers' are thoroughly adapted to remove speedily all coughs, colds and are equally effectual in the primary stages of consumption, sickness and Bronchitis. Sold by all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cts. per box.

YOUNG CANADA,

Or Jack's as Good as his Master.

BY ALEXANDER M'LAUCHLIN.

I love this land of forest grand!
The land where labor's free,
Let others roam away from home,
In this the land for me!
Where no one moils or strains and toils,
That others may thrive the faster,
And all are free, as men should be,
And Jack's as good as his master.

Where none are slaves, that lordly knaves
May idle all the year,
For rank and caste, are of the past,
They'll never flourish here!
And Jew, or Turk, M'be'll but work,
Need never fear disaster;
He reaps the crop he sow'd in hope,
For Jack's as good as his master.

Our aristocracy of toil
Have made us what you see—
The nobles of the forge and soil—
With ne'er a pedigree!
It makes one feel himself a man!
His very blood leaps faster,
Where wit or worth's preferred to birth,
And Jack's as good as his master.

Here's to the land of forest grand!
The land where labor's free,
Let others roam away from home,
Be this the land for me!
For here 'tis plain, the heart and brain,
The very soul grows vaster
Where men are free, as they should be,
And Jack's as good as his master.

SCOTCH POLITICAL MARTYRS.

Thomas Muir—His return from Paris to Scotland—His Arrest, Trial, and Sentence.

BY R. MACFARLANE.

PART II.

Thomas Muir was unable to obtain a pass until the 29th of April, and he could not get away on account of the strict blockade, until July. In the American ship 'Hope,' ostensibly bound for Baltimore, he reached Belfast, Ireland. He had refrained from associating intimately with leading partizans in Paris, and had, no doubt, been a grieved spectator of many sad events. Conscious of his innocence, he determined to return to his native land and meet the accusations against him. He might have escaped to America, but he chose as rewara to Scotland even under the unfavorable condition of an outlaw. After landing at Belfast, he at once crossed to Portpatrick, thence went to Stranraer to take a few days' rest after the fatigues of his journey. He openly told his name and concealed not his objects. The landlord of the inn—a fussy, mean man—hastily informed the town officers, and had him arrested. Information of this was sent in haste to Edindurgh, and immediately an officer was dispatched with a warrant to convey him in irons, and in a close carriage to the "Heart of Midlothian." All this was effected in a few days, and he was kept in prison—bail being rudely refused. The Hon. Henry Erskine, John Clerk, and Adam Gillies, all eloquent young advocates—offered to become his counsel and conduct his case, but he decided to plead for himself. The eloquence of Demosthenes, however could not have changed the result, for he was prejudged. At this period party spirit was high and bitter, and there were two leading political associations in Edinburgh, very hostile to one another. One was called "The Reform Association," and numbered among its members, perhaps the most able and generous young advocates in the city, and some of them were the sons and near relatives of high Tory noblemen. The other association went by the name of "The Friends of the Constitution of Church and State." Its members consisted chiefly of placemen, pensioners and land holders, and they had avowed their enmity to the Reformers. Trial by jury for political offences in Scotland, was at this time a mockery of justice, if the court was partisan in feeling. It was the law for the sheriff clerk—an appointed Crown officer to prepare a select list of forty-five persons residing within the judicial district to act as jurymen. Out of that list fifteen were to be selected to compose the jury in a particular case. The list was handed to the leading Judge before the trial and he had the power of selecting from the fifteen.

On Friday morning, the 30th of August, 1793, Thomas Muir was brought for trial from the prison to the High Court of Justiciary under a guard of soldiers. Intense excitement was manifested in the city; Parliament Square was crowded with people, and the court room was densely thronged. At 10.30 a.m. the five judges entered and took their seats. Lord Braxfield was Justice Clerk, and was well qualified to exhibit "the insolence of office." Muir was ordered to stand up, and the indictment against him was read. In answer, the prisoner laid upon the table a written defence, denying that he was guilty of "sedition" and the crimes charged. When the names of the jurors selected to try the case was read, Thomas Muir knew that he was a doomed man, for the whole of them had been enrolled as members of the Tory political Association, several held Government offices, and others were pensioners. He arose and solemnly protested against being thus tried, and he earnestly appealed to the judge to try him in a fair and impartial manner, not by a packed jury composed of political partizans, "avowedly pledged against him." His appeal was in vain Lord Braxfield who had selected the jury ordered him to sit down, and the jurors were sworn in amidst the unrepressed hush of the anxious audience. On went the trial with the examination of witnesses; but we have not space for testimony. We will sum it up, however, quite briefly, and present the result. All the evidence brought against the prisoner amounted to just this:—

"He had made speeches to multitudes of persons in Glasgow, Paisley and other places, in favor of a reform of Parliament and the promotion of Constitutional liberty. Lord Braxfield browbeat and otherwise shamefully treated some of the defendant's witnesses. Mr. John Russell, a respectable manufacturer in Glasgow, was asked "whether any person had instructed him what to say." he answered "None, except to tell the truth." Being asked by the judge who instructed him in that way, he answered, "Not one person, it was general advice by every person to speak the truth." For giving this answer, Lord Advocate Dundas moved that the witness be committed to prison "for prevarication on oath." At this proposal Muir attempted to make some explanation to the Court, but he was ordered to be silent and not interfere, and the Court carried out the motion of the Lord Advocate, and this respectable merchant was committed to the Edinburg Tolbooth, where he lay a prisoner for three weeks.

We will give a few extracts from Mr. Muir's speech in his defence, they deserve everlasting remembrance. He said:

"What is my offence? I tell you that I actively and sincerely embarked in the cause of Parliamentary Reform for the vindication and restoration of the rights of the people. Nor do I hesitate to unfold to you my motives. I have contended for an equal representation of the people in what I call the House of the People, because it is a measure essentially necessary to the salvation of the state and the stability of our Constitution. In what consists the excellency of that time honored fabric cemented by the blood of our fathers flowing on the battlefield and from the scaffold? It consists in the just balance of the powers of King, Lords and Commons. If one of these powers lose its vigor, the efficacy of the Constitution is proportionally impaired, if one of them is absorbed by another the Constitution is destroyed. It is known to you, gentlemen, that the popular branch of the Constitution has suffered by corruption, the fact is indisputable, the representation of the people has fallen from its former position. I have labored to restore it, and I trust in God that it will yet rise to a higher place than it has ever occupied."

This extract affords evidence of ability worthy of a statesman, but to some of the jury the sentiments were repulsive and having manifested disapprobation, he burst upon them as follows:

"If right or wrong, you have come here determined to find me guilty, say so boldly, openly, and, if you can, honestly. Resort not to pretexts and expedients to justify a stretch of power. The unprejudiced eye will soon penetrate into these pretexts, and such actions will yet receive the contempt and indignation of mankind. Gentlemen this is perhaps the last time I shall address my countrymen. I have examined my past life and I unwardly rejoice at its records in the cause of the people. The cause of reform have sanctified every action I have performed, and every word I have uttered. I have been accused of attempting to rear the standard of civil war, and of plunging the country into a condition of bloodshed and desolation; but as the evidence of the crown advanced, my innocence became more apparent. So far from inflaming the minds of men and urging them to sedition and outrage, all the witnesses have concurred in their testimony, that my anxiety was to impress upon them the necessity of peace, order and good morals. My only crime is, daring to be an active advocate for an equal representation of the people in the House of the People. It is a good cause and I have advocated it honestly according to my abilities. It shall ultimately prevail and shall finally triumph. Gentlemen, the time will soon come when we must all stand or fall by our actions, when all human pageantry shall cease, and all hearts and works shall be laid open before God. In regard to the verdict which you are about to pronounce, weigh these things well, for you and I shall stand together on that dread day when God shall judge the quick and the dead, and this day's doings shall come up before that awful tribunal I may be doomed to the dungeon, or the scaffold, but before you all, let me tell you with sincerity, that whatever may be your verdict, I have a peace of mind which you cannot destroy, arising from a remembrance and consciousness of having done my duty, as a friend of freedom and my fellow man."

This speech occupied three hours in delivery, and when finished, Muir sank back exhausted. Suddenly the pent up feelings of the listening audience burst out into repeated cheer. Rage sat upon the countenance of Judges and Crown lawyers at such a manifestation of public feeling, and Lord Braxfield angrily ordered the Macers to take those who disturbed the court into custody. The Macers however, declared that they were all alike, stomping and clapping their hands, and it was impossible to make them all prisoners.

The charge of the Justice-Clerk in summing up the evidence, exhibits the heartlessness of the man. In its way, it is a literary as well as a legal curiosity, and it affords evidence that the same disposition was exhibited in Scottish Courts in 1793, as was displayed against the Covenanters in the days of Claverhouse. To-day the Scottish Bench is entirely different. Its Judges are not more characterised by their learning and justice than by their humane feelings.

Lord Braxfield said "the indictment was the largest he had ever seen, but it was not necessary to prove the whole in order to find the panel guilty, for the jury had only to look at the concluding sentence of the indictment, from which it was plain, that if any one part of the libel was proven it established the guilt of the panel, the same as if the whole was substantiated. Now this is the question for consideration. Is the panel guilty of sedition, or is he not? Now before this question can be answered two things must be attended that require no proof. First that the British Constitution is the best that ever was since the creation of the world and it is not possible to make better, for is is not every man secure? Does not every man reap the fruits of his own industry, and sit safely under his own fig tree? The next circumstance is that there was a spirit of sedition in this country last winter which made every good man very uneasy. Mr. Muir had gone about among ignorant country people, making them forget their work, and told them that a return was absolutely necessary for preserving their liberty, which if it had not been for him, they would never have thought was in danger.

The next thing to be attended to was the outlawry. Running away from justice was a mark of guilt. And what could he do in France at that period? He pretends to have had influence with those wretches there. What kind of folk were they! I never liked the French all my days, and now I hate them. The panel's haranguing such multitudes of ignorant weavers about their grievances might have been attended with the worst consequences to the peace of the nation and the safety of our glorious constitution. Mr. Muir might have known that attention could be paid to such a rabble. What right had they to representation? The Parliament could never listen to their petition. How could they think of it? A Government in every country should be just like a corporation; and in this country it is made up of the landed interest, which alone has the right to be represented; as for the rabble who have nothing but personal property, what hold has the nation of them? What security for the payment of their taxes? They may pack up all all their property on their backs and leave the country in the twinkling of an eye. But landed property cannot be removed, &c., &c."

Had the jury been humane, just and honest; and were it not for the serious result of the trial, we could afford to laugh at this curious charge. It is so whimsical and original for a charge to a jury, that it deserves to be preserved as a curious judical relic of other days.

The jury was directed to be shut up, and to deliver a verdict at noon on the same day. When the the Court re-assembled, intense excitement prevailed throughout the city. A great crowd thronged the Square leading to the Justiciary Hall, and carrier pigeons were held ready to send the news of the verdict to London, Glasgow and various other places. At the appointed hour, the jury came into court and delivered their verdict in writing, which, in deep silence of the audience, was read, "finding the panel guilty of the crimes libelled." Amid the profound grief of the spectators, the Justice-Clerk told the jury that "the court highly approved of the verdict given." The five judges on the bench, namely,—Braxfield, Abercrombie, Swinton, Eskgrove and Henderland, then consulted as to the punishment which should be inflicted, and they soon agreed that it should be "banishment beyond the seas for fourteen years." Before pronouncing the sentence, the prisoner, according to the custom, was asked if he had anything to say against it. He then rose calmly, but pale with his prison confinement, and the workings of a sensitive and just mind, and said, "My Lords,—I shall not say anything against the severity or character of my sentence; but were I to be led at this moment to the scaffold, I should feel the same serenity of mind, for I have acted agreeably to my conscience, and have engaged in a good, a just, and glorious cause—a cause which sooner or later must prevail, and by a timely reform save this country from destruction."

In that Court and before that audience; in those solemn moments before receiving his unjust and cruel sentence, Thomas Muir stood, "The prophet of the coming time." He literally foretold what occured forty years afterwards. Very many of the highest families in Edinburgh, and all the common people, were deeply grieved by the sentence, and when the news reached Huntershill, the home of his venerable parents, deep sorrow filled their hearts. An only son, beloved, generous and gifted, in the full flush of manly strength and beauty, a banished exile from his native country, for a long term of years, carried to the newly settled penal colony of Botany Bay, and compelled to associate with the vilest criminals.

PART III.

Sad was the feeling of many persons in Edinburg when Thomas Muir was conveyed in irons after his sentence, to the Old Tolbooth, in the High street. This prison-house which has been rendered famous by Scott in his "Heart of Mid-Lothian," was a tall dark building which had become historic. Upon its walls a hundred panoramas of tragedies had moved. The head of the great Marquis of Montrose had been placed on its loftiest pinnacle in 1650, and ten years afterwards, that of his antagonist, the Marquis of Argyle. In 1817 this old structure was levelled with the ground.

At the present time a sentence of imprisonment in most British jails seems to be no punishment at all, owing to the great improvement of modern prisons. But when Thomas Muir was confined in the "Heart of Mid-Lothian," it was a terrible punishment. Lord Cockburn describing it, says:

"A most atrocious jail it was, the very breath of which almost struck down any stranger who entered its dismal door, and as ill placed as possible, without an inch of ground beyond its black and horrid walls. And these walls were very small, the entire place being filled with very dark cells; heavy manacles the only security; airless, waterless, drainless, a living grave. One week of that dirty, fetid, cruel torture-house, was a severer punishment than a year of our worst modern prisons; more dreadful its sufferings, more certain in its corruptions, overwhelming the innocent with a most tremendous sense of despair, provoking the guilty to more audacious defiance."

On September 12th, a few days after Muir's trial, one of a similar character took place before the Circuit Court of Justiciary, held in the old town of Perth. It was that of T. Fyshe Palmer an English gentleman of fine culture, forty years of age and unmarried, who had studied both at Oxford and Cambridge, but had resided occasionally at Perth. He was arrested and charged with sedition for writing and circulating an address of a political reform association, the sole object of which was to obtain a reform of the House of Commons. Lords Abercrombie and Eskgrove were on the bench. The trial was conducted like the one in Edinburg and with nearly a like result. Government witnesses who testified with some reluctance, proved that the prisoner was not the author of the address, but had corrected it and softened down many of its first expressions. In the circumstances, however, he had taken no part. Lord Abercrombie in summing up the evidence said:

"Gentlemen, the right of universal suffrage, the subjects of this realm never have enjoyed, and were they to have it yet, would not long enjoy either liberty or a free constitution. You will therefore, consider whether telling the people that they have a just right to what would unquestionably be a total subversion of this constitution, is such a writing as any person is entitled to compose print and publish."

The coarse Lord Eskgrove declared that it looked like treason. In this case a packed jury also found a verdict of guilty, and Lord Abercrombie sentenced Mr. Palmer to seven years transportation, his crime, writing and speaking for a reform of the House of Commons.

On the evening of the 15th November, the venerable parents of Muir visited him in his prison to take the last farewell of their son. The scene was one of anguish. Next day, Muir Palmer, in felon's garb, were sent from Scotland in a revenue cutter and taken to the hulks at Woolwich, England. Here they were compelled to labor with three hundred other convicts who had been guilty of the very worst crimes against society.

The Government having tested the subserviency of the Scottish judges resolved to put down the Reformers' Convention which held its sittings in Liberty Hall, Edinburg. Its leaders were arrested, its papers seized, and its secretary, William Skirving, placed on trial, Jan. 6th, 1794. It was almost a repetition of Muir's. The judges were the same, and the jury was likewise packed with members of the Tory political Associations. Objections were made to the jury, but all in vain. Witnesses for the prisoner were insulted by the Court, and the result was also a verdict of guilty, and a sentence of fourteen years transportation. On hearing the sentence, honest William Skirving arose and simply said, "My Lords, I know that what has been done to-day will be re-judge, that is my comfort and hope." It was not disguised by the Lord Advocate Dundas, nor the judges, that they had prejudged him and assumed him guilty before his trial. Skirving was classically educated, and at the time of his trial was a farmer near Edinburgh. He was forty-five years of age, and had an accomplished wife and an interesting family of several children.

Two Englishmen, Maurice Margarot, and Joseph Gerrald, who had been sent as delegates by the London Reformers' Society to the convention in Edinburgh were also seized and charged before the Court of Justiciary with seditious speeches. Margarot was tried just after Skirving, but Gerrald's trial was postponed for several weeks. With great boldness, Margarot charged Lord Braxfield, the Justice-Clerk with having declared the week before while out dining at Inverleith, that the prisoner deserved and ought to get one hundred lashes as well as banishment for four-teen years. But there was no sense of decency in the judge, and as a jury also packed. The result again was a verdict of guilty, and a sentence like that of the other victims. The prisoner was about thirty years of age, very genial and kindly, and had a young wife.

On the night of Feb. 2nd, the wives of these prisoners visited them in their cells to bid them a last farewell before their departure next day for Woolwich. Margarot's young wife died soon afterwards of grief, and Skirving's never was again well.

The trial and sentence of Muir had produced some sensation in Parliament, and the Earl of Stanhope brought up the subject in the House of Lords, 31st January, 1794. This motion was seconded by the Earl of Stair, but it only found these two supporters—one Scotch the other English. At the same time these trials were also brought before the House of Commons, upon a petition from Mr. Palmer, presented by the gifted Sheridan. On that occasion this brilliant orator bitterly denounced the injustice of the sentences, and the brutality of the Edinburgh Court. He said "Mr. Speaker—Such a sentence in Scotland, if pronounced in England, would be enough to rouse the people of England to arms. I have seen these unfortunate victims, I have visited them in their loathsome hulks, where they are confined amongst felons. If His Majesty's ministers dared to attempt to make the law of Scotland the law of sedition in England, they would find it to be a sufficient crime to forfeit their own heads."

On the 10th of March following, the subject was again brought before the House of Commons, upon a motion of inquiry by Mr. William Adam of Blair Adam, an English member but a Scotsman. In an able speech, he declared that the sentences were contrary to the law of Scotland; that they were illegal and the punishment of transportation should be arrested. Such unfair trials and administrations of law in Scotland he declared, were disgraceful. Grey, Sheridan, Russell and Fox denounced them in eloquent strains. The latter said:

"God help the people who have such judges. These unfortunate gentlemen have done what the Right Honorable the Chancellor of the Exchequer, what the Duke of Richmond have done before them. They have done no more. Can this House forget the addresses of these two personages to the people? and this not to petition for a reform in Parliament, not simply to state the abuses and to pray in the language of supplicants, but to demand—I say demand—them as their right. As long as gentlemen shall recollect the Thatched House and these

To the Electors of the East Riding of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,

Having received the unanimous vote of a large and respectable convention to be the Standard bearer of the Reformers in this Riding, at the approaching election, and having also been most strongly and earnestly solicited to become a Candidate for your suffrages, as well as having the assurances of a cordial support from a large number of respectable and influential voters, I feel it a duty incumbent on me to accept the nomination, and I now appear before you as your candidate, respectfully soliciting your suffrages and support.

On my political principles I need make but little comment, they being so well known to the most of you. Suffice it to say that my feelings of loyalty and attachment to our illustrious Queen and British institutions are so strong, that I would feel it to be my duty to preserve intact the present existing connection between this and the mother country.

The constitution under which we are now working and given to us by the Act of Confederation, I should also feel it to be my duty to guard inviolate

If elected I should also insist upon retrenchment in the public expenditure in every possible way consistent with the efficient working of the Government, and should oppose most strongly any expenditure without the consent of Parliament.

I would also support any wise measure that would have for its object the encouragement of immigration to this country.

I should also favor the passing of an election law for the election of members to the House of Commons similar to that which obtains for the election of members to the Local Legislature, and should also favor the passing of a law for the trial of controverted elections by the Judges.

I can say without the slightest hesitation that I have no confidence in the present men in power. The grossly corrupt acts of some of them, the disloyal utterances of others, and the extravagant acts of all, I would deem sufficient to induce me at the earliest opportunity to vote a want of confidence in them, but at the same time I would consider it to be my duty to assist, to the best of my ability, in the perfecting of any useful measure irrespective of the source from which it might emanate.

I hope to have the pleasure of seeing many of you in your respective localities ere long, when I will have a better opportunity of giving you a more extended enunciation of my views in regard to the political situation of the country, than I can do in an address of this sort.

In the mean time,

I have the honor to be,

Gentlemen,

Faithfully yours,

EVANS INGRAM.

To the Electors of the West Riding of Peterboro'.

GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by the friends of the Dominion Government to become their Candidate in your Riding in the approaching contest, I have agreed to become the standard-bearer of the party of Union and Progress.

The last few years have seen great changes in the position which we occupy, and from being a small colony of Great Britain, Canada is developing into almost national greatness. These changes have brought about a new condition of political parties, and since Confederation all prior issues have become dead, and should be forgotten, and worthy men who were formerly opposed to each other politically, have united to carry out to successful completion the great scheme of Confederation. This has developed a great party who acknowledge Sir John A. Macdonald as their Chief,—and to this party I belong.

I approve the policy which has been pursued by the present Government in the past, and will assist them if honored with election as your representative, in developing and carrying forward, successfully, their Railway and Canal Policy, which is so essential to the prosperity and greatness of our Dominion.

I think the action taken by the Parliament of Canada, with reference to the Treaty of Washington, was wise, patriotic and loyal to our British connection, and and as such must meet the warm approval of every one who at heart desires the cords, which bind us to Britain, strengthened.

I am of the opinion that all honorable endeavours should be made to secure such Tariff arrangements as will give our people a free market for their produce in the United States; and, failing to obtain this, a Tariff should be imposed by our Government to afford proper protection to Canadian producers.

I think all measures should be fairly considered upon their merits, without reference to the source from which they may come; and all measures that I believe to be introduced for the benefit of the Dominion shall have my support.

While claiming for my self freedom of judgement, and being ready to allow the same to those who are politically opposed to me, I shall always condemn and oppose any action that may be taken for merely partisan or factious purposes; and I highly disapprove of any political party advancing views and urging principles which they hope may assist them to power and then to be thrown aside as having served their purpose.

I feel that—from my long residence in Peterborough, and from the nature of my business transactions—I have acquired a knowledge that will enable me intelligently to consider measures which will tend to develop our resources and increase our trade and prosperity.

I shall take every opportunity of seeing as many of you as I possibly can during the campaign, and will be glad at all times if any of you desire further information as to views, to be asked as to such matters as may not have been touched upon in the narrow compass of a formal address.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
W. CLUXTON.

PETERBOROUGH, AUGUST 8TH 1872

Editorial Items.

Go to the Polls on Monday and Vote for Mr. Ingram the friend of Good Government and of Equal Rights to All.

MR. GROVER AT LAKEFIELD.—The John A. candidate for the East Riding addressed the people of Lakefield on Thursday Evening, last. During the evening he made an exhibition of his temper and good breeding that alienated many, who before respected him. He gave the "lie" more than once to his opponents, and lost his temper so far as to shake his clenched fist at one of the speakers. Rev. Mr. Clementi, the chairman of the meeting and a political friend, had to administer a severe rebuke to Mr. Grover. The example of their leader at Kingston, is producing its legitimate results in demoralizing the whole train of the Tory party candidates.

Sir John, Knight of Protón, at South Monaghan.—The above gentleman, alias the ex-MPP of West Peterboro, in the wake of Sir John, Knight of Kingston, so disturbed the meeting at Benafort the other evening, that even the more than usually quiet people of South Monaghan were about to put him out of the house, and only by intercession could they be prevented. "Could he see himself as others see him," his party would be saved the humiliation of having their honor compromised and their position lowered by a man whose unbounded zeal gets the better of his judgement, which at best is not under wholesome restraints.

Sir John A. Macdonald is earnestly striving to keep Ontario down, by narrowing her boundaries; and is determined to take from her a large portion of the western extremity of the Province, including much of the mineral region. Mr. Grover is aiding Sir John A. in thus robbing Ontario, and wants to be re-elected to Parliament to assist in the completion of the spoilation.

MR. BERTRAM'S canvas succeeds admirably. The best men in the West Riding support him heartily, and promise him a large majority on the 20th instant. Let every friend of good government be sure and go to the polls on that day. It is true, the time of the election is very unfavourable—in the midst of harvest, when labor is scarce, and wages, too, very high. But this is one reason why every lover of his country's prosperity should rush to the polls and condemn the men who thus forced the elections at such an inconvenient season of the year. This one act is sufficient to condemn, and consign them to oblivion.

Wm. Macdougall was defeated in North Lanark, on Saturday. Few will regret his being compelled to retire into private. Not even his present allies have any confidence in him. This is one Riding redeemed from the enemy. Prescott has also been Redeemed.

We understand that Mr. S. S. Peck was cancelled on Tuesday in reference to whether the petition was really filled in when he brought it down to the County Council at last Session. It is believed that it was in blank then, and that the signers understood it to be for $55,000, but fearing that the Revised Rolls would not allow this large bonus, the blank was retained until that should be ascertained.

Vote for Messrs. Bertram and Ingram, and thus aid in checkmating the curtailment of our territory.

The prospects of Mr. Ross in East Durham, warrant the belief that he will be triumphantly elected.

The Nomination in the West Riding will take place on Saturday in Peterboro'.

A man named Morrell, a Jew, has been arrested in Toronto on the charge of murdering a young woman whom he seduced, named Moss. Morrell, it appears, seduced her—afterwards took her to Hamilton and lived with her four months, where she was confined. He appeared kind to her while there, and when thirsty gave her some milk which universally produced cramps, and, it is believed, caused her death. The child also died. The man Morrell having fed it on milk also, now thought to have been drugged.

CORRECTION:—The list of voters to be used for this election: For Smith 1871 and South Monagan in the west Riding 1872. And for Otonabee, Harvey and Galway in the East Riding 1872. In the other municipalities 1871, except Ennismore.

THREE MEN KILLED IN QUEBEC DURING THE ELECTION.—The report in the Globe says:—That a partizan of Mr. Cauchon commenced the riot by shooting one Gaudreau, a supporter of Mr. Ross. The riot was kept up all day and had to be quelled by the police. All the employees of the Government and officials, voted for the Government Candidate.

LACROSSE.—The Young Canadians of Peterboro played a return match at Millbrook, on Monday last, the Millbrook Club gaining the victory in three straight games; time 30 minutes; 1 hour and 10 minutes; and 1 hour and 30 minutes, respectively. The Young Canadians complain that they had to play against a club with at least 5 men in it, or not play at all. But even against odds they said that it was better to be beaten than have no play when there. A spirited contest with men they considered would equal a victory.

THE MUSICAL TIMES, of Rochester, NY for July, is an unusually interesting number. It contains a very full and graphic account of the Great Boston Jubilee, written by an eye witness, as the stirring scenes and incidents occurred. It also contains an interesting variety of local and miscellaneous reading, besides several pages of new music. It is a wide-awake music paper, interesting and reliable. Send 10 cents for a specimen copy, or $1 for a year's subscription, to the publisher J. P. Shaw, 43 State street.

Mr. Grover, at Lakefield, said he voted against Mr. Blake's purity of Election Bill because John A. Macdonald did. But if he had been a follower of Mackenzie and Blake he would have voted for the Bill. Consistency, surely. Electors, will you vote for such a factionist who will vote against good measures because Sir John votes against them.

Vote for Messrs. Bertram and Ingram, and honest Government.

Vote for Mr. Ingram and thus prevent the public plunder likely to ensue during the next five years.

ABSENT.—Yesterday while Mr. Liquor, Gamer, was leaving something in his cellar, he left the door open till his return when a woman in the shop with a baby passed back for the purpose of getting a drink, and not seeing the open trap door, fell into the cellar, the baby falling partially uppermost. The woman was hurt in several places, and the child was so severely stunned that for some time it appeared as if dying. It was taken to Dr. Kinmid's office and cared for.

The Verulam By-law granting aid to the Omemee and Bobcaygeon Rail Road was carried on Monday. The opponents of the progress of Peterboro will now see where the chances for a road North are.

Quebec has been the scene of Election Riots. Several persons have been killed. The riot continued two days. It was commenced by the supporters of Mons. Cauchon, the Government Candidate. Sir John's conduct at Kingston will have an unhallowed effect all over the Dominion.

ELECTORS

Of East Peterborough, before another week you will be called upon to give your verdict against John A. Macdonald and party, who have lost your confidence, and are unworthy of your influence to keep them in power. On Monday Morning fail not to appear at the polling place and cast your vote for Mr. Ingram, who will oppose the present unprincipled men in power.

ELECTORS

Remember that Mr. Grover voted away a trade worth nine millions of dollars annually.

Remember that Mr. Grover voted to give the Governor-General $50,000 a year instead of $30,000, as proposed by economical men. Mr. Grover supported John A. and Howe who incited rebellion in both Nova Scotia and Manitoba.

Mr. Grover voted in favor of paying Members of Parliament $300 a month, thus striking a blow at the independence of Members by a species of bribery.

Vote against him, and for Mr. Ingram!

The Elections.

The counties so far heard from were supposed to be the strongholds of Sir John A. Macdonald, or the elections would not have been forced in them so soon; and the fact that seven of them have returned Reformers augurs well for Ontario. Two seats have already been won in Ontario, two in Lower Canada, and two in New Brunswick—a gain to the Opposition of Eight. Peterboro East and West will add two more in a few days.

The Nomination at Norwood.

The Nominations for the House of Commons, took place at Norwood, on Monday, Peter Pearse, Esq., Returning Officer.

There were not over 150 persons present, so busily engaged are the people at present time. A spirit of discontent pervaded almost every one, at the acts of Sir John A. Macdonald in forcing on the Elections in the middle of harvest, when more than at other seasons all available aid to secure the abundant produce of the field is required.

About 20 minutes after one o'clock the Returning Officer read the Writ and Warrant.

Mr Grover was proposed by Mr. John Burnham, and seconded by Mr. James Wason.

Mr. Ingram was proposed by Mr. Jas. Millar, Reeve of Otonabee, and seconded by Mr. Choate, Reeve of Dummer.

At this point Mr. Pearse told the electors that no member of the Local House would be allowed to be nominated, nor any Deputy Returning Officer: that he knew his business and his instructions, and he would carry them out. After a little talk however, the nominations were proceeded with.

Several other nominations were made, viz:—John Carnegie by J. P Brown and F. Birdsall; D. W. Dumble by J. Sargent and Thos Eenon; Hon Jas Cockburn by Dr Ford and Wm Sargent; Ashton Fletcher by J. Blezard and J. W. Fife; W. H. Scott by W Armstrong and S Powell T. M. Fairbairn by Gerrald Patterson and W. Burgess; G. T. Leonard by Dr Fife and John Pattigrew.

There being so many candidates, the time was limited to one hour each for Messrs. Grover and Ingram, and three quarters of an hour for each of the others.

The meeting was then adjourned to the Drill Shed, close by, to hear the speeches.

Mr. Grover, whose address was somewhat irregular, said that five years ago he asked the support of the electors as a supporter of Coalition with John A Macdonald as leader, and now again he appeared before them asking their suffrage as a supporter of Sir John A. Macdonald. He contended that he had an interest in the country—as much as any of his opponents—and would vote for those interests. The Keene meeting he tried to explain, when he refused to join in any way to address the electors although both meetings were at the time and place, and added, he was perfectly satisfied with his meeting.

The great cry of the present campaign was the Pacific Railway. This road was agreed on by the terms of Union with British Columbia. Confederation was commenced by men of all parties, but George Brown left the Government just as the corner stones were laid, and his action was endorsed by a few who went into opposition. The Grit party had no progress about them, they were the blind followers of a blind leader. The road when built would be our road, built by the party of union and progress. The Government would not build the road, Congress would do so and then the Congress would find the balance against all the Grits so often that to report it would be tedious, to say the least of it, for them.

Mr. Dumble in his usual terse and witty manner exposed the fallacy of the last gentlemen's arguments—showed that the dirty work of the John A. Macdonald party had been laid up for Mr. Carnegie all through the campaign, and that now, to retail slander and revel in defaming the Reformers was the only palatable dish they could set before him.

Mr. Cockburn set forth the best special pleas for the Government he could; pleaded that the Pacific R. R. was a necessity, and that without it Confederation must have been useless. He tried to show that the offer to build the Intercolonial for $6,000,000 only provided a road to Woodstock, and that if this had been accepted they would have to secure running powers on others, from Woodstock to Halifax. The Pacific he thought would open up the North West, and then he launched out in a tirade of abuse of the Grits, and all who opposed Sir John, that distinguished Statesman. George Brown and George Brown's newspaper next were soundly abused for their opposition and the cause he pursued. He defended the Col. Grey job by stating that Lord Monck, Lisgar and Dufferin are Members of the British Parliament, and yet have been paid as Governors General. But he forgot to tell the people that while in the pay of the Crown none of these noble men sat and voted in Parliament. They are members of the Imperial Parliament by birth, and when not employed as Governors would be entitled to sit and vote in the House of Lords. During the time they reside in Canada, however, they do not vote in the British Parliament.

He next tried the effect of misrepresentation, by saying that George Brown in 1858-46 voted two millions of dollars in a lump sum for supplies, and arise as if in amazement, those are the men who shout about voting thirty millions of dollars into the hands of the Government—such misrepresentation cannot aid them however. The facts are these, during the period of the "dead lock" neither party could muster with the backing of the Crown [illegible] so as to obtain the control of the Government, however, [illegible] Brown and his friends [illegible] Government, on [illegible] and [illegible] to be [illegible]

[illegible] Grover voted against this, and to sustain Mr. Tupper in all his villainy. And yet this man comes back seeking re-election. Electors of East Peterboro will you not leave him at home?

Mr. Grover voted away 17 millions of dollars of the people's money in the Intercolonial railway. John A. was in favor of the route to Woodstock, but Cartier said no, and Sir John nodded assent. Consequently $17,000,000 were lost to the Dominion. Macdonald and Macdougal sold the Country.

Below is the Tender of Sir Hugh Allan and several of the leading commercial men of the Dominion, to build the Intercolonial for six millions:—

Montreal, 18th March, 1868.

Sir,—Believing that the Government is desirous of obtaining tenders for the construction of the Intercolonial Railway, the undersigned propose to undertake that portion of it which is between River du Loup and Woodstock, or River du Loup and Fredericton.

If the Fredericton route is taken they propose to select the most suitable route that may offer, so long as it does not approach the frontier of the United States nearer than a distance of ten miles.

They will undertake that the highest grade shall not exceed 60 feet to the mile, with curvatures to correspond. The iron to be fish plated, and to weigh 63 pounds per yard.

They will furnish rolling stock equipment to the value of $2,400 per mile, and stations to the value of $500 per mile.

The price asked for the complete work by frontier line to Woodstock is six millions of dollars if the Company own the road, or seven millions if it is handed over to the Government.

If the Fredericton route is selected, the cost, not including a bridge across the River at that place, will be eight millions of dollars if owned by the Company, or nine millions if it is handed over to the Government.

The free right of way in all cases to be supplied by the Government.

If this proposal is entertained, the undersigned will be prepared at the proper time to enter into details, and put the whole in a satisfactory shape.

Your obedient servants,
(Signed,) T. MORRISON.
HUGH ALLAN.

For selves and others.

Can the Electors of Peterboro East support Mr Grover who thus recklessly votes away more than one year's Revenue!

Ontario to be put Down.

Sir John A Macdonald has succeeded, by means of "conciliation" not creditable in securing the support of the representatives from the lower and outlying Provinces of the Dominion; and has likewise entered into a compact with these distant branches of the Confederation with a view to keep Ontario down! Finding that this Province was hostile to him, he determined to form an offensive alliance with those outside of his own Province, in order that this part of the Dominion might thereby be kept down! This compact numbered amongst its members some of our own people including T. N. Gibbs—who proved recreant to their duty, and voted compactly to keep Ontario down.

Those enemies of our Province, in order to effect their purpose, have given British Columbia more representatives than the constitution allows and extravagant sums of money to help to put Ontario down!

They gave Manitoba more representatives than the Constitution authorizes, and condoned the murder of a British subject, to get the aid of Manitoba to put Ontario down!

They violated the Constitution in giving Nova Scotia an extra subsidy in order to get the aid of Nova Scotia to put Ontario down!

They promise New Brunswick better terms in order to draw New Brunswick into the work of putting Ontario down!

They wasted twelve millions of dollars for the sole benefit of Quebec in the matter of the Intercolonial Railway in order to have the aid of Quebec to put Ontario down!

They are working to cut off the Pacific Railway from connections with the railway system of Ontario, so that the expenditure of a hundred million dollars of public money and lands may irrupt to the chief benefit of Montreal, and so put Ontario down!

Electors of Ontario [illegible] you again send Mr. Gibbs to Parliament, that he may [illegible] and [illegible] re

The Leader of the Tories.

A couple of weeks ago we were taken to task for saying that John A. Macdonald intended on Monday last to insult Mr. Blake and Mr. Mackenzie in the house proved him a ruffian. These attacks he carried over with falsehood and were entirely unprovoked. Those who have seen and heard Mr. Blake in this County in the heat of an election contest, know how mild and amiable his manner and language are. But the Premier in Kingston, on Thursday, Sir John, in his usual style, charged his opponent with being a swindler, without a shadow of foundation for such a charge. Mr. Carruthers said it did Mr. Blake, when the Premier struck him in the face, and tried to take him by the throat, but was prevented by the people near the parties. If this disgraceful escapade could be concealed, it ought to be, for the credit of the Dominion, but that is impossible. It is not by any means the worst episode in the history of Sir John A. For years we have been looking for the collapse of the arch-impostor. This vulgar piece of rowdyism disclosed not the worst side of his character. The charge against Mr. Carruthers is proved a deliberate slander, without the pretence of foundation. It is to be hoped that Canada will soon be free from the disgrace of having a rowdy in her highest seat of honor and influence.—Telescope.

Who, upon all occasions, voted against a measure intended to secure purity of elections? Grover.

Mr. Ingram has a mind of his own, and will not, like Mr. Grover, vote Blind for John A. Macdonald. Electors vote to leave Mr. Grover at home.

NOTICE.

DEPARTMENT OF CROWN LANDS,
Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

UNDER an Order in Council passed the 29th ultimo, respecting Timber on Patented, sold, and unsold lands on the North Shore of Lake Superior, the absolute right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre paid, or to be paid, for such lands.

Others of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, the sales of which are now being carried out, who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are required to apply for such right, and make payment as above, within six months from date of this notice.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay for such right at the time of application for lands per acre as above specified, in addition to the one dollar per acre payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six months from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands applied for, the pine trees on such lands will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant tendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

NOTICE.

SALE OF TIMBER BERTHS

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 1st August, 1872.

A SALE, by public auction, of Timber Berths, on the Northshore of Lake Huron, and North of French River, will be held at the Department of Crown Lands, TORONTO, at TWELVE noon, on TUESDAY, the FIFTEENTH day of OCTOBER, next. The Berths to be offered for sale are projected Townships, estimated at an area each of 36 square miles where the outlines are regular, each Township to be put up as one Berth and sold as such, and to be adjudged to the person bidding the highest amount of bonus per square mile therefor; payment for the same to be made on the day of sale, by depositing the amount of purchase to the credit of the Department of Crown Lands in a Bank authorised receive deposits on account of the Government of Ontario.

All Berths sold to be subject to correction with respect to area, under the first clause of the Crown Timber Regulations.

Licenses for Berths sold will be issued subject to the "Crown Timber Regulations" one month after date of sale, and payment of bonus and ground-rent for current season.

No deduction, from area sold, allowed for water.

The Department reserves the right to one bid on each Berth; and also the right to grant special licenses to cut fuel on the Berths sold for the supply of coasting steamers.

A map showing the Berths to be disposed of may be seen at the Woods and Forests' Office Department Crown Lands, on and after the 15th instant.

R. W. SCOTT,
Commissioner.

NOTE.—The area to be offered as Timber Berths is very extensive, embracing all unsold and unlicensed lands of the Crown north of Lake Huron and North of French River, and West of the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing to the Eastern boundary of the Townships of Awrene and Thibaudeau, extending North from the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing an estimated distance of 24 miles, thence due west to the north-east angle of the Township of Vanconghnet.

Maps of the Territory are for sale by Hunter, Copp, Clark & Co., No, 17, King Street East, Toronto. 32-4in

THE REASONS WHY

LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's

CELEBRATED

Perfected Spectacles,

AND EYE GLASSES,

have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dimness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirement of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.

5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by

The Science of Health.

A NEW

Independent Healthy Monthly.

Devoted to the preservation and restoration of Health on Hygienic principles.

Health is the great want of the age. It is the first need of the individual, the nation, and the race. Health is long life. Disease is premature death. Health develops body, mind, and soul; Disease dwarfs and paralyses all. To educate the people in the Science of Life, which includes all that relates to Preserving Health, and to the Art of Treating Disease without Medicine, is the object and purpose of this new Health Journal

The Science of Health will aim to disseminate throughout the world a knowledge of Hygienic principles. It will not be the organ of any person, business, or institution, but an earnest teacher of the Laws of Life and Health.

The Science of Health will be the exponent of all known means by which Health, Strength Happiness and Long Life may be obtained, by using and regulating those agencies vitally related to Health and the treatment of Disease including Air, Light, Temperature, Bathing, Diet, Clothing, Exercise, Rest, Sleep, and all normal agents and hygienic materials.

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY

Job Hoses' Periodical Pills.

This invaluable medicine is unrivalled in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the Female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied on.

TO MARRIED LADIES.

It is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

These pills should not be taken by Females during the FIRST THREE MONTHS of Pregnancy, as they are sure to bring on Miscarriage, but at any other time they are safe.

In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affection, Pains in the Back and Limbs, on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics, and Whites, the Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed; and although a powerful remedy, do not contain iron, calomel, antimony, or anything hurtful to the constitution.

Full directions in the pamphlet around each package, which should be carefully preserved

JOB HOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter. Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhoea medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Reliever or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation, of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from Anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of this which they may contain.

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALABAYA.—This elegant and agreeable preparation has speedily become a favourite on account of its reputability in the cure of Diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys. It relieves at once, and a sense of fullness after eating, flatulency, heartburn, headache, and constipation of the bowels, all of which arise from a feeble digestion, and occasion poor blood. It enables the stomach to digest food perfectly, and in sufficient quantity to nourish the system thoroughly, and prevent decline, and running down with chronic wasting diseases. In consumption and scrofulous cases, and in delicate children, it will act like a charm in restoring vitality to all the organs and invigorating the general health. It will remove all those who for a long time have been in a feeble condition of the system, wasting away and dispersing to diarrhea. It cures by means of purifying the blood, and building up all the tissues of the body. Sold at $1 by all Druggists.

Pumps, Reapers and Mowers

To the Public in General, and Farmers in particular.

PUMPS. SEWING MACHINES.

Henry Owens

Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalelled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell at very cheap rate. He has increased his facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. Parties ordering Pumps please state depth of well and all other necessary particulars.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year WOODS SELF-RAKE REAPER AND MOWER, CAYUGA CHIEF MOWER, AND JOHNSON'S SELF-RAKE REAPER, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the last day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

HENRY OWENS gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes

LIVINGSTONE.

LETTER OF THE GREAT TRAVELER TO JAMES GORDON BENNETT.

The New York Herald on Wednesday night last received from London a letter from Mr. LIVINGSTONE, addressed to JAMES GORDON BENNET, Jr., which reached London by the STANLEY mail. The doctor states that when found by STANLEY, he was in a most forlorn and destitute conditon.

"I thought", said he, "I was dying on my feet." When he reached Ujiji, after a tramp of 500 miles, he was a mere ruckle of bones. The first words of hope were the report that an Enlishman was coming which proved to be Stanley.

The doctor continued: "An American flag, the first ever seen in these parts the head of the caravan, told me the nationality of the stranger. I am so cold and non-demonstrative as we islanders are usually reputed to be, but your kindness made my frame thrill.

"It was indeed overwhelming and I said in my soul: Let the richest blessings descend from the highest on you and yours. The news Mr. Stanley had to tell was thrilling. The mighty political changes on the continent, the success of the Atlantic States [illegible] election of General Grant, and many other topics, riveted my attention for days together and an immediate and beneficial effect on my health.

"I had been without news from home for years, save what I could glean from a few "Saturday Reviews" and "Punch" of 1868. My appetite revived, and in a week I began to feel strong again. Stanley brought the most kind and encouraging dispatches from Lord Clarendon, whose loss I sincerely deplore, the first time I have received from a foreign officer since 1866, and the information that the British government had kindly sent £1000 sterling to my aid.

"Up to his arrival I was not aware of any pecuniary aid. I came unsalaried, this want is now happily repaired, and I am anxious that you and all my friends should know that, though uncheered by letters I have stuck to the task which my friend Sir Roderick Murchison [illegible], with John Buffish tenacity, believing that all would come out right at last.

"The water shed of south central Africa is over 700 miles in length. The fountains thereon are almost innumerable; that is it would take a man's life to count them. From the water shed they converge into four large rivers, and these again into two mighty streams in the great Nive valley.

"I had to feel my way, and every step of the way, and was generally groping in the dark, for who cared where the rivers ran? We drank our fill and let the rest run by. The Portuguese who visited Casambe asked for slaves and ivory, and I heard of nothing else. I asked about the waters, questioned and cross-questioned until I was almost afraid of being set down afflicted with hydrocephalus.

"My last work, in which I have been greatly hindered from want of suitable attendants, was following the central line of drainage down through the country of Cannibals, called Manymema, or shortly Mangema. This line of drainage has four large lakes in it.

"The fourth I was near when obliged to turn. It is from one to three miles broad, and can never be reached at any point or any time of the year. Two western drains, the Lupiry, or Bartle Freres river, flow into it at Lake Kamolondo. Then the great river Lo-Maine flows through Lake Lincoln into it, too, and seems to form the western arm of the Nile, on which Petherick traded.

"Now I know about six hundred miles of the watershed and unfortunately the seventh hundred is the most interesting of the whole, for in it, if I am not mistaken, four fountains arise from an eastern mound and the last of the four becomes, at no great distance off, a large river. Two of these run north to Egypt, Lupera and Lourraine, and two run south into inner Ethiopia, as the Diambai or upper Zambesi and the Kafneare.

"These are not the sources of the Nile mentioned by the Secretary of Minerva in the city of Sais to Herodtus. I have heard of them so often and at great distances off, that I cannot doubt their existence, and in spite of the sore longing for home that seizes me every time I think of my family, I wish to finish up by their re-discovery.

"Five hundred pounds sterling worth of goods have again unaccountably been entrusted to slaves, and have been over a year on the way, instead of four months. I must go where they lie at your expense ere I can put the natural completion to my work, and if my disclosures regarding the terrible Ujijian slavery should lead to the suppression of the east coast slave trade, I shall regard that as a greater matter by far than the discovery of all the Nile sources together. Now that you have done with domestic slavery forever, lend us your powerful aid toward this great object. This fine country is blighted as with a curse from above in order that the slavery privileges of the petty sultan of Zanzibar, may not be required, and the rights of the crown of Portugal, which are mythical, should be kept in obeyance till some future time, when Africa will become another India to Portuguese slave Traders. I conclude by again thanking you most cordially for your great generosity, and am gratefully yours,

"DAVID LIVINGSTONE."

Mr. Henry Mandsley says: "The full and healthy development of all the lower natural forces are indispensably pre-requisite to the existence of a sound and vigorous mind." Just so. Humanity requires the full equivalent of vital force, in order for the free and potent manifestation of the mind. When we consider that Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites supplies the deficiency to unhealthy blood, restores the nervous element, and produces healthy action to the various organs and forces of the body necessary to embod mind, we wonder at the imbecility everywhere apparent.

As a deficiency of healthy blood, or a direct loss of this fluid, are causes for disorder of the senses, and also of the nervous system generally, we can safely calculate on the disappearance of such unpleasant and dangerous disturbances as the condition of the blood improves.

Henry K Bond, of Jefferson, Maine was cured of spitting blood, soreness and weakness of the stomach, by the use of "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment."

WHY WILL YOU SUFFER.—The "Canadian Pain Destroyer" instantly and permanently removes all pain from the system, and is decidedly the best medicine known for the cure of rheumatism, pleurisy, neuralgia, tic douloureux, toothache, cholic, burns, frost bites, &c., and is so cheap that all can afford to buy it. Sold by all medicine dealers.

A BEAUTIFUL HORSE.—There is nothing that can contribute so much to render a horse beautiful and elegant, as Darby's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy; it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses, and so well pleased are they with it that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency, it may be given at all times with perfect safety. Remember the name and see that the signature of Burl & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Diogenes at Rice Lake.

On this our New Dominion Day,
On Rice Lake's cold and sandy shore,
We felt do have most to while away
An idle hour, as heretofore.

We have some good things here to eat,
We have some Ale and strong whiskie,
And then to make the day complete
If in this scene we found a frolic,

Our swift card boat makes on the strand,
With which to try you isle of chase,
Or further still to reach the land,
If at our changing will inclines.

The Belle of Otonabee,
Of water fowls the loved resort,
May drew us there to ponds to see,
But not to try its gunning sport.

O lake of richly wooded isles,
And fields of rice mid azure blue,
How soft on thee the summer smiles
How charms the sight our distant view.

Before me as by painter's art,
Broad belts of rice of softest green
Stretch far away on lines apart,
With equal fields of blue between.

Dear as thou art, O beauteous lake
To Oo can ne'er fill the mind's desires,
We need more joys than fair scenes make
To feed the flame of mental fire.

The farmer rears his plow along
The high reclined fields that lie
Thy far expelling hills among
Contented here to [illegible]

[illegible] Hall [illegible] and die.

Gallacer [illegible]
But I have loved the students case
And classic page of ancient lore,
He more a genial friend would please
Than would the gift of all thy shore.

Naught is of value counted
But spreading lands and money boards,
And fool indeed would be appear
Whom thought or verse delight affords.

Then let me greet thee with a sigh
That still cannot to joy succeeds
For though thou fillest my ear and eye
Some further food the mind's life needs

Yet well I know that raptured souls
Give daily thanks to nature's lords
When light thy wave before them rolls
That be on thee hath beauty poured.

And daily glides the frequent boat
With they sail or listless oar,
Well pleased midst pearly isles to float,
Or fields of rice or reeds explore.

When this our dear Dominion land
Has grown fair lake, to Shanboods age,
Some loving heart with humbess hand
Will paint thee on his living page.

Adventures after a Shave

A worthy citizen undertook to trim his beard a short time since, and by a slip of the scissors spoiled the cut. He trimmed a little more, and still more, but it would look lopsided, so he went to the barber's and got shaved for the first time in twelve years. He was very busy, and business detained him until a late hour of the night, and when he went home he found that his family had retired. This was not an unusual occurence, so he silently entered by means of a pass key, sought his own room and undressed without lighting the gas. He got partly into bed when his wife astonished him by uttering a loud and prolonged scream. He was very much alarmed for her, and feared she had lost her reason. He implored her to tell him what was the matter.

At the sound of his voice she screamed "Oh, Edward come quick and save me!"

"I am here dear," said he, but she only screamed the louder at the words.

He sprang out of bed and had a light when his brother-in-law a [illegible] sixfooter, rushed into the room and [illegible] a revolver at his head. Luckily it was not loaded, but his fist did not, for in a minute a pale-faced man, with a long white robe, staggered under a blow that doubled the size of his organ of comparison.

"My God," exclaimed the husband, "are you all crazy?"

"Bless my heart," exclaimed the [illegible] brother-in-law, "If it ain't Ned himself! Why what on earth tempted you to get yourself up in that style?"

"What style?" asked the much abused husband, as he rubbed the growing lumps on his forehead.

"Why, when did you shave?"

It was all to clear him then. His wife had put up her hand in the dark, and meeting the shaved face of a man, took her husband for an intruder. She recognized his voice at first, but then upon his speaking her terror was too great and she fainted. When her brother now rushed in he saw a thin-faced man with a slightly bald head, in a long white night robe, and in his fury at the supposed outrage, fired at him, missed, and then knocked him down with his fist. Fortunately his voice saved the husband from a second shot. His wife recovered from her faint only to faint again at the sight of her husband's face and the sound of the pistol shot. He finally got to bed again and slept very well until morning, when "the baby," a child of about two years of age, approached the bed as he had been used to do, and frightened at the sight of a stranger, ran screaming from the room

Tripping on the carpet the poor child received a severe bump on its little head. Matters were finally straightened up at home, but on the street his friends passed without speaking, and at the bank he was not only refused payment of a draft, but threatened arrest for signing his own names in endorsing it. Of course a full explanation brought the various affairs all right, but it took so much time to explain and for the contusion on his forehead to get well, that the aforesaid citizen vows that he will never shave again, as he considers it a habit dangerous to peace and even to life.

"Lights and Shadows of New York Life; or, the Sights and Sights and Sensations of the Great City." A work description of New York City in all its various phases. Its Splendors and Wretchedness; Its High and Low Life; Its Marble Palaces and Dark Dens; Its Attractions and dangers; Its Rings and Frauds; Its Leading Men and Politicians; Its Adventurers; Its Mysteries and Crimes. By James D. McCabe, Jr.

What Paris is to the Frenchman, or London to the Briton, New York is to the American. It is not only the Metropolis, but it is the chief attraction upon this continent. the great centre to which men and women resort for both business and pleasure, and as such is a source of never ending interest. Of late years several attempts have been make to reproduce its varied attractions in book form. The most successful result has had unusual facilities to see every feature of the great city and has written the work with an enthusiasm which is apparent in every page. He has not merely produced a sensational story, but has given us a record of actual facts, of which he is personally cognisant.

The book is as fascinating and absorbing as a novel, and were it not for the evidence he furnishes, we should be tempted to believe that he has carried us into the realm of fiction. He tells us the history of the great city which has grown to be the most remarkable in America, and relates the sad traditions with zest and humor. He introduces us to all classes of people, and intimates us into their ways and manner of life. He brings us face to face with great merchants and bankers, actors, editors, working women, ballot girls, thieves, gamblers, sailors, sneaks, firemen, and a host of others. He delights us with his sketches of the better and brighter side of city life, of the genius, enterprise charity and humanity of the great city, and appals us with his thrilling accounts of the darker and more terrible side of the life he is delineating.

A truthful picture of New York life cannot be otherwise than deeply interesting. Our author has succeeded admirably in his task, and we predict for his book a large sale. It is brim full of useful information, brilliant and fascinating, and an emphatic warning against the vices of the city. It is pure and lofty in tone, and while it discovers fully many of the darker sides of city life, it does so with delicacy and candor. An interesting feature of the book is a powerfully written history of the Tammany Ring frauds with sketches of the actors therein.

It is comprised in one large octave volume of 850 pages, illustrated with nearly 200 fine engravings of noted places, life and scenes in New York, and published by the National Publishing Co., of Philadelphia.

The low price at which the work is issued, brings it within the reach of all, and no one who want to know New York as it really is, should fail to buy this book. It is published in English and German, sold by subscription only, and agents are wanted in every county.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Prepared on our principle by practical chemists, and sold by everybody in all countries, are now every day known to mankind by adopted into use. In every country and clime they are resorted to when a safe and efficient purgative Pill is required. Wherever known, they have gained a reputation for the cures they perform, surpassing anything before discovered, and are the most effectual remedy that can be employed by any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that when it does cure it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of the remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular actions to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change these complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

As occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's Cherry Pector l

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this exection remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a protection against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remitent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the above diseases, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our wish is realized by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed. Disinterested persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy action.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Practical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold by all druggists in every part of the world.

THE REASONS WHY

LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's

CELEBRATED

Perfected Spectacles,

AND EYE GLASSES,

have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirement of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.

5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by

SWORD AND PLOW.

There once was a Comet, so I've heard it said
Who felt that his end grew near;
And he called his sons before his bed
To part them his goods and gear.

He called for his plow, he called for his sword
That gallant, good and brave,
They brought him both at their father's word
And thus he his blessing gave:

"My first-born son, my pride and might,
Do thou my sword retain,
My castle on the lordly height,
And all my proud domain.

"On thee, my well-loved youngest boy,
My plow I here bestow,
A peaceful life shalt thou enjoy,
In the quiet vale below.

Contented sank the sire to rest,
Now all was given away,
The sons held true his last behest,
E'en on their dying day.

Now tell us what came of steel of flame,
Of the castle and its might!
And tell us what came of the vale so tame,
And the humble peasant wight?

O ask not of me what the end may be,
Ask of the country round!
The castle is dust, the sword is rust,
The height is but desert ground.

But the vale that spreads wide in the golden pride
Of the autumn sunlight now,
It teams and it ripens far and wide,
And honor abides by the plow.

Choice Literature.

Choosing for Life.

Mary Randall was in difficulty. The time must come when her choice must be made between two persons for a partner in life, one of whom love recommended, with all the fervency of youthful affection, mindful only of the present; while cold reason, looking forward for the future, and not troubled by the present, was as strongly pressing the claims of the other.

In the society in which she was moving, Mary Randall was regarded as a girl who not only had been favored by Nature with many physical adornments, but who had received from her, also, those beauties of mind which made a woman truly lovable. On the good foundation which Nature had laid, careful instruction had reared a glorious character, which governed her actions well—so well that it was said by some one, and confirmed by every one, that Mary Randall never even parleyed with evil when she knew it to be such.

Of course, as a rule, such a person must be a mark in society, and Mary Randall was no exception; for, in her sphere, she received the admiration and attention of many young men But two, however, were looked upon as in any degree likely to be successful. They were Charlie Maynard and Frank Morton.

The difference between these two young men was marked. Charlie Maynard was handsome, pleasant and consequently a pet in society.

Frank Morton was rather plain in appearance, and, though pleasant in manner, yet was reticent, and on the whole, was not the man to shew well in a drawing room, but those who knew him best, knew that there was great depth in the man, all acknowledged that he possessed many stirling qualities.

Charlie Maynard was the most sociable, and in looking in his frank, open face, there was so much on the exterior to admire, that very few saw further: those who did, knew that there was no strength of character to support him, and their views were strengthened by the fact that he never refused the glass of wine offered him, because as he said, "anything to be sociable."

Frank Morton, on the other hand often fell in the good opinion of some, by his steady refusal to take even the most "sociably" of glasses

Mary Randall was one of the few who noticed these differences, and they were strongly marked to her, for she loved Charlie Maynard, and often had been grieved when he had shown the weakness of his character, and had been led to compare this weakness with the stability of Frank Morton. She had often, on these occasions, wished that Charlie was like Frank Morton.

But to return—

Mary Randall was in a difficulty, because these two young men had proposed, and as both could not be accepted a choice for life, and she felt the responsibility, and had asked time in which to consider, but now the period was near when a decided answer must be given, and she was as undecided as when she had asked time.

She sat down, determined to think over the situation, and come to a definite decision. First, she regarded their prospects for life. Both had the same trade—they were of the superior order of mechanics; both were industrious; whether both were saving or not, she did not know; evidently here was no help for a solution of the difficulty; both held the same position in society, here was no help.

Then Mary thought and still there was no solution, and as it became more evident to her that thought could do nothing to much stronger became the calls of love for a decision in favor of Charlie. And she was well-nigh deciding in her choice, but there was a strange feeling of misgiving in her heart, and, obeying it, she still hesitated, when just at this favorable opportunity, cool, farsighted reason whispered to her, "Charlie drinks."

The feeling of misgiving was explained; this it was which had restrained her. But much of its effects were lost for love too whispered in her ear, and what did he say? "Yes he drinks, but only socially—he is too high minded to go further."

Looking at the situation with eyes of love, this seemed a very probable view, and again Mary wavered—but not long, for immediately reason thundered in her ears. "If, in prosperity, he drinks socially, what might he do in adversity?"

The question must come to her with force:—"What might he not do in adversity?" And, as she thought of what he might do, she shuddered at the depth of the pit on whose brink Charlie was standing. But her mind was now decided. In a matter of a lifetime in which so many interests were involved, she could not run even the smallest risk.

When, a few days after, Charlie came, and received a negative answer, no amount of pleading could change her mind, for the decision at which she had arrived had weakened very much her love for him, while she had determined to banish him from her heart altogether.

Frank Morton also came for his answer, not with hopes, for he looked upon his chances very unfavorably. Much surprised was he, then, when Mary told him that, though she did not love him now, yet she did respect him, and, if he chose to take her with that understanding, she would try and learn to love him.

The temptation was great—too great to be resisted—for his love for her was that which came from a great, noble heart. Taking her by the hand, he promised that, as far as he was able, nothing should happen that would make her regret her choice, and so they were engaged.

Having nothing to wait for, Mary agreed to an early wedding, and consequently six months from that time, they were married, and neither could then undo their choice. Being desirous of improving his prospects, Frank Morton removed his residence to a neighboring town, and there industriously engaged, we will leave him and see what has become of his former rival Charlie Maynard.

Showing the fickleness and shallowness of his character, he had given up his former love for Mary Randall, and had bestowed all his attentions on a pretty but light minded damsel named Kate Kempton, and as his attentions became more and more marked every day, no one was surprised to hear, finally, that they were engaged to each other.

Kate Kempton, having no natural strength of character, and none of that training which would have made it stronger, felt no fears on the score of the future of Charlie's sociable qualities, and so had not hesitated in the least to choose him. With her it had not been a choice for life, for she scarcely thought further than the present.

They, too, having no cause for delay, were married early, and about a month after the marriage of Frank Morton and Mary Randall.

Hearing good reports from Frank, and knowing that he had been successful in his undertaking, Charlie followed his example, and removed to the same manufacturing town.

* * * * *

Ten years have passed, and if you should go now to the same town and inquire for Frank Morton, there would be pointed out to you a man neatly dressed, and of fine appearance. If you should inquire of his character and standing, any one would tell you that for true nobility no man could be more distinguished, while in offices of trust he may be found "most faithful of the faithful." If you should ask him the explanation of his rise to such a position from one comparatively lowly, he would point to his wife as the cause of it all. Ask her if she ever regretted the choice she made ten years ago, and she would tell you that then she made a choice the full value of which she will never be able to know.

But how did all this happen?

Simply in this way:—Being industrious, when he had removed to the town, Morton soon found work, and what he found to do he did with all his might, and so, being of a saving nature, he had laid up money against the bad times to come. They had come, but he was prepared, and weathering them safely, had gone on in his course of independence. Soon his worth became known, and he had risen from one position to another until finally he had gained the position of "master" in his trade.

Mary Randall when she gave herself to Frank Morton, had given only respect, but soon she did give him that love which is indeed love, and to-day Mrs. Morton does not regret the choice she made when she was in a difficulty as Mary Randall.

Far different from this is the history of Charlie Maynard through the last ten years. No one whom you should question would be able to tell you anything good of him.

In appearance he is bloated, his carriage is sneaking, and nothing about him indicates nobility or even respectability. His haunt is the gin palace, his home is a low den, and his once pretty wife is careworn, dragged down with sorrow.

How did all this happen?

Charlie Maynard when he went to that place, was an industrious man, and his industry gained its reward, he obtained work, but he did not know how to save. "Sufficient for the present" was his motto, and consequently when adversity came, he suffered its worst effects. Having no work he became discouraged, and that social taste which he had formed, held out prospects of relief from care for the present in what was called a sociable glass. That was the beginning of his destruction, and down, down, down he went, until now he can go no further in this world. The once light minded Kate Kempton is now weighed down with sorrow, and as once she cared, only cared for the present, now all her thoughts are for the future, when she shall be freed for ever. Bitterly does she repent her choice, for she knows too well "what he will do in adversity."

The Canada Butter Trade.

Among the leading articles of export from the Dominion, butter takes a very prominent place, exceeding as it does, two millions of dollars annually. It becomes therefore a matter of importance to consider whether the returns to Canada from the large quantity of butter yearly shipped to England and the States is as profitable—if the nature of the trade as satisfactory—as it might and ought to be. The apparently trifling difference of one cent per pound in the price obtained at places of like character, would come to the shippers of 2,000,000 pounds over, on that basis, a sum equal to one-half of the entire value of the export. Two cents, the same, but of course very considerably more than doubled. And although this question the persons apparently who thus lose or gain, they really and on the average are only to a slight extent involved in the matter. Primarily, the producers, and in a less but still to a considerable degree, those who purchase from them at first hand, are the parties to whom it is of consequence that the article in which they deal should be of such a quality as to command the highest price obtainable in any and every market where it may be offered.

The Canadian butter does not command the highest price in any market whatever, is a fact to well known to need illustration; and the obvious result is that the trade in it is most unsatisfactory to all concerned whether the country store-keeper, the large shipper or the foreign consignee. To give an idea of the different value which Canadian butter might bear, we have only to refer to any Liverpool circular. We will find there Irish butter quoted at an average of 112s. per cwt., while for extra choice Canadian the average is only 70s. This means that the butter of this country, which now only brings 7c. to 13c. might be of a quality to command 20c. to 22c. in the present condition of the English market. And it happens also that a very large proportion of the total exports of butter will not now bring anything like 70s. but has to be sold at from 40s. to 50s. or about the current price of lard. Some shipments on Montreal account have proved entirely unsaleable, and the consignments have actually been ordered back to New York. Both literally and metaphorically Canadian butter "stinks in the nostrils" of all who have to do with it; and though the evil is one which is well known, the evil is of such a nature and appears so almost impossible of eradication that the trade has become very nigh hopeless of seeing it removed. The strangest thing in connection with this is that the very two classes who are most interested in obtaining some change are those whose shortsighted conduct perpetuates the evil. Before proceeding to point out what this evil and what its remedy, we take occasion to make a couple of exceptions to the somewhat sweeping condemnation of Canadian made butter. It is well known to the trade that in the Eastern Townships, bordering on the State of Vermont, and in the vicinity of Brockville, there is produced rich, sweet, marketable butter—butter that is very seldom handled by Canadian buyers at all—that made in the Eastern Townships being generally contracted for by Americans before a pound of it is gathered, shipped to Boston, rebranded and sold for the highest price under the name of "Vermont Dairy," while that from Brockville is also taken by Americans and finds its way to market to be sold as St. Lawrence County butter at an excellent percentage of profit.

The great prime cause of bad butter is of course, because it is badly and carelessly and often dirtily made; and for this the farmers' wives are the most part directly responsible. But this responsibility also to a very considerable extent belongs to the country storekeepers who buy up the butter. The fault of the storekeepers consists in their actually offering a premium to their customers to make bad instead of good butter by paying the same price for an inferior as for a superior article—paying it not because they are ignorant of the quality, or deceived by the appearance, but because they do not feel sufficiently independent to say to a customer, "Your butter is poor—we cannot pay you the same price we give for the beautiful butter your neighbor brings us," because they cannot afford to run the risk of offending a profitable customer, whose patronage they think will more than make up for any subsequent loss on her butter. The matter is made worse by the fact that, generally speaking, there is not sufficient amount of good butter to be packed by itself, and the packages when shipped are streaky and uneven, and ever so much less valuable and less ready for sale than they ought to be.

It is exceedingly natural, when butter-makers learn—and it takes them a very short time to do it—that as high a price will be paid for an article upon which no care or trouble is expended in the makings as for an article in the making of which all possible care has been given and skill and fore-thought exercised, it is most natural, we say, that they should in their generally over-worked lives select that course which involves the least expenditure of time and labor. It could not possibly be otherwise; it would be nonsensical to expect it. The fault does not lie, as a rule, in the ignorance of the dairywomen, but in the absence of any strong inducement to do as well as they know how. They get the highest rate paid, in cash or its equivalent, and they are satisfied and fail to see that the highest price is not what could be paid were the character of Canadian butter generally raised to the proper standard, and were it known abroad as it might and ought to be, by its good instead of by its poor quality. If they could only be made to feel that they could command five or six or seven cents a pound more then they now get, there would be hopes that their natural shrewdness and laudable desire to increase their profits would lead them to take such pains with their dairy produce as very soon to establish an important improvement in this, so heavy an article of Canadian export. Storekeepers should lose no opportunities of pointing out the necessity that exists why something should be done. They feel how heavily the loss they have to stand on poor butter eats into what profits they make in selling their goods, but they seem unable to enfranchise themselves, and a change for the better appears to them almost impossible. The apparently impossible, however, might easily, by concerted action, be made possible, and we will endeavour, in a future article, to point out one or two modes in which a custom so hurtful to all concerned may be to some extent done away with.

NOTICE.

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

Upon an Order in Council passed the 20th ultimo, respecting Timber on Patented, sold, and gaseld lands on the South Shore of Lake Superior, the sole right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre paid, or to be paid, for such lands.

Owners of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are now being carried out) who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are required to apply for such right, and make payment as above, within six months from date of this notice.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay for such right at the time of such purchase fifty cents per acre as above specified, in addition to the one dollar per per acre payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six months from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands applied for, the pine trees on such lands will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant rendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

SALE OF TIMBER BERTHS

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 1st August, 1872.

A SALE, by public auction, of Timber Berths, on the North-shore of Lake Huron, and North of French River, will be held at the Department of Crown Lands, TORONTO, at TWELVE noon, on TUESDAY, the FIFTEENTH day of OCTOBER, next. The Berths to be offered for sale are projected Townships, estimated at an area each of 36 square miles where the outlines are regular, each Township to be put up as one Berth and sold as such, and to be adjudged to the person bidding the highest amount of bonus per square mile therefor, payment for the same to be made on the purchase of the Berth by depositing the amount with the Agent of the Department of Crown Lands, at the place of sale, or with the Commissioner of Crown Lands, at the seat of Government, to the credit of the Receiver General for Ontario.

The Department reserves the right to one bid on each Berth, and the right to grant special licences to cut timber on the Berths sold for the supply of existing settlements.

Office of Department Crown Lands, on and after the 29th instant.

R. W. SCOTT,
Commissioner.

NOTE.—The area to be cleared as Timber Berths is very extensive, embracing all unsold and unlicensed lands of the Crown, north of Lake Huron and North of French River, and West of the Timber limit granted to Lake Nipissing to the Eastern boundary of the Township of Awenaung. NOTICE.

DEPARTMENT OF CROWN LANDS,
Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

Upon an Order in Council passed the 23rd ultimo, respecting Timber on Patented, sold, and unsold lands on the North Shores of Lake Superior, the absolute right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre paid, or to be paid, for such lands.

Owners of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are now being carried out) who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are required to apply for such right, and make payment as above, within six months from date of this notice.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay for such right at the time of application fifty cents per acre as above specified, in addition to the one dollar per acre now payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six weeks from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands applied for, the pine trees on such lands will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant tendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operation, and speak in the highest terms of its Victorious and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach, Phthisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household in the land.

Do Take a Glass of Wine.
A Single Glass.

O lady cease! of no avail,
Are all those pleading looks of thine,
Against the pledge they won't prevail—
I will not taste a glass of wine.
In vain that sweet persuasive tone
Falls winningly upon my ear.
In vain the laughing tempt is thrown,
The witty, smiling, gentle jeer.

In vain thy bright inviting eye,
Asks in glances, shall I now?
Not all thy lovely witchery,
Nor all its soul entrancing power,
Could ever make those lips of mine
Admit a single glass of wine.
Then lady cease—gentlest denial,
In this alone 'twill meeght avail.

In this alone I cannot yield,
"Taste not," is graven on my shield:
Though beauty, eloquence, and love,
Their mystic influence all combine,
My first resolve they shall not move,
Nor make me drink one glass of wine.
A lady! thrilling scenes of woe
These eyes of mine have oft beheld.

They've seen the gall and wormwood flow
And darkness gather undispell'd
Round gentle hearts that once had known
Love and unmingled joy alone;
Yet tho' so beautiful and bright,
They sank beneath that poisonous blight
And like a withered flower they pine,
Their only foe—A Glass of Wine.

LONGEVITY.

BY DR. DIO LEWIS.

Long life comes of inheritance and good habits. We rarely see a very old person who is not descended from a long lived ancestry. But this old man may have brothers and sisters who died early. For the most part, this difference comes of differing personal habits. In order to live long we must inherit the capacity, and this inheritance must be supplemented by good habits. [illegible] have a right to expect [illegible] probably survive seventy years.

The person who promises long life is of medicine else, good lungs slow pulse, good digestion, strong teeth, firm muscles, tough skin, coarse hair, with small-ish head and quiet, graceful tempers.

It is rather too late to advise a man with reference to promoting these qualities, or with reference to the parents of whom he shall be born, but it is not too late to advise any and every man with regard to his personal habits. These constitute the most important factor.

Among the more important habits I name the following:

One must live in the strong sun-light Even a slight shadow means bad digestion with plants, animals and men. A plant removed from the window to the back end of the room, even though it be light enough to read, soon becomes pale and refuses to grow. A woman who spends her days within doors becomes pale and sickly.

Good air is important. An unventilated house produces an irritable condition of the tissues. Then instead of that unconscious, perfect working of the several parts, there is a feverish friction which prematurely exhausts the vital forces.

Temperance is vital. Temperance in food is especially important. One may drink wine, or beer, or spirits to occasional intoxication, and live to old age but a big eater rarely reaches seventy years. A bottle of wine will make a man stagger and talk like a fool, but it will not clog and foul his system like a Thanksgiving dinner.

There is no system of diet or class of food which can justly present special claims; it is moderation, temperance. And no definite rules can be given. The food must be adapted to the individual and to his occupation. A young man is at work upon a farm mowing, digging and perspiring. Two pounds of solid food are needed. But he changes to the house life and sitting of a college. His food, as to quantity and quality must be reduced at least fifty per cent. The food, I repeat must be adapted to the person and his occupation. But I am again asked for some rules. The larger my experience, the more extended my observation, the less becomes my confidence in definite dietetic rules. It is safe enough to say that we eat too much, that our food is too rich, in too great variety, and badly cooked. Beyond this we do not venture. Every person must observe his own experience, and conscientiously regard their suggestions. A man who won't do this is not likely to follow any definite rules given by another, and at best is hardly worth saving.

Another important condition of longevity is regular and abundant sleep. I have never read the details of a remarkably old person's life in which "early to bed" was not a feature. One may seem to thrive for a while on six hours' sleep, but his life will not be a long one. To reach ninety years you must have at least eight hours' sleep. More than two hours should come before midnight.

A certain amount of exercise is necessary to longevity, but hard work is not necessary. Neither hard work, nor great muscular developement are needed. Indeed it is doubtful if they are not rather unfavorable. Great moderation here, as in food, is most favorable to length of life. Gentle labor, in the country, as in moderate farming, is, on the whole, most favorable. It is particularly desirable that the occupation should be an agreeable one, adapted to the tastes, and that it shall satisfy the ambition.

Marriage, with its home-loves and moderate excitements, is particularly favorable to long life.

The absence of all unholy ambitions, of anger, hatred and jealousy, and the presence of an amiable, cheerful, hopeful temper contribute greatly to our stay in this world.

"Kepatomeastering." This was the note sent by a farmer to the school teacher in the potato digging season, to explain his boy's absence from school.

A Hint—Time night, several stars winking knowingly. Youth and maid on leaning over a gate and looking "uply." Maiden, with enthusiasm, pointing a taper finger toward the zenith exclaimed, "Oh, Harry, isn't jewelry beautiful!"

A man in Missouri is seeking a divorce from a person to whom he has been married sixteen years, on the ground that that person is not a woman. A sufficient ground, certainly, but it seems to have taken him a long time to find it out.

A youthful Danbury lover who sang and played before his young lady's house for two mortal hours, was electrified after a short pause by a cordial 'thank you,' gracefully pronounced by the 'other fellow,' who appeared at the window.

Choice Poetry.

TURNING GREY.

Life's sands are running fast away,
The buoyant steps of youth are gone,
The falling hair is turning grey,
And time seems now to journey on—
More fleetly than the days of yore,
Before the heart became its prey;
Before 'twas saddened by its woes,
Before the hair was turning grey.

Yes, turning grey! age dawns likewise,
As still, and surely each moment flies,
Its wrinkling on the brow will grow,
The hair with silvery streaks will shine,
The eyes their brightness lose, the hands
Grow dry and tremulous and thin,
For life, alas, is quickly spanned,
And death invades without an sign.

Ah, turning grey, we fain would hide
The sign how long with time we've been.
These deepening wrinkles side by side,
Cut by the sorrow we have seen.
For feebler beats the heart as years
More quickly glitter on our heads,
As autumn rain drops hang like tears
On some fair flowers that's nearly dead.

Like perished petals from the flower,
Our hopes and wildest joys are veid,
Born only for a day or hour,
Sweet gambols by the fancy played,
As age comes on we long for rest,
As saints near shrines will long to pray.
But, oh, we loved the times the best,
Before the hair was turning grey.

About Dancing.

The venerable Bishop Johns, of Virginia, in a recent charge to his people, says:

"There is another subject of a very different character which I would gladly avoid, if I could do so without disappointing and perhaps discouraging some of my faithful brethren of the clergy, who are grieved because certain of their communicants do not avoid 'things contrary to their profession.' The most [illegible] indulgence in that [illegible] promiscuous dancing [illegible] once—a demoralizing [illegible] to delicacy [illegible] abounding to the [illegible] renewed mind. This scandal is not to be tolerated in the church of Christ. Let every appeal be made in the way of affectionate remonstrance, judicious teaching and earnest prayer for those led astray, and God, peradventure, will give them repentance. If all such efforts prove unavailing, and to remove the scandal and at the same time employ the last expedient for awakening the offender to a sense of his sin and danger, it becomes necessary to resort to the exercise of divided discipline—it must be so. It may cause the ministers many tears, but the painful duty may not be declined. The best and surest preventive of this and other similar evils, is the constant, clear earnest, and affectionate preaching of Christ crucified. As he is known and appreciated, sinful indulgences lose their attractiveness, and even doubtful practices are shunned, rather than jeopardise the peace, and hope, and joy of a consistent Christian walk."

At the late General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the discipline on immoral conduct was so amended as to include "the buying, selling, or using intoxicating liquors as a beverage; dancing, playing games of chance, attending theaters, horse-races, circuses, or dancing schools; or taking part in other amusements of an immoral tendency."

In one of the courts recently, a woman was testifying on behalf of her son, and swore that he had worked on a farm ever since he was born. The lawyer who cross-examined her said—"You assert that your son has worked on a farm ever since he was born?" "I do." "What did he do the first year?" "He milked," she replied. The whole court laughed heartily, and witness was questioned no further.

A Lively Style.—This is the way a western local touches up the weather—"We were favored in this section last Thursday with a vigorous little shower. Since then the weather has been dry and terrifically hot. For several days great dark clouds have lingered lazily around, and were as thick as town loafers on store boxes, and just about as useful. Occasionally the zephyrs would spasmodically start up strong enough to waft hay stacks over and twist oat fields into a condition nice enough for nothing but the operation of an old-fashioned hand sickle, and then subside into a calm so that you have to raise a breeze yourself if you get a breath. But what's the use of grumbling?"

Success.—My friend, if thou hadst all the artillery of Woolwich trundling at thy back in support of an unjust thing, and infinite bonfires visibly waiting ahead of thee, to blaze for centuries long for thy victory on behalf of it, I would advise thee to call a halt, fling down thy baton, and say, "In God's name, no!" Thy "success!" Poor devil, what will thy success amount to? If the thing is unjust, thou hast not succeeded, no, not though bonfires blazed from north to south, and bells rang, and editors wrote leading articles, and the just thing lay trampled out of sight to all mortal eyes an abolished and annihilated thing. Success! In a few years thou will be dead and dark—all cold, eyeless, deaf, no blaze of bonfires, ding-dong of bells, or leading articles, visible or audible to thee again forever. What kind of success is that.—Carlyle.

A young lady, at an evening party sometime ago, found it apropos to use the expression "Jordan is a hard road to travel," but thinking it too vulgar, substituted the following: "Perambulating progression in pedestrian excursion along the far-famed thoroughfare of fortune cast up by the banks of the sparkling river of Palestine, is in deed attended with a heterogeneous conglomeration of unforseen difficulties.

Wife, Mistress and Lady.—Henry Ward Beecher, in the Christian Union makes the following hit: Who marries for love takes a wife; who marries for fortune takes a mistress; who marries for position takes a lady. You are loved by your wife, regarded by your mistress, tolerated by your lady. You have a wife for yourself, a mistress for your house and friends, a lady for the world and society. Your wife will agree with you, your mistress will rule you, and your lady will manage you. Your wife will take care of you and your household; your mistress of your house, your lady of appearances. If you are sick your wife will nurse you, your lady will enquire after your health. You take a walk with your wife, a ride with your mistress, and go to a party with your lady. Your wife will share your grief, your mistress will share your money, and your lady your debts. If you die your wife weep, your mistress will lament, and your lady wear mourning. Which will you have?

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system, seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination past they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of each thing or fatal disease, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develop into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, at length cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterine affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilitic Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute Directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Tormented and Distressed with Dyspepsia, Shrunken, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well-known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season, seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaint, &c.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS, and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

Beware of Counterfeits.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS" and the private mark of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base counterfeits. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

One Dollar a Bottle. Six Bottles for Five Dollars.

THE REASONS WHY
LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's
CELEBRATED
Perfected Spectacles,
AND EYE GLASSES,
Have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:
1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.
2nd. Because they will exclude sights absent to the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.
3rd. Because no glimmering or dimness in experience to obtain one, their lenses fitted on optical and geometrical rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.
4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirements of such purchasers, and does not require the aid of a Physician.
5th. Because the wearing the eyes and long many years without the necessity of change.
6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.
Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.
A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by

Choice Poetry.

"Good-Will Be Done."
BY NELLIE W. SEARS.

Sharply struck, trembling, falling,
Sobbing, she sank down by me,
The plaque cast aside and scarred
Glanced unheeded in the Temple of Incense.

Livid the lips that once were red,
Paralyzed is the right and proper hand,
All things whisper—passing away.

Fled from her eyes the old fierceness
Which swept the burning coal along,
And pulse quivers but feebly through
So gaunt a form, so ruddy now.

Her fever's flush, the hectic glow,
Warm as our dying sons that go;
The magnificent of dauntless will,
To plant the his [illegible] shadowy sky

[illegible]
Views its glorious beam to-night.

Oh, there begged the angels of death
Her heavenly spirit will regain shine,
Oh, there let Christ shall never cease
A song of love, and joy, and peace.

Instant bright-laid quiet hath no stay,
There ev'ry tear is wiped away
So, when the race of life is run,
We'll sow the hand—"God's will be done."

Reminiscences of Rome.
THE GREAT ARCHITECTS.
FROM OUR CHURCH WORK.

Nothing in the history of architecture—the tower of Pisa excepted—is more remarkable than the building of this edifice. Michael Angelo was then seventy-two years old when he was appointed chief architect of St. Peter's. Having reached a time of life when long years, as a painter, sculptor, poet, and soldier, he was about to retire to rest in 1544, to dote away his few remaining days, and die in his native land, Settignano, near Florence, which, at that period of life, would be the degeneration age he thought, as a place of retirement; but Pope Julius, knew that the fire of genius had not yet burnt out in the old man—in fact that the flame that grew with the years was at this time drew nearer for the Giver to recall "the spark divine." He went for him and told him he had work much for him to do; he must build at temple worthy of the name, over the grave of St. Peter.

Michael Angelo, though pleading his advanced age, and the magnificence he was sure to meet with from the jealous intermeddling of the "Pope's Cardinals."

The Pope insisted that it was a religious duty; and including in the argument that the accomplishment of such a purchase was done in order to [illegible] with the [illegible]

Michael Angelo, though pleased by that imperious pontiff, [illegible] would extend years before his death. Remembered a drunken architect, [illegible] jealousy of the growing fame of Michael Angelo, and his influence with the Pontiff, expressed to Julius "that it were [illegible] to erect his own monument during his lifetime, and as the Pope gradually fell off in his attentions to Michael Angelo, and neglected to supply him the necessary funds for carrying on the work." On one of the days, 15 out of the sixty which Michael Angelo [illegible] to erect a monument [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

NOTICE.

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

UNDER an Order in Council passed the 20th ultimo, respecting Timber on Patented, sold, and unsold lands on the North Shore of Lake Superior, the absolute right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre paid, or to be paid, for such lands.

Owners of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are now being carried out) who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are required to apply for such right, and make payment as above, within six months from date of this notice.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay the said fifty cents per acre as above specified, in additions to the one dollar per acre payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six months from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands applied for, the pine trees on such lands will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant tendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

R. W. SCOTT, Commissioner.

NOTICE.

SALE OF TIMBER BERTHS,

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 1st August, 1872.

A SALE, by public auction, of Timber Berths, on the North-shore of Lake Huron, and North of French River, will be held at the Department of Crown Lands, TORONTO, at TWELVE noon, on TUESDAY, the FIFTEENTH day of OCTOBER, next. The Berths to be offered for sale are projected Townships, estimated at an area each of 36 square miles where the outlines are regular, each Township to be put up as one Berth and sold as such, and to be adjudged to the person bidding the highest amount of bonus per square mile therefor; payment for the same to be made on the day of sale, by depositing the amount of purchase to the credit of the Department of Crown Lands in a Bank authorized receive deposits on account of the Government of Ontario.

All Berths sold to be subject to correction with respect to area, under the first clause of the Crown Timber Regulations.

Licenses for Berths sold will be issued subject to the "Crown Timber Regulations" one month after date of sale, and payment of bonus and ground-rent for current season.

No deduction, from area sold, allowed for water.

The Department reserves the right to one bid on each Berth; and also the right to grant special licenses to cut tool on the Berths sold for the supply of coasting steamers.

A map showing the Berths to be disposed of may be seen at the Woods and Forests' Office Department Crown Lands, on and after the 15th instant.

R. W. SCOTT, Commissioner.

NOTE.—The area to be offered as Timber Berths is very extensive, embracing all unsold and unlicensed lands of the Crown north of Lake Huron and North of French River, and West of the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing to the Eastern boundary of the Townships of Hawkesbury and Vankoughnet, extending North from the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing an estimated distance of 36 miles, thence due west to the north-east angle of the Township of Vankoughnet.

Maps of the Territory are for sale by Messrs Copp, Clark & Co., No. 17, King Street East, Toronto. 33-4in

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, billious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

PAIN KILLER

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter. Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by indueing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Reliever or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALASAYA.—This elegant and agreeable preparation ha s speedily become a favourite on account of its reliability in the cure of Diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys. It relieves at once, pain and a sense of fullness after eating, flatulence' acidity, or heartburn, headaches, and constipation of the bowels, all of which arise from a feeble digestion, and occasion poor blood. It enables the stomach to digest food perfectly, and in sufficent quantity to nourish the system thoroughly, and prevent decline, and running down with chronic wasting diseases. In consumption and scrofulous cases, and in delicate children, it will act like a charm in restoring viality to all the organs and invigorating the general health. It will restore all those who for a long time have been in a feeble condition of the system, wanting energy and disposition to exertion. It cures by means of purifying the blood, and building up all the tissues of the body. Sold at $1 by all Druggists.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year Woods Self-Rake Reaper and Mower, Canada Chief Mower, and Johnson's Self-Rake Reaper, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the 1st day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

HENRY OWENS gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes.

A BEAUTIFUL HORSE.—There is nothing that can contribute so much to render the horse beautiful and elegant, to improve his condition and make him all that is desirable, as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses with decided success, and so well pleased are they with it that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency it may be given at all times with perfect safety. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each packge. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certian fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or an different proportions. Then in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the smell of Oils which they may contain.

Select Poetry.

"A Man's a Man for a' That"

Who shall judge man from his manners?
Who shall know him by his deeds?
Paupers may be fit for princes,
Princes fit for something less.
Crumbled shirt and dirty jacket
May be clothed the golden ore
Of the deepest thoughts and feelings,
Satin vest can do no more.

There are streams of crystal nectar
Ever flowing out of stone,
There are purple beds and golden,
Hidden, crushed, and overthrown.
God, who counts by souls, not stations,
Loves and prospers you and me,
While he values thrones, the highest,
But as pebbles in the sea.

Man upraised above his fellows,
Oft forgets his fellows then,
Masters, rulers, lords, remember
That your meanest hinds are men!
Men of labor, men of feeling,
Men of thought, and men of fame,
Claiming equal rights to sunshine
In a parent's common name.

There are foam-embroidered oceans,
There are little wood-clad rills,
There are feeble inch-high saplings,
There are cedars on the hills.
God, who counts by souls, not stations,
Loves and prospers you and me,
For to him all vain distinctions
Are as pebbles in the sea.

Toiling hands alone are builders,
Of a nation's wealth and fame,
Titled laziness is pensioned,
Fed and fattened on the same,
By the sweat of others' foreheads,
Living only to rejoice,
While the poor man's outraged freedom
Vainly lifts its feeble voice.

Truth and justice are eternal,
Born with loveliness and light,
Secret wrongs shall never prosper
While there is a sunny right,
God, whose world-wide voice is singing
Beautiful love to you and me,
Links oppression with its tinkers
But to perish in the sea.

How the English Agricultural Labourer lives.

There is a previous question to which I never could find an answer. It is "How does the labourer in the west of England contrive to live?" How a man with a wife and four or five young children can feed, clothe, and doctor them all, bury one half of those that are born (which is about the proportion of those who succumb to the hard struggle), pay the rent of the cottage, and the cost of such fuel as is absolutely necessary,—this is a problem which I have never yet been able to solve, and for the practical solution of which I heartily wish everyone who, sitting at his own well covered table, denies that the Labourer is badly off, might have one months trial. It is of no use to say as some do, that the labourer is better of than he was fifty years ago. In the first place, I do not believe it. And even if he is better off than he was fifty years ago, the fact cannot be gainsaid that he is badly off now. Still less truth is there in all the boasts about the priviledges which he is said to enjoy. The fine fables which those interested invent about these privileges are of themselves quite enough to make it imperative that all wages should, as a very large number are now desirous, be paid in coin only. The labourer has got potato ground, has he! Yes; but he pays for it per perch four and sometimes five times as much as his master, who lets it to him, pays his landlord. He has a run for his pig Has he! Well, I have lived nine years in North Devon, and I never yet saw a labourer's pig run anywhere but in the style. He has fuel given him. What sort of gift is this! A farmer wants a hedge grubbed up. He says to John, "Grub it up in over-hours and take the wood for your labour." If the farmer paid the labourer in coin for the over-hours spent in grubbing up this hedge, the sum paid would purchase twice as much wood as he ever got from the hedge. But the carter has an addition to his wages of two quarts of cider a day, the labourer of three pints, every woman who works in the fields has one quart, and the boys just taken from school (long before they ought to leave it) never less than a pint, and more generally a quart. And whether they will or no they are forced, instead of the coin of the realm, to take this sour compound, often nothing better than the washings of the hogshead, which helps to cripple them up with the rheumatism in middle-age, habituates them even from childhood to spend what no intelligent member of higher life would think of spending, one-fifth or sixth of their whole income upon liquor for their own personal use alone, and not unfrequently wheta their appetite for still deeper potations at the public house. Grist-corn or tailings (that portion of the wheat which after it has been sifted, is not saleable in the market) is is much boasted of as a privilege. When the best wheat is high in price the labourer may reap a slight advantage from grist; but, if during the continuence of the bargain, which is always made for a year, wheat happens to fall all advantage will be lost. At any rate, it never can be an advantage to a man to be forced against his will to take anything in place of coin, with which they can buy when, where, and what they please. When all the romance of the matter is cleared away, the naked truth comes out, that so-called priviledge is a pretty shadow without a substance, and that the labourers in the West of England have nothing which will really do them any good over and above their bare 8s. or 9s. a week. Hence the fact, confirmed by the testimony of a very able medical man who has all his life long had large practice amongst the agricultural labourers, that as a class and with few exceptions, as soon as age or infirmity, often in middle age, disables them from work, they live the remainder of their life on the poor-rate, and when they die are buried out of the poor-rate. Hence a general absence of all feeling of shame at being paupers. Hence the notorious fact, that the rate is considered a sort of honourable heritage and right, so that young couples marry without any other prospect in case of accident or sickness. Hence the enormous amount to which in the western counties the poor-rate has reached, and the large proportion of out-doer to in-door relief. The labourers of the west are a race of paupers, with one exception, however; namely, the county of Cornwall. Owing to the large number of mines and miners, and the presence of machinery, conditions which always sharpen men's wits and make them more independent, that county is an exception to the general rule of the west. The Cornish men say truly that, if Devonshire did not stop the way, Cornwall would be in the world.—By Canon Girdlestone, in Macmillan's Magazine.

MASON & BRADBURN TO CONDUCT THE Dry Goods & Grocery Business, heretofore carried on by THOMAS BRADBURN, at the Town of Peterborough.
W. J. MASON.
T. EVANS BRADBURN.

With reference to the above I would take this opportunity of returning to my many old customers my grateful thanks for their liberal patronage extended to me during the last Twenty-three years. I beg to commend my successor in business, Mr. W. J. Mason, so long and favorably known as my assistant, and my son, T. Evans Bradburn; as it will be their aim to supply the best goods the market will afford, I can confidently bespeak for them a continuance of the extensive patronage I have so long had the honor of enjoying.
THOMAS BRADBURN.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

[illegible] it, [illegible] it cured them; others, who have tried it, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does cure it does always and that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its compounds. We have abundant evidence from thousands of their remarkable cures of the most distressing complaints, such many of them as to astonish the community. And as they are the best purgative medicine we can employ, every one should have them in his house. For children's use they are the safest physic that can be given. They contain no calomel or other mineral, and may be taken by those [illegible] tasteless. While suited to all ages and conditions, they are especially adapted to the wants of children, being sugar-coated, and so mild in their operation as to be entirely harmless. Their uniform character and power to cure the various affections for which they are made it known as a reliable remedy for Piles.
The obstinate [illegible] of this distressing complaint yield promptly to the influence of these Pills, when taken as directed. They should be kept on hand in every family, and taken as soon as the first attack of Chagres, or premonitory symptoms of approaching complaint, which they will invariably prevent. Sugar-coated Pills are [illegible] to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.
For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Dysentery or Diarrhœa, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, or Gout, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.
For Fever and Ague, and the Pain, Congestion, Inflammation, and Irregularities of the system which arise from derangements of the Digestive Organs, Liver or Bowels, they should be taken in large and frequent doses, to produce the effect of a thorough purge.
For Rheumatism, Gout, General Debility, Nervousness, Female Complaints, Erysipelas, Eruptions, Tumors, Ulcers, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Blotches on the Skin, Boils, Carbuncles, and Skin Diseases of every name and nature, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a thorough purge.
For Tapeworm, a large dose should be taken as it paralyzes the diseased worm by sympathy.
As a Dinner Pill, take one or two, from time to time, to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.
[illegible]
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
[illegible] and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption.
Probably never before in the whole history of the world has anything been so widely and universally known as the fact that this extraordinary preparation [illegible] the most astonishing cures of pulmonary complaints [illegible] community. Its unrivalled [illegible] and power to cure the various affections for which it is recommended, have made it known as a reliable remedy for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption.
Whilst adapted to all stages of these complaints, it is the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and for the relief of those in the advanced stages. As a preventive of Croup, Influenza, and Bronchitis, it should be kept on hand in every family, and taken at the first symptom of these complaints. As a safeguard against Consumption
it should be promptly resorted to, as it will surely break up the most distressing colds, and relieve the lungs, before the disease has become deep-seated, and fatal in its results. Many [illegible] are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.
Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease was believed to be settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.
Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.
Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.
[illegible] generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.
[illegible] its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully [illegible]
Ayer's Ague Cure,
For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marshy, or miasmatic poisons.
As a sure remedy for Fever and Ague, and the whole class of diseases originating in the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.
For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold by all the world.
PRICE, $1.00 PER BOTTLE.

IRON IN THE BLOOD

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protoxide of Iron [illegible] Combined with [illegible] Protoxide of Iron existing in the Blood, and is the only [illegible] Preparation of Iron that will [illegible] the blood, and [illegible] the system. Being [illegible] by Taking up [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] Tissues with [illegible] enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and wasted tissues, and [illegible] new life and vigor throughout the whole system, thus [illegible] the cause, and [illegible] the effect disappears.
Thus is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fever, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Dropsy, Consumption, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

THE REASONS WHY
LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's
CELEBRATED
Perfected Spectacles,
AND EYE GLASSES,
have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:
1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.
2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.
3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.
4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirements of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.
5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.
6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.
Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

The Quaker's Golden Wedding

The snow looks in at the window
In a cold and frolicsome way,
Not lighter the new born snow drifts
Than falsehood's locks of gray,
Not fewer the new born snow drifts
From earthly talent and skills,
Than the life of Margaret Taylor,
Falsehood's web, had been.

Hither, Margaret, hie thee
I have a thought to tell;
Nay, never mind the shortness,
The night doth please me well,
Margaret, can thee tell me
How many years it is
Since thee and I were married,
On a wintery night like this?

I know thee never would guess,
The days go by so swiftly
That only are born to bless.
The mother-heart will tell thee
'Tis eight-and-forty years
Since our first-born came to thrill us
With tenderest hopes and fears.

"Yea, Margaret, thee has guessed it,
Full fifty years have sped
So slowly and softly
We scarce have felt their tread,
But, watching the gliding snow flakes,
The hickory coals and thee,
The memory of that evening
Comes wandering back to me.

"True, Margaret, we were happy,
Trustful and very glad,
And prouder was I, I fear me,
Than humankind a Quaker lad;
Yet not for the good years vanished,
If the right of choice were given,
Would I change this grace, my darling,
For the pleasures of that even.

We have had our trials, good wife,
We have shed some bitter tears,
But a sure, dear Hand hath led us
Through all these precious years,
He hath kept us long together,
And I've been bold to pray
That our meeting in the New Land
Be a golden wedding day.

The snow looks in at the window,
And what do the snow flakes see,
But Quaker Ichabod Taylor,
With Margaret on his knee!
The hickory coals on the fire-place
Sleep in their jackets white,
But the love of tried and true hearts
Steadily burns to-night.

The Minerals of Newfoundland.

Now that the Island of Newfoundland is attracting more attention and its natural resources are becoming better known to the outside world the mineral deposits which it contains will be interesting to capitalists who invest in mining enterprises. Although only a narrow fringe round the coasts is yet explored, and three-fourths of the interior is literally a terra incognita it is satisfactorily established that it contains rich deposits of copper and lead ores, and even in the character of its rocks, gives promise that gold may yet be discovered; while in large districts beds of coal, gypsum and marble are found, and roofing slate of the finest quality.

The La Manche Lead Mine.—The first mine opened was the La Manche Lead Mine, on the shores of the Placentia Bay. It has been worked by an American company, but, I believe, owing to the want of capital, operations are but languidly carried on. Professor Shepherd, of the United States, a very high authority, was sent to examine this mine. In his published report he said: "I saw there three thousand five hundred pounds of clean, pure galena thrown from the vein by a single blast. From my explorations, made with great care and circumspection, I feel confident that you may safely calculate on one hundred feet of the vein in depth, above water level, extending twelve hundred feet inland, at least. This will give thirty thousand cubic feet of solid galena, which is a little more than seven times as heavy as the same bulk of water which gives a product of upwards of thirteen millions of pounds, together with the additional chance of quadrupling that amount by sinking below the sea-level and extending inland. The mining is the easiest thing imaginable." Professor Shepherd places it on a par with the greatest lead deposit in the United States, and adds: "This mine is accessible not only by small boats, but even by the smaller class of ocean steamers." One sample was found to contain 836-4 of lead, 13-37 sulphur, and the remaining 2.49 parts consisted of silver, copper, zinc, carbonate of lime and silica. During 1869 the quantity of lead taken from this mine was 210 tons, valued at $12,500. Only a few miners were employed. Last year, owing to the discovery of a new vein of lead ore, the works were carried on with more vigor, but the result is not yet reported. Very promising indications of lead have been noted at various points in Placentia Bay, but enterprise is lacking among us.

Copper Mining.—Our principal copper mine is that of Tilt Cove, a little south of Cape John, on the northeast coast. It was discovered in 1864, and has been worked with great success. In 1868 it yielded eight thousand tons of copper ore, which sold in Great Britain for $254,000 leaving a clear profit to two proprietors of $120,000. In 1869 a decline in the value of copper took place, and the works were not carried on so vigorously as before, the yield being 5,938 tons, value $213,768. In 1870 the value of the ore exported was $151,740. In addition to copper ore, a fine vein of nickel has been found intersecting the copper. The value of the nickel extracted from the vein, during the last two years was $30,600. The copper ore is conveyed here with exposition rock, the "strike" of which is right through the island, from the northeast to southwest. In all probability the copper mining region of the future will be in this direction, following the developments of the exposition. The whole region south of Tilt Cove is undeveloped, and for that reason the coast is surrounded by holders of mining locations.

Only one other mine has yet been worked—that of the "Notre Dame Mining Company." As yet their success has not been marked; but there is enough to warrant the prosecution of the enterprise on an extended scale. The rocks of the peninsula of Avalon are considered by geologists to be the equivalents of the auriferous strata of Nova Scotia; and it is in this region that gold may be looked for. The geological survey has clearly established the existence of the Laurion division of the Quebec groups of rocks on an extensive scale, this being the great metalliferous zone of North America. The nomenclature of these rocks is that of Sir William Logan, the distinguished Canadian geologist: Our geological surveyor, Mr. Murray, said in one of his recent reports:—"From the numerous indications presented at different parts of the island, and in different geological positions, of the presence of lead ore, we may fairly infer that it will, in process of time, become an important mineral among the economic resources of the country." In another place Mr. Murray says: "There is a vast exposure of gypsum between Cadroy Island and Cadroy River, where it may be quarried to any extent; while the same material occurs in various parts of St. George's Bay."

Marble and other Products.—Besides the metallic ores and the more valuable substances, the Island abounds in a material of great importance. Marble of almost every shade of color have been produced from various parts of the coast, on both the eastern and western shores. Petroleum has been found in a few spots, while building stones, whetstones, grindstones and limestones are in ample profusion.

The Coal Beds of St. George's Bay.—The carboniferous region is in the neighborhood of St. George's Bay, and here is a valuable coal area, by far the most valuable of all our mineral discoveries. The carboniferous formation here occupies three distinct areas which are classed by our geologists as "The St. Georges Trough," The Port au Port Trough," and "The Inland Trough of Humber River and Grand Pond." Mr. Murray says in his report:—"To show the enormous importance of the existence of even one seam of workable coal, I have made the following calculation of what might be expected within the area supposed to be underlaid by the one shown in my map. Taking the area of the plane of the seam at 384 square miles, and its thickness at three feet, there would be 54,720,000 chaldrons of coals, or 1,425,090 chaldrons per square mile." A very considerable part of this he considers will be found within workable depth; and this is but one of the many seams that may yet be found in the area between Cape Anguille and the head of St. George's Bay. Should the railway across the continent be constructed, its terminus would be in St. George's Bay, the great coal region. Inexhaustible supplies of coal for trans-Atlantic steamers are thus fortunately provided where they will be most available, while railway locomotives can also draw on the same deposits. These solitudes will one day be echoing with the scream of the locomotive, and the heavy clouds of smoke from factory and mine will darken the now pure atmosphere.

Roofing Slate.—One other material this island is destined to supply in rich abundance. I refer to roofing slate—the value of which, as a covering for houses, America is learning by the dearly purchased experience of the frequent conflagrations. According to certain ancient Icelandic manuscripts, or Sagas as they are called, the whole of the eastern coast of America, from Greenland to Nantucket was discovered by Norwegian rovers in the tenth century, soon after the settlement of Iceland and Greenland. These ocean rangers named Newfoundland Hellu land or Slaseland, and not without reason, for the whole of the great peninsula of Avalon, or a third of the Island, is a fine grained and very hard slate, belonging, as it is supposed, to the Huronian formation—the Cambrian of English geologist. In several places these slates possess the quality of cleavage, fits them for roofing houses. The finest slate quarries yet opened are in Smith's Sound and Random Island, Trinity Bay. The developement here is very extensive, sufficient to supply half the continent of America, if duly worked; and the quality is declared by good authority to be equal to the best Welsh slate. In consequence of the very limited demand, which has hitherto been entirely local, these slate quarries have not yet proved remunerative, and the work proceeds spasmodically, and but to a limited extent.

It is reasonable to expect that a market for our splendid slate will not long be wanting in the United States, and that, at no distant day, it will become an important item in our exports. Mr. Murray, one of the best judges, says: "Judging of the quality of the specimens which were brought from Smith's Sound, and the thickness of the strata attributed to their place in the formation, together with their proximity to the sea, these slates, when fully developed, can hardly fail to prove of very considerable commercial importance."

OIL CONDENSATION.—The Financial Chronicle says that a project is being discussed for the formation of an extensive combination of refiners with the transportation companies to control the price of petroleum. "The purpose of the new combination, like that formed last winter, is to secure to the refiners the lions share of the profits of the oil trade. The product of the wells is to be distributed arbitrarily and without regard to any interests other than those represented by the "ring." Pittsburgh and Cleveland are said to receive twenty-five and one-quarter-one-hundredths and Philadelphia fourteen-one-hundredths. It is confidently reported that an agreement has been drawn up and signed by the refiners and carriers, and that only the refusal of some of the principal refiners here to become parties to the combination has prevented the consummation of the scheme; but while it is probable that steps have been taken in this direction we do not believe that any complete organization has yet been effected. The control of the details of the business, however, is sometimes done among the refiners. It gives a certain amount which shall be the sole product only to parties outside the refiners' "ring," or, in case of any difficulty in agreeing upon what shall be the terms, for the locking up of all buyers of the limited amount which must be marketed as cover expenses, until the monopoly is broken up. Other plans are proposed any one of which would, if it can be carried out, prove largely injurious, if not fatal, to the interests of the refiners' "ring," and as the producers are not without the means of protesting, themselves in case of necessity, it is doubtful if the combination will be able to accomplish any important results. The fact of the matter is the refiners in different parts of the country have a capacity about twice as great as is called for by the present and prospective requirements of the trade.—Refineries here also been established in most of the countries to which we send petroleum in any considerable quantity, and the export trade therefore is now principally in the crude oil. Hence our refiners are compelled to depend chiefly upon the requirements of the home market for business, and as there is not enough to keep these establishments busy, they are seeking to secure the proposed control over crude oil.

THE FOOTBALL.

(From the Manitoban, July 27th.)

From papers received of late, from Ontario, it appears that Macdonald and Hincks have been on the stump all over the peninsula, and in each of his speeches, Sir John has thought proper to deal with the history of Manitoba—past and present. That Sir John is an astute politician—in the Ottawan acceptation of the term, no one will deny—but as historian he fails. According to his statements, Louis Riel is now "sitting under the American flag, smoking his pipe and plotting Fenian invasions." "Louis Riel has left the country forever." "He just wishes he could catch Louis Riel." "Riel immediately on the arrival of the troops, fled the country and put himself at the head of a gang of Fenians." Now, we must say that we have never seen a more remarkable instance of unreliability of history, than such talk. For, in the first place, it is a fact acknowledged by all that Riel never had anything to do with the Fenians, and, as was amply proved by the Premier of the Provincial ministry, if any dilatoriness did exist in the matter of the the turning out of the French, it was not due to Riel at all, who was working night and day in organizing them, but to another party altogether, who stupidly blundered in his part of the work; and those who know Riel, know that if there is one man in the Province prepared to oppose any encroachment of British rights here, it is Louis Riel. And when we are dealing with this, it is just as well to put it on record, that to day documents, exist which go to show that if Louis Riel had chosen to sell his loyalty, he might have been one of the wealthiest men north of Chicago. Again Sir John says, Riel has left the country forever, and he hopes, he does not catch him. We can assure the Honorable Premier that he can catch Riel when ever he likes; for he is at home tending his mother's farm within five miles of Fort Garry, and seeks no protection from the American flag; and in all probability will, in a few weeks, be member for Provencher instead of hatching Fenian plots. We can easily conceive that Sir John, with Washington Treaties, and one thing and another, has been pretty busily engaged for the last few months, but really we think he ought to post himself a little better on passing events, ere he ventures his reputation as that of a historiographer.

There is another remark which dropped from Sir John at one of his meetings which we feel called upon to correct. In speaking of the half-breed population of the country he calls them "savages." Now, this is curious. Surely the Premier of Canada ought to be better informed. Last session Pierre Delorme and Argus Mackay were at Ottawa, and really we cannot for the life of us see how either of these gentlemen, who are average types of the English and French half-breeds, could impress him with the idea of barbarity.

There is another saying of Sir John's to which we would refer. He styles Riel a "foul murderer," and risks his reputation as a lawyer on the opinion "that Manitoba is the only place where Riel could be tried." Now, we hold that Sir John A. Macdonald when he made that statement, knew he was stating what he had no right to state, and he knows or he ought to know, that no man ought to be styled a murderer, or a thief, or a knave, until he has been proved such.

But if the Cabinet at Ottawa were so anxious to catch Riel, and knew all the time how and where he could be tried, why did they not set to work to do something in the matter two years ago. Why is it that when the time comes when it will serve a purpose, they begin to talk thus, and play a game of kick and kick against the Grits, taking a football of Manitoba and its peace all the while. Nothing in the whole history of the politics of Canada, during the last few years, has surprised us so much as the unwarrantable indiscreet sayings of Sir S. A. Macdonald during his Ontario tour.

The Kingston Penitentiary.

From the report of the Directors of Penitentiaries for the year 1871, now before us, we learn that at the expiration of that year there were 628 convicts confined in the Kingston prison. During the year there were pardoned 76 convicts, while eleven became insane, and the same number died. The number re-committed for the first time, was 17, for the second time, 4, while one is down for the tables as sent back for the sixth time. That prisoner has evidently a fondness for a natural life. The Penitentiary farm was worked to a profit of over one thousand dollars. The real estate belonging to the Prison is valued at $221,373, the Stock at $61,000. The revenue for that year was $40,975, the the expenditure $110,362. The revenue has decreased nearly $6,000 since the previous year while the expenditure has increased only $12,000. In the same time. The increase in the number of convicts, however, would have been made up in the Prison, and there have been made in the Prison, and there are average types of the English and French half-breeds, could impress him with the idea of barbarity.

A Great Preacher.

The late Dr. Norman McLeod whose death at the age of sixty has attracted general notice, was a popular Scottish clergyman. But Scotland has always had many such. He was a Chaplain to the Queen. But so have been many men of whom posterity will not take much note. He was a popular author. But popular authorship many men and women attain.

Our regards to the memory of Dr. McLeod found themselves on what he was as a teacher of the masses. He had a large congregation, to which he taught the theology of which Scotland makes so much. But he was more than a theologian. He was a large-brained, large-hearted man, in sympathy with men, understanding men, and capable of speaking directly to the hopes and fears of men of all classes—the lordly and the lowly.

He saw the value of teaching men in all true ways, and as they are able to bear it. Imagination he appreciated as a power, and fiction as a means of teaching, and who that has read "Wee Davie," and other tales of his, fails to see the use that can be made of such agencies?

He understood the power of the press, and for many years of a most laborious life, he was editor first of a most genial and cultivated religious magazine, and then of "Good Words," his name in both being to inform each in such calm and clear style as an Educated Christian gentleman might employ in his intercourse with intelligent and inquiring persons, where his religion would not be given as a "lump of sugar," but like the sugar in the tea, would sweeten the whole. Himself eminently genial, human, and sympathetic, he produced by his own pen, and those whom he enlisted, an immense amount of pure, varied, and high-toned literary property, of which Great Britain had need; and all this while he was sedulous and effective as a parish minister. He preached to his people in the Barony parish with acceptance and usefulness, but he preached well also, and with laudable versatility, to hundreds of thousands outside. We call such a man a great preacher, and we mourn his loss.

Pyramid of Cheops.

A man who has lately visited the grand pyramid of Cheops, wading in the sand fourteen hundred feet before he had passed one of its sides, and between five and six thousand feet before he had made a circuit, says, that taking one hundred city churches of the ordinary width, and arranging them in a hollow square, twenty-five on a side, you would have scarcely the basement of the pyramid. Take another hundred, and throw the material in the hollow square and it would not be full, pile on all the bricks and mortar in the city of New York, and the structure would not be as high and solid as this great work of man. One layer of bricks was long since removed to Cairo for building purposes, and enough remains to supply the demands of a city of half a million of people for a century to come, if permitted to use it with perfect freedom. Cheops was built two thousand one hundred and twenty three years before the Christian era.

Railway Signals.

There are in the United States several millions of people, sick and well, living along the lines of the various railroads, and near manufacturing establishments in populous towns, who are disturbed day and night by the discordant shrieks of the modern steam whistle. Owing to the gradual introduction of this apparatus, the public has learned to tolerate it, but we venture to assert that if it could have been introduced suddenly as we hear it today, no community would have consented to its use. These unearthly sounds are made in manufactories at early dawn, at noon, and at night, to call their operatives to work, and to

Editorial Items

The "Examiner" Office is Removed to One Door South of the Commercial House, George Street.

LEFT OVER—Through the hurry caused by our removing to our new office, the Dunsmer Council minutes are left over until next week.

PERSONAL.—On Friday last Mr. Wm. Harty left Peterboro for Kingston. He was accompanied in carriages to the station by the officers and several members of the Reform Committee, and on the departure of the train was loudly cheered. Mr. Harty came all the way from John A's stronghold, the centre of Canadian Toryism, to assist in the election of the Reform candidate Mr. Bertram, and did good service to the Reform cause here. We hope some day to see Mr. Harty a member of some one of our Parliaments, and if so, we predict for him an honorable place amongst Canadian Statesmen.

Mr. C. Perry is in Kincardine trying how many votes he can buy for John A, it is said. Of course he is ready to do his master's bidding.

The Opposition in Ontario now number 47 to 29 Ministerialists and 3 Independents.

FAREWELL CONCERT—The friends of A H. Rackett are to give him a benefit concert on Tuesday evening, September 3rd. We would ask for him a general turn out on the occasion so as to give him a substantial remembrance of Peterboro.

During the last five years West Peterboro was represented by a gentleman who had no property qualification. Yet Mr. Bertram, with sufficient qualification and filed in good time, is defranded out of his seat at the book of an unscrupulous committee and an unscrupulous Returning Officer.

INDEPENDENT BRASS BAND.—We are glad to learn that the instruments for this band will be here in a few days. The members that compose it will be the same with one or two exceptions as those of the old Volunteer band, and we trust that the citizens will render such assistance as will enable them to obtain instruments of the best quality. A Volunteer Band may still be required, but the two will only be the means of stirring each other up to diligence and improvement.

THE LADY'S FRIEND FOR SEPTEMBER.—The September number of this periodical leads off with a beautiful picture, "In the Summer Woods." "The Vale of Avoca" is also a lovely scene, and of peculiar interest. There are the usual stylish fashions, and the music is "Little Mattie." The stories, which are surpassingly excellent, as usual, begin with Miss Muzzey's promised serial, "Una and her Lions," a very superior story. Mrs. Wood's novel continues to be of absorbing interest. "Only a Wish" is very attractive, and "An Every Day Heroine" is in Miss Douglas's most fascinating style.—There are some lively sketches and good poems mingled with the serials, forming the best entertainment to be found in the way of light literature. The Work-Table and the Pattern Department and the Editorials are also well attended to.—Price $2.00 a year. Published by Deacon & Peterson, Philadelphia. Single copies for sale by all News Dealers; and by the Publishers, price 20 cents.

Do you want the best Shoe ever made, one that will not rip or come apart? Then buy the CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes—all have the Patent Stamp.

THE September Number of PETER'S MUSICAL MONTHLY, price 30 cents, contains the following music, worth in sheet form, $3.40—Father of all, Lay me where my mother's sleeping, Little Dan, Coronation song, Merry insects flying, Love chase galop, School girl's waltz, Willie's schottische, Laughing wave mazurka. Mr. Peters offers to send July, August and September numbers, post paid, for 75 cents, or the nine back numbers for '72 for $2. Address, J. L. Peters, 599 Broadway, New York.

At least 220 of these 709 votes are dead or vote in other municipalities, or are moved away, leaving about 500 unpolled, and of these there are in Otonabee enough Reform votes to have given Mr. Ingram 200 of a majority, and therefore to have elected him. In Asphodel too, we may safely put down the Reform votes not polled at 120, showing that Mr. Grover takes his seat for the next five years through the rascalness of Reformers themselves. Of course the course pursued in Douro was perhaps unparalleled in the history of Canada. The general day was produced, the most violent language used, and threats and intimidation still more violent. Yet not Douro, nor the voters of Douro, but the apathy of Reformers in Asphodel and Otonabee caused the defeat of the Reform Candidate. If Reformers only should be roused with half the energy of two years longer, they may climb the hill.

Mr. Grover received the votes of 804 persons through fear—votes that nothing but fear could constrain voters to give—but these men who could not be thus bound deserve their utmost contempt in reality. It would be interesting to have a synopsis of the number of Conservatives unpolled in the East Riding. They require no urging, they are always ready, not even harvest or any other trouble would prevent them casting their votes for their men. Men whose holy horror at any profanation of the Sabbath knows no bounds, knew that Mr. Grover had professed the sacred day, yet hastened early to the polls on Monday so as to cast their votes before they could be challenged for voting for him after knowing the proceedings of the previous day.

There is this consolation however; this is the last parliament during which he shall ever have the pleasure of sitting and voting. So thoroughly aroused are the people to the shame brought on the County by his disgraceful act, that at next election he will be compelled to let another take his place. Even the intelligent of his own party are disgusted with the course he pursued. But what will be said when known that his committee were aware of and advised that course? yet so we are informed by one of that committee. Surely some of them——sticklers for certain principles which ought never to be used for election purposes, will see the folly of their course and leave the party who so belie their principles.

A Second Double Shuffle.

The Returning Officer for the West Riding, Dr. George Burnham, Jr., has declared Mr. Clanton elected, although Mr. Bertram had a majority of 41 votes.

We need not say that we are surprised at the course he has thought proper to adopt, for we have ceased to wonder at anything the party of Union and Progress do; for they are ready to do anything mean, cowardly and unprincipled, to retain office.

No wonder need be expressed that the Returning Officer kept himself to the act, as he is completely the tool of his party.

The quibble on which he proposes to act is: that Mr. Bertram did not file his Declaration in time to suit the whims of a partizan officer. Under the old law it was sufficient to file the Declaration before the proclamation is made.

Election Law, Sec. 35, is as follows:—

"And whereas by the twenty-eighth section of the Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, intituled: 'An Act to re-unite the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, and for the Government of Canada,' it is enacted, "That every Candidate at such Election, (meaning any Election of a Member of the Legislative Assembly,) before he shall be capable of being elected, shall, IF REQUIRED by any other Candidate, or by any Elector, or by the Returning Officer, make the following declaration: Then follows the declaration.

"No such declaration, when any Candidate is required to make the same by any other Candidate, or by any Elector, or by the Returning Officer, in the manner hereinabove provided, need be so made by such Candidate, unless the same has been personally required of him on or before the day of nomination of Candidates at such Election, and before a Poll has been granted, and unless he has not already made the same voluntarily as he is hereinabove allowed to do, and not in any other case; and when any such declaration has been so required according to law, the Candidate called upon to make the same may do so at any time during such Election; Provided it be made before the Proclamation to be made by the Returning Officer at the closing of the Election, of the person or persons elected at such Election."

And Sub. 4, adds:—

"Any Candidate who delivers or causes to be delivered such declaration so made and attested to the Returning Officer at any time before the Proclamation made by him at the closing of the Election as above mentioned in this section, shall be deemed to have complied with the law to all intents and purposes as regards such declaration; and any Returning Officer thereunto so required, shall be bound (under a penalty of two hundred dollars, in case of refusal) to give forthwith, after such declaration is delivered to him, to the Candidate or other person who has delivered the same, an acknowledgement under his hand of the delivery of such declaration.

From all these it will be seen that the Declaration may be filed at any time up to the making of the Proclamation declaring the proper candidate elected.

This Law has been amended by an Act passed in 1866, the 10th Section of which reads as follows:

"The fourth and fifth sub-sections of forty-two of the said Act are hereby repealed, and no day for the closing of the election shall be fixed by the Returning Officer; nor shall there be any public and open proclamation of the candidate or candidates elected, and so much of the sixty-fifth section, or any other part of the said Act requiring such proclamation, or the counting of votes in the presence of the electors, or as refers to any adjournment for that purpose, or as depends on the fixing of the day for closing the election, is hereby repealed; and the Returning Officer shall, as soon as he shall have received all the poll-books used at the election, ascertain in the manner provided by law, the total number of votes taken and received for each candidate at the election, as certified and sworn to by the several Deputy-Returning Officers, and shall within forty-eight hours thereafter, make and transmit by mail, his return to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, and he shall also, upon application, deliver to each of the candidates or their agents, or if no application be made, he shall, within the same period, transmit by mail to each candidate, a duplicate of such Return, which duplicate shall stand in lieu of the Indenture required by the sixty-seventh section of the said Act, which is hereby repealed: Provided always, that the powers and duties of the Returning Officer, or of any other person under the sixty-eighth, sixty-ninth and seventieth sections of the said Act shall not be affected by the abolition of the day of closing the election, or by any other provision of this Act, and the ten days limited by section seventy for depositing copies of poll books in the office of the proper Registrar of deeds and titles, shall be reckoned from the date of the Return."

The Proclamation of the Returning Officer is therefore a Return to the Government, a duplicate of which is handed to each candidate, and as this is not legally required to be made for 48 hours after the last return from the Deputy Returning Officers is received, any reasonable man would interpret the law so as to make the filing of the declaration of qualification legal if done any time previous to sending off his Returns.

We, however, believed Mr. Clanton too honorable to catch at such miserable subterfuges to gain a seat in Parliament, but according to report, were astray. He is about to accept the seat thus dishonorably obtained, and although rejected by the electors, it is said will go to Ottawa as their representative. It cannot be. His excuse is that he is in the hands of his committee. If his committee be mean enough, which, assuredly, they are, to advise a course at once dishonorable and illegal, surely a man of honor would treat the advice of such men with contempt.

We understand he that Mr. Clanton wrote for and obtained the legal opinion of E. A. Hardcastle on the matter. If he may call on, it is only another proof of his own timidity to have the thin MP attached to his name, even at the expense of his own honor.

But as to legal opinions, much depends on the information given to the lawyer, and also on the circumstances which the opinion is required to serve. Should Mr. Clanton take the seat, not his agent, in Parliament, John A. Macdonald may use him a session before he can be unseated, and who knows but the legal opinion is for that object.

During the last session of the County Council of this County, we saw two contradictory legal opinions, if not three on the same subject, and written by the same lawyer. Let us suppose that the last one was given on having received fuller information, this does not prevent us having our doubts as regards legal opinions on election subjects, with or without information.

It is also said that the Returning officer has been idemnified by Mr. Clanton's committee against loss because of the return of Mr. Clanton. If this is so we can only say that never heretofore have we found a man in the same position ready to do wrong if he could but escape the punishment due on account of the act in this the case to which the County is brought by Sir John A. Macdonald and his followers!

The facts are, that Mr. Bertram was never asked for his declaration of qualification. Several gentlemen who were on the platform, heard Mr. Clanton asked for his, but it not being then ready Mr. Bertram was passed by. That many will be ready to declare that they heard the declaration asked for, few will doubt, but we do not believe that they were asked for so as to be heard by any one interested. Even the Returning Officer admits the demand was made in general terms, but the law provides that it be made personally.

The electors of West Peterboro felt that the act of his appointment, and passing by the Sheriff, was somewhat ominous. They knew that John A. Macdonald had an object in doing so. Now that he has lent himself to carry out it "double shuffle" in defiance of the voice of the people and the requirements of the statutes, the reasons can be easily imagined.

This is not the first time that such outrages have been perpetrated by the Tories. In 1847 George Vannittart, a Returning Officer for Oxford, returned Peter Carrol instead of Mr. Hincks, although the latter had a majority of votes. His excuse was "that Mr. Hincks' declaration of qualification had not been filed." The House on meeting ordered the Returns to be amended and Mr. Hincks to take his seat, and a resolution was recorded condemning Vanittart. The above is a similar case to the present one. And let us hope that the condemnation the act deserves will be meted out in due time.

An indignation meeting should be called at once, and the act of the Returning Officer, Burnham, receive public condemnation.

CRICKET.

A match was played on Tuesday last, between the Lakefield and Maple Leaf Cricket Club of this town, on the ground of the former. The game throughout was a very interesting one and playing on both sides was good.

The game commenced at 11.30 by the Lakefield taking their innings when they made the handsome score of 64.

Dinner was then partaken of in a tent, which was got up in a very excellent manner by the ladies of Lakefield.

After dinner the Maple Leaf took the bat, but were not as successful as the Lakefield, only making a score of 45.

In the second innings Lakefield made a score of 47, which left the Maple Leaf 67 runs to get to win, and although the game at this point did not look favorable for them, nothing daunted, the Maple Leaf again took the willow and success crowned their efforts. Before the first wicket fell Messrs. G. Johnston and D. Hartly had scored over 30 runs, after which W. Hartley took the bat and made some splendid hits, which were kept up until the game was declared won by the Maple Leaf by nine wickets.

After the game was over supper was served, when a jolly time was spent in singing, speeches, &c., which was kept up for over an hour.

The utmost good feeling prevailed between both Clubs throughout the day, and although Lakefield was defeated they took their defeat with good grace and promised that if it lay in their power they would regain the laurels at some future day.

Too much praise cannot be given to the cricksters of Lakefield for the handsome manner in which they treated the Maple Leaf Cricket Club on Tuesday last.

One pleasing feature of the days sport was the presence of so many of the fair sex on the ground, which showed that the Ladies of Lakefield took great interest in the game. They showed their appreciation of the game many times by repeated applause when good play was made.

The return match will be played in about three weeks, on the Ashburnham ground, when a good game may be expected.

The West Peterboro' Outrage.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

SIR,—In common with my fellow Electors, I feel indignant at the course pursued by the partizan and infamous conduct of the Returning Officer of this Riding, in returning as elected the Candidate having the less number of votes. West Peterborough henceforth will have the unenviable notoriety of perpetrating one of the grossest frauds which can be committed, and it will for all time to come rank with Russell and Oxford in the arbitrary proceedings of its Returning Officer. It is nothing to be beaten as an election, but to win and win fairly, and then through the contemptible pusillanimity of the Returning Officer be cheated of your Candidate is more than flesh and blood can bear.

I greatly mistake the temper of the good men and true of this Riding—and I may add of the women too—if they, after their toil and trouble in electing the man of their choice, will set down and fold their hands over this high handed iniquitous conduct. If ever a man deserved their just indignation the man does who has cheated them out of their rights in this manner. Let the respectable party who proposed the appointment of the Returning Officer, fancy, if they can, how they would have felt and talked if a similar outrage had been perpetrated by a Grit R. O. How eloquent they would have been in their denunciations of such un-British conduct. Indignation meetings would have been held; the press from the Review up to the Mail would have condemned such unfair and partial conduct. It is well for the said party to remember that Reformers are made of stern stuff. They have made a Monarch tremble when demanding their rights. They made a Governor and an irresponsible Oligarchy shake with fear. And they will never cease in their efforts till they get their rights, whether from the "Family Compact" or from the Premier of Canada. Why, I ask, was Dr. George Burnham recommended as the Returning Officer for this Riding? Was it because of his fitness for the office—his intelligence—his experience, or his ability to discharge that duty? Or was it not rather on account of his pliancy and the ease with which he could be made to do as he was bid? Let the gentlemen who recommended him to Sir John A. answer.

What was Sir John A's. object in changing the Law in the Interim Act, in allowing the Governor, or rather himself, to order the writs to be directed to such Returning Officers as he thinks fit? Was it not to put the election in the hands of those who vote and work for him? O, the hue and cry if Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie had done such an act. Remember, gentlemen, you may laugh and chuckle, but you will have to answer again for your mean conduct at this election, and your crowning act of inducing the creature of your choice in making a false return of the member elected for the Riding. Depend upon it it will not be forgotten by those you have wronged, nor will you have the opportunity to forget it either, as you will be reminded again and again of your evil deeds. Never surely was there a better opportunity to gain an election; the writ was long in coming, it remained in the Post Office some time; the Election was delayed. The Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks were so appointed as to make the Grits lose as many votes as possible. Money and persuasives of every kind were employed, but all of no avail, John Bertram carried a clear majority of forty votes over Mr. Clanton, and yet the apology for a Returning Officer at the instance of his unscrupulous party returns Mr. Clanton as the Member for this Riding. He will have cause yet to regret his temerity, and the part he has acted the cats paw for, will be sorry for their misconduct. Their high-handed measures will yet be visited with condign punishment, and if a spark of British manly feeling circulated in their veins they would scorn to inflict such a wrong on Mr. Bertram and the party who elected him. This self-styled party of Union and Progress pretend to denounce and cry down partyism, and yet where can you find a party so intensely partizan as they are.

We trust their mouth will now be shut, at all events party feeling by their conduct will be intensified by this last phase of partyism. I sincerely trust that some steps will yet be taken to express the indignation of the party so wronged—that some way will yet be devised to cause justice yet in the premises. Had the question to be submitted to the Courts of Law we should be all right. But unfortunately it has to go to a Parliamentary Committee appointed by Sir John A. Macdonald, who will take care to keep his own creature as long as he can. No fair play need be expected from such party men as follow Sir John A. It is the great party which Mr. Clanton is bound to go along with. We yet hope that the right man, Bertram, will take his seat in the House despite the puerile attempts to keep him out.

Yours, &c.
AN ELECTOR.

Peterboro, Aug. 28th, 1872.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—

It has been often said by the "Tories" during the late Elections that John O'Donohoe was a Fenian. They go now to prove it, by Dr. O'Sullivan saying so at a public Hotel. I am sorry to hear from four reliable witnesses that the Dr. did say so. I now call on him in the name of an outraged people to prove his assertion, or else he must stand before the public as a slanderer, as every man according to British law and order is innocent until proved guilty.

I remain,
Yours Truly,
ONE OF THE OUTRAGED.

Peterboro, Aug. 28th, 1872.

What is a name?—"A Rose by any Other Name," &c.

A few days ago we pointed out the frequent changes the Tories have made within the last forty years, in the name by which they denote their party to be designated. We again refer to the matter, in order to be a little more analytic. The word Tory, says one of our best philologists[ts], is an Irish word, derived from a robber or a savage, or from thieves, &c. &c., pure and simple. The party is so called in Ireland, to the present time, as it was, for many years, in England. Then proceeds to say a few words on the character of the party of Tories, as it was, and is, and has been, and then proceeds to say a few words on the character of the party of Reformers, as it was, and is, and has been, and then proceeds to say a few words on the character of the party of Union and Progress

RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

During the past week, the negotiations between the Town and the Railway Company, in reference to the re-opening of the Cobourg and Peterboro Railway, and its extension to Mud Lake, have been brought to a successful close. The particulars of the arrangement have already appeared in these columns. The Deferred Stock is to be placed in the hands of Wm Hargraft, as Trustee, to be cancelled on the completion of the Road to Mud Lake. The Commissioners agree to make permanent the harbour tariff on iron ore, at 10c. a ton, and the Savings Bank Trustees hand over their surplus. The Mayor for the time being is to be an ex-officio Director on behalf of the town. Drafts of Agreement, embodying all of these arrangements, have been adopted.

The Railway Company, on their part, have assumed the undertaking, substantially on these terms. They have arranged with Mr. Fowler, and now, consequently, own the Haliburton Road. Work is to be commenced at once, and it is understood that commencation is to be opened with Peterboro and Marmora by rail and boat within one year, and by rail throughout within two years, and that a permanent embankment according to the Report of Mr. Walter Shanly, is to be constructed across Rice Lake within five years.—Cobourg Advertising World.

One of the speakers at a late meeting is reported to have said that the time had come when the workingmen would wreak their vengeance on George Brown. They are to do it according to him, by opposing whatever and whoever Brown favors. Let us see where that will end. Mr. Brown favors all the Reform Candidates; therefore, the workingmen must oppose the Reform Candidates. Brown favors the ballot; therefore, the workingmen must oppose it. Brown favors the extension of franchise, therefore the workingmen must oppose it. Brown favors economy in public expenditure; therefore, working men must oppose it. Brown has always opposed the connection between the Church and State; therefore, workingmen must support it. We could multiply instances indefinitely, but these will suffice to show the absurdity of the position. Whatever Mr. Brown did with regard to the printers in Toronto he did as an individual employer, and it is foolish to say, because of that, the workingmen should oppose the party that has won every reform that Canada enjoys, and support the party that has always been antagonistic to them. No sensible workingmen will give in to a policy so absurd and illogical.—Hamilton Times.

NOTICE.

DEPARTMENT OF CROWN LANDS, Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

UNDER an Order in Council passed the 29th ultimo, respecting Timber on Patented, sold, and unsold lands on the North Shore of Lake Superior, the absolute right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre paid, or to be paid, for such lands.

Owners of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are now being carried out) who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are required to apply for such right, and make payment as above, within six months from date of this notice.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay for such right at the time of application fifty cents per acre as above specified, in addition to the one dollar per per acre payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six months from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands applied for, the pine trees on such lands will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant tendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

R. W. SCOTT, Commissioner.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, billious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter, Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Relievr or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again,

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

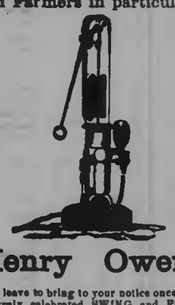
Pumps, Reapers and Mowers

To the Public in General, and Farmers in particular.



PUMPS. MACHINES

Henry Owens

Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalelled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell at very cheap rate. He has increased his facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. Parties ordering Pumps please state depth of well and all other necessary particulars.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year Woods Self-Rake Reaper and Mowers, Gaynor Chief Mower, and Johnson's Self-Rake Reaper, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the 1st day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

HENRY OWENS gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few, preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is Thomas' Eclectric Oil, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientefic physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certian fixed proportions of greater power and prodducing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation, of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. When compared you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the smell of Oils which they may contain.

A Man.

Give me a man who is not afraid
Whatever that afraid
Whether its wealth, its fame,
It matters not to
Let him walk in th
And keep his
And work and
With his

Give me a
"I will do something well.
And make the fleeting days
A story of labor tell."
Though the aim he has in small,
It is better than none at all,
With something to do the whole year through,
He will not stumble or fall.

But Satan weaves a snare
For the feet of those who stray,
With never a thought or a care
Where the path may lead away.
The man who has no aim,
Not only leaves no name
When this life is done, but ten to one,
He leaves a record of shame.

Give me a man whose heart
Is filled with ambition's fire,
Who sets his mark in the start,
And keeps moving it higher and higher.
Better to die in the strife,
The hands with labor rife,
Than to glide with the stream in an idle dream,
And live a purposeless life.

Better to strive and climb
And never reach the goal,
Than to drift along with time—
An aimless, worthless soul.
Ay, better to climb and fall,
Or sow, though the yield be small,
Than to throw away day after day,
And never strive at all.

Agricultural.

The

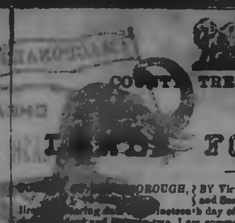
Farmi
est occupa
not grow rich, but t
manage to get a living for themselves and family, which is more than can be said of any other pursuit. They may grow rich in this as in any other pursuit according to the degree of intelligence and industry brought to bear. If you desire, to see the success of your children rendered sure in life, educate them for the farm. But this word education has a deep signification here, it is the want of this that makes farm life generally so dull, and the attainment of great wealth by farming so rare. There is no occupation of life that will repay intelligence, thought and study better than agricultural work, and it is because intelligence has so little to do with the general farming operations that it is so unattractive to young men, and leads them to forsake it for the professions, or other more intellectual pursuits. Induce your children to take an early interest in the farm, in their implements, and in the stock. Tell them all your plans, and the history of your success and failures, tell them your own history as a boy, but don't harp too much on the degenerate character of the young men of the present age. Praise them when you can, and encourage them to do still better. Give each one a colt or a calf to raise, or a small patch of grain to cultivate on his own account. But above all let them study chemistry, and the laws of breeding in stock. Light your homes brilliantly in the evening with kerosene, and provide plenty of pleasant agricultural reading, encourage your children to dress up in the evening, and encourage your neighbors to drop in, and then talk agriculture—the importance of large crops, good stock, liberal feeding, judicious crossing, the advantages of keeping animals comfortable, judicious rotation of crops, the chemical properties of manure, etc., rather than grumble about hard times and the price of wages. In this way you may make farming an intellectual pursuit, and whatever has intelligence in it will be attractive.

Plowing twice for Wheat.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writes—If anyone will break his ground deeply and thoroughly two or three times during the spring and summer the extra amount of wheat per acre will pay for plowing, and leave a handsome profit besides. I have tested this practice several times with the most satisfactory results. In 1869 I had a field of 16 acre of like fertility. I expected to plant half of the field in corn, but for some reason I did not. In the half that had been plowed for corn after the ground had been broke, the weeds grew more rapidly. Consequently I broke it again the 20th June On the 1st of September following I plowed the entire field and sowed in wheat. The result was as follows:—The halt which had only received a single plowing yielded per acre 13 bus. and 18 lbs., the half that received three breakings yielded per acre 28 bushels and 40 lbs., which made a difference of more than 10 bushels per acre. At one dollar per bushel this would pay for the extra plowing, and leave a net extra profit of six dollars per acre besides.

Compote of Oranges—First pare the rind of three oranges as thin as possible and cut each paring into very small strips, then put a large handful of loaf sugar to boil with a small cupful of water. When the syrup boils throw in the orange peel, and put it by the side of the fire to remain hot, but not boiling for an hour. Carefully peel the above three oranges and three more, leaving not a vestage of the white rind on them. Cut each orange in about eight pieces or more, removing the pips and the middle pith from each. Put all the pieces in a dish, and pour the hot syrup over them. Serve when quite cold.

Ice Cream—Poor ice cream is not worth making. To a gallon of cream allow two pounds of loaf sugar. The flavoring must be quite strong, as the freezing destroys it in part. If you wish to give a strawberry or raspberry flavor, add sugar to the berries, wash them, and strain the juice. A quart of berries will flavor a gallon of cream. If you prefer milk to cream, to a gallon of milk allow ten eggs. Boil half the milk, beat up the eggs, turn the boiling milk into them, stirring them all the time, strain it, and then add cold milk, the sugar, and the flavoring.

To make Lemon Pie.—Grate the rind of two lemons, peel off the white skin, chop the lemon up fine, add two cups of sugar, beat up two eggs, and stir it all together. Roll out thin a rich paste, line a tin plate with it, and fill it half-full with the lemon, then roll out another thin crust, cover it, and fill up the plate with the lemon, cover it with a rich puff paste, and bake it twenty minutes.



COUNTY TREASURER'S SALE
OF LANDS FOR TAXES.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, } BY Virtue of a Warrant under the Hand of the Warden
and Seal of the County of Peterborough, and to me directed and bearing date the nineteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, I am commanded under the authority of an Act of Parliament of the Province of Ontario passed in the Thirty-second year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chaptered 49, and intituled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law respecting the Assessment of Property in the Province of Ontario," to levy on the lands hereinafter mentioned and described, for the Arrears of Taxes due thereon, with the Costs, the hereinafter specified, as directed by the said Act.

These are therefore to give notice, that unless the said Arrears and Costs are sooner paid I will proceed to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the COURT HOUSE, in the Town of Peterborough, on

THURSDAY the FIFTH day of DECEMBER, A.D. 1872,

AT THE HOUR OF NINE O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON,

The said Lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred in and about such Sale, and the collection of the Taxes:

PERUVIAN SYRUP

A PROTECTED SOLUTION OF THE PROTOXIDE OF IRON

DROPSY HUNGERS

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bowel and Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied with debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up the Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed as by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

Select Poetry.

How to Manage Him.

"How will you manage your husband?"
I will tell you, my dear, if I can,
He is really a wonderful creature,
That wonderful animal—man.
Yes, really a wonderful creature,
Inconsistent and queer,
But you'll soon know the secret by heeding
The modus operandi, my dear

If he stays out too late in the evening,
Partaking of supper and [illegible],
Don't prove him a base, [illegible] fellow,
When he comes, by [illegible] clock,
For he surely will tell [illegible] out me—
But the moment he [illegible] out
When it struck he had [illegible] it over
Just three times before [illegible] done.

And then if his hat is the shining
Is smaller, by far than his head,
Don't hint by the merest allusion
That his lordship went tipsy to bed,
But rather regret the occurrence
A phenomenon, puzzling, queer,
With a strange look of mystification
In your eyes, if he's watching, my dear.

And don't fail to sew on his buttons,
And mend all his clothing with care,
Don't tease him for money for shopping,
Don't frown when he acts like a bear,
Don't tell him too often, my dearry,
That your head is aching with pain,
Lest in whispers, way down in his bosom
"Oh, I wish I was single again!"

Don't tell him that Mary the house maid,
And Ann, the obstreperous cook,
Refuse to receive your suggestions
With even so much as a look.
Don't tell him how very annoying
You so often found it to be Told to "get out of the kitchen,
And don't come a-bothering of me!"

But always seem cheerful and happy,
And always look pleasant and gay,
Than a frown there is nothing more potent
In driving one's husband away,
And then you must ever keep striving,
You'll find it an excellent plan,
But whatever you do, dear, remember
That your husband is only a man.

THE ROSES.

From the Canadian Monthly.

In the far distant north, where during the mild summer nights, the sun seems to forget to sink to rest, there lived on a high mountain a very old man. His long beard and snow-white hair were of wondrous beauty, and his clear blue eyes were bright and radiant. He was well known and dearly loved by old and young, and as the oldest dwellers in that part of the country remembered having seen him in their childhood exactly as he appeared now, all were firmly convinced that there was something marvellous about him.

Round about his little cottage bloomed plants the like of which were to be seen nowhere else in this region, and consequently he was styled by many "the old kitchen gardener." He was frequently absent on long journeys, and ever, on his return, all the trees, shrubs and flowers in the surrounding country would bloom with renewed beauty and fragrance.

"I should not be at all surprised," said a youth thoughtfully, "if he was a holy gardener whom God has sent to discover where, in this world, those flowers bloom which are hereafter to be transplanted into Paradise."

The old man, though apparently possessed of nothing, was the benefactor of the whole country-side. He was he physician of the sick, he played the violin for the dances of the young folks on the village green, and related pretty fairy tales and legends to the eager children.

Thus approached the beautiful leafy midsummer day. The sun stood like a golden shield on the outskirts of the forest. The evening and the morning, these two sisters so dissimilar, bowed their glowing crimson cheeks and clasped hands as they met in a quiet, loving embrace. The people had ascended the mountain in order to see the sun, as this season visible all night long. The old man had received many visitors. He stood at his cottage door and appeared glorified in the gorgeous sun light.

A stranger approached him.

"Do you dwell up here, my father?" he inquired, and presently they entered into an animated conversation.

But the children of the surrounding villages crowded round the old man, eagerly watching their opportunity to engage his attention. Presently he greeted the gay country people most courteously, and prayed them to be seated on the soft lichen. Then he looked round the little circle.

"How are your little blue flowers getting on, Annie?" he gently asked a young girl.

She blushed and looked down. "They have closed their pretty petals and their leaves are withering," she answered turning pale, "but just as I was leaving home a few were beginning to unfold their leaves again."

"Tell me the reason of this," said the old man.

"You know my father," pursued the young girl, "that the wonderful flowers which you gave me, unlike other flowers do not close their petals at sundown, or even on the approach of rain, or cold and stormy weather, but only at such times as the sun of love is overcast, or when one is in a bad humor."

"Yes, indeed I know that," said the old man, smiling.

"Well, it was unkind towards my brother," continued the girl ingenuously; "we had quarrelled, and confidence no longer reigned between us. Then I became aware that a sort of hear-frost had fallen upon the leaves of my little blue flowers. But this morning I unconsciously reproached my mother with having allowed the bouquet, during my absence from home, to whither by neglect to put it in water. My mother's feelings were greatly hurt, and she left me very sad. I went to the window, and behold, I saw that all the blue flowers had closed their leaves. When I began to weep, however, and heartily to repent my behaviour, they commenced slowly to unfold again."

"The root is fresh and healthy," said the old man, "but pay attention to the [illegible] tender, sensitive leaves; they do not speak a great deal."

The old man now observed that little Eva looked dejected, and that her eyes were red with weeping. "What grieves you, my child?" he inquired tenderly.

"Oh," answered the little one, and began to sob afresh, "I had a little hedge outside the window, on which the red white and blue convolvuli blossomed most beautifully! Now they are all dead, Lisa poured a bucket of hot water over them. I would not weep so bitterly for them now if they would only go to God, but I asked the pastor and he says no."

And Eva burst out weeping again.

"Listen to me, little one," said the old man, lifting her on his knee, "the flowers have their own heaven, and do you know where it is?"

"No," answered Eva, and looked up wistfully.

"Well then listen," continued the old man, "the spirits of the pretty blue forget-me-nots go into the clear eyes of good girls, those of the beautiful white virgin lilies dwell upon their pure brows, and the spirits of the crimson roses glow upon their cheeks."

"Oh yes," exclaimed Eva, "and when these girls die and become angels, the little flower spirits follow them to paradise. Is it not so?"

"Yes, indeed, it is so. God sent you a little sister a short time ago—look at her and see if the spirits of your flowers have not wandered to her."

Eva smiled. "Surely, she has clear blue eyes and a rosy little mouth," she said, joyously.

The old man arose. "Dear friends," he said, and a peculiar smile hovered on his lips, "you all look so serene and happy now, how will you all appear forty years hence? When that period of time shall have elapsed, I will visit you again and ask you whether the roses of your cheeks have fled. I am well aware that to a certain extent the advancing years must rob the cheeks of their lovely tints, but yet a very great deal depends upon yourselves. In some way you must strive to protect your roses against Time and his encroaching power."

Although not fully comprehending his actual meaning, they strewed forth their hands and bade him, as well as the stranger, a kind and hearty farewell.

Many, many years passed away, and it was once again the evening of a midsummer day.

In a beautiful little house in the country sat a happy woman. Tis true time had already sown some silvery threads among the masses of her wavy hair, and robbed her delicate cheek of some of its rosy tints. Her eyes, too, no longer sparkled with the fire of youth, but they shone with a look of peace and calm content. By the dimple in her cheek, called forth by her serene and cheerful smile, the little Eva of former times is recognized.

There was a knock at the door, and the old man from the mountain entered. He was all unchanged, he had the same awe-inspiring figure. Eva arose, and with a joyful exclamation hastened towards him.

"The peace of God be with you!" said the old man, "I come according to promise, to ask you where the roses of your cheeks are to be found."

Eva did not mention the dreary nights of work and watching which had destroyed their bloom, but exclaimed in a gladsome tone of voice: "Look here!" and raised the curtain of a cradle in which a lovely rosy child; "and there," pointing to a crib in which a beautiful beautiful red-cheeked boy lay sleeping peacefully,—"And here," exclaimed the sonorous voice of a vigorous man, who entered at that moment and put his arm fondly around her waist, "the bloom of her cheeks on my cheeks cost poor Eva many a night's weary watching and anxiety."

"I am content," said the old man, preparing to depart.

"Will you not stay with us?" asked both husband and wife.

"I must travel still far to night," answered the old man, and went his way.

He came to the town and walked towards a large, handsome stone house. He mounted the steps and knocked at the door, which was at once opened for him.

There sat the stranger by his lamp, stooping over a book. He was emaciated, his brow was furrowed and his hair grey, but in his eyes there was a pure and holy light.

"Do you remember our conversation on the mountain? Where are the roses of your cheeks?"

"Here," answered the scholar, and opened his book "here, they lie. Here I have laid down the blossoms of my joys and the fruits of my experience. I only trust that men will make use of them."

The old man smiled and gave him hand. He walked farther and knocked at another door. It was opened. There sat a solitary, pale and attenuated figure. He started and looked up suspiciously.

"Where are the roses of your cheeks?" queried the old man, solemnly.

"The years have robbed me of them," he whispered and shuddered.

"No, you have sacrificed them to a contemptible idol, to your golden calf!" said the old man sternly, "the cold gold has destroyed them, and you sit here alone, unhappy, and with an utter void in your heart. Amend your ways, perhaps you will then bloom anew though perhaps they will only grow again out of your grave."

He departed, and the miser locked his door carefully, in spite of which he could not sleep the whole night.

The old man knocked at another door. Here was a lady at her toilet. She was attired for a party, and had carefully selected everything that could enhance her beauty, but it, alas, belonged to the past.

"Where are the roses on your cheeks?" inquired the old man.

"It is asserted that I possess them still," she replied, pale with vexation and annoyance at his rudeness.

"You have sacrificed them to vanity, and strewn their withered leaves on the floor of ball-rooms. Your haste would not even a single noble grain of seed out of them. There remains to you not even the fragrance of their memory for your days were blank and empty. Your songs does not deceive me, do not deceive yourself—seek something better. Farewell."

A door stood open, and from the room proceeded a loud and boisterous laugh. The old man looked in. There sat a man with crimson cheeks a goblet by his side, he was singing, but his voice trembled, and his eyes were gazing into vacancy.

"Where are the roses of your cheeks?" resounded through the room.

"They have been transformed into peonies," answered the drunkard, stammering, as he filled his goblet again. "I drowned the roses in wine, they were too pale and worthless."

The old man went sorrowfully from thence; a friendly light seemed now to beckon invitingly. He entered. There sat a small but select company, some were young, some older, but they were all grouped around a pale noble looking woman, who was reading to them her notes and reminiscences, therein lay the roses of her youth, their fragrance seemed to linger over the little circle, for the eyes of all were beaming.

The old man nodded quietly, and walked away unperceived.

He came to the cottage of a laborer. The father lay in a deep sleep. He had strewn the blossoms of his cheeks along with the sweat of his labor and anxious prayers into the ground, and they had borne ears of corn, and fruit for his children. A pleasant dream refreshed his sleep and blessed his rest.

The old man paused on and came to a house of mourning. In an illuminated and decorated room lay a dead man in his coffin. His was a noble face, glorified with a peaceful smile. The flowers on and around the coffin were wet with tears.

"Where are these roses?" asked the old gardener, in a gentle voice.

"They bloomed anew on the formerly pale cheeks in the homes of want and destitution," answered a mild voice, and a young girl robed in mourning rose from her knees. "They bloom in heaven, and live in the memory of love."

The old man bowed reverently his hoary head, and returned slowly to his home on the mountain.

Serenading Under Difficulties.

Serenading is not always as fascinating and agreeable as is supposed. The Cleveland Leader says:

"A young Romeo residing upon Garden street, whose voice has just commenced to change, and sings anywhere along the scale from falsetto to the home bass, purchased a forty-dollar guitar a few weeks since, and last week thought he would serenade his Juliet, who lives on the same street. Hastily chewing a few bronchial troches to clear his pipes, he crept within the shade of a bay window and nervously began clawing the instrumental chords, while he softly tipped a ballad to his charmer inside. He had just sung

"There is music in the midnight air," when he became convinced that there was sole leather soaring about through the atmosphere also, and before he could strike the chorus he found the stuffing kicked out of his guitar and himself in the road using his nose as a shovel-plow. The girl's father had returned from down town at an unusually late hour, hence the result. The warbler is now practicing on the concertina and getting his pants half-soled with sheet-iron. He says he will make the old man sick if the bellows don't go back on him."

Brane.

BY JOSH BILLINGS.

Brane are a sort ov animal pulp, and by common konsent are supposed tew be the medium of thought.

How eneybody knows that the brane do the thinking, or are the interpreters of of thought, is more than i can tell; and for what i kno, this theory may be one of these remarkable discoverys of man which aint so.

These subjeks are tew much for mee ov mi learning tew lift. I kant prove enny ov them, and I have tew mutch venerashun tew gess at them.

Brane are generally supposed tew be located in the hed, but investigashun satisfy's me that they are planted all over the boddy.

I find that a dancing master's are situated in his heels and toze, while a fiddler's all centre in his elbows.

Sum people's brane seem to be pissed in their hands and fingers, which explains their grate genius for taking things which they can reach.

I have seen cases where all the brane seem to congregate in the tongue; and once in a great while they inhabit the ears, and then we hav a good listener, but these are celebrated cases.

There seems few be kases where there ain't any brane at all, but this is a mistake; i thot i had kome akrost one or these kind once, but after watching the subjekt for an hour, and see him drink 5 horns ov poor whiskey during the time, i had no difficulty in telling whare his brane lay.

I hav finally kum tew the konclusion that brane, or sumthing else that is goo tew think with, are excelent tew have; but you want tew keep yure eye on them, and not let them phool away their time, nor yure's neither.

Stopping the Interest.

Daniel Webster once dined with an old Boston merchant, and when they came to the wine a dusty old bottle was carefully decanted by Peter and passed to the host. Taking the bottle he poured out Mr. Webster's glass and handed it to him. Then pouring out another for himself he held it to the light and said—

"How do you like it Mr. Webster?"

"I think it a fine specimen of old port."

"Now you can't guess what that cost me?" said the host.

"Surely not," said Mr. Webster, "I only know it is excellent.

"Well, now, I can tell you, for I made a careful estimate the other day. When I add the interest to the first price, I find that it cost me the sum of just one dollar and twenty cents per glass."

"Good gracious! you don't say so!" said Mr. Webster, and then draining his glass, hastily presented it again, with the remark:

"Fill up again, as quick as you can, for I want to stop that confounded interest."

How to overcome your sorrows strike out of your own sight.

Where the Indians Came From.

A few weeks ago a Japanese junk came ashore on one of the Islands of Alaska with three living Japanese on board. The junk had been drifting in a current off Japan, and had drifted two thousand five hundred mile in nine months, twenty-three of the crew perishing from hunger and exposure.

Just forty years ago, a Japanese vessel, with living men on board, came ashore near the mouth of the Columbia river, in Oregon. It had a cargo of rice, and the crew consequently had enough to eat, though they only drink was water from occasional rains.

Such occurrences assist greatly in explaining how America was peopled—a question very perplexing to our ancestors, though late geographical and ethnological researches show plainly that there is very little mystery about it. The Japanese [illegible] race as our Indians, their language being to some extent similar to theirs of our tribes, and it is not at all unlikely that, during the thousands of years to which the Japanese history goes back, many vessels have floated from their shores to ours, bearing living persons of both sexes. But, even if it were impossible for them to cross the ocean it is certain that Asiatics could easily make their way to America across Behering's Straights, or the Aleutian Islands the distance between which would be an easy voyage for a canoe.

In an account of a voyage down the Amoor, by Perry McDonough Collins, the first American who ever descended that river, he called the white tribes on the banks Indians. He was familiar by long personal observation, with the tribes in Oregon and California, and declared he could see no material differences between them and the tribes on the Amoor. Their appearance, their garments, their mode of life, he said, were all similar to those of the natives of Oregon. Their language, also seemed to him very much the same, though of course he had no critical knowledge of their dialects. Taking this resemblance for granted, and there being no great difficulty in crossing the ocean by way of the Aleutian Islands, even in canoes there is no longer any mystery about the peopling of America.

Dr. LePlongeon, a learned gentleman, maintains after long study of Peruvian antiquities that civilization and population originated on this continent, and that the arts, customs, manners and religions of the Chinese, the Assyrians and Egyptians, are only developed imitations of Peruvian originals. According to eminent geologists, this continent was the first land that rose above the ocean that formerly covered the whole of the earth.

The House that was Wrong from Top to Bottom

There was once a rich man who needed a fine house, so he employed workmen to dig the cellar, raise the walls, and finish the building. When it was completed, he made a careful examination of the latest work done, which was the wall-papering, before accepting the house. He found to his surprise that the paper was not smooth, and the paper-hanger was questioned about it.

"You know, good sir," said the paperer, "my reputation is excellent as a hanger, and, to tell you the truth, this is by far the poorest work I have done in years. But Sir, no workman however skilled, could do a nice job of hanging over such plastering."

The plasterer was called in, and asked why a person of his ability had failed to do his work completely. Said he: "I very much grieve, sir, that my work is not satisfactory, but it is the best I could do, for the lathing was most miserable. Such a workman can never bring me into disgrace again, for I will be sure whom I am to follow, before I take a contract in the future."

The lath-nailer was called in his turn and acknowledged his faulty work. Said he: "I wanted to give up the job, but I was afraid to give my reasons if I did so. The truth is, the carpenter who set up the frame is a relative of mine, and I would save him if I could, but I must protect my own reputation. The frame, as I think he will admit, was neither plumb nor square."

"It certainly was not," said the carpenter, "nor was it possible to make it so without blocking up, which would render it unsafe for our good man to live in. The mason made a shameful piece of work of the foundation, and I did as well as I could on such a botched job."

So the rich man found out his whole house was good for nothing after all, because the foundation was bad. If we want our houses or our characters to have true strength and usefulness, we must try to have a good foundation for them.

Something Uncle Tim Overheard.

"Catch me using a profane word in the presence of ladies," said a talkative stripling with a shade of down upon his upper lip. "There's a time for all things."

"No, Sir, there isn't a time for all things. No law human or divine, ever set apart a time for swearing. A profane expression is a sin and an abomination, utter it where and when you will. As for ladies, yes I'll grant you it is well to be and act our best in their presence. We cannot be too true, too pure, too honorable if we want to stand upright before a good woman or a good God—yes, while I'm about it I'll add, not before a little girl baby with her soul fresh from Heaven. I know only of One other before whom we ought to be just so particular, if not more so. When life is best strained, my boys, you can safely die about as your pleases—But when you are in His presence—and, to my thinking, we are all there or thereabouts pretty near all the time—have a care! Don't offend like dear Love; the whitest Perfect, the greatest Honor of all."

A modern Amazon, on her way to a convention, asked an old man in a doorway for his suit.

"Be you one of the women-rights," said he.

"I be," answered the bold and undaunted heroine.

"Do you believe a woman has the same rights as a man?"

"I do."

"Well, then stand up and enjoy 'em like a man."

Review 23rd August.

"Although Mr. Bertram received the "largest number of votes in the recent "contest, in the West Riding, yet, the "Returning Officer, acting under the best "legal advice, which could be obtained felt it his duty to return Mr. Cluxton as "Member elect."

Review of 30th August.

What will our readers think when we announce that the return, a duplicate copy of which is before us, dated August 24th when the telegram from Mr. Harrison on which the returning officer claims to have acted is dated August (Monday) 26th.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR CHICKENS.—The gentleman who early in the morning calls at peoples door with apples, garden stuff, &c., has not yet brought out for sale any chickens with strangely twisted necks. For the convenience of parties who wish to buy foul, we would just say that he lives on the Smithtown hill, and his name is well known.

CORRUPTION AND WHO IS GUILTY:—Just after the late contest a supporter of Mr. Cluxton boasted that some simple elector had placed $10 in his hand to be refunded to Mr. Bertrams committee. The Elector being about to do this was too honest to take it. But what was the astonishment when the poor but honest man was brought face to face, the money was given him by an agent of Mr. Cluxton, whom every one knows spent days in trying to buy up his friends in Emismore and elsewhere.

TORYISM IN EAST DURHAM.—During the late political campaign, Tory rowdies at many meetings would not permit the friends of Mr. Ross to address the electors. They rotten egged some, threatened all. Used all sorts of Billingsgate at Millbrook even, where men, boast of intelligence and homes. The Reeve of Cavan was heard shouting, "put him in the pond," and thus hounding on the whisky soaked portion of his hangers on to acts of violence, if possible. But all was of no use, Mr. Ross is elected by 236 of a majority over Mr. Kirkhoffer. The days are past in Cavan and East Durham when rowdyism can rule and browbeat the intelligent and independent electors: civilization is too far advanced to permit unprincipled rowdies and hacks to frighten men from doing what is right, and although men from dark alleys and grogeries were the heroes of the Party of Union and Progress, they have signally failed to make an impression on the honest yeomen of the Riding. Success to the men of East Durham for their noble example in redeeming the Riding from the vultures that have long preyed on the public chest.

The Independent Band.

The Instruments for this Band have been received, and are understood one of the best quality, and contrary to erroneous opinions set forth by the enemies of the Independents, they are the property of the Town, Messrs. Toole and Tarver being Trustees to receive and keep them when not in the safe keeping of the members of the band. It is also agreed that every member of the Band shall, when leaving it, give up his instrument, so that all the instruments may be for the use of members of the Band only.

The Bandmaster of the Independent gives his services free, so that in this respect the Band will cost the Town nothing, and should the Battalion have a Band, they can therefore apply to the generous citizens for aid which will no doubt be freely granted.

We are informed that the Band in the past cost the Town about $700 a year. If this was so, and we have every reason to believe it was, the members of the Independent band think that two bands can easily be kept up for that sum. There are occasions too when the Volunteer Band cannot take part, which an Independent Band can without compromising their position, and in this respect we believe the new band will do good service.

It is well known that the members of the Band have completed their volunteer service, and some of them cannot reasonably be asked to continue in the service, except their country demand that they should, which fortunately it does not, it cannot therefore militate against a volunteer band, to call into civil service the musical talent cultivated while in the volunteer band. In fact it would be wrong not to assist when it is freely offered by aiding to procure instruments.

The two bands will cause a little emulation which will tend to call forth the best talent in the town. Many young men too, who would not join a volunteer band, will become members of an independent band, and in this way, the best talent of the town will be secured for the pleasure and profit of the citizens.

We cannot on this account but wish the Independent Band success, and we are glad to find that the citizens and council have taken the wise view of the matter and encouraged the members by giving liberally.

Since writing the above we have been informed that the order for the instruments has not been completely filled, and that hence they will not be taken or used until the order is so filled. This delay, however, will only be for a day or two, perhaps a week, at most.

Who is Dr. George Burnham, Jr!

We have frequently heard away from Peterboro. the above question asked, while some have answered it by stating that he is a Reformer of Peterboro.

For the enlightenment of the public we will state that the now notorious Doctor George Burnham, Jr., is not the well known and respectable Dr. George Burnham, the highly successful physician of Peterboro. The latter is a well known Reformer whose only trouble is that one who happens to have the same name should have made himself so notorious by such acts.

Dr. George Burnham, Jr. is a young man of a few years residence in Peterboro. He is of respectable parentage and it is to be regretted that he should have caused his friends to blush for him by his conduct as Returning Officer.

West Peterborough Outrage.

Last week we referred to the most unheard of outrage of the Returning Officer for the West Riding, in returning Mr. Cluxton, who was behind 41 votes at the close of the poll. The oath of the Returning Officer is:—"That I will act faithfully in that capacity, without partiality, fear, favor, or affection." The question is did he do so in returning Mr. Cluxton?

It is not true that the Returning Officer or any one else demanded Mr. Bertram's Qualification, and we have good proof that some of those whose names appear to a certificate to the effect that he did do so, were not present on the Hustings. The apologists, however, do not assert that a demand was made on Mr. Bertram, it was "from the Candidates."

There is, however, a mistake in the affair not yet explained. The new notorious Returning Officer sent Mr. Bertram a certificate, a duplicate of his returns. This certificate is dated Saturday, August 24th, while R. A. Harrison's telegram was received on Monday, 26th August, according to the Review. How is it that Dr. Burnham could make his Return on Saturday based on R. A. Harrison's advice received the following Monday?

Dr. Burnham, the Returning Officer, was a stake holder between parties who bet on the result of the election. Next morning after the election the winner who had bet on Bertram, demanded the stakes. The Returning Officer admitted his right to them, and at once handed over the money; yet he afterwards returned Mr. Cluxton as duly elected. Which of the opinions of Dr. Burnham is correct? Dr. Burnham when he gave up the stakes admitting Mr. Bertram elected, or Dr. Burnham when he returned Mr. Cluxton elected?

Mr. Cluxton also met Mr. Bertram a day or two after the election, and shaking hands with him congratulated him (Mr. Bertram) on his victory. Is it not strange that Mr. Cluxton after placing himself would not stay "put," while at the same time he was grievously complaining that some of the free and independent electors whom he arranged with would not "stay put." How could he expect others to do what he would not do himself? His motto now is:—heads, I win; tails you lose.

The plain facts are: First that Mr. Bertram's qualifications were never personally demanded. Second that the Returning officer acted on the advice of a committee so unscrupulous that some quibble about qualifications must arise. Third: the said committee to which the returning officer lent himself, made the report on Saturday in advance of the advice of R. A. Morrison, or of any one except John A. Macdonald. The said Returning officer did not act faithfully in making his return for he would have returned Mr. Bertram who had a majority of votes, and then let Mr. Cluxton if aggrieved contest the election. This would have been the honorable and only straightforward course, and in not doing so he has earned for himself a notoriety fully equalled by the notorious Vaudalart of 1867, whether to answer for his vile conduct at the bar of the House; [illegible] Dering the contest [illegible] political opponents, [illegible] cash for an honorable [illegible] the canvass. We must confess we did not believe Mr. Cluxton capable of so far losing sight of his own self-respect as to attempt to deprive the Electors of the position in which the people had voluntarily placed him. Nor could we believe that he (Mr. C) would accept a seat in any parliament contrary to the will of the electors. We are still unwilling to believe that he is a party to the cowardly and unjust attempt to deprive Mr. Bertram of his seat. The real guilty of the party might be guilty of such dirty work; but Mr. Cluxton who has always so jealously defended his character and public acts; would he? If he shall ever occupy the seat, his exit from it would be a deep stain, and more galling to a man of honor than ten honorable defeats.

How It Was Done!

In North Victoria, Morrison of Niagara came to the rescue of Staples. He coolly slapped his pocket and told him that he had come down with the means of defeating him. He accomplished his purpose

In South Victoria, McKenzie Bowell, the Grand Master, manipulated the Orangemen, while O'Reilly of Kingston attended mass and gave an address to the Roman Catholics and took the.

Religious feeling was invoked in favor of Dorrier on Sunday, while Tupper and Sir John were also in the Riding doing their own little business as Sir John knows how.

The elections in the East Riding of Peterboro and South Victoria were held on Monday, leaving Sunday to do its work, and it is strange still how harmoniously blended the two opposite are alway on the Conservative side of politics, on election days.

Even the ranting Orangemen in the vicinity of Omemee who once came to our good town to prevent a Catholic procession, can unite with their opponents to elect a Tory, can eat the leek and still say at other times to the dupes who consalose with them, stand off, you have no rights here.

One inference, however, we can draw with certainty, that the Government must be in desperate straits when Mackenzie Bowell, Grand Master, and M. P. O'Reilly, Q.C., of Kingston, Tupper the Minister, and Sir John the Minister of Justice, all feel it necessary to be in South Victoria. Perhaps it was a desire to be in at the death struggle, for we certainly think it is the last time South Victoria will vote the John A ticket.

How the "Progs" do Things.

In London, the less, they oppose McMahon, a Catholic. In Toronto East they oppose O'Donohoe, a Catholic. In Cornwall they oppose Dr. Bergin, until found useless, and then they cry, "not a Grit Catholic Elected." Why are they not? Because the Secret Service Money and the venom and lies of the tools of John A. did their dirty work. Wandering Willie in Toronto, in his usual billingsgate, does the dirty work of attempting to ruin the character of an honorable gentleman, in order to defeat him. In Peterborough every thing that malice and rage could invent was done towards the same end—and then, they ask the Catholics, to admire them. Truly Roman Catholics are as easily gulled as other mortals, when they support the men who seek to destroy those of their co-religionists who offer themselves as Candidates, but who do so in favor of pure and economical government.

Mr. Fraser's election in Grenville is contested by the "Progs." Mr. F., too, is a Catholic. When it suits them, however, they set law and order at defiance, as in West Peterboro, and in North Renfrew in a more heinous degree; on the hustings at Kingston and Perth, and in arousing the worst passions of men in Quebec City until unoffending citizens are shot down. This is progression, but inversely.

South Renfrew.

A correspondent of the Globe, and witness of the facts in this scandalous affair in South Renfrew, says:—"At the fag end of the last Session, five new Townships, Hagarty, Sherwood, Jones, Richards and Burns were added to South Renfrew. They are all without municipal organization, and consequently have no voters lists. The highest reliable estimate places the total number of settlers at one hundred; four adjoining Townships, settled nearly 20 years have only an aggregate voters list of 140. These polled 114 votes, while Hagarty, Sherwood and Jones are represented as having polled 266. Burns and Richards only polling 6, five for Macdougal and one for O'Reilly. The writer says more votes were polled than the number of men, women and children in those Townships. In view of certain rumor, to make the new townships swamp the old ones, agents were being sent up with a few men to protect them. It was apprehended that fraud and violence would be attempted in only four out of six polling places, as the other two would be favourable to McDougall if let alone and not interfered with. To those, efforts at prevention were directed. A lawyer and ten men were assigned to each of them. As their destination lay in the same direction, they set out together from Renfrew on Monday about noon, and reached Eganville that night. O'Reilly and a fellow of the name of Pat Kelly collected the choice partizans in Eganville, and to T. P. French and the priest at Brudenell, that 150 Orangemen from Clarendon had set out for the purpose of murdering them all, and urging them to be prepared and suffer death rather than let them proceed. I am told that the wildest excitement prevailed, and that the scenes following this wicked and false announcement beggar description. The whole people were called to rendezvous at Brudenell Corners. bells and horns sounded, scouts were dispatched in all directions to hunt up recruits, arms and ammunition. Two kegs of powder were brought from Eganville. Whiskey was abundant, and alcohol out without stint. In justice to the men who accompanied Mr. McDougall as agents, a more orderly, sober, quiet, unoffending and well-conducted lot of men I never beheld. I have inquired whether any of them hailed from Clarendon, and am assured, not one. I know not how many, if any, were Orangemen, but their conduct on this occasion would reflect credit on any community; and I am told they behaved themselves with the same patience, fortitude and demeanour, under very trying temptations; and I know that the orders they received entirely accorded with their behaviour. At Eganville, two of the agents, (Messrs. O'Healy and Pearnock) started alone to their respective polling places, and the rest en route to Brudenell Corners, a distance of less than twenty miles. This occupied nearly the whole day, as two men had been barricaded and obstructed from felled trees in several places. About two miles from Brudenell Corners they were peremptorily ordered to halt and proceed no further, under pain of certain death to every one of them. Mr. T. P. French was chief spokesman, with several other Gentlemen [illegible] Eganville [illegible] Indians [illegible] for a [illegible] ed, [illegible] and Whitney. Before retiring, the agents asked asked permission to be allowed to proceed alone to their destination. This two was denied them.

Mr. Peacock, who, accompanied by Mr. Robert Campbell, lumber merchant, and Mr. Cuthbertson, of Douglas went to one of the Hagarty polling places, were in imminent danger of their lives. After witnessing, during their short stay of less than two hours at the polls, scenes of fraud, drunkenness, disorder, and wild confusion, unchecked by the presence of Mr. French, they were commanded, if they valued their lives, to leave. They were allowed ten minutes' grace. Mr. Campbell, who knows all the settlers, says that they were possessed to protect them from the armed drunken ruffians who had come from a distance Thinking discretion the better part of valour, they left. This left frauds and exploits unchecked.

The Deputy Returning Officer at one place would record no votes unless approved of in advance, judging voters by their physiognomy, and refusing to record eight votes for McDougall, each of whom was ready to take the oath.

"It is manifest that Mr. McDougall has a good majority of the whole vote of the Riding, the legal vote of the new townships included. Even according to the calculations of Rev. Mr. McCormick there were only 240 votes. Catholic and Protestant, in his mission. Of these, 140 were in the townships having voter's lists, viz., 99 in Brudenell, 22 in Raglan and 9 in Maparachan, and 10 in Griffith, leaving 100 in the five new townships. Of these scattering 100 settlers, with want of roads, hurried season, and other causes, it is not likely that over 75 would be polled, of whom 20 would be for Mr McDougall, leaving only a majority of 35 for Mr. O'Reilly in the five new townships.

It is therefore plain as can be that Mr. McDougall has received a majority of the legal votes, and that Mr. O'Reilly will be unseated if declared elected.

S. S. No. 7.

Through their Secretary inquire.—1st. Why the rateable property of Section varies from year to year, limits of section being the same. This was answered in Council.

2nd.—Why are certain lands, resident and non-resident, lying in said section, not assessed?

It was moved and seconded—That the Clerk write to the Assessor for information Carried

S. A. 11 CON. LOT NO. 2.

Thos. Robison applied for permission to enclose and occupy that portion of 11 con. opposite Lot No. 2, in lieu of roadway granted by him through his farm.

Moved by Payne, seconded by Spence —That Thos. Robinson be allowed to enclose and occupy all that part of the eleventh concession line in Dummer which is opposite Lot No. 2, in accordance with provisions in sec. 335 of Municipal Institutions Carried.

MRS. GEO. FORBES

Presented a bill from Dr. Bingham for attending Mrs. Jackson, as indigent.

Moved by Spence, seconded by Payne —That the bill be referred back to Mrs. Forbes for the present, as the Council have not agreed to furnish medical attendance Carried.

Dr. Bingham having been seen during the day the above motion was rescinded and the following substituted.

Moved by Payne, seconded by Smith—That an order be issued in favor of Geo. Forbes for $4 to assist in meeting expenses incurred by procuring medical aid for Mrs. Jackson, and that in future some one of the Council be advised with before medical attendance be procured, otherwise the Council will not be responsible therefore. Carried.

MRS. JACKSON.

Moved by Smith, seconded by Payne—That the Rev. D. O'Connell having written to the Clerk asking for a guarantee for $40 per annum for taking Mrs. Jackson off our hands and otherwise providing for her, the Clerk be instructed to write to the Rev. gentleman that this Council will guarantee the said amount from and after the tenth day of September next. Said amount to be continued during her life and to be paid quarterly. Carried.

LUKEY'S ROAD.

Robert Lukey requested to be heard before the Council with reference to sideline between lots 20 and 21, con. 2. He claimed that the road as travelled is not in the proper site, but in part upon his land. He requested the Overseer of Highways to cause the removal of a certain crossway and to remove trees which had been placed upon his land. No action having been taken by Council he will now proceed to compel the removal of said obstructions and shall insist upon having his land.

Mr. Lukey then handed in a bill including Rent and Costs as follows—

Seven years rent, one acre at $5 per annum	$35 00
Use of premises together with the same	12 50
Total	$46 50

Moved by Smith, seconded by Kidd—That the Reeve be appointed and is hereby appointed a Commissioner to settle a dispute as to the proper line of the [illegible] Road between lots 20 and 21 in con. 2, with power if found necessary to order a survey of said road, that also to open and make passable the same, if found to be not on the proper allowance. Carried.

[illegible]

Moved by Smith seconded by Spence—That the Clerk be instructed [illegible] from Mr. [illegible] for completion [illegible] contract referred to reference thereto.

Providence and the "Hitch."

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—

The Peterborough Review of last week, after intimating that something very naughty had been done by the Reformers in winning the Election, says: "That the 'hitch' about the qualification was an intervention of Providence in the interest of justice and right."

Those who know the means used by the "Union and Progress" party, will smile at the bare-faced effrontery of that pure and saintly organ. To turn attention from themselves and make their vile action less odious, they set to work to charge all kinds of ill doing on the Reformers, ascribing their victory to the result of bribery and corruption instead of to the deliberate choice of the people.

When Perry got his majority of seventeen by the ruffianism of his agents at Ennismore it was all right. When he swore to a qualification as worth £500 sterling which in a few days the Sheriff sold for £20, it was all right. When Grover attended Mass in Dsaro and stumped it, and hired teams on Sunday, no harm was done. But now when Bertram defeats Cluxton by a majority of 41, in a fair fight, Providence comes to Mr. Cluxton's assistance and raises a "hitch" which enables Mr Cluxton to claim the privilege of writing M. P. after his name If Providence beat off the Reformers from Ennismore, or inspired Perry to see £500 stg. in a $80 lot in Smith, or inspired Grover to a mixed spirit of Worship and Electioneering on the Lord's day, then assuredly, that same Providence may have been invoked to come to the rescue of Mr. Cluxton.

But the Review's Editor will excuse us if we suggest that there are evil spirits around, and we assuredly think that the man who would write so impious a sentiment that which we have quoted from the Review may perhaps be the providential author of the "hitch", and as such we will have no difficulty in placing him.

Poor Mr. Cluxton is asked to cast himself down from the pinnacle of honorable position which a life time of industry has gained him, that the selfish ends of the tempter may be gratified. If he is wise as we take him to be, he will reply as the tempter of old with replied to—"Get thee behind me, Satan."

Mr. Cluxton is no doubt ambitious, but he is not wholly lost to shame. He will by this time own that even if he could hold on to the seat stolen for him it will be to him a source of shame and dishonor. Mr. Cluxton made a good run—and to be beaten by a small majority leaves him defeated but not dishonored. To attempt to take a seat not his, but snothers, thro' the unblushing trickery of a foolish Returning Officer and a kravish committee, is to lead himself to the wrong and bring upon him the finger of scorn from all who value honor above place or power.

Mr. Cluxton, if allowed to follow his own good judgment will at once take himself out of the "hands of his Committee" as it is evident that the evil spirit of that Committee is so wholly devoid of honorable principles that to follow his direction is to ours disgrace and insure humiliation.

JUSTICE.

Classification of Members.

The Quebec Chronicle, an out-and-out Tory paper, unmasks the fraudulent trick in the following unmistakable language. The Chronicle speaking on the mis-classification of the members elect says:—

"Thus we have arranged the whole of the twenty-one members from Nova Scotia under the head of supporters of the Government, whilst we know that at least eleven of them are in politics through Radicals, and though they may be disposed to give their support to the present Ministry, we have as little doubt that should the total results of the elections show an adverse majority, they will as readily give their adhesion to the party of Mackenzie and Blake, whom many of them are disposed to view as their natural allies. We have more than once expressed our satisfaction with the opinion held by so many of our friends, that the Government would have a fair working majority, but it would be madness to close our eyes to the fact that many things have already occurred during this election which must have produced weighty concern in the minds of Sir John A. Macdonald and his supporters. The admitted loss of so many well-known supporters is in itself a very grave matter, though we ourselves are of opinion that the rejection of some of them is almost as great a gain to the Government as it is to the Opposition; but there are a few whose absence from the House will be a severe loss to the Government and the country."

The Chronicle says, "the admitted loss of so many well-known Government supporters is a grave matter,"—and yet this was published before the real sweeping Reform victories were achieved. What will the Chronicle think now that the great chief, Sir George E. Cartier, and so many of his followers have been defeated? The fact is, the Government party will be even more deficient in talent than in numbers. With the exception of Sir John A. Macdonald, there has not been a single able debater elected on that side of the House from Ontario or Quebec. The Hon. Wm. McDougall was defeated in Lanark by a vote of two to one! The Hon. Sir Francis Hincks, Finance Minister, was first driven from North Renfrew and then defeated in South Brant by some 300 of a majority! The Hon. John Hillyard Cameron was defeated in Peel, which he has represented for so many years! The Hon. Sir George E. Cartier Minister of Militia, was defeated in Montreal, his old stronghold, by the tremendous majority of 1,230! And the Hon. Sir A. T. Galt has retired into private life! That is a pretty clean sweep of the leading men in the Conservative party; and the rank and file have fared even worse, being slaughtered right and left like pigeons. What a contrast the Reformers make: Blake elected in two constituencies—(West Durham and South Bruce)—without opposition; Mackenzie elected for Lambton by a majority of 800! Young elected for South Waterloo by acclamation! Bodwell elected for South Oxford by acclamation! And so on eight constituencies to give other great victories by the dozen, but we forbear. It is a most significant fact that, with the exception of Sir John, not a single member of the old Government has been able to secure a seat in Ontario—and even Sir John's constituency (Kingston) is so near the border of Quebec that but few regard it as being a real Ontario constituency.

NOTICE.

DEPARTMENT OF CROWN LANDS,
Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

UNDER an Order in Council of the 29th ultimo, respecting Timber on Lands sold, and unsold lands on the shores of Lake Superior, the absolute right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre, fixed on, to be paid for such lands.

Owners of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are now being carried out) who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are required to make application for the same to the Department, within six months from date of this notice.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay for such right at the time of application fifty cents per acre in addition to the one dollar per acre payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six months from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands at the time of application on such lands will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant tendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

R. W. SCOTT,
Commissioner.

NOTICE.

SALE OF TIMBER BERTHS,

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 1st August, 1872.

A SALE, by public auction, of Timber Berths, on the North-shore of Lake Huron, and North of French River, will be held at the Department of Crown Lands, TORONTO, at Noon, on TUESDAY, the 17th day of SEPTEMBER next. The Berths to be offered for sale are situated in the unsurveyed Townships, estimated at an area each of 36 square miles where the outlines are regular, each Township to be put up as one lot, and estimated at 23 square miles per square mile thereof; payment for the same to be made on the day of sale, by depositing the amount of purchase to the credit of the Department of Crown Lands in the Bank authorized by Order in Council of the 6th of June, 1872.

All Berths will be subject to correction with respect to area, under the first clause of the Crown Timber Regulations.

Licences for Berths sold will be issued subject to the 'Crown Timber Regulations' now in force, and to the following conditions, viz:—Payment of bonus and ground-rent for permit required for Berths sold, from date of sale, allowed for water.

The Department reserves the right to each bid on each Berth; and also the right to grant special licences to cut logs on the Berths sold for the supply of sawing steamers.

A map showing the Berths to be disposed of may be seen at the Woods and Forests Office in the Crown Lands, on and after the 15th instant.

R. W. SCOTT,
Commissioner.

NOTE.—The area to be offered as Timber Berths, as above, is in the Crown north of Lake Huron and North of French River, and West of the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing to the Eastern boundary of the townships of Carnarvon and Conkerghee, approximate distance from the Indian Reserve on Lake Nipissing an estimated distance of 24 miles, thence due west to the north-east angle of the Township of Vankoughnet.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, which passes for the history of medical preparations. It confidently fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital health the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

NORTHROP & LYMAN,
Newcastle, C. W.
General agents for Canada.

Sold at Peterborough by Jas. Xavier, A. W Kemp, Wm. Coulter and Ormond & Walsh; in Keene by A. Campbell; Campbell's Mills & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay; And all Medicine Dealers.

Husband—I shall know who better be settled. Druggists and Storekeepers are doing more by those prizes a great deal of good to their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. Its Cholera, Diarrhœa and Diarrhœa qualities, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking Pain-Killer so long is because I would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Killer or Relief or Pain Remedy or some such thing in the house, we have tried them over and over again

Husband:—And that is just the reason I object to try the Pain-Killer on my rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

Beware and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

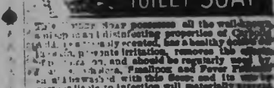
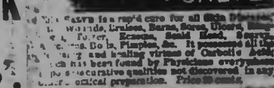
It possesses all the healing virtues of Carbolic Acid without its irritating effects, and is a most valuable medicinal preparation. Price 25 cents.



This Gargle is the most reliable and effectual Remedy in all cases of Sore Throat, Ulcerated Throat, Scarlatina, Irritation of the Bronchial Tubes so common in this changeable climate, Asthma, Offensive Breath, Diseased Gums, and all diseases of the Mouth. For Public Speakers and Singers it is invaluable. The ingredients entering into this Gargle are used by all Physicians and for the cure of the above disorders are more reliable, the most popular in the Materia Medica. Price 25 cents.

This Disinfectant is a sure preventive of Typhoid and Typhus Fevers, Cholera, Small Pox, and all Infectious diseases. It will prevent Contagion in Hospitals, Infirmaries, Jails, Sick Chambers, Cholera Districts, Drains, Cesspools, Stables, Hennery Houses &c., and for destroying unpleasant Odors from whatever cause arising. Used by all Corporations, Hospitals, Jails, Infirmaries, Steamboats, Fish &c., can be preserved from putrefaction by Dr. Hamilton's Disinfectant.

Sold by all Druggists throughout the Dominion at the wholesale and retail depot of the Victoria Chemical Co., Victoria Hall, Malinda Street, Toronto.



This Preparation is recommended to the public as the best article ever discovered for Sharpening and Polishing Razors, Penknives, Table and Pocket Cutlery, Scissors, Plated Goods, Jewellery, Glass, Marble, Paper, Files and Saws, &c. It is the only article ever discovered that will sharpen and polish at the same time, and is unlike any other preparation ever offered to the public. Price 25 cents.

Pumps, Reapers and Mowers

To the Public in General and Farmers in particular.

Henry Owens

Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalelled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell at very cheap rate. He has increased his facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. Parties ordering Pumps please state depth of well and all other necessary particulars.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year Woods Self-Rake Reaper and Mower, Taylor Chief Mower, and Johnson's Self-Rake Reaper, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the 1st day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

HENRY OWENS gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL,

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is Thomas' Eclectric Oil, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power, and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combination. This is the compounding of this Oil; a thorough change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop, wrapped with other preparations (many of the ingredients in this Oil are worth only the small of this which fact they are

Nice Poetry.

Alice Cary's Sweetest Poem.

Of all the beautiful of the past,
That hang on Memory's wall,
In one of [illegible] apartment,
That pe[illegible] all.
Not for [illegible] oaks colors,
Dark [illegible] Gainsborough,
Not for [illegible] golden
That [illegible] the vale below
Not [illegible]
[illegible] in 69 Pegasus' hangs,
Can [illegible] all day with the swallows,
[illegible] stealing their golden edge,
Not for the vines on the upland
Where the bright red berries rust,
Not the pinks, nor the pale sweet cowslip,
It seemeth to me the best.

I once had a little brother
With eyes that were dark and deep—
In the lap of that old forest
He lieth in peace asleep.
Light as the down of the thistle,
Free as the winds that blow,
We roved there the beautiful Summers,
The Summers of long ago,
But his feet on the hills grew weary,
And one of the autumn eves
I made for my little brother
A bed of the yellow leaves.

Sweetly his pale arms folded
My neck in a meek embrace,
As the light of immortal beauty
Silently covered his face,
And when the arrows of sunset
Lodged in the tree tops bright,
He fell, in his saint-like beauty,
Asleep by the gates of light.
Therefore, of all the pictures
That hang on Memory's wall,
The one of the dim old forest
Seemeth best of all.

The Bells at Tourney.

At Tourney, in Belgium, there is a famous old Belfry. It dates from the twelfth century, and is said to be built on a Roman base. It now possesses forty bells. It commands the town and the country round, and from its summit is obtained a clear view of the largest and finest cathedral in Belgium, with its five magnificent towers. The brothers guard the summit at the top of at Tourney, and relieve each other night and night, at intervals of ten hours. All through the night a light is kept burning in the topmost gallery, and when a fire breaks out, the tocsin, or big bell, is tolled up aloft by the watchman. He is never allowed to sleep—indeed, as he informed the writer, showing us his scanty accommodation, it would be difficult to sleep up there. On stormy nights a whirlwind seems to select that watchman and his tower for its most violent attacks; the darkness is so great that nothing of the town below can be seen. The tower rocks to and fro, and scarbled birds dash themselves upon the shaking light, like sea birds upon a light house lantern. Such seasons are not without real danger—more than once the lightning has melted and twisted the iron hasps about the tower; and within the memory of man the masonry itself has been struck. During the long peals of thunder that came rolling with the black clouds over the level plains of Belgium, the belfry begins to vibrate like a huge musical instrument, as it is; the bells peal out, and seem to claim affinity with the deep bass of the thunder, while the shrill wind shrieks a demoniac treble to the wild and stormy music. All through the still summer night the belfry lamp burns like a star. It is the only point of yellow light that can be seen up so high, and when the moon is bright, it looks almost red in the silvery atmosphere. Then it is that the music of the bells floats farthest over the plains, and the postilion hears the sound as he hurries along the high road from Brussels or Lille, [illegible] smacking his whip loudly, he [illegible] his steed as he sees the light of the old tower of Tourney come in sight.

The Deacon and the Bumble Bee.

The latest incident of church time comes from Indianapolis. It was a warm Sunday and the lazy attitude of the congregation was only relieved by the motion of the palm-leaf fans plied to overcome the the soporific effect of the drowsy sermon. Upon one of these puffs of heated air that now and then came through the wide-open windows, sailed a curious bumble-bee, wandering from the sun and flowers, to see what it was like in there. Round and round he soared, irreverently humming as he went, now up among the chandeliers, now down close to the sleepy noddles of the worshippers, until tired of wing, he suddenly sat down upon the bald pate of a dozing deacon to rest awhile.

What the dream was that caused the pleasant smile to overspread the good man's face at that instant, it would be hard to tell, but when a moment later, the inquisitive bumble bee, angry at the futile nature of his efforts to sit down upon the slippery surface without slipping down, drove his little sting deep into the offending epidermis, to secure a more permanent hold, a sudden change came over the spirit of the smile provoking vision, and with a loud yell of anguish, the deacon clapped both hands upon the afflicted bump, and uprising, floated down the aisle at a keen gallop. As the congregation sauntered homeward that morning, half an hour earlier than usual, their thoughts ran thus rhymingly:

How doth the little busy bee
Upon that shining pate,
Improve the deacon's usual pace,
To such a thundering gait.

A newly settled minister in a pastoral church in Teviotdale thus explained to the shepherds, his hearers, the relation which he meant should exist between them:

"Sirs," said he, "I am coming home to be your shepherd, and you must be my sheep, and the bible will be my tar bottle, and I will mark you with it."

Carrying out the allegory, he laid his hand on the precentor's head and said:

"Andrew you shall be my dog."

Andrew did not see it.

"Sorrow a bit o' your dog will I be," quoth he.

"Oh, Andrew, I spoke mystically," said the preacher."

But Andrew evidently did not relish the dog suggestion.

"Ay, sir, but ye spoke mischievously," was his retort.

A man in love is a man who wishes to be more amiable and agreeable than he can be, and this is the reason why, almost all men in love are ridiculous.

A candid old bachelor says—"After all a woman's heart is the sweetest thing in the world, it's a perfect honeycomb—full of cells.

Rusticus, in commenting on the present style of female coiffure, says—"It must be very poor soil that requires so much top-dressing.

A man in New Hampshire had become so used to matrimony that on the occasion of his marrying his fourth wife whom the minister pronounced the couple to stand up, he said, "I've titbally sat."

Select Poetry.

The Day is Done.

BY W. H. LONGFELLOW.

The day is done and the darkness
Falls upon the wings of night,
As a feather is wafted downward
From the eagle in his flight.

I see the lights of the village
Gleam through the rain and mist,
And a feeling of sadness and longing
That is not akin to pain,
And resembles sorrow only
As the mist resembles rain.

Come, read to me some poem,
Some simple and heartfelt lay,
That shall soothe this restless feeling
And banish the thoughts of day

Not from the grand old masters,
Not from the bards sublime,
Whose distant footsteps echo
Through the corridors of time;

For like strains of martial music,
Their mighty thoughts suggest
Life's endless toil and endeavor,
And to-night I long for rest.

Read from some humble poet,
Whose verse gushed from his heart,
As showers from the clouds of summer,
Or tears from the eyelids start.

Who through long days of weariness,
And nights devoid of ease,
Still heard in his soul the music
Of wonderful melodies.

Such songs have power to quiet
The restless pain of care
And come like the benediction
That follows after prayer.

Then read from the treasured volume
The poem of thy choice,
And for the rhyme of the poet
Lend the music of thy voice.

And the night shall be filled with gladness,
And the care that infest the day,
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

Choice Literature.

Self-Denial Exquired.

I heard a man the other day speaking of novel reading as one of the causes of vice, of ill-health and insanity. He knew what he was talking about and set me thinking.

In days gone by, but within the memory of some of us, there was a strong feeling against the reading of novels themselves. And from the character of some of the books of that date, one is not surprised. Many of them were vile.

Later, everybody, (almost) has read once, who has weight in the country, was appealed to, to advocate the theatre and was told, "Men used to be prejudiced against novel reading," he answered, that novels were reformed, and added: "Reform your theatres as novels have been reformed, and we will see about it."

There was a time when there were many good novels, not only well written, but good in their tendency and influence. Many turned upon details of charitable work, work among the poor, philanthropic efforts. But that topic was worn out, and some new took must be tried. The genuine love story in all its moods and tenses, numbers and persons, has been exhausted. The lower order of novels, with the sensation papers, find their interest in details of crime and new horrors. This familiarity is fearfully demoralizing. I have sometimes thought that bad books are born with the intention of [illegible] for they look so innocent, and pretend to be so for effect's sake. [illegible]

For the higher class of novels a new development will [illegible]. The old style long [illegible] marriage and [illegible] the course of the pair through suspicion, disappointment, alienation, disgust, [illegible] love, separation or divorce.

Married men and women make love, and fall in love and yield to an inevitable fate, as if marriage were no sacrament, the marriage vow a thing of naught. It is easy to see the effect of such teaching. Men and women are not perfect, and those imperfections which must be borne with, those disagreeable which must be lived down, are matters grounds of disgust. It seems as if many tried marriage as an experiment, often too hastily tried it, and then put the bond aside, not being suited.

Another class of novels detail the doings of young women who seem to defy all the laws of God and man, and in the most reckless way to place themselves in the most equivocal situations, and do the wildest and most reckless things.

But one cannot stop to enumerate the subtle poisons that are at work, the education of our people that is going on, for they read straight through, and hardly stop to criticise, they remind one of a small child of whom somebody tells who went into a keeper's office all dressed, the contents of drawers and jars and galipots.

Aside from these demoralizing influences there are other and disastrous effects of the reading of novels. The absorbing interest leading to the neglect of daily duties; the morbid appetite, which grows with that it feeds on, till the system is ruined; it [illegible] the excitement, the late hours, for few can resist the temptation "just to finish" a story, and late hours are a terrible strain on the nerves, the quiet which exercise is needed, leading to indigestion, and other evils. Above all, the excitement of the [illegible] unfits people for the [illegible] duties of life. In short, the whole tone of [illegible] is lowered. Reading occupies a large portion of many a [illegible] and ill-regulated reading, and consideration of it, to the [illegible] and [illegible] kind which [illegible] in the [illegible] novels.

People do not know how [illegible] in this stimulation. Many a one who reads late at night, fails to see in that, the cause for the exhaustion and languor of the next day. I know a man who thinks he has a feeble constitution, and never dreams how much power he exhausts by this indulgence. There was a man, who, not wishing to go from home, took his recreation from a laborious professional life, in reading novels. He is partly paralyzed and is travelling in Europe, wrecked, though by no means an old man.

I heard of a child that insisted upon living on sponge cake, until one day it died.

As in order to physical well-being we must obey the laws of health and life, so in order to mental and moral well-being, we must observe also the laws which govern to mind and soul. As here is the diet of sponge cake, is the [illegible] to feed the mind and soul on this many sensational reading.

And to many minds no one can deny that the temptation is strong. Books and papers meet you at every turn, and there is about them certain fascination. And then there is a vague feeling that reading is improving of course. As well say that what can be eaten is wholesome, poisons and all. I am not certain that any mind can take poison and escape harm.

They say these are not the days of self-denial; but the declarations of our Lord were for all time. We cannot well give all our goods to feed the poor; we cannot forsake all and follow the savour through cities and villages. But his declarations was for these days also. "Except a man deny himself and take up the cross and follow me, he cannot be my disciple." And it may be that self-denial make people consider harmless [illegible] in walking very near the straight [illegible] instead of wandering on far as we dare far into the borders of the land of evilness.

There is a kind of reading which is utterly vile, which harrows in secret only. A strong effort is being made to search out and put a stop to this, the very machinery of Satan. But the grades which leads to this are seriously marked and the line of demarcation is not yet strongly drawn. Christian men are selling books, which, if they bring them a profit, will bring also a curse. The grades are made gentle an easy. but they are all "down grade." Whose "feet shall slide in due time."—Advance.

VOTE BY BALLOT IN ENGLAND.

The English Ballot bill went into effect first in the town of Boston, where a town councillor was chosen under its provisions on the 23nd ult. The bill goes [illegible] the minutes of the process with [illegible] exactness. In the first place the nominations have to be made before an officer, a deputy sheriff, and are hedged about with a degree of formality which are supposed to contribute to the purity of elections. Another great feature in the abolition of the old polly-by [illegible] such [illegible] Now the returning officers may take any school house or hall which receives support from public funds. All expenses are still borne however by the candidate, but have been materially changed. The polling place is provided with the usual paraphernalia, and a room is set apart capable of holding 150 persons, to which the voter may retire to mark his ballot. When a voter enters he applies to the inspector for a ballot. The inspector examines and checks the voter's name upon the register and cuts him a ballot from a book, like a bank check-book, where a [illegible] remains behind. The ballot itself contains the names of all the candidates nominated, and is at the moment of delivery stamped with an official mark, visible on both sides. At the same time the coupon or counterfoil retained in the book is inscribed with the voter's number in the register. The voter then retires and marks a cross against the candidate whom he wishes elected. Concealing the face of the ticket from every person and folding it so as to leave the official mark on the back visible, he exhibits the latter to the inspector and deposits it in the box. He is forbidden to carry a ballot off, or to vote as proxy for any other except for blind or illiterate persons, or for Jews, when the election occurs on Saturday, all of which cases must be certified in form. The counting of the vote and the subsequent procedure present no new features. The bill applies to both parliamentary and municipal elections, and is only in force to 1880, unless further extended.

The Circus.

A manly boy asks us a plain question to which he wants us to give an honest answer.

Here is the question: "Do you think it would be wrong for me to attend a circus?"

Here is our answer: "We certainly think it would."

"If so, why?" asks our correspondent.

Answer 1.—Because the circus is an entirely unprofitable entertainment. It does the looker-on no good whatever. It puts no useful knowledge into his brain. It awakens no worthy ambition. It quickens no noble impulse. It is an utter waste of time to attend it.

Answer 2.—Because the circus is positively injurious to him who attends it. It always shocks, and so far as feebles, the nervous system. Its performances are rarely free from vulgarity. It always lowers one's standard of true character. It often excites evil passions.

Answer 3.—Because the circus is usually carried on by bad men. Every thing that is mean and base is likely to be found in connection with it. Gamblers and thieves and other vile people find it a profitable place for their iniquities. The performers are usually people of bad character. Such is their general reputation that no respectable man would marry a woman who left them a circus [illegible], and what man [illegible] his daughter in marriage to a [illegible] or [illegible] clown or performer? [illegible] of the [illegible] these associations [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

PERSONAL.—John Hunter, Esq. formerly Reeve of Galway, now in California, promises us a letter now and then on matters as they appear to him in the west. Our readers therefore may look out for interesting information from beyond the Rocky Mountains, as Mr. Hunter is an intelligent observer of passing events.

The Rev. Jas Douglas of Uxbridge has accepted a call to be Pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Cobourg, and will be inducted in October.

In South Victoria the Sunday before the Election was a great day. Canvassing was carried on as briskly as on other days. Men were bought and sold prices varying. John A. Tupper, O'Reilly & Co, were corrupted the greater part of the Riding by the most open acts of bribery to their followers, funds being supplied from the Secret Service Money and other sources.

The Independent Brass Band tried their new instruments on Saturday evening. The members speak favorably of them.

The Committee of the Protestant Home acknowledge the following donations for August, baskets of remains Canada Presbyterian S. S. Picnic, per Master Johnston and Roger; Mr. Green a quantity of bread; Mr. White a piece of beef; Mr. Erskine a parcel of wool; Mrs. Kennet a basket of cake &c; a basket of provisions form a camping party. Also a donation of $30.30 from St. John's Church; anonymous per post $2.

CHEAP LOTS!—The lots lying immediately west of Mr. Hamilton's Foundry are to be sold on Friday the 13th Sept. Considering the rapid growth of the town and the increase in the value of property this a favorable chance to secure desirable lots at low prices.

J. T. Anderson, Photographer of Toronto is in town taking views, landscapes &c. Specimens of his work may be seen in Mr. Sheridan's window. His views from the Court House Hill, and some of his residences are very pretty.

THE COBOURG RAILROAD.—The Cobourg, Peterboro and Marmora Railway and Mining Company have made satisfactory arrangements and are now at work, repairing the road from Cobourg to Peterboro, and on the extension to Mud Lake. Laborers are advertised for to whom winter work is guaranteed. All doubts to the future of the road are removed, and it is confidently expected, that the road will be open by October next if not sooner Mr. Barber Superintendant is now in town making arrangements for right of way, ties, etc.

EAST DURHAM.—In Port Hope, Ross's majority 103; in Hope Township 200; total 303. In Cavan Kirkhoffer's majority was 103; Manvers 50; total 153. Total majority for Ross, 240. Mr. Kirkhoffer's friends feel sore over the defeat.

Do you want the best Shoe ever made, buy the CABLE SCREW WIRE Boots and Shoes—all have the Patent Stamp.

The Ladies' Committee of the Protestant Home desire to express their sincere thanks to Mr. Calcutt for his kindness in giving the use of his boat the Whistle Wing for an excursion for the "Home" on Thursday last, and also for the obliging manner of the captain and men on that occasion. The friends of the Home be glad to learn that about $60 will be realized after expenses are paid.

THE RESULT.

It is customary at the close of Election Campaigns to take stock, as to speak—and compare profits and losses. The Conservative Press has been doing so, and glorying over the results, but it is in a somewhat subdued tone, there is nothing very jubilant or boisterous about them. In Ontario the Government has been badly beaten. The Opposition has gained 22 seats, and on a division will have a gain of at least 17 votes. In Quebec, the result show 36 Ministerialists, 27 Oppositions, and 2 Independents. Nova Scotia it is confidently asserted by them will able to give the true figures, but returned 9 Ministerialists, 6 Oppositionists, and 6 Independents. New Brunswick is put down as 5 Opposition, 4 Ministerial, and 7 Independents.

By this classification:

	O.	M.	I.
Ontario sends	51	34	3
Quebec	27	36	2
Nova Scotia	6	9	6
New Brunswick	5	4	7
Totals	89	83	18

Manitoba and British Columbia will send Ministerial majorities, but not more than ten.

When the House meets, parties will stand about 89 Opposition, 93 Ministerial, and 18 Independent.

These figures are as nearly correct as can now be ascertained, and will be found not far from the actual figures when a division takes place.

BARGAIN AND SALE.

Sir John A. Macdonald has been made a Privy Councillor, and shall receive a salary of £1000 yearly, for the remainder of his life.

There can be no doubt but this is the price of his Washington Treaty business. John A's admirers say he is a poor man. Although that may be reasonably questioned. But admitting this statement the Imperial Government have removed that state of things by bestowing on him £1000 a year for life.

Perhaps he discovered a way in which he could receive his reward, and at the same time smash in the Widow of the Gladstone Government, viz., through a money consideration, a guarantee of £7000 a year for life. The commissioners discovered Sir John's weakness for honors can emoluments, made him an offer which after consideration, he accepted, and for which he hastened away the rights of his country and received his price. Sir John could well afford to contribute 6 to twenty such spasms for the honorable of office to prevent Ontario giving a fair expression of the voice of the people on his conduct, which he well knew would be adverse to him unless the most strain ed efforts were made to prevent it.

Board of School Trustees.

A meeting of the Board was held on Tuesday last—Dr. Beatty in the chair. Present—Messrs. Edwards, Smith, Hall, Hamilton, McClelland, Scott, Edmison, Taylor and Dumble.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The Secretary then read a communication from Mr Taylor, tendering his resignation as teacher; also a communication from the Trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate School, showing the average attendance of that Institution, and requesting that the proceeds of the School lot on London street be divided.

The average attendance of the Roman Catholic School during last year was 228; that of the Common Schools of the Town 534.

Mr. O'Beirne also put in an estimate of the receipts and expenditure of the United Collegiate Institute and Public Schools as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Grant to Collegiate Institute	$ 750 00
" High School	2,178 00
" Public Schools	314 00

The Assessment to distributed as follows:—

Collegiate Institute	$1,109 00
Public School	2,268 00

Mr. Dumble then moved, seconded by Mr. Smith—That it appearing from the application of the Roman Catholic Separate School Trustees, that the average attendance of pupils at the Roman Catholic Separate School as reported to the Educational Department, at Toronto, is 228, while the average attendance at the Public Schools is 534? The proportion of the net proceeds of the School lot on London street, lately sold, to which the R. C. Separate School Board is entitled is $311. It is therefore resolved that the Treasurer be instructed to pay over to the said Board the sum of $311.

Mr. Cox asked for time to obtain more information before voting on the resolution, as he would like to satisfy himself that these figures were correct.

Mr. McClelland also thought that more information was necessary, as at the last meeting, Dr. Ryerson's letter in answer to Mr. O'Beirne's, was very explicit that the Convent School was no part of the Separate School, and he did not know that the Teachers in the Convent were legally qualified.

Mr. Edmison explained that a part of the Convent School was held to be a division of the Separate School, and that on this was based the returns made to the Educational Department.

Mr. Dumble said the law of Ontario provided that qualified teachers of Lower Canada had the same standing in Ontario as far as Separate Schools were concerned and he understood, that the lay chairman teachers.

Mr. Stevenson thought that further information was necessary before the motion should be passed, and he advised that the Secretary be instructed to communicate again with Dr. Ryerson as to the Convent School, and then if the Chief Superintendent declared the Convent School a part of the Separate School, this Board should at once pay over the fair proportion of the proceed of the sale of lot. It appeared strange indeed that while the Roman Catholic population to the Protestant population was as 1 to 5, the average attendance of the schools respectively should be as 228 to 534.

Mr Scott thought what was right and just should be done, but he also would like time to get fuller information as to the relative attendance of the Schools before voting on the resolution.

It was then agreed to make Mr. Dumble's motion a "notice of motion" for the next meeting, and that the Secretary again write to the Chief Superintendent for these definite information.

It was moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Smith—That children in the limits of the Corporation of Peterborough shall hereafter be admitted to the Public School Department of the Union School on the same terms as the children of residents, inasmuch as those parties in the extended limits shall very soon belong to the Town. Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. McClelland—That the Secretary notify the Town Council that the amount required to be raised by Assessment for the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools within the Town of Peterborough for the present year is $3,268, that is to say, one thousand one hundred dollars for the Collegiate Institute, and two thousand two hundred and sixty-eight dollars for the Public Schools, and that the Secretary further notify the Town that the School Taxes accruing from absentee lands are properly payable to the Union School Board for School purposes.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. Smith—The resolution on the minute Book providing that the regular meetings in the months of March, June, and September be held on Wednesday nights be rescinded, and that hereafter all the regular meetings be held on Tuesday. Carried.

A motion of Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. Scott—To amend Rule of Order number one, by substituting one quarter of an hour in lieu of half an hour as the period after the hour named for holding a meeting was lost.

Mr. Dixon addressed the Board in reference to the state of the yard approaching Miss Jenkin's room, especially in winter, and also to the fact that the water shed of the grounds allows the water to run into the room. He stated that all the rooms in the Primary Departments were very full but especially Miss Jenkin's, in which there were at times from 112 to 120 pupils present.

The Board left the matter of providing a room and the employing of another teacher with Mr. Stevenson and the Principal.

Messrs. Hall, Stevenson, Cox and McClelland were appointed a committee to see about time for Ward Schools and report.

We [illegible] the Sale of the Town Hall next, on the 16th inst.

Great Indignation.

The following Mr. Bertram, justly indignant at the action of the Returning Officer for the West Riding, in refusing Mr. Clarkson to vote where [illegible] Mr. Bertram [illegible] majority of votes, held a mass meeting in the Music Hall last week, in give expression to their feelings on account of the unjust and unscrupulous conduct of the said Returning Officer.

The Music Hall was crowded. John Walson, Esq., was called to the Chair, and in appropriate terms stated the object of the meeting namely, to express condemnation of the Government of the Dominion, because of the disgraceful and corrupt influences brought to bear during the contest, and to afford an opportunity to the Electors of the West Riding to approbate the wanton outrage of Dr. George Burnham, Jr., in so far forgetting the responsibility of his office and the duties he owed to the public and the Candidates, in returning the man who had received the minority vote in the contest.

Mr. Bertram being loudly called for, came forward amidst deafening cheers. He also [illegible] tion then and when last addressing the people. He said the Reform West Peterborough had fought [illegible] the late contest, the old battle so often fought by Reformers and Conservatives for centuries [illegible] ber bitterness. They contended for the strict control of the representatives over public expenditure, and their principles had received the cordial endorsation of a majority of the Electors in the Riding. The struggle for the sovereignty in the late contest, and he believed Reformers while condemning the action of the Conservatives in trying to steal a Candidate against the wishes of the people, would be equal to the emergency, and by their calm and dignified bearing and determined resolution, show themselves able to properly control their feelings under such an extraordinary outrage as had been committed by the Returning Officer, and thereby prove themselves worthy when called on, as they soon would, able to govern this great country. The spokesmen of the Conservative party in this Riding must now feel in a humiliating position. While claiming to be the peoples', they upheld a Returning Officer trying to force upon them a representative of a people who did not represent a majority of their votes, and while shouting, "faction, faction," all over the country, they are guilty of [illegible] the most factious outrages on record. They had tried to make a case against Reformers in the so-called "Protest Outrage," and now they themselves had perpetrated the "Peterborough Outrage," whereby a whole constituency is sought to be misrepresented. But it was only in pieces with what "Wandering Willie" proclaimed on the Hustings at Lindsay, viz:—that they (the Tories) were bound to rule Canada by fair or foul means, "by hook or by crook" but the voice of the people at the late contest proclaims their condemnation and says,—we do not want such men to rule over us. Mr. Bertram then referred to a false statement that had been circulated, that his qualification had been demanded on the Hustings. It was false, he said. He distinctly denied that any person had ever asked him for it, but he had heard Mr. Clurton asked for his, [illegible] not ready. The high functionary being non-plussed that Mr. Clurton was not ready, entirely omitted to ask his (Mr. Bertram's). He, however, had put it in voluntarily, and paid for it, in good faith and truly, the sum of $3,500. He was therefore properly qualified, and his qualification, according to the best legal advice in the province, was in time, and as he was the rightful representative of the West Riding of Peterborough, he would leave no stone unturned to regain the position to which by the voice of the people he was entitled. He sat down amid deafening cheers.

Mr. Dumble then moved the first resolution, and on coming forward for the purpose was loudly applauded. He said he thanked them for the kindly cheer manifested toward him. He felt he needed it all under the peculiar circumstances in which the party were placed. Not a few of the Independent Electors had assisted him, asking him, "was he able to bear all that was placed upon him," and he was glad to find that the spirit manifested to night was sufficient to encourage him, feeling he still had the best wishes of the Reformers of the West Riding." He could almost say that his "vote was unanimous." One thing was certain, that from his earliest days all his sympathies were with them and every vote he had ever given was for them. He had studied their principles deeply, and looked at their actions, and found that all the rights the people enjoyed, all the broad and liberal ideas, all the progressive and enlightened ideas that blessed the world originated with them, and were forced upon the world by reformers. It is true they had been called all sorts of names and considered disturbers of the public peace (factionists might be one of the appropriate) of [illegible] which [illegible] were not met with—"three men turn the world upside down." It was so at Ephesus, it is so every where. Notwithstanding all this, Reformers had done their noble work. They had forced from tyrants the dearest liberties, and forced from fossil Tories, grand and noble reforms that deserved should have been brought about but for them. Viewing things in this way his only desire was to be in the fullest sympathy with Reformers. During the late contest there had been a fight for principle. Against them were arrayed power, influence, money, but the people had said we will not sell our birthright for such trash. A majority of votes was cast for the Reform Candidate, and yet the unscrupulous party that had always denied the people their rights had retorted the men in the minority. The people, however, will not bear this, but will rise in their might and [illegible] The cowardly knaves that [illegible] principle of freemen, the right to be represented by the men whom they chose. Having outraged all decency in the contest, and by its crowning act, they then try by stealing us to divert [illegible] from themselves by crying "stop thief." Everything that party could do was right, of course, and so they associate Providence with themselves, in their villany, and say the hitch in the constitution was an interposition of Providence in their behalf. The Sheriff, the highest Commoner in the County, and one chosen by the Returning Officer by virtue of his office, is ignored over—a man whose position seems him responsible, is passed down and a stranger, not known in the constituency, and who never would have been chosen by them, for this information only is selected as Returning Officer.—This Celebrated Doctor gets the vote and retains them at pleasure, and when for Mr. Clurton's qualification, imagining it was ready, but finding it was not, he was so discomfitted he forgot to ask for Mr. Bertram's. He might remember that it was not true that he (Mr. Dumble) interfered about Mr. B's qualification, it was to remove the cold sweat from the brows of Mr. Clurton that he said the qualification could be put in any time prior to the proclamation. The GOVERNMENT that appointed such creatures but the respect of all parties. He referred to Mr. Perry's qualifications, that though wholly insufficient the Reform party here never objected to [illegible] can guard against the thief or the man who knocks another down on the street. Not one ever dreamt of the perpetration of the outrage just inflicted on us. And he now believed that neither the Returning Officer nor his party had fully measured the enormity of the crime or thought of the disgrace it would entail on all concerned; and he felt that Mr. Clurton would never be able to surmount the disgrace he heaped upon himself by being a party to such infamous proceedings.

He then read the following resolution which was seconded by Mr. Stratton, and on being put to the meeting was unanimously adopted:

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Stratton:

"WHEREAS, Doctor George Burnham, Jr., who was appointed Returning Officer for the West Riding of the County of Peterborough, for the recent Elections for the House of Commons for the Dominion of Canada, throughout his whole conduct departed from that dignified impartiality which should be incident to his office, in that he publicly declared, long before the nomination day, that he would appoint for Deputy Returning Officers, Conservatives who had no votes, who would appoint Reform voters for Poll Clerks, thus killing two votes, (A threat he fully carried out.) and in that, on the election day, he took an active part in the election contest, and finally, in returning as elected the Minority Candidate, against all law, justice and precedent."

"This meeting would express in strongest language their indignant remonstrance against such act, as opposed to English and Canadian customs and law, as uncourteous to the Electors, and scurrilous to the [illegible] Candidate."

"This [illegible] air disapproval of the custom of appointing to so responsible an office, over the heads of Sheriffs and other high functionaries, persons restrained neither by the dignity of office nor the responsibility of trust."

Mr. Fairbairn who moved the second resolution was received with continued applause. In moving the resolution he referred to the object of the meeting, viz: for the purpose of giving expression to our views on the conduct of certain people in connection with the recent election in this riding. He said a great, a real outrage has been perpetrated upon us by the very persons who have been so vehemently charging the Reform party and its leaders with imaginary wrongs. That the position we occupy may be well understood I will here state that we are at issue with our opponents upon a question of fact as well as a question of law. The question of fact has already been attended to. We shall be prepared to establish when the proper time comes, the entire correctness of what has been stated here to-night. Should we establish the facts to be as [illegible] unless the qualification is personally demanded, there is no shadow of ground for contending that it must be furnished. We are however at issue with them on the question of law when assuming that a proper demand was made, we contend, and we think rightly, that the requirements of the law were fully complied with. (Here Mr. Fairbairn briefly referred to the different statutes and the present state of the law affecting the matter) showing that a fair interpretation of the election act as amended left no reasonable doubt that Mr. Bertram had fully met the demands of the law. He said I bear testimony to the truthfulness of Mr. Bertram's statements about his qualifications, as I have personal knowledge of the fact that he became the bona fide owner of real estate ample in value prior to his nomination, and was abundantly qualified notwithstanding the various statements which have been made to the contrary. In view of all this, there can be little doubt that the whole matter will be put right speedily when [illegible] explanation. As to the conduct of the [illegible] little need be said. The position just passed unanimously speaks emphatically of him, and he must feel from utterly strength if he proves [illegible] to which an expression of the opinion of so large and influential a number of his fellow-citizens. His conduct has been that of a partisan and not that of an impartial officer and we may fairly condemn the government which [illegible] from respectable officials [illegible] of this kind to entrust them to irresponsible persons, who can with comparative impunity become the tools of unscrupulous men. The resolution I am [illegible] deals with Mr. Clurton of his position. I am called upon to speak to you. During the whole of the recent campaign, it will be remembered that I never spoke otherwise than kindly of Mr. Clurton personally. A strong conviction of the impropriety of his conduct in connection with the outrage compels me to speak of him now as I think he deserves to be spoken of. He cannot shirk the responsibility of his acts by saying that he has placed himself in the hands of his committee; he is personally responsible [illegible] has placed himself to act with [illegible] unscrupulous man [illegible] ble man [illegible] is still time for him to [illegible] himself. It is open to him to decline that he will not take his seat. He is afforded time for reflection, and it is to be hoped that he will [illegible] opportunity. If, however, he deliberately goes on with the perpetration of this great wrong, I can tell him that the odium of it will stick to him as long as he lives. He will yet learn, and that to his sorrow, that wrong-doing though it may afford a temporary advantage, can never result in any lasting benefit to him or any one else. The effect of this new exhibition of the unscrupulousness of some of our opponents will in the long run prove beneficial to our party in West Peterboro; for we will be [illegible] and more united, and I [illegible] majority of the Conservatives [illegible] we [illegible] that [illegible] responsibility [illegible] this affair, and in due time [illegible] the [illegible] who have [illegible] services rendered to the party by [illegible] Who have [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Press of the Dominion

The last of the Dominion Elections took place on last Monday in Ontario. There are two counties yet in Quebec to return their members also. For Manitoba and British Columbia the writs are made returnable on the 15th of October. The defeated Knights in Prince Edward Island, Mr. Francis has found a resting place in British Columbia, where he has been elected by acclamation; Sir G. E. Cartier has not yet found a constituency; he may likely try Manitoba. It appears likely for the appreciation of the ability of these two men that they are compelled to obtain their seats in the House in obscure constituencies, and that too where they are not known.

We will not attempt to classify the members who have been elected as belonging to [illegible] party, as it is not until it will be seen how they will vote; but we believe the Government has lost very heavily, and consequently there will be a powerful Opposition, which will we have no doubt compell Sir John and his colleagues to surrender their offices when the first session of Parliament is fairly commenced.—Grand Review.

DEATHS.—The rate of mortality in Rob' appears [illegible] immediate neighborhood has been much higher than usual during the past year. The first interment in the cemetery was on the 1st of January 1871, and to [illegible] it contains no less than eighty graves, twelve of which, however, contain bodies interred there still-born children. By far the greatest number of deaths have been of persons past fifty years, and amongst the latter especially infants, there has been a very frequent mortality during the present summer.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

EAST TORONTO.—It is true that Mr. O'Donohoe has been defeated in East Toronto, but he made a splendid run a fortnight since at Whitevale hiding, of York South celebrity, James Beaty, who was elected by the meagre majority of 164. When Mr. Beaty stated that Sir John A. Macdonald was not dead in Toronto, on his personal assertions in favor of Sydney Beaty, that Mr. Beaty is a very wealthy man; and also that he is a very good man, the Liberal Candidate with an intermediate sixth fetid, Gentleman Influence and a host of supporters to whom he has in a great measure [illegible] which blinded [illegible] to [illegible] Mr. O'Donohoe and his friends

CANADA.

ALEX. H. WINGATE.

Let others sing of more [illegible]
Of lands beyond the sea
There's not a dearer spot on earth
Than Canada to me
Dear Canada, loved Canada,
Wherever I may be,
There's not a land on all the earth
Shall win my heart from thee.

Her sons will ne'er submit to object
Beneath a tyrant's sway,
The stag that roams her forest glades,
Is not more free than they.
Dear Canada, loved Canada,
Wherever I may be,
There's not a land on all the earth
Shall win my heart from thee.

The red cross flag our father's reared,
We hail it as a friend,
And should that flag e'er be assailed,
Its glories we'll defend
Fair Canada, brave Canada,
No land on earth more free,
And he would be a cowardly slave,
That would not strike for thee.

The Scot may boast his heather hills,
The Englishman his rose,
And Erin's sons may love the value
Where Erin's shamrock grows,
But Canada, loved Canada,
Is dearer far to me,
No other land, however grand,
Shall win my heart from thee.

The sun that tints her maple trees,
With Nature's magic wand,
Shines down on peaceful, happy homes,
In our Canadian land;
Fair Canada, loved Canada,
My heart is wed to thee,
Be thou the land of noble deeds,
And Empire of the free.

Useful Items.

TANNING WITH GLYCERINE.—[illegible] property of glycerine [illegible] known for a long [illegible] in use it in tanning and [illegible] system of tanning is adopted in straps and belts of machinery. It keeps the leather strong and crackless. It is only necessary to immerse the leather, prepared in the usual manner, in a bath of glycerine and to leave it for several weeks, when the pores will be impregnated with the oleaginous substance and the leather will be much more elastic and tenacious.

To Japan Old Tea Trays.—Wash them thoroughly with soap and water and a little rotten stone, then dry them by wiping and exposure at the fire. Now get some good copal varnish, mix with it some bronze powder, and apply with a brush to the denuded parts. After which, set the tea tray in an oven at a heat of from 250 to 300 degrees until the varnish is dry. Two coats will make it equal to new.

Borax.—One half a pound will drive the cockroaches out of any house. A large handful of the powder to ten gallons of water will effect a saving of fifty per cent. in soap. It is an excellent dentifrice and the best material for cleansing the scalp.

To make Old Butter Fresh.—Knead with lime water or a very diluted solution of washing soda. Simply washing in water is often perfectly efficacious.

Dr. Caspari has successfully prescribed the tincture of iodine in cases of vomiting where nothing else relieved the patient.

The Mumps.—Dr. Eldrage says he has invariably cured mumps, even when Orchitis has taken place, with an emetic, in twelve, fourteen or twenty-four hours. He never knew the emetic to fail.

Dyspepsia Remedy.—Carbonate Soda one ounce, one quart cold water, put in at night and it is fit for use in the morning. Dose one wine glass a day. When the bottle is about half used, fill it up again. The patient will be cured before he has used many bottles.

Diet for Diarrhœa.—Roast some rice as you would coffee, then grind it in a coffee mill, then dissolve two ounce of gum arabic in one pint of hot water, when dissolved put in a tea cup of rice, and let it boil twenty minutes, or until it is the consistency of mush. If too thick, as you use it, thin it with hot water. Desperate cases have been cured by this remedy.

Boiling Meat.—All kinds of poultry and meat can be cooked quicker by adding to the quart of water in which they are boiled a little vinegar or a piece of a lemon. By the use of an acid there will be a considerable saving of fuel, as well as shortening of time. Its action is beneficial to old, tough meats, rendering them quite tender and easy to be digested.

For the Teeth.—Prepared chalk, two pounds, pulverized Peruvian bark one pound, orris root one pound, white sugar and sugar one and a half pounds, Castile soap one ounce, carbonate of soda one ounce, oil of sassafras eight drops. To make a tooth paste, add to the powder these ounces of glycerine and a sufficient quantity of honey to make the preparation of the proper consistency.

To Restore Old Orchard.—Old orchards, apparently dying out, may be brought back again to fruitfulness by the liberal use of wood ashes, also stirring the soil. Potash is the most important element in the successful growth of all kinds of fruit trees. An orchard of apple trees originally placed upon very poor ground, was preserved by sprinkling every year round each tree, to the circumference of the extent of its branches half a bushel of ashes.

Strawberries for the Million.—It is a burning shame at this day for any farmer or gardener no matter where located to be without a clean and thrifty strawberry patch for family use. The old plea that the manure [illegible] is altogether too valuable to be wasted on the luxurious [illegible] is now entirely exploded. Such [illegible] are much more elastic and tenacious.

Tomatoes.—The tomato is one of the most healthful of all vegetables. It may be eaten three times a day, cold or hot, cooked or raw, alone or with salt, pepper, vinegar and in the utmost that can be taken with an appetite. Its healthful quality arises from its slight acidity, as berries, currants and similar articles, and it is also highly nutritious. The tomato season ends with the frost, it hung up in a well ventilated cellar, with the tomatoes hanging to the vines, they will continue to ripen until Christmas. The cellar should not be too dry nor too warm. The knowledge of this may be improved to great advantage for the benefit of all who are fond of tomatoes.

To Clean Gold Chains.—Put the chain in a small glass bottle, with warm water, a little tooth powder and some soap. Cork the bottle, and shake it for a minute violently. The friction against the glass polishes the gold, and the soap and chalk extracts every particle of grease and dirt from the interstices of a chain of the most intricate pattern, and it in clear cold water, wipe with a towel, and the polish will surprise you.

COUNTY TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, TO WIT: BY Virtue of a Warrant under the Hand of the Warden and Seal of the County of Peterborough, and to me directed, bearing date the Nineteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, I am commanded under the authority of an Act of Parliament of the Province of Ontario passed in the thirty-second year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter thirty-six, entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law respecting the Assessment of Property in the Province of Ontario," to levy on the lands hereinafter mentioned and described, for the Arrears of Taxes due thereon, with the Costs, as hereinafter specified, as directed by the said Act.

I do therefore to give notice, that unless the said Arrears and Costs are sooner paid I will proceed to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the COURT HOUSE, in the Town of Peterborough, on THURSDAY the FIFTH day of DECEMBER, A.D. 1872.

AT THE HOUR OF NINE O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON,

The said Lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred in and about such Sale, and the collection of the Taxes

THE REASONS WHY
LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's
CELEBRATED
Perfected Spectacles,
AND EYE GLASSES,
have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:—
1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.
2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.
3rd. Because no glimmering or dimness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selection.
4th. Because the system of fitting by measuring guides to the true requirement of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.
5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.
6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.
Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.
A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by

Select Poetry.

THE FIRST POCKET.
What is this tremendous noise?
What can be the matter?
Whistle coming up the stairs
With metallic clatter
How he bursts into the room.
Noisy as a rocket,
"Auntie! I'm five years old—
And I've got a pocket."
Eyes as round and bright as stars,
Cheeks like apples glowing,
Heart that this new treasure fills
Quite to overflowing.
"Soft may have his squeaking boots
Kate may have her basket,
I've got something better yet—
I have got a pocket."
All too fresh the joy to make
Emptiness a sorrow,
Little hand is plump enough
To fill it—till to-morrow,
And e'er many days were o'er
Strangest things did stock it.
Nothing ever came amiss
To this wondrous pocket.
Leather, marbles, bits of string,
Licorice-sticks and candy,
Stones, a ball, his pennies, too,
It was always handy.
And, when Willie's sang in bed,
Should you chance to knock it,
Sundry treasures rattle out
From this crowded pocket.
Sometimes Johnny's borrowed knife
Found a place within it.
He forgot that he had said,
"I want it just a minute,"
Once the closet key was lost,
No one could unlock it,
Where do you suppose it was?
Down in Willie's pocket!

The Riots in Ireland.
ACCOUNT OF THEIR ORIGIN—THE FIRST DAY OF THE DISTURBANCES AT BELFAST.

Last year, and for many years preceding it was the celebration of Orange anniversaries that made it necessary for the British Government to send military and constabulary to the north of Ireland. This year the Orange anniversaries were allowed to pass comparatively unheeded, but the Roman Catholic holiday of the 15th of August excited much attention. For several days bodies of police had been on the move north-ward. On the 13th about 80 of the Sligo force were drafted to Londonderry, and on the following day 150 of the 1st Royal Dragoon Guards and nearly 800 of the constabulary left Dublin, chiefly for the neighborhood of Clifford, County Down, where one of the largest demonstrations was expected to take place.

At Belfast, on August 16, there was great excitement and more than one severe collision between the contending parties, and several persons were hurt more or less seriously. The ship carpenters, who are mostly Orangemen, to the number of several hundred, left their work, and endeavored to interrupt the progress of the Processionists, who sharply resented the interference.

The demonstration was held at Hannahstown about four miles from Belfast.

The majority of the procession in bodies assembled in Hercules street, at 9 o'clock, with its bands and banners, and in their green regalia. Their appearance was good, and their conduct most becoming.

Rain was falling heavily all the time.

The hour for starting having arrived, the procession proceeded on its way to Hannahstown, it passed through Donegal street preceded by a band. When it arrived at Trinity street it was met by an opposing mob, who would not permit it to pass in that direction, and members of each party at once resorted to stone-throwing, which was carried on for a considerable time, but was fortunately put to an end by the appearance of Town Commissioner Bailey and a large body of police, but not before the rioters had smashed the windows of the Rev. Mr. Macready, a church. The Processionists between advice and compulsion, turned back and did not persist in passing that route to their place of meeting. The Processionists then turned down Donegal-st. into Corporation-st. through Victoria-st-st, up High-st, and into Castle-st., en route to Hannahstown. When the procession arrived at the Model School, the centre of it was attacked by a stone-throwing mob that had assembled at the corner of Townsend-st, A fierce and most determined struggle ensued. Brick bats and large stones almost darkened the air. Persons who witnessed the riots of 1865 declare that the scene of that morning was unexampled even in those boisterous times. The processionists doubled to their assailants, and tore down a portion of the railing that enclosed a piece of ground at the corner of Townsend and Davis streets. The plot of ground was filled with debris, which provided lots of the ammunition then in use. Then occured the fiercest scenes. The brick bats were hurled in every direction, and boards were torn off and used as weapons. Of the five detatched houses in Townsend street, not one had a window that was not smashed, especially the one owned by Mr. John Ginger; several panes were also broken in Mr. Hugh's bakery establishment, and other buildings adjacent. A stop was soon put to the scuffle by the appearance of the police, who arrested nine of the offenders and took them in custody to the police office. The remainder shortly after dispersed, and the processionists proceeded on their way without further annoyance than that of having a drum broken by a stone flung by three young lads, who we believe are now under custody. Of the persons injured at Dover street, were a man named Doherty, a poor girl who was passing up the street, and who got hemmed in, a number of other rather hideous boys took refuge in the stationed Castle, who had the door well barred out to a most laudable measure. It is supposed, with one of the crowd who had again turned to stop the procession.

The meeting at Hannahstown was held in a large field. It was presided over by Joseph G. Biggar, Esq., Belfast, and it is supposed that there were 30,000 people present. The Chairman dwelt at some length on the necessity of home rule for Ireland, and declared his belief that it was the aristocratic members of the Government and not Mr. Gladstone who refused the demands of Ireland. The proceedings at Hannahstown were perfectly quiet and orderly, except that several [illegible] and it was said that one man was seriously wounded, but it is supposed to have been accidental. The large proportion of those attending the meeting wore green scarfs, and there were numerous green banners displayed bearing mottoes, as "Erin go Bragh" and "God save Ireland." The procession started on the return to Belfast between 3 and 4o'clock, and although many rough who joined the procession carried sticks, there was no interference with the march, an consequently no disturbances. Three or four bands accompanied the Processionists. In the afternoon a large body—several hundreds—of shipcarpenters assembled, it is supposed for the purpose of interfering with the returning procession, but the police, after a slight skirmish succeeded in dispersing them.

Strength of Gibraltar.

Until you set foot upon Gibraltar you can form no idea of its impregnability. Very properly its real strength cannot be seen from a ship in the bay; only when you land do you find that the sea-wall bristles with heavy guns, and groans beneath piles of ball; only only as you traverse its flank do you see how formidable the breech-loaders peep from behind every available chink, and powerful mortars lurk behind every convenient embankment. And not until you penetrate the body of the rock do you get any just notion of the marvellous piece of military engineering exhibited in its "galleries." These are excavated from the solid rock, par excellence to its outer side, but some thirty feet therefrom and large enough to drive a carriage through. They are in two tiers, and comprise a total length of nearly three miles. At every thirty feet or so along them, spacious embrasures are cutthrown, that terminate in commanding portholes, which look to a spectator outside the rock like swallows' nest holes in a sand cliff. These embrasures contain heavy guns always standing ready for action, with powder magazines hard by. From the portholes beautiful peeps of the bay and the Spanish country are obtained; out of these, on the north side, you look down upon a [illegible] sandy, neat grassy flat, perhaps half a mile long, and on wide or wider connecting the rock with the mainland, and separating the bay from the Mediterranean. Two lines of sentry beats, one at the rock end and the other at the distant end, mark the boundaries of British and Spanish land between these lines is the "neutral ground." The guns in the quarried embrasures, and those hidden cannon that send the western and southern slopes of the rock, cover the neighboring Spanish land, the whole of the bay and the straits, and the strengthing work is ever going on by the fortification of new points that from time to time appear vulnerable. The western side of the rock requires no protection; it is a forbidding wall, with a great and slope in one place, but with no foothold of anything more than a few fishermen's huts near the water's edge.—London Telegraph.

To Young Ladies.

In marrying make your own match.

Do not marry anyone to get rid of him, or to oblige him. The man who would go to destruction without you would quite likely go with you, and perhaps drag you along also.

Do not marry in haste, lest you repent at your leisure.

Do not marry for a home and a living when by burning up your corsets, and rolling up your sleeves, and taking care of your health, you can be strong enough to earn your own living and provide a home for yourself.

Do not let aunts, or fathers, or mothers sell you for money, or position into bondage, tears, and lifelong misery, which you alone must endure.

Do not place yourself habitually into the company of any suitor till you have decided the question of marriage, human wills are weak, and people often become bewildered, and do not know their error till it is too late. Get away from their influence, settle your head, and make up your mind alone. A promise may be made in an hour of half delirious ecstacy, which must be redeemed through years of sorrow, toil and pain.

Do not trust your happiness in the keeping of one who has no heart, no health.

Do not look too high unless you wish a companion who will despise.

Beware of insane blind unless you wish children that will fill your life with sorrow and close their own with suicide!

Do not marry hastily, contrary to the wishes of parents, guardians and friends, you may refuse to marry at their bidding, but you have no right to rush hastily into wedded life against their counsel. Wait—a few months may make you thank heaven for their restraint and care. Love can wait, that which cannot wait is something of a very different character.

Do not imagine that because two persons are miserable when apart they will live happily together. The opposite is more usually true. The "happy" is in the heart. Those who are happy when separated will be happier when united. The Christian.

Playing Cards.

A correspondent asks, "Ought a member of a church to be excommunicated for playing cards?" This is one of the cases in which private theatricals, reproof and counsel, seem to be required. Many persons play at cards in private circles, or groups, and the game is easily restricted to the genuine, innocent quiet game. It is a great assistance for any one to keep now or play cards. The accompanying fascinating and enchanting [illegible]

MEDICAL SYSTEMS.

LAW OF CURE.

There are now in existence just five [illegible] each having its vitality, five distinct schools, and if each has not its distinctive "law of cure," it has [illegible] distinctive methods. These are the Allopathic, Homœopathic Eclectic, Physio-Medical and Hydropathic. And as medicine has been cultivated assiduously and systematically for nearly three thousand years, these systems must necessarily represent the aggregate of the wisdom the medical profession has accumulated thus far in the world's history.

The [illegible] fundamentally in theory and grossly in practice, while they recognize the same facts in anatomy, physiology, pathology and chemistry. The differences, therefore, must consist in the interpretation of the facts, in the [illegible] of the facts into principles, and in the grouping of principles as they relate to the laws of the vital organism.

While there is truth in all of these systems so far as demonstrable facts are concerned, there must be error somewhere in relation to primary premises. Wherever two assumed first principles be laws of nature are antagonistic, one or other must be false. But any number of facts, however seemingly discordant, may be admitted as true, the only question being, how they are to be interpreted in view of principles, or arranged in harmony with law.

Any medical system may be proved or disproved, reasoning from given premises. The essential thing in the investigation of scientific problems, is to prove the premises. Then, if the logic is sound, the conclusion must be correct.

The theory that the earth revolves on its axis had been controverted by learned men for twelve hundred years. Why? Because its opponents did not study the law of planetary motion, contenting themselves with appearances—facts without a theory to explain them. Medical systems may dispute with each other forever, if they confine the discussion to facts and experience. But when the law of vitality which comprehends the facts is discovered, the dispute will end. The world will then have but one medical system, and that will be the right one.—From the Science of Health.

Truthful and Obedient.

"Charlie, Charlie!" Clear and sweet as a note struck from a silvery bell, the voice rippled over the common.

"That's mother," cried one of the boys and he instantly threw down his bat, and picked up his jacket and cap.

"Don't go yet!" "Have it out!" "Finish the game!" "Try it again!" cried the players in a noisy chorus.

"I must go—right off—this minute I told her I'd come whenever she called."

"Make believe you didn't hear!" they exclaimed.

"But I did hear."

"Let him go," said a bystander. "You can't do anything with him. He is tied to his mothers apron strings."

"That's so," said Charles, "and it's to what every boy ought to be tied, and in a hard knot, too."

"But I would not be such a baby as to run the minute she called," said one.

"I do not call it babyish to keep one's word to his mother," answered the obedient boy, a beautiful light glowing in his eye. "I call that manly, and the boy who don't keep his word to her will never keep it to anyone else, you see if he does!" and he hurried away to his cottage home.

Thirty years have passed since those boys played on the common, Charles C. is now a prosperous business man in a great city, and his mercantile friends say of him that "his word is as good as his bond."

We asked him once how he had acquired such a reputation!

I never broke my word when a boy, no matter how great the temptation. The habit formed then has clung to me through life."

Victory for the Ballot.

The London Telegraph gives the details of [illegible] in England under the Ballot.

The [illegible] for the representation of Pontefract, Mr. Childers and Lord Pollington being the candidates.

The utmost quiet, perfect tranquility in fact, prevailed during the whole time of voting, and the state of the poll was posted up at intervals of two hours. The result was declared at 4 o'clock, without injury to all concerned. The excellent character of Pontefract, Tadcaster, Selby, Knaresborough, Ripon, and Boroughbridge, as well as the whole of the West Riding, for order and quiet, was fully maintained on the occasion of the polling.

Parties went and deposited their ballots with as much quiet and decorum as they would go to the Post Office and deposit a letter and the gaping crowd was none the wiser. No contradictory figures were circulated during the day as was always the case with the old method of voting. The result was an absolute secret from all until the ballot boxes were collected and formally opened and the ballots counted after the close of the polls.

A properly conducted ballot is the perfection of voting.

When the ballots were counted it was found that Childers had a majority of 30 votes.

Fate of the Apostles.

Matthew is supposed to have suffered martyrdom, or was slain in the city of Ethiopia.

Mark was dragged through the streets of Alexandria, in Egypt, till he expired.

John was put in a boiling cauldron at Rome, but escaped death. He died a natural death in Ephesus, in Asia.

James the Great was beheaded in Jerusalem.

NOTICE TO

SAW MILL OWNERS AND LUMBERMEN.

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 28th August, 1872

ALL returns of saw logs and boom timber to be made to the Department of Crown Lands o. its agents, must in future be sent in on or before the FIRST day of JUNE, in each year, and must be sworn to by the person who superintended the cutting of such logs and boom timber, and also by the Culler who measured the same; the returns must give the number of pieces of logs and their respective lengths and diameters, and the number of pieces of boom timber, the length of each piece, with the diameter of each from bark to bark at butt and top; and also the locality where the same have been cut: the number of feet, board measure, of each quantity of logs of the same lengths and diameters, computed by "Scribner's Ready Reckoner" to be entered in the returns.

Separate returns must be made of the operations of each Shanties and each Jobber, and where it is intended to pass logs or boom timber as cut on private lands, or on lands under settler's licenses, separate returns, and oath, must be made in each case, showing the number of pieces of logs and boom timber, and their respective dimensions, and the lot or part lot on which the same have been cut.

When all returns of any lumbering establishment have been sent in and checked, the affidavit of the proprietor or proprietors of the logs and boom timber, or his or their manager or principal bookkeeper, as to the total number of pieces of logs, and pieces of boom timber, cut by him or them, or acquired from others during the season of operation for which returns are made, will be required to be furnished to the Department or its agents, the Department or agents should be advised when final returns have been furnished.

Attention is called to the 16th and 17th clauses of the "Crown Timber Regulations" which make it imperative that every facility, assistance and information be afforded to the Department and its agents, by all parties operating in timber or saw logs, &c., in the investigation of the extent and nature of such operations, and the examination of books and verification of returns.

Blank forms for the above returns may be had on application to the Department or any of its agents.

Editorial Items.

The Market is beginning to be better supplied, prices are yet high and may remain so until the Fall work is fully settled, when a more abundant supply will be experienced.

The American Garrison has removed from San Juan Island to Port Townsend, Washington Territory. The Globe says—"This appears to indicate a surrender of the disputed territory to the British Government."

A farmer named Thomas Cohan of Haldimand was killed in Cobourg last week by one Thomas Kewin a bar-tender. Deceased had been drinking and became abusive, whereon Kewin put him out, knocked him down on the sidewalk and kicked him when down, Kewin is committed for trial.

In this issue we give an interesting letter from Mr. John Hunter formerly of this County at present in California. It was written some time since but mislaid, it will still be new to our readers and will prepare them for other letters from the same gentlemen, likely to follow, on the climate, soil, trade, progress &c., of California.

FRUIT AND ORNAMENTAL TREES.—We have much pleasure in inviting attention to the advertisment of Mr. Robert Brown, in another column. Mr. Brown is so well known in this county that he requirers no recommendation from us, he being one of the first settlers of the township of Douro. He intends canvassing the county for orders for fruit and ornamental trees, from the Leslie Nursery, Toronto. Farmers and others wanting articles im his line, would do well to patronize him. The Nursery is highly spoken of and Mr Brown will be found worthy of favor.

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH for October contains an illustrated article on Popular Physiology, showing the effects of improper dressing, and improper positions in sitting, standing and sleeping, and the evil effects which come from transgression in this direction; the Different Medical Systems are discussed; Diseases of the Eye, Illustrated; an article on Hygienic Dwellings gives directions for ventilation, light, location, etc. What is Hygienic Agriculture? It discusses the Theory and Practice of Medicine; Fresh Fruits and Vegetables; Hopefulness as a Remedial Agent; Women Physicians and the Health of Editors. This magazine is published at $2 a year; single numbers 20 cents. It is offered ON TRIAL three months—this and the next two numbers—for 25 cents. Address the Publisher, S. R. WELLS, 389 Broadway N. Y.

CATCHING AT STRAWS.—The Tories of South Brant were almost jubilant over the idea that because Mr. Paterson, member elect, was assessed for property valued by the Assessor at only $900, he could not qualify, and that hence Sir Francis would sit for that constituency. Their joy was turned into sadness on learning that previous to nomination Mr. Paterson had purchased real estate to the value of $3000 and had also taken the necessary qualification to the Returning Officer the day after the nomination.

We clip the following from the Woodstock Sentinel:—

"The advice of Sir John's organ to his followers is: "Whenever you can, elect our friends to the various municipal offices." Reformers should understand thoroughly whether or not this advice is going to be acted upon when the municipal elections take place. The game is one that both parties can play at."

We are informed on the best of authority, that the advice is being acted upon in this County, and that already an active but sly canvass is going on for the purpose. Out upon the vile partizans who thus seek to inaugurate a system that is sure to engender most injurious feelings. It is not new in this county. Last season the immaculate and genial editor of the Review succeeded in securing an attempt at in Smith but signally failed in his object, nevertheless, the lesson is being acted upon again. The result will no doubt be the same, as before defeat.

Mr. Moylan of the Canadian Freeman has been appointed Inspector of Provincial Penitentiaries in the room of Terence O'Neil, Esq., deceased.

Sir George Cartier has had to seek a resting place in the far West. Reil and Attorney General Clarke of Manitoba both retired from Provencher and allowed the Minister of Militia to be elected by acclamation. This must be galling to the high minded Frenchman. Sir Francis Hincks does not appear to relish his position in Vancouver, and intends retiring into private life. Mons. Cartier may do likewise as his Physicians advise retirement on account of ill health.

Mr. John O'Donohoe has received the appointment of County Attorney for the County of York, and no man better deserves it. A life long Reformer who has done good service for his party deserves to be remembered when opportunities occur, and we are glad to see that the Ontario Government have not been ungrateful in this case. We have no idea that Mr. O'Donohoe will completely eschew politics in the future, as we hope yet to see him occupy an honorable position in our Legislative halls, for which few men in the Dominion are better qualified.

AGRICULTURAL.—The west riding Show will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday the 8th and 9th of October.

The South Monaghan Show at Bloomfield on Friday the 11th of October.

The East Riding Show on the 10th and 11th of October.

Local Elections

In Middlesex. Mr. Westworth, reform, was was elected on Tuesday by a majority of 78.

Monck: Dr. Haney was also elected on Tuesday, majority 122. This Riding was held by the Tories.

The Returning Officer for Muscroka, has made a return declaring that there is an election in that county. Both the Returning Officer says one of the poll books was lost, and that one of the poll Clerks was not sworn, and hence his disqualification. Since hearing the above the book has been found. The object is to deprive Mr. Cockburn of his seat. Appropriate are matters with John A. Macdonald.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Room, 16th, 1872.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment.

Present—His Worship the Mayor in the chair. Messrs. Toole, Eldridge, Robertson, Stevenson, Patterson, Hopkins, Hall, Landy English and Smith.

The Minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Petitions were read from John McNaughton, Samuel Parker and others—James Patterson, Kate Elsworth and H. H. Smith and others asking for sidewalks and repairs on streets. They were referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

An account from E. Bertram for $31.47 was referred to the Finance Committee.

An account from E. Green for $1.75 as tolls for seven horses sold on the Market Square by C. Stapleton, he, E. Green having failed to receive the amount from Mr. Stapleton by provision of law, was laid on the table.

Mr. Toole chairman of the Bridge and Bridge Committee, read and submitted a Report which on motion was received and adopted on a division.

A communication was received from E. Green asking the Council to procure a second scale for the Market.

On motion of Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. Robertson—The Town Treasurer was directed to procure a proper Market scale in accordance with the request of Mr Green.

On motion of Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Robertson—Mr. Haslitt was allowed to remove the sheds in rear of his New Buildings on Hunter street a little further West.

On motion of Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Robertson—The Street Overseer was requested to take down the sheds lately used as an Hospital in the South of the Town.

On motion of Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. English—Messrs. Smith, Toole Lundy, Edmison and the mover were appointed a Special Committee to consider the propriety of purchasing the property owned by the late Mr. Burton and if it seemed advisable to enter into negotiations to see on what terms it can be secured to the Town and Report to the Council

Mr. Smith, Chairman of the Finance Committee read the following Report which was adopted.

To the Mayor and Town Council:

The Finance Committee beg leave to Report the payment of the following accounts.

W. S. Johnston for small pox patients	$30 00
MaKee and Davidson nails for side walks	32 55
Mason and Bradburn clothing for patients	12 65
Robertson and Walsh on account of printing	30 00

Your Committee would also recommend the payment of Dr. Kincaid's account of $425 for attendance on small pox patients At the same time your Committee cannot pass over this account without calling your attention to the manner in which the Doctor discharged this important and and unpleasant duty, very much to the injury of his extensive practice and to the relief of the unfortunate sufferers. Your Committee in order to show their esteem for his services, would recommend the Council to make some compensation for his attending all patients in future that the Town may be called upon for such relief. The Committee have examined the statement submitted by the Town Trust and would recommend your Treasurer paying the amount, $3070 when called for. Your Committee would recommend the payment of $125 to the Peterborough Independent Band provided the instruments belonging to such Band be transferred to the Town or Trustees to be appointed by the Town and the members of the Band, otherwise satisfactory security given to the Town for the said amount. All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) [illegible]
Chairman.

A By-law was read and passed providing for levying and collecting of rates for this year. The rate is 13 mills in the $.

On motion of Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. Edmison—The Street Inspector was instructed to erect a short piece of side walk on the east side of Rubidge street from McDonnell street, as far as the south limit of Borrowman's lot, out of pieces of old plank taken up from other places.

On motion of Mr. Lundy, seconded by Mr. Toole—The Fire Company were instructed not to ring the Fire Alarm for Meetings, That if it is considered necessary that the bell should be rung for that purpose, it must only be tolled.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

Anaheim, California, Dec. 6, 1871.

Dear Examiner—When I concluded my last letter I left you at Ogden in the territory of Utah, where I shall again begin. At this point we were called upon to change cars, a person in the garb of a watchman came on board and told us to follow his lead. He led us through amongst a multitude of cars until he pointed out the ones we were to occupy, and finally we got on board and selected our seats. The cars are better than the ones we left, being more roomy. We are again about the same number on board as before, and it being about 3 p.m. we were told that we would not start before 6 p.m. [illegible] This is a little number of dwelling constituting a city in this free country. The place is low and level, with water running on the side of the streets, I presume for irrigating purposes. The Buildings are low and far apart, the many places trees adorn the streets, and not being shorn of their summer foliage give the place a pleasing appearance—yet owing to their small leaves we buy nothing. The natives seem to understand the value of greenries in this valley, full well. We made our way again to the cars but had very hard work to find them in the multitude thereof. On board once more, we were soon under way, and upon night rested upon us, and having for several nights previously kept up as long as I could, I could stand it no longer, and so fell fast asleep. About midnight I awoke and found we were passing close to the shore of that notable sea of the Mormons. After leaving the shore we passed some very broken country, deep cuttings, high fillings, and trestle work, and apparently in the night past looking places. By day light we had entered a pretty valley with low lying ridges of hills in the rear, but the soil is alkali and barren; the surface appearing in many places white as hear frost, and the sage bush only grown. We had some little frost last night, but not so heavy as the preceeding one, being now down again to 6,330 feet. We are now at Terrace station at 7 a.m., and a lovely morning, the sun pouring over the distant mountains looks fine many. The [illegible] thus resemble some I saw before passed [illegible] covered with sandstone. John Chinamen are now plentiful, at work on the track. We are 760 miles from San Francisco. The soil after leaving the station is like blanched ashes, coloring the cars and affecting the tongue. As we whirl along our desert path nothing whatever is on this valley to attract the attention of man. It is [illegible] to the mountains on the left, and [illegible] to the mountains on the right, and [illegible] the valley is a little [illegible] but [illegible] cultivated. In the [illegible] where there is any vegetation it is entirely devoted to pasturage. We are now 479 miles from San Francisco, this, Saturday morning, November 4th.

There must be a country near where immense herds of cattle are raised, from the fact that at almost every station are pens for shipping cattle and the bones of many animals remain to whiten the surface of the ground. I see entire carcases lying near, no attention seems paid to the skinning of the animals. At the station we met cars of red wood lumber going east. Pushing on we come to Humbolt, a nice little place 422 miles from San Francisco. Trees planted here seem to grow, and they have also nice fountains. On the counter of a saloon near by is a small pipe playing into a small reservoir in which swim several small fishes of a golden hue, pretty creatures, on the left is a high mountain over hanging the village. We leave this station and pass along the bank of the stream for some miles. The stream seems to enter like a series of small lakes. I should think the length may be twenty or more miles, but narrow. The "sink of the Humbolt," as people call it, appears to have no outlet. The valley here is narrow, and where the track runs a perfect waste (desolate) like a newly plowed field. What stones appear on the surface are black and seemingly have been burned ages ago and may a some respects the sea of the plain. We are now at the lowest elevation of the Nevada range 360 miles from San Francisco, at 3,894 feet. On the opposite side of the lake are boiling sulphurous springs The crust here must be thin, and from appearances might give way. We are now at a station seemingly doing a large trade with the interior. Passing along to Reno, a city of great pretensions, we are in the valley of the Truckee river, a narrow valley, from four to eight rods wide, with perpendicular cliffs in many places towering above us, but it is night and I cannot see well, yet such is the grandeur of the scene that I cannot leave the platform until forced to surrender.

Saturday morning finds us at Truckee, seemingly a growing place but there seems little room for the mountain. There is about two inches of snow here and very cold, the country here is wooded, and I see a new mill in the city and several churches, a great portion of this place was burned this summer. From this we enter a range of tunnels and snow sheds, which cover the road for many miles. We are near the summit of the Sierras, 7017 feet high. Such a rough mountain gorge we are passing, huge granite boulders in all shapes overhanging the track, grand and majestic scenes are here presented as we whirl along, for we are now descending the Sierra and for the last time, as we near the Sacramento valley, on we go through miles of sheds, and when a space to open it is only to see ourselves passing some frightful chasm. This seems to be a mining district, or what can the people live upon. At the stations the never failing saloon still holds dominant sway, liquor flows like the glass.

In many places we run along the steep brow of the hills and it seems fearful to look from the track down to the bottom of the valley. We pass Coalfax and other mining towns on the road. We caused some curiosity leading strangers for Montana scouts by [illegible] Nearing the plain the country begins to be tilled, but the land looks as in the golden days of the State of California as if it had all been prospected for gold. Numerous ditches, now dry, but still visible, cut across here and there for many miles.

We have at last, left the snow region and the green foliage on the trees remains like autumn still. This day, Sunday, I saw a thermometer at 60 in the shade, the fields are planted with evergreen shade trees which look pleasant to us. We are nearing Sacramento, but night is upon us and we pass over a long bridge and are soon in town where we remained for a little time and changed one of our cars for a richer one, seemingly not to be treated on the mountains. Being in the night I am sorry I cannot give you any account of Sacramento, but from what I saw it seems a lively business place. We passed through a level country in the night and about day light we passed through the coast range of hills and by 8 o'clock we were nearing the Bay of San Francisco. Wondering I think the city is called, and also [illegible] ordered to surrender the tickets that had been on so much as much as used in. Each was provided with tickets for the ferry to San Francisco which is now visible on the distant side of the Bay. The cars still go and we are told to make our way quite an endeavor where the Ferry Boat lands, if not being yet come we have to wait patiently for some time for her arrival, at last she nears our landing, and a host of passengers for the overland send are absent of her, which the cars are now waiting to convey South over the the road we came. We now take our seats on the steamer, the same one wherein Miss Pair a few months ago journal upon her visting. We are again met with hotel runners of every clime and color, each one singing the praises of the place he represents, and ever pouring forth the ear a flood of stories of their neighbor's house. Amongst all this volume of smoke did words, however, we soon reach the dock and are safely landed in San Francisco on Monday morning at 6 o'clock, eleven days from Toronto, and [illegible] the carriage of the International Hotel to rest for a little while, are [illegible] to the Grand Central Hotel on Montgomery street, where we are [illegible] at 9 a.m. on Tuesday morning. In the afternoon I found through the town of Oakland, the city opposite [illegible] fine gardens on the streets, some very fine buildings, fine trees in parks, many narrow streets, fine churches, banks, and hotels, and many people who live on one another. Near our room a fire broke out in the night, and we were sore affrighted, but it was soon got under. We were glad, however, when the morning dawned and after breakfast the the carriage drove us to the steam ship California.

Before finally bidding adieu to the Pacific Road, I daresay many readers would be glad to hear what sort of a road it is, and I may be allowed to say that I give you my experience willingly. From Toronto to Detroit via G.W.R is a good layal road, A 1, I call it; from Detroit to Chicago, the road [illegible] quite so smooth as the first; from Chicago to Omaha the road in every respect equals a No. 1 road; from Omaha commences the great Pacific high way, this road is superb and firm, in all respects equal to the Great Western of Canada, save and except in those mountain passes I told you of; in those places where the bed of the road is formed on the solid rock it is rough, from the fact that timber bedded on a rock in any part of the world is liable to more vibration, but on the whole I consider it a good safe road. The conductors and brakesmen being many times changed it would be out of the question that their communicative powers would be alike, but I must do them justice and say that nearly all were very communicative and ready to answer your humble servant Some were more reticent and afforded little information, but all were exceedingly careful of their charge and I never saw any in the least out of order notwithstanding the prevalence of saloons along the line, and stopping as we did at every station.

Now for our sail on the salt sea on board the old steamship California. She is a black looking craft but seems to stand the swell as well as ever. When passing out of the entrance of the bay through what is called the Golden gate, we entered a cross sea which caused the vessel to heave a little, which little incident sent many of our passengers to their knees to make up accounts, some even remaining with ledgers open till afternoon. I forgot to tell you that we left the dock at 9 a.m. After we were fairly started under way we were startled by the bark of one of Jonathan's dogs kept on the upper deck We kept on the even tenor of our way all day, on the west by the broad ocean and on the east the barren mountains and the rugged beach, the mountains display a very diversified appearance with rugged coast line. In the evening we put ashore in the ship's boat some passengers and again started on our way, next day in the morning we again came to anchor at a buoy outside the harbor of Santa Barbara Here we discharged some of our cargo and some passengers. After leaving the [illegible] we passed large looking islands to right and after day light on Thursday morning, 48 hours from San Francisco we anchored at a buoy in San Pedro bay. A little steamer came along side and took all passengers on board bound for Los Angles, Anaheim or points east, amongst the number your humble servant, wife, and six children, who after a pleasant passage on the Pacific were landed safely at Wilmington Port.

The family did suffer slightly from sea sickness at first but soon got well. I fully expected a share but was disappointed.

A railway connects Wilmington with Los Angels, some twenty miles, and forms the only representative of the class in this part of the coast. For Anaheim a stage meets the boat. We could not all get seats on the stage and I left my family at Wilmington and went on myself. I procured a house for the family who arrived here by stage next day, all well, our trunks, only the remnants of their former splendor. I will now say no more here.

In my next I will give you some details of Anaheim and the background.

Yours, &c.,
JOHN HUNTER.

P.S.—I see the snow on the distant mountain tops, and by my side the clean deer in full bloom, yellow oranges and lemons hanging on [illegible] trees, strange contrast to a Canadian winter. In recalling the scenes all seems as if I were in a dream.—J. H

South Renfrew Outrage.

A large indignation meeting was held in this Riding at the village of Renfrew, when the following resolutions were passed.

Mr. McLACHLIN moved, seconded by Mr. J. D. MACDONALD, the first resolution:—

"Whereas, the addition of the townships of Hagerty, Sherwood, Jones, Burns and Richards to the previously existing Electoral Division of the South Riding of Renfrew, by legislative enactment in the closing hours of the first parliament of Canada, was not made with the knowledge and consent of the qualified electors of the South Riding of Renfrew, or upon the petition of the inhabitants of the townships before mentioned:

"And whereas this addition to the South Riding of Renfrew was made under the authority of an amendment to an Act to re-adjust the representation in the Commons, introduced in the Senate by the Hon. Alex. Campbell, Postmaster-General, and a member of of the Cabinet,—the responsibility for the change therefore is upon the Government of which the Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald is the Premier; especially as he moved concurrence on it in the House of Commons.

"And whereas this addition was made in direct violation of a distinct promise from the Minister of Justice to Mr. Mackenzie, that the Government would not ask the concurrence of Parliament upon any matter which had not previously been introduced and sanctioned by the House; and also time when, in consequence of this understanding the House only consisted of about forty members, and no opportunity was left for discussion:

"Resolved, that in the opinion of this meeting of the legally qualified electors of the South Riding of Renfrew, this addition to the previously existing limits of this Electoral Division was made for the express purpose of over-riding and swamping the votes of the majority of the Electors in this Riding, because it was believed that the then next General Election of Parliament for the Dominion of Canada, they would return a member who was opposed to the general policy of the Administration; and that this attempt to disfranchise the said majority of the Electors, under the form of law, but in entire opposition to its spirit, betrays on the part of its authors, and his colleagues, a disposition to perpetuate tyranny of the lowest [illegible] that precedent in Canada, or in any other part of Her Majesty's dominions, and is deserving of the highest censure of all law abiding subjects, and especially of the electors now assembled in public meeting.

Mr. DONALD STEWART, of McNab, moved the next resolution, as follows:—

"And whereas, no proof has been made forthcoming of the votes of the residents of the aforesaid five Townships, in the same manner as the other unorganized districts where there are no assessment rolls:

"Resolved, That the Government is further censurable as well as responsible for the intended fraud upon the legally qualified electors, in having instructed and permitted the Returning Officer to appoint polling places and and Deputy Returning Officers to take votes of the residents of the unorganized Townships without due provision of law for that purpose."

He said that with regard to the fraud referred to in the resolution, it was contained in the beginning, and could be traced to the Government. The addition of the five townships to the Riding, was not made to give the residents of those townships Parliamentary representation, but to add the names of the old Riding. If we had given Mr. McDougall 1,000 majority, they would have given 2,000 majority.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Robert McLaren, of Horton, and carried unanimously.

Mr. William Russell, of Arnprior was the next speaker, and was heartily cheered when he advanced to the front to address the meeting. He said he had much pleasure in moving the third resolution:—

"And Whereas, Sundry officers of the Civil Service, in the employment of and receiving pay from the Dominion of Canada, were, for several weeks absent from their places in Ottawa, and actively engaged both in the South Riding, and in the five unorganized Townships in particular, in canvassing for votes for James O'Reilly, by them designated "the Government Candidate," and in making the arrangements to secure his return:

"Resolved, That it is the duty of the Government to call upon those Civil servants of the Crown, to show by whose authority they were absent from their posts. And this meeting hereby pledges itself to present a petition to Parliament for a full investigation into the conduct of those said members of the Civil Service during the recent election in this Riding." He said: Of the outsiders who made themselves very conspicuous by their interference in the election, was Mr. Macdonald of Brockville; said there were lots of others, in the pay of the Government, who had no right to come here and try to take away our rights. A few more men like T. P. French would soon set the world on fire. And what did the people think of O'Reilly himself, after his conduct here! They put him down as a rowdy; and he (Mr. R.) believed that if O'Reilly had enough of rowdies at his back, he would prove himself the biggest rowdy in the country. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Russell read the resolution again, and then said he hoped the petition would be a long one, and that it would take a good many horses to carry it to Parliament.

Mr. James Broomly, of Renfrew, seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously

"And whereas, in furtherance of the determination of certain conspirators to nullify and render of no effect the votes of the majority of the legally qualified electors of the South Riding of Renfrew, and the residents of the Township of Brudnell and other adjoining townships, were by false and malicious representations instigated and induced to assemble together on the 27th day of August last; with firearms and other weapons, in order to prevent the legally authorized agents of Mr. J. L. McDougall, a candidate for the representation of the South Riding of Renfrew in the House of Commons in the second Parliament of Canada, from proceeding to the polls in order to scrutinize the votes which might be tendered in the aforesaid unorganized Townships, and by threats of violence conveyed on behalf of the armed assemblage by one T. P. French, late one of the Census Superintendents, and believed to be then and now in the employment of the Dominion Government, did compel several of the said legally authorized agents to return [illegible] bloodshed should ensue:

"And whereas, Other authorized scrutineers who did succeed in reaching some of the polling places by other roads were assaulted, maltreated, and forcibly driven away, by mobs still accompanied by T. P. French, and acting under his direction, and fire-arms were discharged at some of these agents on the return home.

And whereas, this is the second occasion on which the presence of James O'Reilly in the County of Renfrew has been signalized by the forcible ejectment of scrutineers from polling places:

And whereas, Such proceedings are subversive of law and order, and are injurious to the material progress and prosperity of this country, and by their tendency to provoke riots and breaches of the public peace, and so to prevent law-abiding persons from settling in or investing capital in this country:

"Therefore Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting be instructed to present a copy of this and all other resolutions adopted by the meeting, to his Excellency the Hon. W. P. Howland, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario, and to his constitutional advisers, the Executive Council of the Province of Ontario, in proper form and manner, as the petition of the electors of the South Riding of Renfrew, that such sufficient sum of money may be offered as will lead to the discovery and and punishment of the instigators of the riotous armed assemblage at Budnell Corners on the 27th of last August, and that such proceedings may be taken as will, in future, deter the offenders from again undertaking to stop Her Majesty's loyal and peaceful subject on the highway, or from interfering with the electors right of voting at the polls. As the recognized legal guardians of the lives and properties of the people of Ontario, the Local Government is invoked to exert its power to its fullest extent to punish the principals in this dastardly outrage, which is of the most dangerous and revolutionary character."

Mr. John Robinson, of McNab, briefly moved the following resolution—

"Resolved, That the determination that this election should be so manipulated as to disfranchise the majority of real electors, is proved by the partizan and partial conduct of the Returning Officer in appointing two polling places in each of the Townships of Hagerty and Sherwood, without defining the boundaries of the divisions for polling purposes, either in the printed Proclamation, or at the hustings, and in placing these polling-places so near together as to enable the crowd from other townships, after polling their votes in one place to repeat them in the others; and in likewise fixing the polling places in the most inconvenient position for those residents supposed to be favorable to the election of Mr. McDougal. And the intention to consummate this daring outrage on the freedom and purity of election is furthermore conclusively established by the unblushing effrontery of the Deputy Returning Officers for the new townships in recording more votes for Mr. O'Reilly than the census for 1871 gives as the total number of inhabitants—men, women, and children—in the whole Bonnechere Division. If Mr. Queely, one of the Census Commissioners, has declared Mr. O'Reilly as duly returned by a majority of legal votes, without calling attention to this fact, then, in the opinion of this meeting, he has knowingly abetted in the perpetration of the fraud, and has justly rendered himself liable to the severest penalties of the law."

Seconded by Mr. Alex. Stewart, and carried unanimously.

George Brown, Esq., of Admaston, proposed the last resolution. He was greeted with cries of "Hats off for the namesake of the GLOBE." He vigorously denounced the iniquity of the fraud which had been perpetrated, and advised the electors not to be done with the subject when the meeting was over, but to keep it alive by talking over it. The fraud was so impolitic the Government would be afraid to countenance it—as they would be turned out of office if they attempted to clook it. The lawlessness by which scrutineers were kept from the polls was most disgraceful. It was useless to say they were prevented because they were armed; for David Graham's clerk, and a Pole who accompanied him, were interfered with on the Saturday before the election, and the Pole got his head broken.

"Resolved, That this meeting requests the electors in all parts of the Dominion of Canada, and the press, to co-operate with the defranded electors of this Riding in giving the fullest publicity to the facts, in order to prevent a repetition of this glaring outrage upon the electoral franchise in this and other constituencies; and to further the publicity of this appeal, that copies of these resolutions be forwarded to every member of the Parliament of Canada; And that His Excellency the Governor General be memorialized by the chairman on behalf of this meeting, as to the [illegible] of this outrage, and to [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible]

NOTICE.

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 25th July, 1872.

Under an Order in Council passed the 29th ultimo, respecting Timber on Patented, Sold, and unsold lands on the North Shore of Lake Superior, the above right to the Pine trees growing or being on the said lands may be acquired on payment being made to the Department of Crown Lands, at the rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price, one dollar per acre paid, or to be paid, for such lands.

Owners of patented lands, and purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are now being carried out) who are desirous of acquiring the right to the pine timber thereon, are enabled to apply for [illegible] above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre, in addition to the price above specified, in addition to the one dollar per per acre payable for the lands.

Applicants to purchase lands after date of this notice are required to apply for the right to the pine trees thereon at the time of application to purchase the lands, and to pay for such right at the time of application fifty cents per acre as above specified, in addition to the one dollar per per acre payable for the lands.

Should the owners of patented lands, or purchasers of lands, (the sales of which are being carried out) fail to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on such lands within six months from the date of this notice; or purchasers of lands after this date decline at the time of application to purchase to apply for and acquire the right to the pine trees on the lands applied for, the right to cut such trees will be disposed of by the Department of Crown Lands to persons making application therefor at the above mentioned rate of fifty cents per acre; but should there be more than one applicant for any space, or locality, the right to the pine trees shall be awarded to the applicant tendering, and paying the highest amount per acre over and above fifty cents.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY

Job Moses' Peridocal Pills.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied on.

TO MARRIED LADIES.

It is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

These Pills should not be taken by Females during the FIRST THREE MONTHS of Pregnancy, as they are sure to bring on Miscarriage, but at any other time they are safe.

In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affection, Pains in the Back and Limbs, on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics, and Whites, the Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed; and although a powerful remedy, do not contain iron, calomel, antimony, or anything hurtful to the constitution.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alterative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diphtheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter, Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public forty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most Storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Reliever or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

Pumps, Reapers and Mowers

To the Public in General, and Farmers in particular.

PUMPS. MACHINES

Henry Owens

Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalelled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell at very cheap rate. He has increased his facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. Parties ordering Pumps please state depth of well and all other necessary particulars.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year Woods Self-Rake Reaper and Mower, Cayuga Chief Mower, and Johnson's Self-Rake Reaper, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the 1st day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

Henry Owens gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is Thomas' Eclectric Oil, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Then in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and certainly different from anything ever before made, as no weak grades of it ever considered remarkable, and for a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in first rubbing, and you get only the small [illegible] Oils which they may contain.

Select Poetry.

All Things for Our Good.

Oft times we meet with trials
And tells upon our way;
We're pressed to mid-denial,
And know not what to say.

The path seems rough and stony,
Ourselves misunderstood;
Tis then we must remember—
All things are for our good.

Sometimes our life seems dreary,
A sad and lonely one;
Our feet are worn and weary,
We wish that it was done.

But when we see the shadows
Of this approaching mood,
We ought to hold the promise—
All things are for our good,

Christ says 'he will not leave us"
To grope our way alone:
He always will relieve us,
And keep us, every one.

But we must all be tested,
And stand, as christians should,
Amid the fiery furnace—
All things are for our good.

—Earnest Christian.

Agricultural.

SALTING HAY.

We do not recommend it, or at least only in moderate quantity in extreme cases. Where our own food is too highly salted we reject it, or if very hungry eat it with wry faces and disgust.

All stock probably require a certain amount of salt, and if left to take it as they please it would be not much in amount, and in quite a small quantity at any one time.

If hay is salted as freely as many farmers apply it, the stock consuming the hay must take three or four times as much salt as they would [illegible] could [illegible] it. [illegible] what [illegible] months of the year, it seems to us must tend to prevent a proper thrift, and also induce disease in one form or another. Indeed, it is stated that whole herds are attacked with the disease called "scours," in consequence of feeding continually upon hay too highly salted.

The haying season with most farmers is a driving one, so that every expedient that promises to lessen the labor and get the hay into the barn tempts us strongly to adopt it.

Under this idea, there is little doubt but hundreds of tons of hay are got in not sufficiently cured.

"A little salt will save it," it is said, a good deal is applied to it, the cattle are forced to live upon it, and pernicious consequences are sometimes, at least the result.

It is cheaper, and in every way better, to cure hay thoroughly in the first place. It saves the cost of the salt, secures better fodder, and does not incur the risk of begetting sickness and disease in the stock which is to be fed with it.

Better pay the money for hay caps than for salt for the hay—N.E. Farmer.

COLOR BLINDNSS.

Some very startling questions are related respecting mistakes that Daltonism have made.

A house-painter in Edinburgh was obliged to trust his wife for the mixing of his colors, but once, when she was absent, he was obliged to paint a public building. He mixed his colors, and set to work. By and by some one came up and asked why he was painting the outside wall "sky blue?"

A physician, Dr. K——, says that from boyhood he has been unable to distinguish red cherries from the leaves on the tree, unless he could see their form. He bought red trousers instead of brown, and a red cap instead of a green one.

Many of the men who serve in shops are found partially color blind, and on that account are obliged to go into the mourning establishments.

Some people can distinguish colors by daylight, and not by lamplight, and others just the contrary. One gentleman bought a table-cover as green, but unfortunately chose a bright red, which was very painful to him by lamplight, though agreeable and dull by daylight.

Typhoid Fever.

In regard to the actual cost in money of the negligence exhibited in the prevention of typhoid fever in Great Britain, the London Times makes the following curious calculation:

"If we suppose that its victims, during ten years, were persons earning, on an average, only one pound weekly ($5) that six weeks was the average duration of each illness, that each patient maintained by others at an expense of a pound a week until death or recovery, and that each lost life was worth one hundred pounds ($500) to the community, we arrive, by a simple calculation, at the sum of thirty-four millions, four hundred thousand pounds sterling ($172,000,000), as the barren cost in money of typhoid fever for that brief period in our history."—From the Science of Health.

A Hint to Nurses.

You know what a racket is caused, even by the most careful hand, in supplying coals to a grate or stove, and how, when the performance is undertaken by the servant, it becomes almost distracting. If you don't remember, take notice the first time you are ill, or you have a dear patient in your care, or the baby is in a quiet slumber. Let some one bring on her coal-scuttle or shovel, and restore your recollection. Well, the remedy we suggest is to put on coals in little paper bags, each holding about a shovelful. These can be laid quietly on the fire, and, as the paper ignites, the coals will softly settle in place. You may fill a coal-scuttle or box with such parcels, ready for use. For a sick room, a nursery at night, or even for a library, the plan is admirable. Just try it. Besides, it is so cleanly. If you don't chose to provide yourself with paper bags, you can wrap the coal in pieces of old newspapers at your leisure, and have them ready for use when occasion requires.—From the Science of Health.

"Doctor, what do you think is the cause of this frequent rush of blood to my head?"

"Oh, it is nothing but an effort of nature. Nature, you know, abhors a vacuum."

COUNTY TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, } BY Virtue of a Warrant under the Hand of the Warden
and Seal of the County of Peterborough, and to me directed, bearing date the Nineteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, I am commanded under the authority of an Act of Parliament of the Province of Ontario passed in the Thirty-second year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter thirty-six, entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law respecting the Assessment of Property in the Province of Ontario," to levy on the lands hereinafter mentioned and described, for the Arrears of Taxes due thereon, with the Costs, as hereinafter specified, as directed by the said Act.

These are therefore to give notice, that unless the said Arrears and Costs are sooner paid I will proceed to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the COURT HOUSE, in the Town of Peterborough, on

THURSDAY the FIFTH day of DECEMBER, A.D. 1872,

AT THE HOUR OF NINE O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON,

The said Lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred in and about such Sale, and the collection of the Taxes:

THE REASONS WHY LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's CELEBRATED Perfected Spectacles, AND EYE GLASSES,

have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirement of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.

5th. Because they never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their incalculable value.

A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by

WM. H. TAYLOR, M. D. Sole Agent for PETERBORO' Corner of George and Hunter Streets February, 29, 1872.

DANA'S Patent Sheep Marks.

These Marks are the Cheapest, the most lasting, the most troublesome, and most complete ever invented. They are used and recommended by many of the best Breeders in the United States and Canada, such as G. B. Loring, Salem, Mass., President New England Wool Growers' Society; John A. Kent, Somerville, Mass.; Professor M. Miles, of the State Agricultural College, Lansing, Michigan; Hon. Geo. Brown, Toronto, Ont.; John Snell, Edmonton, Ont. On each Mark is stamped the owner's name, and the sheep's number. They will be sent free, by mail or express, for only four cents each, and will last for Twenty Years

☞ Cash must accompany all orders.

ARCHIBALD YOUNG, Jr., Secretary, Guelph, Ont.

Orders addressed to the Examiner Office for any quantity will be filled at the above mentioned price, as quickly as the Marks can be made and sent. JAMES STRATTON. January 3rd, 1872. 1

A YEAR AGO.

BY MARY C. BARTLETT.

A year has since gone by—
When side by side we stood and gazed
Out on a winter sky.
The whole earth lay in shadow,
No star could yet be seen,
Out on that clear, calm light we gazed
Till lost as things of a night.
Beyond darkened earth and starless sky
Is all the universe there holded,
That night a year ago
But two hearts full of untold love
And a golden sunset glow.

There has no to-night, love,
And between these two bright sunsets
A cloud of sorrow lies
But forgetting all to night, love,
In the clear, calm sunset glow,
I feel in the memory
Of that night a year ago.

Perchance thou too, to-night, love,
In solitude [redacted]
Art looking out, with [redacted]
Upon the glowing west, [redacted]
And thinking of our deep, true love,
Thou dost rebellious grow,
Of that night a year ago,

Our way is [redacted]
Rough the ascent and steep,
The twilight shadows creep,
But looking up with eyes of faith,
[redacted]
Is shown [redacted]
Of Righteousness [redacted]
Then upward let us struggle,
[redacted]
Where never more a twilight,
Through all the endless day
From our enraptured gaze.

Peterboro.

A Tragic Wedding Day.

[redacted] morning [redacted] and cloudless, and from time immemorial a cloudless sky on a wedding-day has [redacted] happy augury for the future life of the couple about to try the realities of matrimony.

The old halls and drawing-rooms of Dr. Layton Grange were all a-flush with fair faces and graceful forms, laughter rang out gaily across the soft June air, and gay young damsels sang snatches of wedding songs as they flitted up and down the broad stair-cases, and through the breezy corridors, in their fleecy dresses.

Alicia Layton and Col. Haughton were to be married.

Alicia had been for three years the belle of Waverley, and had been sought in marriage full often by many a gallant swain, before Col. Haughton came to the village to spend a month's furlough.

He was handsome in no ordinary degree, for it is a fact, melancholy or otherwise, that the race of handsome men is fast dying out. Well, good sense is better in a man than beauty, if not in [redacted] Does [redacted] dispute me? Bet that person look around and tell me if ever he hears a man say anything in favor of a girl's good sense. No, it is her beauty that he harps on—the arch of her foot, the curve of her waist, the length of her eyelashes, the bloom of her cheek, and a hundred other things, but never anything about good sense. Although I wonder what a really beautiful girl wants of sense!

He was a fine [redacted] and [redacted] sions in a love story are detestible.

Col. Haughton belonged to the regular army, and, enjoyed, together with his pay, an annuity from the estate of his father.

It was not such a very brilliant match for a woman like Miss Layton, for the man was in many respects, decidedly her inferior, but she loved him and she made the mistake which women in general seem to have a facility in making—of allowing her love to idealize him and make him feel for better than he really was.

For awhile after their engagement, Haughton had been most devoted and attentive in his attentions, but by and by, after the novelty wore off, he grew, not exactly neglectful, but more servant.—He would let Alicia stoop to pick up her own handkerchief, he did not fly to button her gloves, he left her sometimes without a goodbye kiss.

Are these little things? Of, course they are. And it is not all the beauty and sweetness of life and love made up of little things?

Alicia felt the change, but she was too proud to complain. What was not given to her freely and cheerfully she would never ask for.

But a few weeks before this [redacted] had become more tender by degrees, and at last hurried up the marriage, which at first he seemed disposed to delay [redacted] yet seeks for pretexts to delay your marriage. Depend upon it, there is something wrong in the creature's organization. Not that I am [redacted] of hasty marriages [redacted] on the contrary, but when man truly loves a woman, [redacted] Return, he will grudge every hour of this short life in which [redacted]

[redacted] Alicia ought to have been supremely [redacted] The [redacted] of [redacted] pearl not which her rich [redacted] but who [redacted] fortune.

NOTICE

TO

AND LUMBERMEN.

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 28th August, 1872

ALL returns of saw logs and boom timber to be made to the Department of Crown Lands or its agents, must in future be sent in on or before the FIRST day of JUNE, in each year, and must be sworn to by the person who superintended the cutting of such logs and boom timber, and also by the Culler who measured the same; the returns must give the number of pieces of logs and their respective lengths and diameters, and the number of pieces of boom timber, the length of each piece, with the diameter of each from bark to bark at butt and top; and also the locality where the same have been cut: the number of feet, board measure, of each quantity of logs of the same lengths and diameters, compased by "Scribner's Ready Reckoner" to be entered in the returns.

Separate returns must be made of the operations of each Shanter and each Jobber, and where it is intended to pass logs or boom timber as cut on private lands, or on lands under settler's licenses, separate returns, under oath, must be made in each case, shewing the number of pieces of logs and boom timber, and their respective dimensions, and the lot or part lot on which the same have been cut.

When all returns of any lumbering establishment have been sent in and checked, the affidavit of the proprietor or proprietors of the logs and boom timber, or his or their manager or principal bookkeeper, as to the total number of pieces of logs, and pieces of boom timber, cut by him or them, or acquired from others during the season of operation for which returns are made, will be required to be furnished to the Department or its agents, the Department or agents should be advised when final returns have been furnished.

Attention is called to the 16th and 17th clauses of the "Crown Timber Regulations" which make it imperative that every facility, assistance and information be afforded to the Department and its agents, by all parties operating in timber or saw logs, &c., in the investigation of the extent and nature of such operations, and the examination of books and verification of returns.

Blank forms for the above returns may be had on application to the Department or any of its agents.

PETERBOROUGH, SEP. 26TH, 1872.

Editorial Items.

We are requested to state that Mr. Cox, chairman of a Special Committee to receive proposals for a site for a Ward School in the northern and also for one in the southern end of the Town, will receive offers up to two o'clock on Saturday.

Lord Dufferin is in Toronto on his way to the Exhibition at Hamilton

The Provincial Exhibition promises to be a great success.

A Tailor named Ward of Bethany hung himself last week. He had been drinking hard for some time previous.

Parents lessen your Shoe bills two-thirds by buying only CABLE SCREW WIRE fastened Boots and Shoes. Never rip or leak.

All genuine goods bear the Patent Stamp.

Read Macdonald & Elder's advertisement this week, and call and examine their extensive stock.

Mr. Kidd is clearing out for a new stock. Call and get bargains.

W. G. Thomson is receiving a well assorted fall stock. Call and examine it.

Read Messrs Johnson & Dixon's advertisement.

Bismark is compelling all the Jesuits to leave Prussia. He allows no time for special pleadings.

Spring Wheat is now worth $1 30 here; Barley 60 cts., and Oats about 35 cts.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.—Yesterday Mr C. Kempt only son of A. W. Kempt, Esq., led to the hymeneal altar Miss. Emma G. daughter of George Shaw, Esq., of the Ontario Bank here. The important event took place in the Episcopal church, between 11 and 12 o'clock, and was witnessed by a large and fashionable assemblage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. R. Beck The happy couple left on the evening train on their wedding tour.

REAL ESTATE GOING UP.—We understand that Mr. Ulliott, who lately bought out Messrs. Campbell & Huston, has purchased the old Parnall Mill property, south of the Market, at $3,000.

Messrs. Boyd, Smith & Co. have purchased the old Nassau Mill property, and we suppose will re-fit the mills and commence work there again, which would be to the interest of Peterboro.

The Lady's Friend for October.—An uncommonly beautiful and spirited engraving, "The wishing Well," leads off the attractions of this number. The second engraving, "On the Summit of the Jungfrau," pictures a lofty distinction attained by a trio of tourists. The Fashion Illustrations are as elegant as the ladies could desire. The Music is the "Honeymoon Schottische." And the stories are certainly unequalled. "Una and her Lions," and "Within the Maze," are splendid serials; and "An Everyday Heroine," concluded by Miss Douglass, is one of her best. The capital story "Only a Wish," is also concluded A beautiful poem by Florence Percy is among the rich store of good things. There are some lively sketches and good poems mingled with the serials, forming the best entertainment to be found in the way of light literature. The Work Table and pattern department and the Editorial are also well attended to. Price $2 a year. Four copies $8. Eight copies (and one gratis) $12. A large and beautiful steel engraving also is sent to the getter up of every club. The Lady's Friend $2 and The Saturday Evening Post $3, for $4.50. Published by Deacon & Peterson, Philadelphia. Single copies for sale by all News Dealers, and by the Publishers. price 20 cents.

ACCIDENT.—On Saturday the 16th inst. at Allendale Mills, while a man named James Douglas was cross-cutting some timber in the Saw Mill with a swing saw, it rebounded and cut off two of his fingers. Dr. McCrea was instantly in attendance to dress his wounds. He is doing well. We sympathize with the poor fellow; he has a wife and large family to support by his earnings

"WHOM THE GODS WOULD DESTROY THEY FIRST MAKE MAD."—The immaculate and Gentlemanly Editor of the Review has manifested such strong indications of aberration of mind, and such virulence in abusing some of our most respectable citizens that not a few of the readers of the journal have asked themselves, "is the man in his right mind," and many of them refuse to read his rabid incoherations, believing insanity commiserative. His insane tirades against the gentlemen who attended the indignation meeting are so virulent that they show the writers bent of mind, but injure none except himself. His gross attacks on Mr. Edwards and Mr. Taylor, men known for upright character, may please a vitiated taste, it is true, but can effect no more. A weak judgement has become so muddled over nightly recitations of the "Proton Outrage" that even his former friends are weary of some painful mental malady and begin to think seriously of removing him to some place of safe keeping. It is hinted by some that a Partnership with Riel has been arranged by Sir George Cartier, and that, perhaps an office will be forthcoming somewhere towards the setting sun, as the reward of his slanders, where he could mingle with men of kindred temperament, and of associations congenial to his own habits. Riel is Sir George, and Sir John's mutual friends, and, no doubt, would be an intimate companion for the noble minded Editor of the Review.

The Hamilton election cases have come to an end with curious results. The party of Carpenter went over to Mr. Bain's side, and the latter, when he should have got the full benefit, took passage on the poll books, and gave the Chief of Police and himself a silver beating. The editors of the Times, Gazette and Herald, in Winnipeg, have been gutted.—All Ontario quiet, however, at latest accounts. Mr. Mulvey of the Manitoba Liberal, and Mr. Cornish, are said to be marked out for arrest by the authorities in connection with these disturbances, but it is said, any attempt of the kind will provoke dangerous resistance.

The role of Sir John A. Macdonald has resulted injuriously in the North-west, as the above extract shows, in sending up Mr. Macdougal and driving the people into rebellion, during which they committed murder, and then in permitting the murderer to go unpunished.

His return to the province has given protect to those who see that murder is not held as a crime, to rise and revenge it in part. This has caused the present disturbance, and may yet end in the shedding of more blood. The cup of iniquity is not yet quite full.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday, whilst Mr. Aaron Cox, wife and two children were on their way home to Lindsay, and when about two miles from that place, the horses ran away, upset the carriage, killing Mrs. Cox instantly. The accident was caused by one of the whiffletrees getting separated from the double whiffletree and striking the horse causing him to run away. Mr. Cox held on till the pole fell, which caused the carriage to swing to one side and turn over, causing the melancholy accident. The remains of unfortunate lady were brought to town yesterday to be interred in the family burying ground. Mrs. Cox was a daughter of Mr. Wm. Parnall of this town. We are glad to be able to announce that none of the rest were seriously injured. The report that one of the children had got a leg broken is not correct.

What a Muddle?

The party of Union for Prog. are very much exercised over the state of Ontario. Who shall take Mr. Blake's place is the question to them. They need not trouble their already worn out and emaciated bodies about the matter. There are men enough in Ontario outside of the corruptionists to manage the affairs of the Province with credit to themselves and advantage to the country. One thing is fully proved by the late Elections, i. e. the Knight of Kingston has no chances of a seat in the Ministry nor in the Local House. He not would trust his tenure of office again to the generosity of the electors. His desperate struggles to maintain political existence afford ample testimony of the straights to which he is driven, and indicate clearly his fear to meet the new Parliament. Should Sir George refuse to sit for Provencher, Sir John will find himself cornered, for no other man of that party can control lower Canada as he has done. Late papers from the Maritime Provinces begin to classify the members elect, and if their classification be anything like correct, which we believe it is, one half of the Members from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will oppose the present party in power. They will therefore have enough on hand for a while without troubling themselves about Ontario matters.—Blake and Mackenzie will leave men in their places ready to carry out all their promises, and certain to secure for this province a bright and prosperous future.

Fire.

On Tuesday Evening about 9 o'clock fire was discovered in the sheds in rear of Messrs Lochart and Chowen's waggon and blacksmith shop, and close to Doctor Burritt's stables. The Fire Companies were soon on the ground and at work, and confined the flames to the sheds and stables, which were completely destroyed. There was some injury done to the furniture of those in the immediate vicinity by removing, Messrs Lochart & Chowen, J. P. Metherall, and Doctor Burritt, are the principal loosers. The Blacksmith shop occupied by the former, part owned by Mr. Metherall and sheds attached containing a large quantity of timbers, belonging to Messrs Lochart & Chowen were destroyed. Doctor Burrit's stables and sheds and whatever was in them except the Horse and buggie, were consumed. The dwelling house received very little if any injury other than being thrown into considerable confusion inside. The Fire Companies were at work in good time and prevented the flames spreading but it appears that where the fire originated was too far gone when they arrived to be saved. Some who were at the place say the fire commenced in the shed near the Doctors stables, but no one that we have talked with, can state positively where. The loss is not yet estimated, but is partially covered by insurance. Messrs Lochart & Chowen lose by the destruction of their blacksmith shop which will Interfere with that branch of their business until they can procure another shop. There appeared no necessity for pulling it down at the time it was done, except to get it out of the way.

Horticoultural Show.

The show this year was not equal to that of last year. The season was not favorable, Every one seemed to be too busy to afford time and attention sufficient to ensure success. The articles were good in quality, the quantity alone was wanting, except on poultry, which was equal to that of any previous show.

ANOTHER FIRE INSURANCE CONFERANCE.—A meeting of insurance managers and representatives was held in Montreal, commencing on the 10th inst., and lasted for two or three days. All the offices were we believe, represented Further discussion was had upon various of the proposed rules of the Association, in reference to which the companies seem pretty well agreed. Rates were, of course, the main topic. The various classes of risks were gone into, and the experience of the various offices compared. There seemed to be a wide difference of opinion respecting the hazard of certain kinds of business, and the attempt to fix a scale of minimum rates was therefore found to be attended with a good deal of difficulty. There is an apparent argument on the part of some of the officers which we hope will disappear. It seems to be a perverse view that the changes in rate should be limited solely to those classes of risks where, according to the general [illegible] framed [illegible] the following cities and towns [illegible]

Eaters of Bread, Beware!

The Hamilton Times tells the following story:

A gentleman left a sample of flour at our office to-day, which, to be seen by a person who is a respector of what he eats, is enough to give him the horrors. Our informant says he bought a barrel of the best quality flour from a leading firm in this city, and when he opened the head, he noticed a reddish hue, which struck him as strange. No serious attention was for a moment or two paid to this, until curiosity suggested a closer examination, when it was revealed that the reddish scum as it were, was a mass of living insects or maggots, which seemed to be struggling with each other. Horrified, this layer only deep enough to hold the flour on the top, was removed, and surely there was not less than a pint of these disgusting creatures. The flour now looked perfectly good, but afterwards on taking it from another part of the barrel and laying it on the warm hand close watching would show that these maggots were also there, and by their movement wiggling up to the top of the flour. In fact, the flour in the barrel was infested with them. Whether the flour is old or new, it makes no difference, for no such article should be exposed for sale to any person. Under a strong microscope this foreign matter turns to be six-legged bugs which have a most ravenous and disgusting appearance.

FRENCH VS. ENGLISH GALLANTRY.—In comparison with the rude covering with which the Briton clothes his acts, the pliant grace and kindly solicitude of the Gaul in presence of his fellow men compel admiration. Yet, if one could read the heart of this Briton, it would perhaps be found that his sentiments of humanity are deeper than those of his neighbor. The rudest husk sometimes covers the sweetest kernel. When the Gaul performs a gallant act, he extracts all the honey that is to be gotten out of it. If he gives up his seat to a woman—which, by the way he does not often do—he takes off his hat and points to the vacant place as if he were surrendering an empire and inviting a queen to enthrone herself thereon. If he hoists her umbrella, it is as if he were spreading out the canopy of heaven over her head. If he picks up a fallen glove, he offers it to the owner as if he were placing his sword and honor at her disposal for the rest of his life. If he quits her at the foot of a stairway, he looks after her as a chamberlain of the court might do when Her Majesty mounts the throne. And in each instance the woman meets him half way in grace and affability. All this makes him happy. This consciousness of having conducted himself as a chevalier without reproach, the probability of having produced an impression on the heart of her whom he has thus encountered, and the recollections of her enticing manner, whenever the scene recurs to him.—'The French at Home,' in the Galaxy for September.

Otonabee September, 25th 1872.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

May I through your paper draw attention to the great wrong inflicted on the public by the destruction of the Locks Bridge. A large number of farmers whose shortest route to town is by the bridge, are compelled to go around by Ashburnham, while the people of the town are also inconvienced to a like extent I am glad that Mr. Calcutt's steamer should be enabled to come right up to the town, but Sir, I respectfully submit, that it was not necessary to deprive us of one blasting bit Order to insure another perhaps of no greater value. We do not know whose business it is to look after such matters, but we hope some other will take it in hand and see that it is rebuilt without delay.

Yours Truly,
OTONABEE.

Just fifteen years to-day, love,
Since I stood by your side,
And pledged to be your faithful wife
A happy, blooming bride.

Through many changing scenes, love,
We've passed since that bright day,
But the love we pledged each other then
Has never known decay.

Four precious lambs in Jesus fold
Are safely gathered in.
And they wait to welcome us, love,
When we the crown shall win.

Four precious blossoms still remain,
O may we faithful prove,
And train them up with care, love,
For our bright hope above.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach, Phthisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Sold at Peterborough by Dr. Taylor, A. W Kempt Wm. Coulter and Ormond & Walsh. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter, Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Reliefe or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

(To be continued.)

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALASAYA —This elegant and agreeable preparation has speedily become a favorite on account of its remarkable in the Cure of Diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys. It relieves at once, pain and a sense of fullness after eating, flatulence, acidity, or heartburn, headaches, and constipation of the bowels, all of which arise from a feeble digestion, and occasion poor blood. It enables the stomach to digest food perfectly, and in sufficient quantity to nourish the system thoroughly, and prevent decline, and running down with chronic wasting diseases. In consumption and scrofulous cases, and in delicate children, it will act like a charm in restoring vitality to all the organs and invigorating the general health. It will restore all those who for a long time have been in a feeble condition of the system, wanting energy and disposition to exertion. It cures by means of purifying the blood, and building up all the tissues of the body. Sold at $1 by all Druggists.

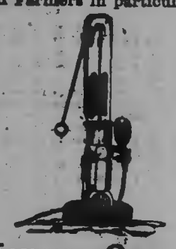
Pumps, Reapers and Mowers

To the Public in General, and Farmers in particular.



Henry Owens

Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalelled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell at very cheap rate. He has increased his facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. Parties ordering Pumps please state depth of well and all other necessary particulars.

HENRY OWENS

is again in the field with REAPERS and MOWERS, and would respectfully call the attention of Farmers to the fact that all the Reapers and Mowers he has sold during the past three years have given undeniable satisfaction. He will have on hand this year WOODS SELF-RAKE REAPER AND MOWER, CATCH CHIEF MOWER, AND JOHNSON'S SELF-RAKE REAPER, and any other machine of this description that may be required can be furnished by him on very short notice. Parties intending to purchase Reapers or Mowers this coming season will find it to their advantage to give their orders before the 1st day of May, as up to that date he is permitted to sell on last years prices; after the 1st of May, on account of the rise in Iron, prices of Machines will be raised about 10 per cent. Sample Machine to be seen at my shop.

Common Pumps as Cheap as Others.

HENRY OWENS gladly avails himself of this opportunity to offer his most sincere thanks to those friends who have so kindly and liberally extended their patronage to him during the past few years, and he hopes by honest and energetic attention to such orders as he may be honored with in the future, to secure a continuance of the favor he so highly prizes.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the Imperial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations supply all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of Oils which they may contain.

Ontario Commercial College

BELLEVILLE, Ont.

AN Institution characteristic of the age, where Young Men and Boys can procure an Education suited to the wants of the times.

The Charges are Moderate, the risk nothing, the result invariable, and the opinion of the Press, Letters from Prominent Business Men, and the united admission of Hundreds of Our Students, are the guarantees of competency and success offered by this College.

Subjects Taught:

Book-Keeping in all its Branches, Spencerian Penmanship, Telegraphing, Arithmetic, Commercial Correspondence, Banking, Railroading, Steamboating, Phonography, Business Paper of every description, Commercial Law, Mechanical and Architectural Drawing, &c., &c.

If you wish to spend a few months in acquiring a real, thorough, live, and wide-awake course of Business training, the advantages of our manner be considered elsewhere.

This College is about thoroughly refurnished, there now another Institution in Canada. Students are here exempt from many of the evil influences that beset them in larger cities, and the [illegible] surrounding the "changing times," &c., are duly considered here.

[illegible] Specimens of Penmanship and College Journal containing all [illegible] of explanation to

The Old-Fashioned Girl.

BY A GIRL OF THE PERIOD.

How very wise men think themselves,
Abusing modern girls
And prating of the awful cost
Of feasts, furs, gloves, and curls,
And bragging of old fashioned maids,
And 'dear old by-gone fashions,'
When women—if they tell us true—
Were kept on shortest rations

And oh! my stars! what fools men are,
To think they can deceive us;
If they prefer the plain old style,
Why don't the donkeys leave us?
There must be some fair creatures still,
Devoid of hoops and chignons,
Who, scorning flounces, robe themselves
In dresses a-la-Mignon.

I've noticed this, my dear young man,
You're very fond of teaching;
But do you think a single girl
Will profit by your preaching—
While you, instead of following
The wisdom of your writing,
Devote yourself to stylish girls,
Their plainer sisters slighting?

And so unawed we'll follow still,
The fashions new and nobby,
Just for the sake of helping you
Upon your cherished hobby.
But when you really want to see
A maid of ancient sample,
Pray give us the old-fashioned man—
We'll follow your example.

The Great Health Giver.

Who has not seen the long, white, sunky shoots of the potatoe in some neglected cellar, struggling on and upward to reach some chink where a ray of light stole in? Such a shoot was once measured and found to be twenty feet in length, the upper tip resting against the cellar window. Such is the craving of even a senseless plant for the light. How eagerly the sunflower turns its face sunward, as the great orb makes his circuit around the heavens! Only the dark sepulchral toadstools and mushrooms revel in the shadow and gloom of night. It is stated that most of the mushrooms used for the Parisian market are raised in the dark cells of the catacombs, where no sunlight ever penetrates. But beautiful flowers and luscious fruits, and nutritious vegetables, require vast floods sunlight to bring them to perfection. It is not the heat alone that is needed. This may be had by artificial means, and yet the flowers droop and fade. It is the blessed light itself that the plant life needs.

And it is not the less true of the little "olian plants about our table."

"My little girls are such poor sleepers," said a mother to me recently. "They would sit up until ten if I would allow it, while the boys will drop to sleep by sundown."

The solution was an easy one. The boys are early permitted to romp out of doors. It is the blessing of their lives that they are constituted so noisy that there is no abiding with them penned up in the house all day. But our delicate lady-like girls! They must be shaded from sun's rays for fear of a little olive tinge on the pale cheek. How the very baby loves the sunshine! Place it on the carpet in the twilight of a half-darkened room, and how quickly it will creep toward the one patch of sunshine that has stolen in unawares to light the gloom! How the older little ones look from the bars of their pallon and beg to go out of doors! For remember mother, it is real pain to them, however pleasant you strive to make it. How would it seem to you if compelled to stay within doors, when your whole nature cried out for the freedom of out-door air and sunshine! Let in the sunlight if it does fade your carpet. Better a thousand-fold faded roses there than on the delicate cheek of a child. Flies in summer are not half so bad as long suffering nights of neuralgia, and days of torture with nervous difficulties, that leave little heart for anything else. These shut up hours are never, nor can ever be healthy. Sunshine is as needful to good health as nourishing food. Especially if you have nervous a little one, whose nights are always troubled and wakeful, try the influence of sunshine upon her, send her out in the air for several hours every fine day, and you will soon see the change, and enjoy the comfort of quiet rest yourself, because she can sleep.

There is no medicine for the nerves like the sunshine, and God sends it down to us in free and unstinted measure. Is it not rejecting one of his good gifts to shut and bar it out of our dwellings?—Country Gentleman.

A Ludicrous Mistake

Last evening a newly married couple who are scarcely acquainted with each other, stepped into a fruit store in John street and made a purchase of a melon, and while the husband was paying, the wife strolled out, thinking of nothing, as all newly-wedded wives do. When she reached the side-walk she halted in the shade, and catching a glimpse of a man coming out, supposed of course, it was her protector, and, taking his arm, walked down the street some distance, when the gentlemanly escort, to break the silence, remarked upon the balminess of the evening air. The voice broke the spell, and with a shriek—a frightened, womanly shriek—she discovered her mistake and with elastic bounds returned to the fruit store, where she found her husband looking for his wife, who was strayed, lost, or stolen. The honeymoon is all too short duration for the tyrant man to make any "fuss," so the couple only too happy to find each other, wended their way home with arms around each other. The boy, the grocery who chop found each other that the water-melon was dropped on the stone flagging, where it was allowed to remain as a peace offering.—Hamilton Times.

The Advantage of Groaning.

A French Physician is out in a long dissertation on the advantage of groaning and crying in general, and especially during surgical operations. He contends that groaning and crying are two grand operations by which nature allays anguish, that those patients who give way to their natural feeling most speedily recover from accidents and operations than those who suppose it unworthy a man to betray such symptoms of cowardice as to either groan or cry. He tells of a man who reduced his pulse from one hundred and twenty-six to sixty in the course of a few hours by giving full vent to his emotions. In accordance with the above, the crying of children should not be too greatly discouraged. What is natural is nearly always useful and nothing can be more natural than the cries of children when anything occurs to give them either physical or mental pain.

COUNTY TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, } I, Edward Pearse, Warden of the County of Peterborough, and to me to wit: } and Seal of the County of Peterborough, and to me directed, bearing date the Nineteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, I am commanded under the authority of an Act of Parliament of the Province of Ontario passed in the Thirty-second year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter thirty-six, entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law respecting the Assessment of Property in the Province of Ontario," to levy on the lands hereinafter mentioned and described, for the Arrears of Taxes due thereon, with the Costs and charges thereof, as directed by the said Act.

THE REASONS WHY LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's CELEBRATED Perfected Spectacles, AND EYE GLASSES, have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd. Because they will reclaim sight abused by the common glasses, and will often restore it to original, failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and though fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selection.

4th. Because the system of Sight is strengthening gains to the true requirements of each purchaser—per sonally examined with this celebrated Lens.

5th. Because the nerve the eyes and last many years without the necessity of assuming other Spectacles.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

Smile whenever you can. BY KATE CAMERON.

When things don't go to suit yo, And the world seems upside down, Don't waste your time in fretting, But drive away that frown, Since life is oft perplexing, 'Tis much the wisest plan To bear all trials bravely And smile whene'er you can.

Why should you dread to-morrow, And thus despoil to-day? For when you borrow trouble, You always have to pay. It is a good old maxim, Which should be often preached— Don't cross the bridge before you, Until the bridge is reached.

You might be spared much sighing, If you would keep in mind The thought that good and evil Are always here combined. There must be something wanting, And though you roll in wealth, You miss from out your casket That precious jewel—health.

And though you're strong and sturdy, You may have an empty purse— And earth has many trials Which I consider worse— But whether joy or sorrow Fill up your mortal span, 'Twill make your pathway brighter To smile whene'er you can.

The Three Travelling Bags

There were three of them, all of shining black leather, all going to Philadelphia, all waiting to be checked. The last bell rung. The baggage man bustled fuming from one pile of baggage to another, dispensing chalk to the trunks, checks to the passengers, and curses to the porters.

"Mine, Philadelphia!" cried a stout military looking man, with enormous whiskers and red face, crowding forward as the baggageman laid his hand on the first bag.

"Won't you please give me a check for this now?" entreated a pale, slender carefully-dressed young man, holding out bag No. 2 for the ninth time.

"Say, be you again to give me a check for that air, or not?" growled the proprietor of bag No. 3, a short, pock marked man in a shabby overcoat.

"All right, gentlemen, here you are," said the functionary rapidly distributing the check. Philadelphy, 1002—1040—1020—all right.

Whoo, whew, responded the locomotive, and the train moved out of the depot.

The baggage man meditated—he had brought the wrong valise—principals—double fee—the seconds noted at the principal. Nobody volunteered a suggestion. At last the doctor inquired:

"Well, what is to be done?"

"Blow the luck!" again ejaculated the captain.

"Evidently nothing," responded the doctor "unless they brain each other with the hair brush, or take a pop at each other with the cologne bottle.

"You are quite sure there are no pistols in the valise?" said one of the principals with suppressed eagerness, and opening gasp of relief.

"We must go over to the city, and get pistols," proposed the captain.

"And by that time it will be dark," said the doctor.

"Confound the luck!" said the captain again.

"We shall be the laughing stock of the town, if this gets wind," consoled remarked the doctor.

"But were here with you doctor," interposed his principal.

They conferred.

At the end of his conference with his principal the doctor advancing to the captain conferred with him. Then the captain conferred with his principal. Then the two seconds conferred with each other. Finally it was formerly agreed by the contending parties that a statement should be drawn up in writing, whereby principal No. 1 tendered the assurance that the offensive words, "You are a liar," were not used by him in a personal sense, but solely as an abstract proposition, in a general way, in regard to the matter of fact under dispute. To this principal No. 2 responded a statement expressive of high gratification at this candid and honorable explanation, and unqualifiedly withdrew the the offensive words "you are a scoundrel," they having been made use of by him under misapprehension of the intent and purpose of the remarks which proceeded them.

There being no longer any cause for quarrel, the duel was of course ended. The principals shook hands first with each other, next with the seconds, and were evidently very glad to get out of it.

"Now that it is so happily settled" said the doctor chuckling and rubbing his hands, "it proves to be a lucky mistake after all that we brought the wrong valise. Wonder what the lady who owned it will say when she opens ours and finds the pistols."

"Very well for you to laugh," growled the captain. "but its no joke for me to have the pistols. Hair triggers—best English make, and gold mounted. There is not a finer pair in America."

"Oh, we'll find them. We'll go on a pilgrimage from house to house asking if any lady lost her night cap and found a pair of dueling pistols."

In very good spirits the party crossed the river and engaged at the baggage room in refreshments to each other and all travelling bags arrived that day, took notes of where they were sent, and started out to follow them up. In the mean time the preached the Continental and as luck would have it, met the unlucky bridal pair coming down stairs in charge of the policeman.

"What is it?" enquired the captain.

"O, a couple of burglars caught with a valise."

"A black leather valise. That is it there."

"Here!—Stop!—Hallo!—Policeman—Landlord! It's all right. You are all wrong. That's my valise. It has travelled in couples. Do you suppose Tatem's goose nothing. Paint no use, you have just got to come along to the station house.

"Charles, this is perfectly dreadful! Our wedding night in a station house. Send for the landlord to explain it."

The landlord was sent for and came, the porters were sent for and came, and waiters, chambermaids and bar-room loungers came without being sent for, and filled the room and the adjoining hall, some to laugh and some to say they would not have believed it, but nearly all to exult that the unhappy pair had been found out. No explanation could be given, and the upshot was that in spite of tears, threats, entreaties, rage and expostulations, the unfortunate newly married pair were taken in charge by the relentless policeman and marched down stairs en route for the police station.

Here let the curtain drop on the melancholy scene, while we follow the fortunes of black valise No. 2.

When the train stopped at Camden, four gentlemen got off, and walked rapidly and silently to one of the side streets and struck off into a foot path leading to a secluded gove outside the town. Of the first two one was a captain in a blue coat, apparently the leader of the party. Of the second two, one was a smiling rosy little man carrying a black valise. Their respective companions walked in irregular order abstracted and apparently ill at ease.

The party stopped.

"This is the place," said Captain Jones.

"Yes," said Dr. Smith.

The captain and doctor conferred together. The other two studiously kept apart.

"Very well, I'll measure the ground, do you place your man."

It was done.

"Now for the pistols," whispered the captain to his fellow second.

"They are all ready in the valise" said the doctor.

The principals were placed ten paces apart and wearing that decidedly uncomfortable air that a man has when in momentary expectation of being shot.

"You will fire gentlemen, simultaneously, when I give the word," said the captain, then in an undertone to the doctor, "Quick, the pistols."

The doctor stooping over and fumbling at the valise, appeared to find something that surprised him.

"Why, what the——"

"What is the matter?" asked the captain, starting up. "Can't find the caps?"

"Once a pistol or cap but this!"

He held up——a tooth-brush and here!" holding up successively a long white gown, a hair brush, a colonge bottle and a comb.

They were greeted by a long whistle from the captain, and a blank stare by the principals.

"[illegible] calculated the [illegible] mistake [illegible] principals [illegible] the seconds noted at the principal. Nobody, volunteered a suggestion. At last the doctor inquired:

"Well, what is to be done?"

"Blow the luck!" again ejaculated the captain.

"O, a couple of burglars caught with a valise."

"A black leather valise. That is it there."

"Here!—Stop!—Hallo!—Policeman—Landlord! It's all right. You are all wrong. That's my valise. It is all a mistake. They got changed at the depot. This lady and gentleman are innocent. Here's their valise with her night cap in it."

Great was the laughter, multitudinous the comment, and deep the interest of the crowd in this dialogue, which they appeared to regard as the most delightful entertainment got up specially for their amusement.

"Then you say this 'ere is yourn?" said the policeman, relaxing his hold on the bridegroom, and confronting the captain.

"Yes it's mine."

"And how did you come by the spoons?"

"Spoons, you jackanapes!" said the captain. "Pistols!—duelling pistols."

"Do you call these pistols?" said the policeman, holding up one of the silver spoons, marked "T. B."

The captain astounded, gasped, "It's the wrong valise after all."

"Stop! not so fast," said the policeman, functionary, now invested with great dignity by the importance of the affair he found himself engaged in. "If so be as how you have this 'ere lady's valise, she's all right and can go, but in that case this is yourn, and it comes on you to account for them 'ere stolen spoons. Have to take you in charge all four of ye."

"Why, you impudent scoundrel!" roared the captain, "I'll see you to blazes. I wish I had my pistols here; I'd teach you how to insult gentlemen" shaking his fist.

The dispute waxed fast and furious. The outsiders began to take part in it, and there is no telling how it would have ended, had not an explosion followed by a heavy fall and scream of pain, been heard in an adjoining room.

The crowd rushed to the new scene of attraction.

The door was fast. It was burst open and then the mystery explained. The thief, who had carried off the capacious valise by mistake for his own, had taken it up to his room to gloat over the booty he supposed it to contain, and thrust his hand in after the spoons. In so doing he had touched one of the hair triggers, and the pistol had gone off, the bullet making a round hole in the calf of his leg.

The wounded rascal was taken in charge first by the policeman, and then by the doctor; and the duelists and the wedded pair struck up a friendship on the score of their mutual mishaps, which culminated in a supper, whence the fun was abundant, and where it would be hard to say who was in the best spirits, the captain for recovering his pistols, the bride for getting her night cap, the bridegroom for escaping the station house, or the duelist for escaping each other. All resolved to mark that day with a white stone, and henceforth to mark their names on their black travelling bags in white letters.

When to Sell Farm Produce.

That was a good point made by the American farmer, when he said he intended to sell when it best to sell farm products had best. leave his pen, and go into trade, as his knowledge would enable him to accumulate millions in other words it is impossible for any man to predict with certainty future prices.

The safest rule for the farmer we believe to be to sell when his farm products are ready for market, especially if in need money with which to pay his debts or make purchases or improvements. Of two farmers, one following this plan, and the other invariably holding for higher prices, we believe the first will be the better off at the end of a score of years. He who sells early saves wastage, shrinkage, storage, risk of total loss from fire or other cause and has the use of his money at an earlier period.

There are times when the prospect for an improvement in price is so good, that the risk in holding is but slight. But if any farmer feels himself obliged to act on one unchanging rule, we would advise him to make it a rule to sell as soon as the product can be got to market in good condition.

We recommend this extract to the serious consideration of our Canadian farmers.

We know of many farmers who futilely endeavored to hold over grain and other produce at all times, and others who will not, sell, even when prices are low, in the hope of a still further rise. We would seriously impress the rule as one of gold, to sell when prices are fairly remunerative.—Canada Farmer.

To Remove Warts from the Hands

Purchase at the chemist's a dime's worth of spirits of hartshorn; bathe the warts, or if very numerous, that portion of the hands where the warts are, with a small portion of the spirits of hartshorn, each night and morning, for about three weeks, not washing the hands immediately after. The use of it will not cause any pain unless it comes in contact with a cut or bruise. It acts usually effected in about a week.

The same treatment for corns is one of the most effectual remedies ever tried, paining the corn a little daily at the surface of each corn quite hard, being careful not to pare so close as to draw blood, or to make them tender. Have the vial containing the spirits well corked, as it soon evaporates and loses its powerful virtue.—Rural New Yorker.

Copperas as a Deodorizer—One pound of green copperas costing seven cents, dissolved in one quart of water, and poured down a water closet, will effectually concentrate and destroy the foulest smells. On board ships and steamboats, about hotels and other public places, there is nothing so nice to purify the air. Simple green copperas, dissolved under the bed in anything that will hold water, will render a hospital, or other place for the sick, free from unpleasant smells. For butcher's stalls, fish markets, slaughter houses, sinks wherever there are offensive putrid smells, dissolve copperas and sprinkle it about, and in a few days the smell will pass away. If a cat, rat or mouse lies about the house and sends forth an offensive gas, place some dissolved copperas in an open vessel near the place where the nuisance is, and it will soon purify the atmosphere.—Industrial Monthly.

Even with "children at home" to cost Brigham Young $75 to go to the circus.

"Patrick, will you take your steak rare or well done?" "Well done if ye please, for it was rare enough I got it in the owld country."

"O Tommy, that was abominable in you to eat your little sister's share of the cake." "Why, didn't you tell me, ma, that I was always to take her part," said Tommy.

To any one who can say "Shoes and socks shock Susan" with rapidity and faultless pronunciation, four times running, a large reward will be paid.

Swift at one time proposed to put a tax on female beauty, and to leave every lady to rate her own charms. He said the tax would be cheerfully paid, and would be very productive.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 3RD, 1872.

Editorial Items.

ANNEXATION OR NO ANNEXATION—We do not use the words above in the sense that it is used politically, as annexation to the United States, but shall the sister village of Ashburnham become annexed to Peterboro, or Peterboro to it? The Town Council has passed a resolution naming a committee to meet with the Council of Ashburnham and see if terms can be arranged by which annexation may be brought about amicably. There are many in the village in favor of it while there are also some against it, but a friendly discussion of the matter can do no harm. The tendency towards annexation is exhibiting itself more every year to year, and not a few begin to think that sooner or later it will come. The great question for Ashburnham is, would joining the town be to the interest of the ratepayers? In this there will be conflicting opinions, no doubt, for the interests of all are not the same. As a meeting will soon take place and the terms of Union discussed, we will await further developements.

WATER TANKS—We are glad to find the Council moving in the way of providing more tanks, so as to be sure of a water supply in case of fire. The tank on the corner of Brock street held out well during the late fire. It will hold about enough to keep the engine going two hours and a half, but there are not enough of them in those portions of the town most distant from the river and creek. The addition of a few more will meet the approval of all ratepayers.

REAL ESTATE.—Fifty acres of the Fleming farm in the first concession of Smith was sold by auction on Tuesday, for $48 an acre, Mr. Davidson who owns the farm west of it being the purchaser. It is situated about four miles from town.

Mr. Johnston Cooney of Otonabee last week sold his farm consisting of one hundred acres, at $45 an acre. It is about seven or eight miles from town And on Saturday, Mr. Crowley's farm. No 17 in 15 Concession of Otonabee sold at Caisse's Hotel for $31 an acre.

Farming must pay or they could not afford such prices for land.

Parents lessen your Shoe bills two-thirds by buying only CABLE SCREW WIRE fastened Boots and Shoes. Never rip or leak.

All genuine goods bear the Patent Stamp.

THE NEW POST OFFICE.—Mr. Rogers has moved into his new quarters, Chamber's Block. The place is neatly fitted up, and finished in a style that would do credit to any of the Cities.

Mr. James Elliott, of Smith, has bro't from the Exhibition some prize Berkshire Pigs, very nice ones

Mr. Wm. Armstrong, of Otonabee, took through here on Tuesday a very pretty young thorough-bred Bull, imported. He is but 10 months old and weighs over 9 cwt.

Messrs. White & Davis are now at work preparing to erect a large building, sheds, stoops, &c., for the purpose of commencing the manufacture of Reaping and Mowing machines. The building will be on the lot opposite Mr. Landy's Tannery Brock and Aylmer Streets, and when completed it is intended to employ at least 25 to 40 hands. This is a new branch of business here, and we hope the enterprise will be looked on with favor and supported. Mr. Toole has given notice of intention to introduce a By-law at the next meeting of Council to grant them $2,000; a portion of the $60,000 voted to encourage manufactures in Peterborough.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN.—The New Bible Christian Church, Ashburnham, will be opened on Sunday, first. Three sermons will be preached through the day, and on Monday there will be a Tea and Addresses. Tea commences at 4 o'clock. Some of the ablest ministers of the denomination will take part in the services.

WESLEYAN METHODIST—The New Wesleyan Methodist Church, Robinson's, Smith, will be opened on Sunday the 13th October, instant. There will also be a Tea and Addresses on the Monday following.

THE FAIR.—Through the kindness of Thomas Hall we have seen a letter from Mr. Sandford Fleming now on an engineering survey of the Pacific Railway, and been permitted to give an extract or two from it. The letter is dated Fort Carleton, August 18th and was received at Ottawa on the 15th of September. So far he is getting along well, and is at the Pacific coast by this time. Mr Fleming has gained in weight since leaving Ottawa in July, we believe, which shows that traversing the prairies agrees with him. Of the country passed over he says:

"Many parts of the country is uninteresting and barren, with little or no water, no running streams, and the ponds or small lakes brackish or mineral, and often unfit for use."

But of other places he says:

It is a most beautiful rolling ground, with groups of trees like park scenery, and hills from which there are magnificent views beyond his power of description.

They have met but few Indians, and those they did meet were friendly.

Mr. Fleming expected when writing, to be at Fort Edmonton by the 1st of September, Jasper House by the middle of September and Kamloops by the first week in October. He will spend some time in exploring the coast for a good harbour before leaving for home. We may expect a full and reliable report of the country from Mr. Fleming, but it will not likely be published before the meeting of the Dominion Parliament.

A CRUEL OUTRAGE.

AN APPARENT ATTEMPT TO MURDER.

On Saturday night, Mr. Joseph Dann, Veterinary Surgeon of this town, was waylaid by several ruffians, pulled out of the buggy in which he was, knocked down with a loaded whip, and beaten; an effort was also made to gag him, and an attempt to pour a bottle of laudanum and croton oil into him.

Mr. Dann, who is our informant, called at our Office on Monday morning and related to us the following facts which show that there are persons even in this quiet and hitherto respectable town who are not unworthy of a year or two in some Reformatory.

"About ten o'clock on Saturday night, a man drove to the door of the Royal Canadian Hotel, where Mr. Dann boards, and enquired for him, saying he wished him to go to Mr. O'Brealy's, North Monaghan, to see a sick horse. The man was dressed as if he had been at a threshing, which he asserted was the case, and that his horse had taken sick there. Joe Lebouffe went up to Mr. Dann's room at the man's request, and brought him down, and he, believing the story true, got into the buggy and was driven away towards Mr. Brealy's. As they approached Mr. Wallis' woods the driver raised a very irregular whistle but Dann at the time paid no particular attention to it. As they entered the woods he did so again, when very soon a waggon was heard start before them a piece, and Mr. Dann remarked that he had better take care of coming in contact with the waggon, as it was pretty dark in the woods. To this no reply was made, and very soon they overtook the waggon at a stand still in the middle, or nearly so, of the woods, and immediately one man got out at the back part of the waggon, and two others over the sides, and one of the latter approached Dann. The driver remarking it is believed as signal, "that although he was drunk he was not afraid of them." The parties then jerked Mr. Dann out of the buggy, two or three of them seized him by the neck and tried to choke him, and as they jostled, another struck him on the head with what he believed to be a loaded whip, and knocked him down. In the mean time both the waggon and buggy drove off.—He then shouted murder, when they tried to gag him with a rope they had prepared, but did not succeed, and they tried to stop his shouts by putting their hands on his mouth. They tore off his clothes and tarred and feathered him, and after abusing him badly left him as if dead, he thinks. He lay for a while, and as soon as he thought they were far enough gone, he got up and made for home as best he could, taking the back streets as soon as he reached the town. After cleaning himself and dressing the cut and bruises on his head, he went and showed them to Dr. Kinsell, and also went and informed the Chief Constable, but as he did not know any of the parties Mr. Johnston said nothing could be done till Monday morning."

As Mr. Dann is almost a stranger here, and has done nothing meriting such cowardly and brutal treatment since his settling in Peterborough, we made enquiry as to his supposed reasons for this outrage against law, morality and society, when he showed the following letter which we give verbatim et literatim:

Peterboro, Aug. 30th, 1872.

To JOSEPH DANN,

I should advise you to leave Peterboro at once as you have grossly abused two of the greatest benefactors we have ever had in Peterboro if you do not death will be your doom and nothing else for if you do not want to die leave as once as this our motto and you can rely on its being fulfilled if you are not gone by the end of next week hoping you will peruse this carefully and be prepared accordingly as your coffin will be there by that time mentioned—

We remain yours &c
INCOGNITO.

This letter was found slipped under the door of Mr. Dann's Office, and speaks for itself.

The perpetrators of this cowardly and brutal act are still at large, as they are unknown—but for the sake of the good name of our Town, and the safety of society, we sincerely hope that they may be found out and receive the reward of their vile deed. Suppose it may be said, as the letter sets forth, that Mr. Dann has abused some citizen or citizens, worthy citizens it may be, that is no just reason why he should be waylaid, beaten, and his life put in danger. And if this sort of thing is permitted to go unpunished, what man is sure that he may not be the next victim of hate, or envy, or persecution. A reward should be offered at once, and if possible the cowardly perpetrators dragged to justice and sent to Kingston to learn to respect the well being of society, and pay a due regard to the rights and liberties of people. We condemn, and justly condemn the use of the dagger, the pistol and the bowie knife in the great Republic south of us—and shall we not condemn this resort to the slung gun, the gag, and drugs as no less reprehensible, now can society be in a very healthy state where such means resort to them are allowed to exist, or the crime go unpunished.

"Were they bad made a dead set against and shall

The Regular Monthly Meeting of Protection Fire Brigade will be held this (Thursday) evening.

THE OLD ENGINE.

We would draw the attention of the Fire Committee to the fact that the old engine is not used in any of the fires. We know of course that it is too heavy, and on this account it is difficult to get men to work it. Could it not be disposed of and one or two handier ones procured for the town?

If there was a real handy engine placed in the hands of young men, perhaps in the hands of boys, good work could be done in case of necessity.

At the late fire at Lockart & Chowen's The fine property on George street adjacent to the fire, might have been destroyed and nothing could have been done to save it.

The large engine was throwing water to save Dr. Burritt's dwelling, and the Branchmen were in the yard surrounded by sheds and stables, on fire.

If there had been a wind, Mr. Mothersill's property would have been in danger, and very little if anything could have been done to save it. Whereas, if the boys standing round had had a small engine that they could handle, even as it was, valuable property could have been saved. We therefore throw out a hint to dispose of the old engine and get one or two smaller ones

There need be no fear but there will be found hands enough to work them, provided they are put in proper place.

There should be an engine in the north ward, say somewhere near the Drill Shed, and some means of giving alarm in case of fire in that direction.

TOWN COUNCIL.

SEPTEMBER 30th 1872.

The Council met on Monday evening. Present His Worship the Mayor and Messrs. Smith, English, Helm, Landy, Hall, Paterson, Stevenson, Toole, Edmonson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read over and confirmed.

A communication and an account from Messrs. Blake, Kerr & Boultbee, in the case of the Town against the Midland Railway Company was read and submitted. They were both referred to the Finance Committee

Also a communication from Thomas Waite; Secr. and others, asking leave to erect an open verandah at the rear of their buildings on the Market Block, was referred to the Town Trust Commissioners.

Petitions were read from R. Kingan and others, asking for repairs on Hunter Street. Referred to the Street & Bridge Committee.

From Peter Hamilton and others asking the Council to assist in defraying the expenses of parties who have taken proceedings against the County Council to compel them to erect the bridge at the Locks, was received and laid on the table to be considered at next meeting.

Accounts were submitted from J. E. Rogers, $6.00; Examiner Office, $60 02; and T. Beavis, $5; were referred to the Finance Committee.

The following Petition from Messrs. Whyte & Davis was read and submitted.

To the Mayor and Town Council of the Town of Peterborough.—

The Petition of James Whyte and Jas. B. Davis, of the Town of Peterborough, Machinists, carrying on business under the name and firm of Whyte & Davis, humbly sheweth,

That your Petitioners, having purchased Lots Nos. 6 and 7, West of George Street in said Town, propose to erect thereon buildings in which to carry on upon a very large scale the Manufacture of Reaping and Mowing Machines to supply the demand not only of this and adjoining Counties, but for shipment to and sale in the different Counties in this Province.

The said buildings to consist of a Machine Shop, of brick, 40 feet by 60 feet, 3 storeys high; a Blacksmith Shop of brick, 24 feet by 34 feet, 1 storey high; Foundry of brick, 32 feet by 60 feet, 1 storey high; Finishing and Storehouse, Paint Shops, Sheds, &c.

The estimated cost of the erection of said buildings is the sum of $5,000; of the machinery required for working the same to the extent intended, from $5,000 to $8,000; and the capital stock necessary to successfully carry on the said business, the sum of $50,000.

That the said business will give employment to a large number of skilled labourers, most of whom will be men of family, and by the establishment of such a branch of industry, your petitioners believe they will be a substantial benefit to the Town;

Your Petitioners pledge themselves to employ in the said line of business from 35 to 40 hands.

That there is no other establishment in the Town of Peterborough for the manufacture of Reaping and Mowing Machines.

That your Petitioners believe themselves entitled to participate in the fund of $40,000 which may be granted by the Town of Peterboro for purposes similar to the above set forth, and they would ask your honorable body to submit to the Ratepayers for their approval a By-law granting to your Petitioners by way of bonus the sum of $2,800. $1,250 on completion of the said brick portions of the said buildings and the balance or sum of $1,250 when the same shall have received the necessary machinery, and further your Petitioners would ask that the said By law contain a clause relieving the said premises from all Municipal Taxes for the term of five years, commencing with the year 1873.

(Signed)
WHYTE & DAVIS.

The Petition was received and laid over till next meeting of Council.

Moved by Mr. Landy seconded by Mr. Hall that the petition of Thos White and others be referred to the Town Commissioners with a recommendation of the Council to grant the prayer of the petition.

Mr. Smith read and submitted the following report of the Finance Committee which was received and adopted.

To the Mayor and Town Council. The Finance Committee beg to recommend the payment of John Bertram's account amounting to $31 47. They also beg to refer them the claim of E. Burnham, for costs in suits he brought for the Town while Councillor and are of opinion that he should be allowed the sum of $150, on his giving a receipt in full for all charges against the Town.

From the minutes of Council it appears that he was instructed to take the suit against the Hall Estate, and there is also evidence as to the reason the Court decided against the Town was that he was Councillor and not entitled to costs legally. But as he entered the suit in good faith your committee consider him entitled to the above amount barely covering his disbursements. The above amount $150 to be tendered Mr. Burnham without prejudice.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Signed
A. Smith.
Chairman of Committee.

Mr. Edmison introduced a by law to amend By-Law 165, to permit Mr. Hall to take down and rebuild a shed in rear of his buildings on Hunter street.

In Committee of the whole it was recommended as to allow the removal and erection of the sheds provided it did not interfere with the Insurance risk on Mr. Ryan's tannery. It was read a second time and then reported commended.

Moved by Mr Smith seconded by Mr. English.

That in the opinion of this Council a committee should be appointed de novo on the Reeve and Councils of Ashburnham to discuss the question of annexation of both.

As the Council [illegible] would preserve to the [illegible] parties interested [illegible] of their rights [illegible] the matter themselves.

The Reeve also presented a communication from the County Treasurer in reply to his enquiry respecting a tax said to have been struck against lot [illegible] in 11 con.

Moved by Kidd, seconded by Payne and carried—That a communication from Mr. Pearse, Esq., respecting arrears of taxes paid by H Ingram, which accrued against E I in 12 con. Dummer, be laid over till next Council meeting, and parties interested be notified to attend

ENGLISH LINE ROAD.

The petition of Augustus Hicks and others for opening of a line to Stoney Lake, was read and placed in the hands of Commissioner Payne.

M. W. 22 IN 5.

Robert Sloan wished to pay tax against this lot and have it withdrawn from Tax Sale. Wished Council to allow him to do 240 in labor on Boundary between Dummer and Belmont, the balance he would pay into the hands of the Treasurer of Dummer

Moved by Kidd, seconded by Smith, and carried—That Robert Sloan be allowed to commute statute labor against N W ½ 22 in 2 con. for 5 years, from the year 1873 inclusive, on the expenditure of David Burns, upon condition of his paying into the Township Treasury ten dollars, balance of tax upon said lot. The labor to be performed on the Boundary between Belmont and Dummer.

Moved by Smith, seconded by Kidd, and carried—That in future Mr. Sloan be allowed to do his statute labor on the Boundary between Dummer and Belmont under the superintendence of the nearest pathmaster.

Moved by Kidd, seconded by Smith, and carried—That the Reeve be instructed to withdraw from sale the N W ¼ 22 in 5 con. upon payment into the Treasury by Mr. Sloan, the sum of ten dollars and upon receipt of certificate of D. Burns that Mr. Sloan has performed ten days statute labor on Boundary between Belmont and Dummer.

COLLECTOR.

William Kidd was then appointed Collector for the current year, his bonds and securities being as follows:—$4,000 Wm. Kidd, Warsaw, $5,000 and Washington Said $5,000.

Moved by Spence, seconded by Payne, and confirmed—That the Bonds of Messrs Kidd and Said be accepted.

APPROPRIATION FOR ROADS.

Moved by Kidd, seconded by Spence, and carried—That the sum of $140 be appropriated to each of the following Commissioners for expenditure towards repairing the roads and bridges of the Municipality, viz., to Messrs. Spence, Payne, Kidd, Ferguson and Choate, Commissioners' orders to be made payable on or after the 1st January, next, and that the Clerk notify the Treasurer of this Appropriation

Moved by Smith, seconded by Kidd, and carried—That the Clerk notify Mr. Ferguson of amount of appropriation made to [illegible] division, also that complaint has been [illegible] the Council that several settlers in the [illegible] con opposite lots 15 and 16, and original through 13 cost away from 6 to [illegible] are much out of repair.

Moved by Kidd, seconded by Payne, and carried—That the report of Mr. Bird on his Survey of road across Lot 29 in 3 con. be placed on file, and the Clerk be instructed to make the necessary notice of intention of this Council to pass a By-law at its next meeting to establish said road, and that an order be issued in favor of Mr. Bird for $5 as payment for the same.

Orders on Treasurer were then drawn as follows—

R. Romain, printing $3 25, Clerk $3
Bird [illegible]

BY-LAW 251

To confirm appointment of Collector was then duly read and signed.

Moved by Kidd, second by Smith, and carried—That Council adjourned until first Saturday in November

Teachers' Convention.

The Teachers of the Western portion of this County met in Convention in the Union School building, on Friday and Saturday last.

There was a good attendance, we understand. The following Essay which was read by Mr W. L. Johnston of S.S. No. 4, North Monaghan, we publish by request.

Essay by W. L. Johnston, teacher, read before the Convention at Peterborough, September 28th 1872.

THE CAUSES OF FAILURE IN TEACHING.

Some of these causes arrange themselves most prominently under the following heads, viz:

A want of natural and acquired abilities and of tact to communicate intelligibly to pupils the knowledge we wish to impart so that the weakest capacity can comprehend the idea. To be successful the Teacher must be endowed with a fair constitution, for if not [illegible] this blessing he is doomed eventually to certain failure. It has long since been decided, that mental exertion and toil are far more severe and exhaustive and the physical frame than bodily labor is. Hon. Progressly do the journals of our day proclaim that some brilliant scholar (perhaps one in our midst) who had shone in his profession, as a star of the first magnitude, has been arrested on his march to [illegible] by the [illegible] consequence of [illegible] brain. It is therefore of the utmost value, and especially so to the men of letters, that the body and mind be vigorous enough and well developed, otherwise [illegible] nervousness, [illegible] and frustrations take the place of cheerfulness. What is one of the [illegible] every [illegible] thoughtful [illegible] teacher of the [illegible] and the [illegible] of research. The [illegible] and the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and Bobcaygeon. It advises the ratepayers of Harvey not to give our railway a bonus. It recommends them to vote against the by-law, and, however with spite, tells the electors township Grey good will might extended to Red Lake, and will thus give Harvey all the railway accommodation it needs without cost. Having uttered this shriek, it suddenly flies into driveling, and tells the electors that if they throw ten thousand dollars into Cobourg coal pany will take it.

We should not have objected to the Cobourg Railway scheme could, had it not been thus flaunted upon us. We have no wish to interfere in the slightest way with any railway project so long as it does not ...concerned, but we are compelled to let the truth be known ... Harvey Ratepay... ...ers in drag ... ...Company have this railway on their hands, and ... ...ers in the ... ...ing portion would be sold if relieved from the incubus of the railway; Cobourg Chamber... ...ed by the ... ...ers, who is the ablest ... ...which concern, has found immense difficulty in coaching up the shiv... ...ment is to get footloose for the ... ...and place it in such a position as ... ...ompanies. We say that the whole scheme is a railway delu... ...ent Company are ... ...more than to get rid ... ...is the last railway ... ...through which the Reflex is trying lead bedraggled Peterborough."

So far as Harvey is concerned the ser... Review ... harm. Every man in Harvey knows that the Cobourg line crosses Rice Lake, they also know that the Company have announced their ... of passenger steam ferry-boat on Rice Lake; to carry the traffic of the rail... way from shore, to shore, they also know that not so much as one shovelful of earth has yet been turned by the Cobourg Company towards constructing the lake steamers aware that the Cobourg Company, ask five ... In-deed it needs no great ... the absurd railway policy of the Review, and the folly of pinning any reliance on its utterances, when ... that it doubts that the ... thousands of cords of wood in Harvey can be carried by a ferry boat across Rice lake!

Those of Harvey, exercise your common sense, accept the Cobourg as your natural outlet, and vote for the by law on Monday.

NOTICE

AND LUMBERMEN.

Department of Crown Lands,
Toronto, 28th August, 1872.

ALL returns of saw logs and boom timber to be made to the Department of Crown lands, by or before the FIRST day of JUNE, in each year, and must be sworn to by the person who superintended the cutting of such logs and boom timber, and also by the Cullers who measured the same; the returns must give the number of pieces of logs and their mean... ...ine lengths and diameters, and the number of pieces of boom timber, the length of each piece, with the diameter of each [illegible] bark at butt and top; and also the aggregate ... of feet, board measure, of each quantity of logs of the same lengths and diameters, compiled by "Scribner's Ready Reckoner" to be entered in the returns.

Separate returns must be made of the operations of each Shanty and each Jobber, and where it is intended to pass logs or boom timber as cut on private lands, or on lands under settler's licenses, separate returns under oath must be made in each case, showing the number of pieces of logs and boom timber, and their respective dimensions, and the lot or part lot on which the same have been cut.

When all returns of any lumbering establishment have been sent in and checked, the affidavit of the proprietor or proprietors of the logs and boom timber, or his or their superintendent or principal headkeeper, as to the total number of pieces of logs, and pieces of boom timber, cut by him or them, or acquired from others during the season of operations for which returns are made, will be required to be furnished to the Department or its agents, the Department or agents should be advised when Scott railroads have been furnished.

Attention is called to the 15th and 17th clauses of the "Crown Timber Regulations" which enjoin it imperatively that every facility, assistance and information be afforded to the Department and its agents, by all parties operating in timber or saw logs, &c., in the investigation of the extent and nature of such operations, and the examination of books and verification of returns.

Blank forms for the above returns may be had on application to the Department or any of its agents.

THOS. H. JOHNSON,
Assistant Commissioner.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that we have, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or no different combination. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and has a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every ... wherever with other preparations nearly ... the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the smell of Oils which they may contain.

Select Poetry.

Work and Wait.

A hedgehammer who many years
Had plied his fields and toiled in tears
Grew weary.

"I toil in vain for rocks and sands,
Will yield no crop to my hands,
The land is barren lands.

"My days
No
No
"My
The heavens are brass—they yield no rain,
The earth is iron—I toil in vain."

Then spoke a breath of
His
And from its leaves a voice so heard:

"The germ and fruits of life must be
Forever hid in mystery.
Yet none can toil in vain for me.

"A mightier hand more skilled than thine,
Must hang the clusters on the vine,
And make the fields with harvest shine.

"Man can but work, God can create,
But they who work, and watch, and wait,
Have their reward, though it come late.

"Look up to heaven, behold and see
The clouds and thunderings in thy ear—
An answer to thy doubts and fear."

He looked, and lo, a cloud-draped car,
With trailing smoke and flames afar,
Was rushing from a distant star.

And every thirsty field and plain
Was rising up to meet the rain
That came to clothe the fields with grain.

And on the cloud he saw again
The covenant of God with men,
Re-written with his rainbow pen:

"Seed-time and harvest shall not fail,
And though the gates of hell assail,
My truthhood promise shall prevail."

Agricultural.

Hybrid Wheat.

We copy the following on the crossing of wheat from the pen of Mr. Chas. Arnold, Paris, Ont., from the Canada Gentleman.

I would give it as my opinion, that fructification in wheat takes place in the blossom flower, before the pistil is exposed to any pollen having produced by its own stamens. Therefore, if crossed at all, it must be crossed by accident, or artificial means. I think such crosses are necessary after a long period of time, to arrive to the health, vigor, hardiness and productiveness of the plant. And after devoting much time to observing and experimenting in this matter, I am prepared to believe that grain of almost every conceivable size, shape, and color, can be procured by artificial crossings, and that, in the hands of skillful and persevering persons, vast good to the agriculturalist must be the result.

That many of the varieties of fruit and grain produced by this method will be worthless, there is no doubt, and ninety-nine out of every hundred of them will be inferior to some old varieties, is quite probable. But it should be remembered that in many of the new kinds of grain the tendency is to improve for years to come, while in the old varieties it is reversed. And again, perfection in crossing plants must not be looked for in the first generation any more than in the first crosses of animals. Much time, labor, and expense will be required in crossing before perfection in these things can be attained, if a portion of the funds of the various agricultural societies were applied to this purpose the world might be better for it.

I am pleased to be able to inform you that Hon. Frederick Watts, Commissioner of Agriculture at Washington, has wisely ordered a quantity of my first crossed wheat, to be distributed, I believe, over your whole country, and I feel confident that vast good will result therefrom. That it will prove superior to all other wheat in all parts of the country, with such a variety of soil and climate, is not to be expected, but if it should succeed in any one State better than any other variety of wheat, a benefit has been conferred. As stated above, perfection cannot be expected from the first cross, but as a proof of the benefits arising from crossing, re-crossing and selecting, I enclose a statement of the fact, that from one ounce of seed sown with the ordinary seed drill upon ordinary soil and culture I have sixty bushels of such grain as that now sent, while my next neighbor using the same soil and with the same culture every way, will not, I am confident, realize from the old varieties of Diehl and Treadwell one-quarter of that quantity, and I very much question if sixty bushels of wheat from one of seed will be raised on this continent this year from any of the old varieties.

Now to prevent numerous letters of inquiry after this wheat, I beg to say that as this sixty bushels above alluded to is all that is in existence of this variety, it is not my intention to offer it for sale this fall.

The Difference between Grades and Crosses.

We have seen in several semi-agricultural papers a disposition to confuse the two terms "grade" and "cross." These two, however, should by no means be indiscriminately adopted in the writings of farmers.

A "cross" is indeed in one sense a thorough-bred for sire and dam are in direct line of thorough-bred ancestors; but when a thorough-bred Ayrshire is a "cross bred" animal, and in another we may say by no means a bad cross either.

While the calf of the native cow with a thorough bred sire is strictly a grade approaching according the number of crossings it taking three to make a thorough bred entitled as to be registered in the "herd book."

THE REASONS WHY LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's CELEBRATED Perfected Spectacles, AND EYE GLASSES, have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness in experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an exercise guide to the true requirements of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.

5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by WM. H. TAYLOR, M. D. Sole Agent for PETERBORO' Corner of George and Hunter Streets. February. 29, 1872.

OVER THERE.

BY MAUD.

Lay my head upon your bosom,
For my heart is growing cold,
And your loving arms around me,
Mother darling, gently fold.

Hark, I hear a strain of music,
Throbbing on the midnight air,
Tell me mother, do the angels
Sing together over there?

When across the moaning river,
Will I join that angel throng,
Hear that thrilling strain of music,
Sing with them that holy song?

Oh, how swiftly runs the water,
Can I ever cross it o'er,
Will the boatman guide me safely,
To that bright and starry shore?

Come still nearer, mother nearer,
For I fear the darksome way,
Lest amid the gloomy dimness,
Can I ever find the the day.

Christ will guide me safe, you whisper,
Gently take me by the hand,
Tell me of the harps so golden,
As we walk the silver strand.

See the starry lights are dancing
Gaily on the river's breast,
And the tiny boat gleams brightly,
Telling of a surer rest.

Farewell, kiss me once, dear mother,
You will miss me well I know,
Do not weep, for I am going
Far beyond all pain and woe.

I can see beyond the shadow,
Through the pearly gates ajar,
Angel fingers beckoning sweetly,
From the azure mists afar.

You will not be lonely, mother,
For I still may hover near,
And e'er long we'll sing together,
Guarded safe from every fear.

Choice Literature.

A TERRIBLE SECRET.

Joshua Hurd was naturally of a very suspicious disposition.

Sensitiveness, Joshua was fond of denominating this peculiarity of his, but people who knew him thoroughly did not hesitate to call it jealousy and selfishness.

Joshua reached the age of forty without being married. He was suspicious of all the women he met, and consequently was no favorite among the fair sex. But he was worth a good property and this fact made him an object of interest among marriageable women.

He had paid particular attention to a great many, but had never arrived at the climax of an engagement. Some imperfection in the objects of his attention had invariably come to light in season to prevent Joshua from committing himself.—Twice he had nearly been lost, once to a widow and once to an old maid, but he had drawn back just at the proper time, and was a free man when the widow Buford came to his native town, to reside with a married sister.

Mrs. Buford was a very charming widow of thirty-five or forty, and Joshua was attracted to her at once. The widow was inclined, at their second meeting to repeat that stale old latin quotation, which has been in the mouths of stump speech makers and ambitious school boys but little less than all the time since the deluge—"Veni, vidi, vici!" For she had really conquered him, and being an understanding kind of a woman, she brought him to the point within two weeks. At the last moment full of fright and apprehension, Joshua would have backed out, but the widow was resolute, and they were engaged. Three weeks after they were married.

For the space of a week after their marriage, everything went on lovely. Mrs. Hurd was very affectionate and charming, and Joshua was as proud and happy as it was possible for him to be.

At the end of that time, Joshua's suspicious disposition received a morsel to feed on. One day, Mrs. Hurd was missing from the house, and nobody knew where she was. High and low, Joshua sought her, questioning every one he met but receiving no satisfaction. He went in frantic haste, around to all the neighbors, asking for his wife, and finding her not. He was in a terrible fever of nervous dread and anxiety. He felt sure that she had eloped, just as the wives do in the story books. When he reached home, Mrs. Hurd was sewing in the parlor, as easy and contented as usual.

Joshua overwhelmed her with a torrent of questions, but she gave him only laughing replies, from which he obtained no information. For two or three days he was on the alert to question her, but Mrs. Hurd would not be questioned, and finally Joshua gave it up.

A week went by, and the mysterious absence occured again. This time it extended over nearly all the afternoon, and Joshua's indignation reached a white heat. He had a theory, as many men have, that a wife should never do anything without telling her husband, but, like most others of his sex, he entirely forgot that "it is a poor rule that don't work both ways."

He searched the premises very thoroughly, he cross-questioned the hired man and his wife, and made himself obnoxious to everybody he encountered by a relation of his difficulties, but he got no light on the subject of Mrs. Hurd's mysterious absence.

At ten time she appeared, quiet and serene as ever, and to all of Joshua's indignant entreaties that she would tell him where she had been, she only laughed and declared he was the silliest old noodle she ever saw. Then Joshua took refuge in dignified silence, and his wife kissed him and called him a bear, and went off to ride with Katy Evans, a young girl a favorite of hers.

At the end of another week, the mysterious absence was repeated, and on taxing herself with unfaithfulness, Mrs. Hurd laughed still more merrily, and declared

Editorial Items.

The Committee of the Protestant Home acknowledge with thanks the following donations for September—Mrs Lipsett, a box of biscuit and a supply of bread and cheese; Mrs. Hall, Miss Nisbett, Mrs. Thomson, jelly and fruit for sick child; Mrs. James W. Orndorff, a pair of blankets and some jelly; Mr. White, a quarter of lamb; Mrs. W. G. Thomson, crab apples; Mrs. Sheriff Hall, crab apples; also from a friend $2.50, the proceeds of crab apples sold for the Home.

HOUSES AND LOTS FOR SALE—Remember the sale of houses and lots at the Caisse House to-morrow, Friday night at seven o'clock. They are all situated in the best parts of the Town and at the rate of increase of property in Peterboro will become valuable. See large and small bills.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Pearce, wife of P. Pearce, Esq. The Funeral takes place on Saturday, at ten o'clock.

The Chief Superintendent of Education has issued a circular, fixing fifty per cent of the Entrance Examination work as sufficient to enable pupils to be admitted to the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes.

The Government of Ontario propose granting power to erect an Inebriate Asylum in the Neighbourhood of Hamilton. They intend advertising for the land about 40 acres. It is also intended to make it self sustaining. This is a step in the right direction, and will suit all classes of the people who wish to see some means of saving that class of our citizens from ruin.

The trial of Coyle for the murder of Campbell in connection with his wife, who has already paid the penalty for her part of the crime, is now going on at London.

WHO IS RIGHT.—Messrs S. White and W. McCullagh of this Town have disputed the award of the Judges, on shoemakers work, and the result is that no less than $285 are bet on the quality of the work, Judged whether hand stiched or by machine; the former takeing them to be machine made and the latter, hand sewed. Both gentlemen shewed samples of work hard to be beaten in their line.

Church Opening Ashburnham.

The new Bible Christian Church in the village of Ashburnham was dedicated to the sacred services for which it was intended, on Sunday last. The Rev. C. Barker, of Bowmanville preached in the morning and again in the evening. And the Rev. Mr. Fish, Wesleyan Methodist Minister in the afternoon, to full houses. On Monday the Rev. Mr. Hooper of Cobourg preached at half past two, and there was a tea in the drill shed at 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock, after were addresses.

The church is a very neat brick building, capable of seating about three hundred people. The cost of the lot, building and improvements is about $2,200. This denomination has the credit of erecting the first place for Religious worship in the village as heretofore there was no church in it. We trust that the liberality of the people will be equal to the wants of the promoters and that they will be delivered from the responsibility of floating a debt for any length of time.

N. Monaghan Council.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment.

All the members present. The Reeve in the chair.

The Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

The following By-laws received their several readings:

For levying School Trustees Rate, No. 1 section $238, No. 2 section $80, No. 3 section $520, and No. 4 section $330. County Rate 8 mills in the $ (being 1½ mills less than in 1871) and Township Rate 2 mills in the $ (1 mill less than last year.)

Council adjourned to 1st November.—Con.

ASHBURNHAM.

The Council met on Monday Evening.

Present—The Reeve and Messrs. Ludgate, Rogers, Peck and Burnham.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A committee from the Town Council being present,—Mr. Ludgate moved, seconded by Mr. Rogers—That they be heard in reference to terms of union of the two Municipalities.

Messrs. Edmison, Stevenson, Toole and Smith then addressed the Council. They stated that the was nominally nothing. The entire debenture liability is $80,600 according to the last Auditors Report. For this the Town holds security against the railway to the amount of $68,000, leaving the unsecured balance at only $12,000. For this they hold property in the Market Block and other property to the full amount and more, and their rents and incomes, independent of taxes are close on $6,000 enough to meet the interest for all time on all the debt contracted. They had paid off their debts always when due, until within two years, when they found that they were paying off their debt faster than the law required. Since that time they have complied with the terms of the law. In the matter of representation the Committee were willing to recommend that the village, when united, consist of two Wards, and the Wards in Town remain as at present, four, but that there be two members for each Ward instead of three, as now. That the station of the Cobourg Road be in Ashburnham, and that the school be maintained as a Ward School, and that in all other things the two Municipalities unite on equal terms, the Town assuming all liabilities of the Village.

These things were embodied in a proposition and laid before the Council.

It was then moved by Mr. Ludgate, seconded by Mr. Rogers.—That the proposition be received and that the whole Council constitute a committee to further consult with the Committee from the Town Council, and that the two Committees meet in the Town Council Chamber on Wednesday evening 16th inst., at 7.30 p.m.

The Council then adjourned.

School Board.

The Board met on Tuesday evening. Present Dr. Burnham, Chairman, and Messrs Edwards, McLelland, Stevenson, Kidd, Cluxton, Edmison and Dumble.

The minutes of the Previous Meeting were confirmed.

The Secretary submitted a petition from the Trustees and the supporters of the school at Auburn, asking to be united to the town for shool purposes. As by the new extension of the limits half the section will be in the Town at any rate. The petition was received and the secretary instructed to inform the Trustees that the Board will carry out the desire of the petition as soon as it can be legally effected.

The Secretary also submitted the annual and semiannual report and returns of the R. C. Separate School for 1871, received from the Department of Education Toronto, sent in answer to a letter from the Secretary of the Board as instructed at the last meeting.

Messrs Stevenson. McLelland and Edwards were named a committee to investigate the reports and settle the division of the proceeds the school lot according to law.

Mr. Stevenson reported verbally that he had advertised for tenders for sheds, and had received two, each at about $600, but since that they had been withdrawn, the parties finding themselves unable to contract with any hope of carrying them out this season. In consequence, and in view of the increased cost of material this year the committee had thought it best not to go on with the construction of sheds this year.

Mr. Cox Reported also verbally, that the committee appointed to report on sites for two ward schools had received two offers, but the committee had not yet met to decide on those offers.

The attention of the Board was directed to the state of the stoves in some rooms so that they might be placed in a proper state before winter sets in.

Mr. Dumble informed the Board that they had examined the accounts referred to them, and found some accounts for printing had not been authorized, and that in consequence the Finance Committee had not recommended the payment. The committee were of opinion that there was no necessity for publishing everything in all the papers, at the same time, and that if necessary to patronise all the papers, it should be done alternately, or year about, so as to keep down unnecessary expense.

The Board then adjourned.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The County Council met in Special Session on Thursday last, all the members were present, except the Reeves of Burleigh, Harvey, Ashburnham and Snowdon.

The business necessitating this meeting was in connection with the New Registry Office. The Contractor had refused to go on with the work, and said he could not. He also disputed some of the terms of the specifications, and in consequence of these and other matters of importance the Warden had called the meeting. The Council advised the committee to proceed with the work, and refused to accede to any demands until the building should be completed, when the Contractor could place matters of dispute before the Council and have it settled. The building is now partly enclosed. The boards are on the roof but the slates are not on yet, and there is some dispute as to the shelves and pigeon holes to be placed in the vault. Since the meeting we understand the Contractor has agreed to finish the building and men we believe are again at work for that purpose. The Warden acted according to the best advice in calling the meeting, and it was done with a view to remove difficulties that might have ended in a law suit.

The Local Board [illegible] matter was not discussed but it would be done at the next meeting [illegible] should do to support [illegible] loyalty. The bridge is [illegible] interest of the [illegible] part of the town [illegible] should not hesitate to meet the County Council honorably and bear a part of the cost of replacing the bridge. There is not much reason in fostering the antagonism of our own municipality merely to gratify a spirit of opposition to the County. It is true the Town Council may say that they are not legally bound to assist in replacing the bridge, and if not, what then? Grave doubts have arisen whether the County can be compelled to replace it, and if not, must the bridge remain as it is? Surely not, if a large number of ratepayers of the Town suffer because of its being removed. The cost of testing the matter of the liability of the County would almost remove the whole difficulty, as it would nearly rebuild the bridge.

Would it not therefore be better to try this way of settling the dispute, and thereby cultivate an amicable feeling towards the County rather than a spirit of contention. It is certainly to the interests of the two Councils to work harmoniously in every thing that tends to building up of either Municipality.

WEST RIDING SHOW.

The Fall Exhibition of the West Riding was held on Tuesday and Wednesday. While it was very good it was scarcely equal to that of last year.

The number of visitors on Tuesday evening we think must have equaled that of previous years.

The Ladies Work was reasonably well represented, and the quality not inferior to that exhibited at former Shows.

In fruit there was not a large show, and garden vegetables and roots were not largely represented.

Sheriff Hall exhibited 23 varieties of Potatoes, and a card giving the produce of each variety from the same quantity of seed on similar land. We will give the products next week.

Mr. T. Fitzgerald showed some very handsome buggies, equal to anything shewn in any of the cities and far surpassing anything in the line heretofore exhibited in Peterboro in style and finish.

Messrs. Douglas & Logan exhibited a Single Covered Buggy and Waggon.

In Ploughs Mr. Peter Hamilton and Messrs. Whyte and Davis had several entries, each taking first prizes in particular classes of plows They also exhibited Straw Cutters and other Implements. Mr. W. Hamilton had an improved Sawing Machine on exhibition.

In the Harness line, Messrs. T. Donnely and Co. had some very handsome Carriage Harness, with which he carried off the first prize, and Mr. W. H. Mitchell took first prize for Strong Harness. Both parties had other entries in this line.

In Boots and Shoes, Mr. S. White and Mr. McCullagh exhibited some very nice work, not easily surpassed anywhere, of their comparative merits we leave the judges to decide.

Mr. D Pentland had several Cabinet Organs on exhibition, of beautiful finish and from the best makers. Mr. R. W. Errett showed a Piano and Melodeons, also from the best makers and finish.

In the Cattle, Horse, Sheep and Pig lines there seemed to be little improvement on other years. Young Horses especially not being first class, taken as a whole.

Mr. Jas. Elliott showed his prize Berkshires, they certainly are nice ones, and we understand he paid a high price for them. Mr. W. A. Hall also exhibited very fine Berkshires.

IRON IN THE BLOOD

PERUVIAN SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protoxide Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the strength of an oil-cloth, is duly diffused and rebuilded with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; hence they have no need to tell their neighbors and friends, and many that I never knew what it does once it does always—that is never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We are continually upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. As a laxative in all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice, or Gravel, or Bilious Colic, Bilious Cholic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Bronchial Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it arrests the progress of the disease, often by one dose.

A few doses of these Pills as prescribed for Worms will relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels vigorously well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and regulating effect on the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any one remedy been so widely and almost universally relied upon for the cure of so many dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs, as this preparation of CHERRY PECTORAL. For many long years of trial and severe test, in all climates, and among all nations, it has risen higher and higher in public confidence, as it has become better known. Its uniform power to cure the various affections of the throat and lungs, which lead to consumption, and the startling cures of these dangerous diseases which are daily reported from every section of the country, render it unnecessary for us to do more than assure the public that its quality will be fully maintained.

Although Confirmed Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or to assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

WILD STRAWBERRY REMEDY
Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstruction, and a speedy cure may be relied on.

TO MARRIED LADIES.

It is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

These Pills should not be taken by Female during the FIRST THREE MONTHS of Pregnancy, as they are sure to bring on Miscarriage, but at any other time they are safe.

In all cases of nervous and bilious affection, Pain in the Back and Limbs, or slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Ayerwise, and Whites, the Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed; and although a powerful remedy, do not contain iron, calomel, antimony, or anything hurtful to the constitution.

Full directions in the pamphlet around each package, which should be carefully preserved

JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phthisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

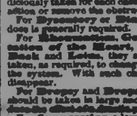
Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only thenty-five cents per bottle.

NORTHROP & LYMAN,
Newcastle, C. W.
General Agents for Canada.

Sold at Peterborough by Dr. Taylor, A. W Kemp, Wm. Coulter and Ormond & Walsh. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.



Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter. Druggists and storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their good customers also by inducing them to buy as a article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parallel. I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife—Obstice, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Relief or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

(To be continued.)

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

THE REASON WHY!

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half of the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the of Bone, Muscle, and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite perfect digestion, create pure healthy, sparkling blood and supply in the waste constantly going on the system as the result of mental and physicial exertion. Being combined with Calisaya, the Peruvian Bark, its only specific for Chills and Fever, and that condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive diseases it forms an elegant and agreeable, invigorating Tonic purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstances, and all diseased conditions of the body, as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.

Sold by all Druggists at $1. Drawer 308 P. O.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of natural ingredients in certian fixed proporations of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combination. Then in the preparation, of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever placed it is at the benefit of every one, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alchol is lost in that way, and you get only the smell of Oils which they may contain.

THE REASONS WHY

LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's

CELEBRATED

Perfected Spectacles,

AND EYE GLASSES,

have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirements of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.

5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

Select Poetry.

There is no Death.

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright, in heaven's jewelled crown,
They shine for evermore.

The granite rocks disorganize,
And feed the hungry moss they bear;
The forest leaves drink daily life
From out the viewless air.

There is no death! The leaves may fall,
And flowers may fade and pass away,
They only wait through wintry hours
The coming of May day.

There is no death! An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread,
And bears our best beloved away,
And then we call them "dead."

He leaves our hearts all desolate,
And plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers,
Transplanted into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.

The bird-like voice, whose joyous tones
Made glad these scenes of sin and strife,
Sings now an everlasting song
Around the tree of life.

Where'er he sees a smile too bright,
Or heart too pure for taint and vice,
He hears it to that world of light,
To dwell in paradise.

Born unto that unfolding life,
They leave us but to come again,
With joy we welcome them the same,
Except their sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread,
For all the boundless universe,
Is life—there is no dead!

The Workingman Abroad.

THE RELATIVE WAGES OF MECHANICS AND LABORERS IN EUROPE.

In no other country than America do we hear of the wages of the skilled workman averaging as high as from $2 to $10 a day, or that of unskilled laborers averaging from 75 cents to $2 a day. Let us compare these rates with other countries.

IN HOLLAND

the wages of a skilled artizan, such as a carpenter, joiner, plumber or smith, may be reckoned in the larger towns at about 34 a week. He works twelve hours a day in summer and his food is very moderate. Yet he is reported as as being prosperous and happy.

IN DENMARK

a first rate carpenter might contrive to earn $6.50 a week, and a skilled bricklayer $7.50. Englishmen in like circumstance would receive about $5 a week, while the Dane may be getting $3. The English $9 wages answering to about $5 Copenhagen. Unfortunately, however, seldom is the Dane able to earn the highest wages, simply because he does not understand the meaning of the word work. Hence the Swedish and German artisans come in and take the bread from his mouth.

IN SWEDEN

the average weekly wages of good workmen is $4.25. Piece workers make about 25 cents more. In Stockholm, where wages are highest, the following are the ruling rates: Goldsmiths $7, watchmakers $5, piano forte makers $2.25, paper makers $4.50, while cotton weavers seldom make more than $1.75 per week.

IN GREECE

a carpenter earns 50 to 62 cents per day, a blacksmith 35 to 45 cents, a mason 45 to 86 cents per day, and the operatives in silk factories 45 to 60 cts. but owing to the number of church festivals kept as strict holidays, leaving only 269 working days in the year, the amount of wages annually received is very small.

IN RUSSIA

the condition of the artizan during late years has materially improved. A goodly portion of the working classes spend their winters in town and summers in the country, flocking to the latter as soon as the warm weather sets in. Wages vary according to locality and seasons of the year, but are lowest in the districts where handloom weavers congregate. Good mill hands in the cotton, silk, linen, cloth, and carpet trades receive from $7.50 to $15 per month, ordinary mechanics, joiners, blacksmiths etc., are paid from 75 cents to $1.50 a day, while skilled mechanics and engine drivers can earn from $1.50 to $2.50 or even more.

IN WURTEMBURG

the condition of the laborer is still better, and the facilities which the workingman possesses of enjoying life are in many respects greater than in England. He is able to indulge in meat as a daily article of food, and even the poorest artizan eats sausages, if unable to procure fresh meat. White bread is still a luxury and is seldom indulged in by the working classes, but black or rye bread which costs four cents, or two and one half cents per pound, forms their habitual consumption.

IN BELGIUM

a good ordinary carpenter working for himself, and having a few pounds of capital or credit to buy wood, can earn from four to six shillings a day, and can get plenty of work. But if by his improvidence or other causes, he does not succeed in becoming a master carpenter his condition as a journeyman is poor indeed. He eats little or no meat, he has inferior bread, and drinks a quantity of weak coffee and chicory, with bad milk. His position is, in fact, inferior to that of the same class in England, and his lodging is simply deplorable.

IN SPAIN

the rate of wages is very fair, higher perhaps in the Asiatic portion than elsewhere. At Constantinople, a shoemaker according to his skill, earns from 20 to 70 cents a day, a tailor 20 to 60 cents, masons 25 to 75 cents, and fine work in the arsenal from 56 cents to $1. But in the district of Russia, in Asiatic Turkey, the wages were in 1869 as—Marble and stone cutters from 75 cents to $1.35, quarrymen 75 cents to $1, house carpenters, joiners, plasterers 75 cents to $1.25, cabinet makers $1.25 to $1.50. On the whole we gather that a tolerable good native workman can certainly earn good wages and what is enough to maintain himself and family according to his own ideas of comfort. But ideas of comfort differ. In the several workmen can rely on continuous employment, but their wages are continuously in arrears. Much regard to purchases, clothes, mostly of English fabric, so far as concerns cotton, are not unreasonable, house rent is dear in the cities, seldom under $125 per annum for a superior artizan in Constantinople but in Antioch in Asiatic Turkey, rent for a man in the same class with his family will be about $65. The dwelling places are more comfortable than might be supposed. They are built of sun-dried squares of clay, with chopped straw to bind it, the same mixture wetted is used as cement, and the foundations are composed of stone rubble. At certain intervals the walls are bound by rough-hewn strips of oak, beech or pine, held together by cross pieces, and the best roof is almost invariably tiled. There is an open fire place nearly level with the floor, and a flue to carry off the smoke. There are shelves, windows, etc., and the walls are commonly from thirty to thirty-six inches thick, plastered with clay and whitewashed within. The floor is of hard clay, covered with coarse, rough matting, where the inmates sleep or eat during the winter, but in the summer they prefer sleeping in the open air.

FOOD

is nominally cheap, but is bad in quality. Beef, mutton, lamb, are fibrous and stringy, and as no manure is used, and the land is tilled in a wholly superficial manner, the vegetables are hardly worth eating. The diet of the common laborer or peasant is composed of a dish of stewed beans or lentils, which, with the addition of leeks, salt, pickled cabbage, garlick, green and red pepper, or condiments, are eaten with half-baked brown bread or mixed grain, maize, wheat, barley, etc. This, with a little mutton, constitutes the food of the Turkish soldiers, and they are as fine and well-nourished men as any in the world. Different oils, cheese, milk, are also eaten, but meat is taken only on feast days, and spirits are forbidden to the Mussulman.

CLOTHING.

It deserves to be remarked that both men and women are well clad. The men's shirts and drawers are composed of cotton twist from England, their their outer clothing is of stout brown woolen stuff, thick socks and a skull cap. Over which they twist a white cotton turban. The women's cotton clothing is elaborately embroidered in brilliant colors with home dyed wool. There are few persons without a holiday suit, which also lasts them their lifetime. In severe weather the men wear sheepskin overcoats, with the wool inside, and as a rule, all sleep in their clothes in which they have done their day's work. A peculiarity in the weather requires that the lower limbs should be kept warm, and this is everywhere attended to. Even in the hottest weather the laborer swathes his legs and thighs in wool, while in the keenest winter his neck and breast are exposed

In character the Turks are thrifty, sober and fairly industrious—the mountaineers are especially hardy and active race. Temperance is enjoyed by their religion, and such insobriety as exists is limited to the Christians. It appears that the quality and conscientiousness of the work executed is better in Asiatic Turkey than in other parts.

A Bundle of Thoughts.

You may depend upon it that he is a good man whose intimate friends are all good.—Lavater

If you cannot please without being false to yourself, you had better displease.—Gail Hamilton.

It is seldom the case that beautiful persons are otherwise of great value.—Bacon.

LONGEVITY.

Sir Duncan Gibb in a paper read before the British Association on "Centenary Longevity," makes some very interesting statements, derived from a comparison of three counties but more himself. Of these four, two were one hundred and three, one one hundred and one, and one one hundred and two years old. Mr. Gibb found these peculiarities in their bodily constitution:

1—The lungs performed their functions perfectly in every case.

2—The blood was well circulated by a strong heart to all parts of the body.

3—The chest was well formed, and of fair size. The cubic contents of the chest were most striking.

4—The teeth were good, and powerful, though themselves in two cases.

5—The heart was healthy, and free from fatty deposits.

6—The eyes were good, and the sight excellent in every case, and no cases except hemiopsia existed.

7—None smoked, chewed or snuffed tobacco.

8—The mind was active, and the memory good.

9—The digestion in each case was excellent and the teeth sound.

10—In each case the mind had been throughout life composed and free from care and distress.

The lesson drawn from these cases is this:

That if people wish to live in health a hundred years, they must have sound bodies and take care of them. In other words, the body must receive that intelligent attention it deserves, and people must read and study the laws of hygiene in order to obey them.—Herald of Health.

Golden Words from a Merchant.

We all want to know how good and strong men have made their ways in the world. They were once boys like you. What steps did they take to become true men?

An eminent man in New York, M. Jonathan Sturges, tells us a little of his experience, which, I am sure every boy will be glad to hear about.

"One of my first lessons," says Mr. Sturges, "was in 1813 when I was eleven years old. My grandfather had a fine flock of merino sheep, which were carefully tended during the war of that day. I was the shepherd-boy, and my business was to watch the sheep in the sheep in the fields. A boy who was fonder of his books than the sheep was sent with me, while he lay under the trees and read. I did not like that, and finally went to my grandfather and complained of it. I shall never forget the kind smile of the old gentleman as he said:

"Never mind Jonathan, my boy, if you watch the sheep you will have the sheep."

"What does grandfather mean by that?" I said to myself. "I do not expect to have the sheep." My desires were moderate, and a fine buck was worth a thousand dollars. I could not make out; my mind what it was, but I had great confidence in him, for he was a judge, and had been to Congress in Washington's time, so I concluded it was all right, and I went back contentedly to the sheep. After I got into the field I could not keep his words out of my head. Then I thought of my Sunday lesson, 'Thou hast been faithful over a few things.' I began to see through it: 'Never you mind who neglects his duty, be you faithful and you will have your reward.'

"I received a second lesson soon after: I came to the city as a clerk to the late Lyman Reed. A merchant from Ohio who knew me came to buy goods, and said: 'Make yourself so useful that they cannot do without you.' I took his meaning quicker than I did that of my grandfather.

"Well, I worked up these two ideas until Mr. Reed offered me a partnership in the business.

The first morning after the partnership was made known, Mr. James Geary, the old tea merchant, called to congratulate me, and said: 'You are all right now. I have only one word of advice to give you—be careful who you walk with on the streets.' That was lesson number three.

And what valuable lessons they are.

"Fidelity in little things; do your best for your employer; carefulness about your associates." Let every boy take these lessons home and study them well. They are the foundation stones of character and of honorable success

How Gas is Made.

The Marlboro Mirror publishes a sort of gas catechism, which conveys a good deal of important "light" to the world of the juvenile on this subject:

"How do they make gas?"

"First they put about two bushels of bituminous coal in a long, air-tight retort. This retort is heated red-hot, when the gas bursts out of it as you see it burst out of lumps of soft coal when on the parlor fire. The gas passes off through pipes. A ton of coal will make ten thousand cubic feet of gas. The gas as it leaves the coals is very impure."

"How do they purify it?"

"First, while hot, it is run off into another building, then it is forced through long perpendicular pipes, surrounded with cold water. This cools the gas, when a good deal of tar condenses in it and runs down to the bottom of the perpendicular pipes. This tar is the ordinary tar which you see boiling in the streets for walks and roofs.

"They now wash the gas. They call it scrubbing it. This is done by filling a large vessel, which looks like a perpendicular steam boiler half full of wood laid crosswise. Then ten thousand streams of cold water are spurted through this boiler. Through the mist and rain and between the wet sticks of wood, the gas passes, coming out washed and cleaned. The ammonia condenses, joins the water and falls to the bottom."

"What next?"

"Well, next the gas is purified. It is passed through vats of lime and oxide of iron, which takes out the carbonic acid and ammonia."

"What next?"

"The gas is now pure. It is passed through the big station meter, then through the mains and pipes, and is ready for the gas jet in your room. Then it burns, while you sit and lecture to don't learn better."

A Scandinavian journal states that the Government has just published in two volumes, which are understood to be the production of other investigations as inquisitively conducted by Swedenborg. The first is that the Bishop of the ex-Tycoon, composed of 100,000 volumes, is opened to the public without distinction of class or creed.

Miscellaneous.

Mystery of Ontario Lake.

Lake Erie is only thirty or seventy fathom deep; but Lake Ontario, which is 502 feet deep, is 230 feet below the tide level of the ocean, or as low as many parts of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and the bottoms of Lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior, although their surface is so much higher, are all, from their vast depth, on a level with the bottom of Lake Ontario. Now, as the discharge through the River Detroit, after allowing for the probable portion carried off by evaporation, does not appear by any means equal to the quantity of water which the three upper great lakes receive, it has been conjectured that a subterraneous river may run from Lake Superior by the Huron to Lake Ontario. The conjecture is by no means improbable, and accounts for the singular fact that salmon and herring are caught in all the lakes communicating with the St. Lawrence, but in no others. As the Falls of Niagara must have always existed, it would puzzle the naturalists to say how these fish got into the upper lakes without some such subterranean river, moreover, any periodical obstruction of the river would furnish a not improbable solution of the mysterious fire and reflux of the lakes.

There is no bar before which to bring the perpetrators of these disgraceful outrages but the bar of Public Opinion. There we impeach the Ontario Government; we charge it with having been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors—with having sought to debauch public morality, and poison the fountain of electoral purity at its source.—Mail.

The jury in the Ontario case have paid little attention to your charge, Judge Mail. Six seats in the Assembly secured by the Grits since last Session out of a maximum of seven does not look as if the people of Ontario paid much attention to the balderdash of the Tory organs, of which the above is a fair specimen. The campaign is over, Mr. Mail. You have failed to oust Ontario for your proprietorship. You have, on the contrary, done his cause more harm than good. Not withstanding your charge of high crimes and misdemeanors against the Ontario Ministry, they are growing stronger each day. You had better put up the shutters for it's no use. The nasty Grits are stronger to-day than they were before the "Proton Ostrage" first saw the light, and your over issue is as good as ten votes for them.—British Whig

We are in favour of the Ballot, but Heaven forbid us from it while Sir John Macdonald retains office. If under the present system, a Returning Office can unblushingly perpetrate the West Peterboro fraud, and for a time deprive the majority of that Riding of Parliamentary representation, what enormities would not have been committed by his dishonest nominees under cover of the Ballot, had the ballot box been in use! The lengths to which a dishonest man like Sir John would go to secure the return of his followers, should make all men pray to be safely delivered from the Ballot while the Artful Dodger has in his hands the manipulation of the elections and the manufacture of Returning Officers.

RELIGION IN EXTREMITIES.—Two young men sailing recently in Delaware Bay, were overtaken by a squall. They had been "aside a Methodist Church, and knew something of how religious services were conducted. As it appeared that their little boat was capsizing one said to the other, "Bill, this is serious business, can you pray?" "No, I can't. I've listened to Post, but I can't do it, myself." "Well, you can sing a hymn, can't you? Do something." "No, I can't sing here. How can I sing when this boat may at any moment drown us both?" "Well, we must do something religious If you can't pray, and can't sing, let's take up a collection."

PACIFIC RAILWAY CONTRACT.—The Ottawa Free Press says:—"It is understood that the Cabinet is occupied in discussing the question of disposing of the Pacific Railway contracts. It is stated that the two companies applying have amalgamated, which will probably make it a more difficult matter to make a contract at a "bargain."

SAVE YOUR CLOVER SEED.—We have been informed, says the Franklin Patriot, that one of the largest and most enterprising farmers of this county, last year saved enough of clover seed for his own sowing, sold enough to pay for all the dry goods used in his family, and received $25 cash in addition. This is the way in which he did it. He put a wire bottom in a trough in which he fed his stock—the wire being two or three above the close bottom of the trough. The stock in pulling the clover hay from the rack would scatter the seed almost pro through the wire into the receptacle below.—Canada Farmer

THE COST OF FENCES.—How little is really known in this country in respect to agricultural economy is illustrated in the statement concerning fences. It is said that the improvement Lands in South Carolina are worth $20,000,000 while the fences that enclosure them have actually cost $16,000,000. The fences in New York have cost $144,000,000; those in Ohio $115,000,000 and according to an estimate made by Nicholas Bidle thirty years ago, the fences of Pennsylvania had then cost $11,000,000. The fences of the whole Union are estimated at $1,200,000,000. The time may come—in the next century, it is suggested—when outsides of towns and cities a fence will almost be a curiosity. Hedges will take their place, and thereby accomplish an immense saving of money, while lending

The Montreal Witness says that over 400 horses in that City are suffering from the horse disease now prevalent in every section of the Country.

Mr. Hill wishes us to state that his Bath Rooms are open every day from 2 p. m., until 10 p. m. Warm rooms and warm baths.

BE WISE IN TIME.—A crusade is being entered upon by the conservative press against all "grits," so that if possible none of them be returned for councillors or other public officers, and it is now acted upon in this County. If the abettors of such foolish acts will but take good advice, they will eschew all politics in municipal matters, and elect good men no matter what shade of politics they reflect. Canada will deeply regret the day that an attempt to place one class of politicians, and one only, in office, as an attempt to do this will arouse a spirit of party contention that will end in the complete overthrow of its promoters. Every friend of his country must regret the course taken by our confrere the Review, under its present control, in dragging political strife into the merest petty office both in Town and County, not hesitating to exceed the truth to injure a rival or remove a "grit," as he delights to call Reformers. The people must soon see the madness of the policy pursued by him.

The Hon. Neal Dow the author of the Maine Liquor Law will deliver a Lecture in Peterboro, to-m orrow evening, at 8 o'clock p.m., in the Music Hall. There will be a full house to hear him. Admission only Ten Cents.

A LARGE BEAR SHOT AT WARSAW.—As R. Dean was on his way to Warsaw on the evening of Saturday the 12th instant, and when betw een the Indian River and the Village he discovered a large Bear feeding close to the road. Mr. Dean hurried to the village and gave the alarm, when some six or eight men and boys with a dog started in pursuit, the dog was put on the scent and in less than two minutes Mr. Brain made his appearance on the full jump, and chancing to pass close to that veteran marksman, Harry Bell, he received two shots in rapid succession, one of which took effect in his head bringing him to the ground, the party lost no time in conveying him in triumph to the village post office, after an absence of not more than. twenty minutes.—Com.

Mr. D. Edgerton, of Hastings, fell out of his buggy as he alighted from the Penny Hill Show, on Friday last, and was killed.

The East Riding Plowing Match will be held on Friday, on the farm of the late Walter Scott, Esq., near Norwood.

THE FIRST SNOW.—The first Snow of the season fell here on Tuesday. During the previous day or two the weather had been unusually cold.

DREADFUL ANIMAL HORRORS.—At present there is a disease known as Catarrhal Fever prevailing among horses. It is very common in Peterboro and vicinity. The Livery Stables in town have been closed for some days. We understand that if proper precaution and treatment are used there need be no fear, but to work them when suffering from the disease, the fever becomes aggravated and the lungs affected, in which case it generally proves the death of the animal.

The Cobourg, Peterboro, and Marmora Railway Company are now offering $1.50 per day for laboring men, payment weekly. This shows determination to push the work through.

The Harvey By-law to grant a bonus to the Omemee and Bobcaygeon Railway was defeated last week, and thus casting a damper on the project for some time. The prospects of building the branch to Bobcaygeon were never bright, as the Company has had as much on hand in other directions as it can manage. We believe however that the Cobourg Road will yet reach Bobcaygeon, if the people of that village and district render the encouragement such an enterprise deserves. The Independent is as astray in its strictures on the Cobourg Company. There is every reason to believe that they are prepared to extend the road Northward, from Mud Lake, to which place it will be constructed in time to ship lumber by it next season. The greatest activity prevails along the whole distance, from Mud Lake to Rice Lake, and the enterprising Superintendent Mr. Barber, is pushing the work forward with all possible haste. The Lake will be bridged by April, perhaps sooner, and communication between Peterboro and Cobourg early in spring, we understand. The Independent should not therefore throw any obstacles in the way of the people of the North assisting this Company in undertaking the construction of the Railroad to that Villiage or farther, if found advisable. It may be true that some of our public men of this Town have not pursued a wise course in in opposing Railway enterprise in the past. Nor is it to be wondered at, that they now oppose any part of this County granting bonuses to a road calculated to injure our trade and progress: with us it should be Peterboro first. The people as a whole, if permitted to give an unprejudiced vote, are in favour of extension to Bobcaygeon, and to Georgian Bay if possible, and the sooner they set themselves to work to secure that desirable object the better for Peterboro. And now that the prospects of a Branch line from Omemee North ward are blighted, the next best, in fact, the best thing for the Independent is to arouse the people to Railroad communication by way of Peterborough.

Smith Church Dedication.

The opening services of the New Wesleyan Methodist Church in Robinson's neigebourhood were well attended on last Sabbath.

The Rev. Mr. Briggs, of Cobourg, preached in the morning and evening, and the Rev. Mr. Fish, of Peterboro, at 2.30 o'clock. The services were all that could be desired, and the collections liberal.

The preparations for the tea were upon a very extensive scale. Indeed the supplies came in so liberally that at one time it became a matter of uneasiness to find space to stow away the baskets, packages, and well filled boxes of provisions which came pouring in from all around.

Tea was served in the old Church on three rows of tables, parallel to each other which literally groaned under the weight of their loads. The spread was magnificent, and, with iced cakes, many of which towered several stories high—one we think five—reflected the greatest credit on the artistic skill of the ladies, not merely of the congregation but of the entire neighborhood, all, or very nearly all of whom joined to make the auspicious event of the opening of a New Church as one long to be remembered.

Since the memorable occasion of the Inaugral Ceremonies of the North Monaghan Intellectual Improvement Society at the Town Hall, on the 1st of January, 1858, when the ladies of the central part of that township out-did any previous display on such occasions.

We have witnessed many festive gatherings, but the spread on Monday evening, we have never seen surpassed but seldom equalled. The after proceedings were well sustained by the Revds. John W. Bell, Dyell and Brigg's, and enlivened by excellent selections of sacred music admirably executed by the choir from McKee's church aided by our old friend Mr. Graham, of Lakefield, who is always ready on such occasions to render efficient assistance. The church is of brick 36 by 40 & 16 feet in ceiling, neatly seated in the most improved manner: sight well proportioned windows light the interior. The aisles are matted, and the pulpit and communion beautifully and tastefully carpeted and trimmed the whole presenting a chaste and pleasing appearance.

There is a substantial well finished shed 117 feet, and the grounds are well fenced being picketed and painted in front. The entire cost of buildings and furnishing amounts to a little over $1600. $800 of which had been subscribed before the contract was let, and from the Sabbath collections, tea and subscriptions upwards of $530 have been received, thus leaving less than $300 to be provided, which the industrigusable Treasurer, Mr. John Bell, thinks it will be realised from the proceeds of the Social on Wednesday and subscriptions yet to received, at that he hopes to be able to reimburse within the present month or year at the furthest that the church will be free of debt.—COM.

West Riding Plowing Match.

The West Riding Plowing Match came off on Tuesday. There were several entries in the Men's Match, and also in the Boy's Match.

We believe the plowing was well done as a whole, many of the young men doing about as good work as the older ones.

The following is the List of successful competitors.

MEN'S CLASS.

1st Prize, Alex. Dunbar.
2nd do Wm. Ford.
3rd do Robert Scott.
4th do Wm. Turnbull.
5th do Andrew Tully.

BOY'S CLASS.

1st Prize, John Kerr.
2nd do Robt. Ford.
3rd do R. M. Scott.
4th do Jas. Fowler,
5th do Francis Turner

THE $100 MATCH.

The Challenge Match between Mr. Waldon of Lakefield, and Mr. Walker of Cavan, for $100 a side, took place at the same time, and was watched with considerable interest by both old and young plowmen. Both gentlemen have numerous medals for first prizes taken in England, as they are both Englishmen. Mr. Waldon having gained, it is said, no less than fifty prizes out of sixty matches, and yet he is only 27 years of age. Mr. Walker is a much older man, and has also taken several prizes both in England and Canada.

The judges chosen by the competitors were unable to agree, and in consequence the Judges of the Riding Match were called in, by previous agreement, to decide, and they did so in favor of Mr. Walker. As is usual in such cases the Judges are being freely judged by the spectators, who witnessed the match, many of whom would give it to Mr. Waldon, if they could, avering as they do that he made the best plowing.

The plough which Mr. Walker, used on the occasion was made by Mr. George Fair, of Millbrook.

Town Council.

Council Chamber, Oct. 14, 1872.

The Council met on Monday evening.

Present—His Worship the Mayor and Messrs. Smith, English, Helm, Lundy, Hall, Paterson, Doharty, Stevenson, Robertson, Edmison and Toole.

The Minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Communications from George Dunsford and Thomas Chambers in reference to the improvements on streets were read and referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Petitions from Thomas Tully and Thos Cahill and others asking for improvements on streets were also referred to the Street and Bridge Committee

A petition from Wm Hamilton asking for the errection of a Lamp Post on Road street, near the bridge, at his shop was referred to the Gas Committee.

A petition from Messrs. Peter Hamilton and Wm Helm showing the injustice of granting a bonus to Messrs. Whyte and Davis on their proposed manufacturing establishment, and praying that a By-law as asked for may not be submitted to the people, was read and received.

A report from the Fire Department by the Assistant Engineer, up to the first of October was read and received.

Mr. Smith, Chairman of the Finance Committee, read and submitted a Report which was received and adopted, recommending payment of the following accounts:

Thos Beavis, watching	$ 5 00
James Stratton, printing	60 02
J. Z. Rogers	6 00

and also stating that the account of Blake Kerr, and Bethune, submitted, on the Midland Railway matter, appeared to be correct.

Mr. Edmison, Chairman of the Committee appointed to confer with the Reeve and Council of Ashburnham in reference to amalgamating the two Corporations stated that they had met the Council and their conference seemed to be satisfactory to both parties.

On motion of Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. Edmison—The Street Inspector was authorized to employ a Surveyor to strike the grade on George street, between Hunter and Murray street.

Moved by Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Patterson—That the Council having heard the statement of the Chairman of the Committee appointed to confer with the Municipal Council of Ashburnham, are of opinion that the proposed terms of Union are satisfactory, and the Committee is recommended to carry them out if possible.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Lundy—That the Petition of Messrs. Hamilton and Helm be referred to a Special Committee with a view to ascertaining how far it affects the spirit of the Act granting aid to Manufacturers by way of Bonus, also to take the Petition of Messrs. Whyte & Davis into consideration, and Report to this Council whether in their opinion Messrs. Whyte & Davis application for a Bonus come within the meaning of the Act. The Committee to consist of Messrs. Stevenson, Edmison, Lundy, Toole, and the mover, and to report at the next meeting of the Council.

On motion for the first reading of the By-law in accordance with the prayer of the Petition of Whyte and Davis being put by the Mayor, it was declared lost.

Moved by Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Lundy—That the Clerk be instructed to give the necessary notice that application will be made to the Legislature of Ontario for an Act authorizing the Union of the Town of Peterborough with the Village of Ashburnhem. Carried.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

Roman Catholic Corporation vs. Hartley, etc—verdict for def. Boultbee for plf. Dennistoun for def.

The Grand Jury:—P. Pearce, Esq., Chairman, W. W. Armstrong, Wm. Armstrong, Wilton Blewitt. John Calder, S. W. Clegg, Wm. Gainer, A. R. Kidd, M. Leahy, F. Lumsden, John Millar, Andrew Nelson, Arthur Rutherford, Wm. Robson Walter Scott, John Sullivan, Thos. Telford, Alex. Wood and Jos Walton, Esqrs.

A True Bill was found against Richard Copway, for horse stealing. Copway was found guilty and sentenced to six months in jail, with hard labor.

Philip Metcalfe in custody on charge of procuring miscarriage, was discharged, there being no evidence against him before the Grand Jury.

Sarah Roswell in custody for default of sureties for keeping the peace, was discharged. Also,

John Neithercut and Edwin Harvey for same cause, were discharged from custody.

The Queen vs. Harvey. A True Bill was also found against Harvey Pearson, for assault. Bound over to appear at next General Sessions.

PRESENTMENT OF GRAND JURY:

The Grand Jury for the County of Peterborough at the County Assizes held the 14th of October, 1872, beg leave to report:—

That they are pleased to find that only two Bills of indictment have been brought before them, and one of them of a trivial nature. They visited the Jail and found it in a very creditable state, evidently showing great care and attention on the part of the Jailor and his assistants.—There is, at present, sixteen prisoners in confinement, nine males and seven females Of these two are insane, and one an idiot, who has been confined there since 1867. They would respectfully suggest that some effort be made to have the insane and idiotic removed to some other place beside the common jail.

The Grand Jury would also present that the Court Room is not sufficiently ventilated, nor the floor of the approaches to the room properly covered, so as to lessen the noise of persons entering and leading the court room, and would recommend that the matter be brought under the notice of the County Council.—They are pleased to observe that a new Registry Office is being erected suitable for the increasing requirements of the public.

The Grand Jury also visited the Protestant Home in this Town, and found 12 inmates there, five adults and seven orphan children. They are pleased to report the Home presents a very clean and comfortable appearance, and its inmates happy and contented. The managers of the Home deserve the thanks of the community for the interest taken in providing a home for destitute females and orphan children.

(Signed) PETER PEARCE,
Chairman.

Grand Jury Room, Oct. 16th, 1872.

The Jury were then discharged by the Judge.

East Riding Show.

The East Riding Show was held at Keene on last Thursday and Friday.

In grain, roots, home manufactures and horses it surpassed the West Riding Show both in number of articles and animals shown, and in quality; and in dairy produce and garden vegetables it was fully equal to anything shown at Peterboro. The Ladies department also was very good, but not so good as the West Riding Exhibition.

There appears to be a decided improvement in horses of every class. Mr. Jas. Miller's draught horses would be difficult to beat, and those shown in that class were all superior animals.

There were numerous entries for carriage horses, and whether the judges pleased the owners or not, their judgement must have been well taxed to decide There were not as many entries of carriages or buggies as at Peterborough. A waggon, however, shown by Mr. Thomas Mathers was justly declared by all who examined it, as the best yet exhibited in the County. Some who were at the Provincial Exhibition say that if it had been there it would have taken a first prize.

The Show was considered by all a decided success, somewhat in advance of former shows, indicating a steady progress in the interest manifested in those Annual comparisons of individual enterprize.

At the close, T. Blezard, Esq., President, referred to the succesful issue of the Exhibition and to the fact that nearly 1,700 people had been admitted to the inside of the sheds during the days of the Exhibition.

The dinner was provided by Mr. McLaughlen, and was in his best style, the table was abundantly supplied with everything that could be desired, and the good things were as freely disposed of, as the Judges did not get through with their work till late in the afternoon.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY

Job Moses' Peridocal Pills.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied on.

TO MARRIED LADIES.

It is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

These Pills should not be taken by Female during the FIRST THREE MONTHS of Pregnancy, as they are sure to bring on Miscarriage, but at any other time they are safe.

In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affection, Pains in the Back and Limbs, on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics, and Whites, the Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed; and although a powerful remedy, do not contain iron, calomel, antimony, or anything hurtful to the constitution. Full directions in the pamphlet around each package, which should be carefully preserved

JOB MOSES', NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR

$1.00 and 12½ cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., general agents for the Dominion, will ensure a bottle, containing over 50 pills, by return mail.

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, bilious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter, Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it

Wife—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Relievr or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

(To be continued.)

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

THE REASON WHY!

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half of the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the of Bone, Muscle, and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite perfect digestion, create pure healthy, vitalising blood and supply in the waste constantly going on the system as the result of mental and physical exertion. Being combined with Calisaya, the Peruvian Bark, the only specific for Chills and Fever, and that condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive diseases it forms an elegant and agreeable, invigorating Tonic purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstances, and all diseased conditions of the body, as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certian fixed proporations of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation, of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alchol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of Oils which they may contain.

No Mortgage on the Farm.

BY JOHN YATES.

Mary, let's kill the fatted calf and celebrate the day,
For the dreaded mortgage on the farm at last is wiped away,
I have got the papers with me, they are right as right can be—
Let us laugh and sing together, for the dear old farm is free.

Don't all the Yankees celebrate the fourth day of July,
Because 'twas then that freedom's sun lit up our nation's sky?
Why shouldn't we then celebrate, and this day no or forget?
Where is there any freedom like being out of debt?

I've risen many mornings, an hour before the sun,
And night has overtaken me before the task was done,
When weary with my labors, 'twas this tho't nerved my arm,
Each day of toil will help to pay the mortgage on the farm.

And, Mary, you have done your part in rowing to the shore,
By taking eggs and butter to the little village store;
You did not spend the money in dressing up for show,
But sang from morn till evening in your faded calico.

And Bessie, our sweet daughter—God bless her loving heart,
The lad that gets her for a wife, must be by nature smart—
She's gone without her piano, her lonely hours to charm,
To give a hand in paying off the mergage on the farm.

I'll build a little cottage soon, to make you heart rejoice,
I'll buy a good piano, to go with Bessie's voice
You shall not make your butter with that up and down concern,
For I'll go this very day and buy the finest patent churn.

Lay by your faded calico and go with me to town,
And get yourself and Bessie a new and shining gown;
Low price for our produce need not give us now alarm,
Spruce up a little Mary, there's no mortgage on the farm.

While our hearts are now so joyful, let us, Mary, not forget
To thank the God in Heaven for being out of debt,
For He gave the rain and sunshine, and put strength into my arm,
And lengthened out the days to see no mortgage on the farm.

Influence of Music on Animals.

We had just been reading a very interesting essay regarding the influence of music on animals. The writer shows how various aanimal, and even insects, are influenced by a concord of sweet sounds We have noticed the same thing, but thought nothing of it until we stumbled on this article.

We remember how we have seen horses influenced by music. One of the most enjoyable runaways we ever experienced can be directly traced to the influence of music on a horse. We were driving past where a band wrs playing, and the music had more influence on the horse than we had. He didn't keep time though. In fact he didn't keep anything, harness, buggy, or anything else. He only kept ruaning. I never thought music could have such influence on a horse.

He beat time, too. That is to say he beat any time we ever saw him make before, even before a sulky. We would have kept that horse to run against time, if he hadn't run against a lamp post and ruined himself. Music influence a horse? Guess not.

Horses are excellent musical performers themselves, sometimes. We have known a hungry horse to go through all the barn of an oat field correctly and never miss an oat although the owner of the oats missed all of his.

Dogs are singularly affected by music. We shielded after a straying dog once we remember, the leg stopped, listened attentively, looked a moment sad, as though the notes awoke some tender memories within him, and then came bounding to us and embraced the calf of our leg in the most affectionate manner. He could hardly tear himself away, and would not if the owner had not come and choked him off.

There is a power of music in a tin kettle when properly brought out. We saw one brought out the other day by some boys who attached it to a dog's tail. Talk about the influence of music on animals. We never saw a dog so moved in all our life.

Cats are strangely influenced by the music of a violin. It seems to affect their entire system. In fact, there could be no violin without doing violins to the cats. Even a very young kitten, who does not realize what he has got to come to, mews plaintively when a fiddle bow is drawn across the strings. It seems to vibrate a sympathetic chord within its own abdominal inclosure. It is affecting the mew of a young kitten, or to see a young kitten muse.

Birds, never brought up on music at all are brought down by the music of a shotgun. Many of the wild animals are charmed with music. We often hear music that nothing, but a wild animal would be charmed with.

The Tyrolinas entice a party of stage by singing, merely, and the Tyrolian warbler of a concert saloon merely entices a "sing" party. The female deer is allured by playing the flute. We had a female deer once whom we tried to allure with a flute but deer female said she was accustomed to doing her own fluting. So we just let her flute.

The elephant, huge as he is, has a wonderful ear for music. One of his ears would make a brass drum head. He is not fond of a march too far. He is also partial to a galop, if it be a gal upon his back. We saw a music teacher fooling with an elephant once. The elephant picked his pocket and marched off with an whole trunk full of music.

Among insects the spider is found to be very fond of music. His favorite vocalists are the Webb sisters. His favorite ballad —"Come, fly, to my bower!" It is a right bower, and we pity any fly that comes there.

THE REASONS WHY

LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's

CELEBRATED

Perfected Spectacles,

AND EYE GLASSES,

have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirement of each person's vision—solely our own.

5th. Because we never fire the eye at ——— many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

The Voyage of Life.

Thou art flowing on bright river,
In gladness to the sea,
And summer sunbeams quiver
On thy waters joyously;
The graceful willows bending
With their shadows o'er thee throws,
In murmurs sweet are blending
Their voices with thine own.

Oh, brightly art thou flowing,
Green, sunny banks between,
And many a wild flower glowing
Is mirrored in thy sheen.
And barks are gliding gaily
Upon thy peaceful breast,
Which skilful hands are guiding
To the haven of their rest.

But o'er thou meet'st the ocean
There are rocks and quicksands deep,
And winds in wild commotion
Will o'er thy bosom sweep,
And the barques their sails unfurling
To the zephyr's gentle play,
Lost in thy waters whirling,
Thou wilt bear as wrecks away.

Like thee, the heart beginneth
Life when all things are fair,
Alas, it seldom winneth
The goal untouched by care,
Hope's fairy pinnance freighted
With dream's of future joy,
Hastes to the quicksands fated
Its promise to destroy.

Wrecks of the dreams are cherished
Are floating darkly by,
Like the gallant ships that perished
When wind and waves were high.
The flowers that bloomed around it
The fount now idly broke,
And the sun-bright hopes that bound it
Are like parted cables broke.

But soon, oh flowing River!
Though wild thy course may be,
Thou'lt merge thy waves forever
In the deep unbounded sea.
And to the heart is given
A calm repose at last,
Though sorely it hath striven
With the billow and the blast.

GOING DOWN HILL.

"That looks bad," exclaimed Farmer White, with an expressive shake of the head, as he passed a neglected broken down fence, in one of his daily walks.

"Bad enough" was the reply of his companion.

"Neighbor Thompson appears to be running down hill very fast. I can remember when everything about his place was trim and tidy."

"He always appeared to be a steady, industrious man" rejoined the second speaker. "I have a pair of boots on my feet at this moment, of his make and they have done me good service."

"I have generally employed him for my family," was the reply, and I must ——— but he is a good workman. Last Jack Smith's two boys were ——— many years without the necessity of change.

"I declare," exclaimed Mrs. Bennet the dressmaker, to her favorite assistant as she hastily withdrew her head from the window whence she had been gazing on the passers by, "if there is not Mrs. Thompson the shoemaker's wife coming up the steps with a parcel in her hand.—She wants me to do her works, but I think it would be a venture. Every one says they are running down hill, and it is a chance if I ever get my pay."

"She has always paid us promptly," was the reply.

"True, but that was in the days of her prosperity. I cannot afford to run any risk."

The entrance of Mrs. Thompson prevented any further conversation.

She was evidently surprised at the refusal of Mrs. Bennet to do any work for her, but as a great pressure of work was pleaded as an excuse, there was nothing to be said, and she soon took her leave.

Another application proved equally unsuccessful. It was strange how busy the village dressmakers had become.

On the way home the poor shoemaker's wife met the teacher of a small school in the neighborhood where two of her children attended.

"Ah, Mrs. Thompson, I am so glad to see you," was the salutation. "I was about calling at your house. Would it be convenient to settle our account this afternoon?"

"Our account," was the surprised reply, "surely the term has not expired."

"Only half of it, but my present rule is to collect money at any time. It's a plan which many teachers have adopted of late."

"I was not aware that there had been any change in your rules, and I have made arrangements to meet your bill at the usual time. I fear that it will not be in my power to do so sooner."

The countenance of the teacher showed great disappointment, and as he passed on in a different direction he muttered to himself—

"Just as I expected, I shall never see a cent. Everybody says they are going down hill. I must get rid of the children some way. Perhaps I may get a pair of shoes or two in payment of the half quarter, if I manage it right, but it will never do to go on in this way."

A little discomposed by her interview with the teacher, Mrs. Thompson stepped into a neighboring grocery to purchase some trifling article of family stores.

"I have a little account against you and would it be convenient for Mr. Thompson to settle it this evening?" asked the polite shopkeeper as he produced the desired articles.

"Is it his usual time for settling?" was again the surprised question.

"Well, not exactly; but money is very tight just now and I am anxious to get all that is due me. In future I intend to keep short accounts. There is the little bill if you would like to look at it. I will call around this evening. It is but a very small affair."

"Thirty dollars is no small sum to us just now," thought Mrs. Thompson as she pursued her way towards home musingly. "It seems strange that all these payments must be met just now while we are struggling to recover from the heavy expense of the winter. I cannot understand it."

Her perplexity was increased by finding her husband with two bills in his hand, and a countenance expressive of anxiety and concern.

"Look, Mary," he said as she entered "here are two unexpected calls for money—one from the doctor, and the other from the dealer in leather of whom I purchased my last stock. They are both very urgent for immediate payment, although they have always been willing to wait a few months until I could make arrangements to meet their claims. But misfortunes never come singly, and if a man gets a little behind hand trouble seems to pour in upon him."

'Just so,' replied the wife, 'the neighbors think we are going down hill, and every one is ready to give us a push. Here are two more bills for you, one from the grocer and the other from the teacher.'

Reply was prevented by ——— and disappeared.

"The butcher's account as t ——— as I live!" exclaimed the astonished shoemaker. 'What is to be done, Mary? So much money to be paid out and so little coming in, for some of my best customers have left me, although my work has always given satisfaction. If I could only have as much employment as usual, and the usual credit allowed me, I could satisfy these claims, but to meet them now is impossible and the acknowledgement of my inability would only send us further on the downward path.'

'We must do the best we can, and trust in Providence' was the consoling remark of his wife as a second knock at the door aroused the fear that a second claiment was about to appear.

But the benevolent countenance of Uncle Joshua, a rare but very welcome visitor, presented itself. Seating himself in the comfortable chair which Mary hastened to hand him, he said in his eccentric but friendly manner.

"Well, good folks, I understand the world does not go so well with you as formerly. What is the trouble?"

"There need be no trouble," was the reply, "if men would not try to add to afflictions which the Almighty sees are necessary for us. The winter was a trying one. We met with sickness and misfortune, which we endeavour to bear with patience. All would go well, if those around us were not determined to push us in the downward path.'

'But there lies the difficulty, friend Thompson. This is a selfish world—Everybody, at least a great majority, only for number one. If they see a poor neighbor going down hill, their very first thought is whether it will effect their own interest and provided they can secure themselves they care not how soon he goes to the bottom. The only way is to keep up appearances. Show signs of being before hand, and all will yet go well with you.'

'Very true, Uncle Joshua, but how is this to be done? Bills which I did not expect to be called upon to meet for the next three months, are pouring in on me. My best customers are leaving me for a more fortunate rival. In short, I am on the brink of ruin, and naught but a miracle will save me!'

'A miracle which very easily wrought then, my good friend. What is the amount of your debts which now press so heavily upon you, and how soon in the coming course of events could you discharge them?'

'They do not exceed one hundred dollars,' replied the shoemaker; 'and with my usual run of work, I could make it all right in three or four months.'

"We'll say six," was the answer,—'I will advance you one hundred and fifty dollars. Pay every cent you owe and make some slight addition or improvement in your shop or house, and put everything around the grounds in its usual neat order. Try this plan for a few weeks and we will see what effect it has upon our worthy neighbors, No, no, never mind thanking me, I am only trying a little experiment on human nature. I know you of old and have no doubt that any money is safe in your hands.'

Weeks passed by. The advice of Uncle Joshua had been strictly followed, and the change in the shoemaker's prospects was indeed wonderful; he was now spoken of as one of the most thriving men in the village, and many marvellous stories were told to account for the sudden alteration in his affairs.

It was generally agreed that a distant relative had bequeathed to him a legacy, which had entirely relieved him of his pecuniary difficulties. The polite butcher selected the best piece of meat for his inspection, as he entered, and was totally indifferent as to the time of payment. The teacher accompanied the children home to tea, and spoke in high terms of their improvement, pronouncing them among his best scholars. The dressmaker very suddenly found herself free from the great press of work, and in a friendly note expressed her desire to oblige Mrs. Thompson in any way in her power.

'Just as I expected,' exclaimed Uncle Joshua, rubbing his hands exultingly, as the greatful shoemaker called upon him at the expiration of six months with the money he had loaned in the hour of need.

'Just as I expected. A strange world! They are ready to push a man up hill when he seems to be ascending, and just as ready to push him down, if they find his face turned that way. In the future, neighbor Thompson, let every thing wear an air of prosperity, and you will be sure to prosper.'

And with a satisfied air Uncle Joshua placed the money in his pocket-book ready to meet some other claim upon his benevolence, while he, whom he had thus befriended, with a cheerful countenance returned to his happy home.

Bad Tempered People.

The state of the stomach, we are told has a great deal to do with the temper, the natural result being that when a man's liver is out of order, his temper is in the same condition. This may be true enough, but we question whether the liver is answerable for all the sins which are laid at its door. We know very many bad tempered people who, to our knowledge, have never been bilious in the whole course of their lives. Of course, it may be alleged that if the liver is all right, something else is all wrong—the nerves, or the heart, or the lungs, or the teeth are driving the poor sufferers almost to distraction. This also may be correct. But it must be admitted that there are many pleasant beings who never complain of being afflicted by any special complaint, whose existence, for all that, is one of chronic ill-humor, who snap and snarl when they are spoken to, and sulk when left to themselves.

A good many of those "gentle creatures" will in intervals of comparative good humor, tell you to your face that they are bad tempered, that they always have been, that they always will be. They may support the information by declaring that their fathers and great-grandfathers were so afflicted, though not to the same extent. They apparently glory in the admission of their weakness, evidently considering that an out and out bad temper is a possession of which a man has some reason to be ——— and that they have, or ought to have, any control over it. They regard it rather in the light of disease, which, like fever, must be allowed to run its course unchecked.

Naturally, it is not pleasant to have much to do with those people, indeed, it is questionable whether it is possible for many to hold close and long continued intercourse with them. Generally such intercourse is brought to a conclusion by a terrible row, in which the sufferers from bad temper display their infirmities in a thorough fashion. They say things not compatible with the laws and usages of polite society, and do that which is certainly the reverse of proper. Timid beings are almost frightened to death, and to abate the furies, are ready to swallow the leak to any extent. The furies, probably, feel some slight twinges of compunction after their temper has cooled, and, perhaps, half apologise, by laying the blame upon their passionateness. The injured ones longing for peace, perhaps accept the explanation, but they never forget, and ever afterwards are cold and distant, and watchful, and suspicious.

These bad tempered people are ever on the look out for insults. When they are servants their proud spirits chafe at being told to do their duty by their employers. They kick at authority and cannot brook reproof. They are constantly on the look out for things at which to take offence. If they hold subordinate positions they come to loggerheads with the manager, head-clerk, or foreman, as the case may be. When they occupy positons of authority themselves they play the part of tyrants. They get into a furious rage at trifles, decline to allow a hapless culprit to exonerate himself by rendering explanations, and inflict Draconian punishments.

Naturally, they are pretty generally detested, but while they are detested they are feared, which, it may be said, is not the case with another class of bad tempered people.

Waiting for their Beer

A writer in All the Year Round thus graphically describes the appearance of the Seven Dials, London, on Sunday, when the public houses are open to their customers:—

The aborigines now begin to concentrate their forces upon the Dials themselves. Two of the seven corners of the Dial are occupied by public houses, and towards the clock imbedded in the facade of one of these establishments many anxious looks are now cast. The Sunday market is by this time over, and the loungers at the door ways have burst from the grub into the butterfly state, and sallied forth in all the glories of shabby swelldom, their clothes cut according to the inflexible mathematics of the ready-made system. There are gorgeous exceptions to the general mob but there is one fact in connection with the entire multitude which is rather remarkable. However seedy and shabby a Dialian may be in his attire, his boots, or what is left of them, are invariably polished to perfection on a Sunday morning. One side of the opera space is occupied by a row of a dozen shoeblacks, who indulge amongst themselves in playful badinage peculiar to them whilst attending to the wants of their customers. These latter have by this time pretty well exhausted the round of amusement afforded by the place. They have been shaved, for the penny barber shop by has been hard at work scraping away the week's growth of stubble off the ———

Stolen Secrets.

There is still standing, close by Temple Bar, in London, an old chemist's shop. The proprietor of it in days gone by enjoyed the monopoly of making cirtic acid. More favourably circumstanced than other secret manufactures, his was progress that required no assistance. He employed no workmen. Experts came to sample, assort and bottle his products. They never entered the laboratory. The mystic operations by which he grew rich were confined to himself. One day, having locked the doors and blinded the windows, sure as usual of the secrets, our chemist went home to dinner. A chimney-sweep or a boy disguised as such, wide awake in chemistry, was on the watch. Following the secret-keeper so far on his way as Charing Cross as to be sure he would not return that day, the sooty Philosopher hied rapidly back to Temple Bar, ascending the low building, dropped down the flue, saw all he wanted and returned carrying with him the secret of making cirtic acid. The monopoly of the inventor was gone. A few months after and the price of the article was reduced four-fold. ——— broken and died shortly afterwards, when informed that the thunder had spoiled two barrels of beer in her cellar she remarked "how the thunder could get in there when the celler was double locked, in more than I can comprehend." The manufacture of tinware in England originated in a stolen secret. Few readers need be informed that tinware is simply thin iron plated with tin by being dipped into the molten metal. In theory it is an easy matter to clean the surface of the iron, dip it into a bath of boiling tin, and remove it, enveloped with the silvery metal, to a place for cooling. In practice, however the process is one of the most difficult in the arts. It was discovered in Holland and guarded from publicity with the utmost vigilance for nearly half a century. England tried in vain to discover the secret until James Shermen a Cornish miner, crossed the Channel, insinuated himself surreptitiously in a tin-plate manufactory, made himself master of the secret and brought it home. The history of cast steel presents a curious instance of a manufacturing secret stealthily obtained under the cloak of an appeal to philanthropy. The main distinction between iron and steel, as everybody knows, is that the latter contains carbon. The one is converted into the other by being heated a considerable time in contact with charcoal in an iron box. Now, steel thus made is unequal. The middle of the bar is more carbonized than the ends, and the surface more than the centre. It is therefore, unreliable. Uniform work cannot be made out it. For many purposes it will answer, but when accurate work is required it fails. Nevertheless, before the invention of cast-steel there was nothing better. In 1770 there lived at Attercliff, near Sheffield, a watch-maker named Huntsman. He became disfatisfied with the watch springs in use, and set himself to the task of making homogenous. "If," thought he, "I can make a piece of steel into an ingot, its composition should be the same throughout." He succeeded. His steel became famous Huntsman's ingots for fine work were on universal demand. He did not call them cast-steel. That was his secret. About 1770 a large manufactory of this peculiar steel was established at Attercliffe. The process was wrapped in secrecy by every means within reach, true and faithful men hired, the work divided and sub-divided, large wages paid, and stringent oaths administered. It did not answer. One mid-winter night, as the chimneys of the Attercliff steel works belched forth their smoke a traveler knocked at the gate. It was bitterly cold and the wind howled across the moor. The stranger, apparently a ploughman or an agricultural laborer seeking shelter from the storm awakened no suspicion. Scanning the wayfarer closely, and moved by motives of humanity, the foreman granted his request and let him in. Feigning to be worn out by cold and fatigue the poor fellow sank upon the floor, and soon appeared to be asleep. That, however, was far from his intention. He closed his eyes apparently only. He saw workman cut bars of steel into bits, place them on crucibles, and almost the crucibles into a furnace. The fire was urged to its extreme power until the steel was melted. An Example for Canadian Snobs.

In remarking upon Lord Dufferin's affability, condescension and desire to please, the Quebec Chronicle reads certain folks in "this Canada of ours" a little lecture which we deem worth reproducing for the benefit of all concerned. Our contemporary says of the Governor-General's social qualities:

"His example in this respect might be followed with good results in Quebec and other cities where you often meet persons not one whit above you in social position, and far inferior to you in the qualifications which render a man agreeable and entertaining, unwilling to be ordinarily polite on social and other occasions. This constant affectation of superiority in a new, democratic, self-made community is the most ridiculous outcome of egotism, and stupid ridge conceivable. The people who are this superiority unconsciously betray both their ignorance of what good breeding is, and their inward knowledge of the fact that there is really nothing superior about them. It is not the genuine metal that needs polish and gilding, but the worthless pinchbeck. We have heard the remark more than once made, of late, that the developement of habits of silly display and snobbery in our Canadian cities is something both surprising and ridiculous, and such 'fashions' may be expected to live on as long as sensible people who don't like, or can't afford them, don't snub their votaries on all proper occasions—and as long as obliging tailors and milliners don't refuse to give long credit. We want just such real leaders of society as Lord and Lady Dufferin in this country, at present to reprove by quiet, gentlemanly demeanor and gracious conduct towards persons who really are inferior, that it is not necessary to be rude, haughty and foppishly dressed to play a gentleman's part in good society."

"I hope you will be able to support me," said a young lady, while walking ——— with a ——— assistance from your father." There was some confusion and a profound silence.

A Bachelor remarking that a hot flat iron was good to keep the feet warm in winter, was answered by a blooming young lady, that a very great improvement had been discovered on that invention.

Why are Sheep the least moral of the animals?—Because they gambol in their youth, spend much of their time on the turf, many of them are "black legs," and they all get fleeced at last.

There have been three sales of Stock lately. One of the Hon. D. Christie's; one at Bow Park farm belonging to the Hon. George Brown, and one near Newcastle, that of Mr. Bolwood. At Mr. Christie's sale one cow brought $575 and a bull $1,230. At Mr. Brown's sale calves brought from $210 to $310, and Berkshires as high as $52 a piece. The sale at Mr. Bolwood's farm was also a good one and prices ranged high.

Mr. Frazer has obtained a majority of 163 in Grenville, and has completely vanquished his opponents. They will now feel satisfied that Grenville is gone from John A. and Co.

The Election Riots in Manitoba are likely to cost the Dominion a nice round sum. Two newspaper offices were injured and in consequence claims for $17,000 and $10,000 respectively have been put in. Will they be paid?

The Grand Junction people have men at work between Belleville and Stirling, and expect to have 12 miles of the road graded this fall.

The Ontario and Quebec railroad is likely to be built at an early day. Several Municipalities along the proposed track have voted large bonuses to it already, and other Municipalities are likely to pursue the same course. This is the road for Peterboro, as if built, it will place Peterboro as near the great centres of trade, Montreal and Toronto, as either Cobourg or Port Hope, and will open up sections of Country for our manufactures that must lead to the enlargement of all branches of industry carried on here. What are our public men doing to encourage the enterprise?

The Honorable Mr. Blake has returned to Canada, and his numerous friends and admirers will be glad to learn that his health is much improved. What will Ex-Speaker Cockburn say now that he is safely home again?

The Opposition press of Ontario is sorely vexed about the coming changes, because of the withdrawal of Messrs. Blake & Mackenzie from the Ministry. They should possess their souls in patience—a month or two at most will reveal the whole matter. Good men and true will be found to take their places.

SUCCESS TO THE EAST RIDING.—Jas Millar Esq., Reeve of Ottonabee showed his splenaid draught team at Cobourg last week and carried off the first prize from that county. It is generally conceded they are as well matched a team as in the Province. Mr. T. Mathers also took the first prize for a farm waggon, the same one exhibited at the East Riding Show at Keene.

THE HONORABLE NEAL DOW, IN PETERBORO,—The hon. Neal Dow, of the State of Maine, delivered a Lecture in this Town, on Friday Evening, on his favorite subject, Temperance. T. M. Fairbairn, Esq., M. P. P., occupied the chair on the occasion. The Music Hall was crowded by an appreciative audience attracted by the fame and good name of the Lecturer, and none went away disappointed. The hon. gentleman is a very pleasing and somewhat humorous speaker. He treats his subject in an intelligent and persuasive manner, and his illustrations are exceedingly apt and well timed. Although the lecturer occupied an hour and a half in delivery, the people appeared disappointed when he sat down. On motion of Jas. Edwards, Esq., a vote of thanks was tendered to him for the able, interesting and instructive lecture.

OPPOSITION BY STEAM—The Manitoba Liberal says: That one Mr. Hay, an agent of the Hudson Bay Company in Lisgar County, Manitoba, refuses to grind the grain of those electors who voted for Dr. Schultz. This is carrying politics as far as the Toronto Mail could desire It will arouse some person or perhaps company to erect an opposition Mill which will grind Conservative as well as Reform wheat and oats, and take away the profits from the great political monopoly—the Hudson Bay Company.

The Rev. Mr. Punshon, M.A., L.L.D., will visit Peterboro, on the 13th & 14th of November. On one of the evenings he will deliver a Lecture on "The Men of the Mayflower," or "The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers," and the other evening he will attend a tea meeting in the Wesleyan Methodist Church and with other Ministers deliver an address. This timely notice will enable parties at a distance to make arrangements to come and hear him.

A CHILD BURNED TO DEATH—A very painful accident occurred here yesterday. A little girl, daughter of J. J. Hall, Esq. had a hollow pumpkin with some fire in it, in the garden alone, and was adding some withered leaves to make a blaze. While stooping over it her dress caught fire, and before anyone could relieve her by extinguishing the burning clothes, she was so severely burned that she died about three hours after. Our warmest sympathies are with the parents in this sudden and trying bereavement The dear little girl was only five years and five months old.

KILLED BY A FALLING TREE—Just as we go to Press we learn that a man named John McCue while working in one of Boyd, Smith & Co's shanties, was killed yesterday by the falling of a tree. His remains were brought to Town on last evening. The Funeral takes place to-day at 3 o'clock, from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. F. McAuliffe, Charlotte street. Deceased was about 30 years of age.

IN THE BOYS MATCH.

The First and Seconded Prizes were taken by two sons of Mr. Alex McFee and the third by a son of Mr. Alex Wood, all of Otonabee.

We will give the Prize List in full next week.

The Proposed Union.

As the subject of Union of the two Municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham has already engaged the attention of the two Councils, and is talked of by the people, it is reasonable that both sides of the question be carefully and fairly discussed. The great question to the Ratepayers of Ashburnham is: Will the Union increase their taxes? And if so, will there be a return for such increase?

If the valuations of the two municipalities should remain in the same proportion as at present, then no increase of taxes would follow when united, as at present the town rate is 13 mills on the dollar while the rate in the village is over 20 mills on the dollar, taking statute labour into account. And yet the evil of the Statute Labor system remains unnoticed, perhaps. It presses heaviest on small tax payers. A man owning $50 worth of property, having to pay $2.25 yearly for that purpose alone, while his neighbor possessing $499.99 pays no more. And as the disparity in value of property increases there is the greater disparity in the statute labour. Union would do away with statute labour altogether, then and all men would pay in proportion to their means.

It is urged that the debt of the Town is so large that the Town Council seek the Union so as to get Ashburnham to pay a part on of it.

The indebtedness of the Town is as follows:

To the Municipal Loan Fund	$103.000
Accrued interest on the above as Reported in Government Returns of 1871	32,000
Debentures	79,660
Bonus to Paton, Moir and Co.	10,000
Bonus to the Cobourg, Peterboro and Marmora Railway and Mining Company	40,000
	$261,600

The Town has also voted $40,000 on conditions of the road being extended to Fenelon Falls. And $30,000 additional to aid in establishing Manufactures.

This would make a total of $331,600.

There is also one year's interest on the Municipal Loan Fund Debt since the Report of 1871.

The Town Committee claim that they have the following assets against those [illegible]

Price of Lots sold in south part of the Town not yet collected	5,700
Lots in south of Town not sold 11 Lots at $250 each	2,750
Council Chamber worth	3,000
Moneys in hands of the Commissioners towards paying interest and sinking fund of Municipal Loan Fund	13,439
School Property that cost at least	25,000
Rents, Tolls, and Licences yearly $5,319 which represents a capital, at six per cent of	88,650
	$206,539

Leaving the debt, for which there is no property, to be $125,061. But of this sum $70,000 are not yet issued, so that the debt not provided for is $55,061.

The Town, of course, may contract more debt, and in all probability will do so, but a Union of the Municipalities, if matured, must be entered into for better or for worse, and the electors of that portion would have the same rights as others and could vote for or against any increase of debt.

It is well known that the Government of Ontario will, perhaps at the approaching Session of Parliament, take into consideration the entire Loan Fund indebtedness of the Province, and some way of settling it, as it is believed very many of the Municipalities can never repay it. In the settlement of the Fund, Peterborough will receive fair treatment, and perhaps get the whole thing wiped out. This is confidently looked for, and if realized, the Town indebtedness would be $132,000 less than in the above calculation.

It is conceded by all that if the station of the Cobourg Railroad be maintained in in Ashburnham, that this would be equivalent to any portion of the Town debt contracted for re-opening that road, which that Village might be called on to pay. If the citizens of Ashburnham should consider it in that light, then in any comparison of liabilities, the $40,000 given to that road would be deducted from the figures already given, which would leave the debt of the Town, for purposes of Union, about $15,000, and if the Loan Fund should be wiped out by the Government, the town would be in a very satisfactory state indeed. In fact would be in a position to undertake works of utility without fear of oppressing the Ratepayers.

THE ASHBURNHAM SIDE.

The Village is not in debt, comparitively speaking, only $1,300; $300 of which was for enlarging the School House, and $500 for a portion of the New Steam Fire Engine in connection with the Town.

In case of separation from the County the would have to assume a portion of the County debt amounting to about $2,300.

The debt of the Village, therefore, to be assumed by the United Municipalities would be $3,600 for this they own property as follows:

School Property worth	$2,200
Town Hall and Market Block	1,600
	$4,800

This, it will be seen, is more than the debt to be assumed, unless the County will be compelled to pay the bonus to the Grand Junction Railway which is not anticipated.

So far, therefore, as the debts of the two Municipalities are concerned, no injustice would be done to either of them by uniting and assuming the joint indebtedness.

The important question of increase of taxes remains to be considered.

Property in Town is assessed somewhat nearer its true value than in Ashburnham and fears are entertained that the Union would entail increased valuation and as a consequence increased taxes.

The present assessed value of the Village is $196,080 in round numbers, which at 15 mills, will raise $1,800; 1006 days Statute Labor at 75 cents per day, $750; total $2,600 for all purposes. Suppose the value should be increased by one third, and, the rate Town 13 mills levied, it would be $157,390 × .013 = $2044.90. Suppose it increased by one half its present assessed value it would then be $130,065 × .013 = 2457, and even at $260,000 the amount of taxes would only equal $2,600, the sum now raised by the Village.

If a union is effected, one assessor will be appointed from the village and justice done to all parts of the Town, no doubt; but even supposing the assessment to increase to the full value of the property in cash, then there need be no fear of an increase of taxes for sometime, not until an increase of population would be secured to aid in paying the liabilities.

The School would still be maintained as a ward school, and those wishing could avail themselves of the advantages of the Collegiate Institute.

The Village would also be represented by four Councillors, and on the School Board by four Trustees.

The Town would assume almost at once the dimensions and population of a city. The population would be little short of eight thousand

It is true that in Town there is some wire pulling. There is extravagant outlay on Streets and Sidewalks now and then. Gas Works, and ere long, Water Works it may be, but it would not be saying much for the people of Ashburnham, to admit that they could not watch their own interests in a united council.

It is evident that the location of the Station, and the advantage of the school alone are worth a little sacrifice, although a sacrifice is not required, nor need any be made.

The terms of union to which the Committee of the Town agree are as follows:—

The Committee appointed by the Town Council to confer with the Reeve and Council of Ashburnham with a view of bringing about a Union of the two Municipalities are of opinion that the following terms should form the basis of Union.

1—That the present Town of Peterborough should be divided into four Wards and the Village of Ashburnhan into two Wards, and that each of such Wards should be represented by two Councillors.

2—That all the property east of the River embraced within the limits of Peterborough extended, be added to and form part of the Wards into which Ashburnham is to be divided.

3—That the Ashburnham School be maintained as a part and in connection with the Peterborough Common School, and that Ashburnham as being two Wards of the Town be represented by Trustees in the School Board.

4—That the present Market and Hay Scales of Ashburnham be maintained.

5—That the Railway Station of the Cobourg and Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company be located in the present Village of Ashburnham.

6—That all property owned by either Municipality shall become the property of the whole Town, and all debts due or liabilities incurred by either Municipality shall be assumed by the whole.

The Globe, in reference to "Politics in Municipal affairs" as advocated by the Mail, quotes the wail of that organ as follows:

"There are too many members of the Union Party," it says, "who look upon elections as events having no consequences extending beyond the transient reverse of the other. Too many set the role of mere over the most contemptible triumph and collapsing abjectly at the slightest defeat: but if these would see the party maintain its ascendancy and power, they must organize until they have the discipline to win without growing reckless, and to lose without falling into a panic."

And in answer to this says:

There is some truth, no doubt, in this dolorous jeremiad. There are too many, we dare say, of the party referred to whose zeal flickers out like a candle when the contest is over and the money-bags are empty. But an organization of "camp followers" is a very forlorn hope. If the Reformers have but a shadow of the wonderful organization attributed to them, they will not be routed by any force to which is applicable a phrase so disrespectful. A tendency to "recklessness" and "spasm" is a pretty certain forerunner of defeat, whether the object to be gained be a majority in a City Council or in the House of Commons.

But, though the Conservatives have no intelligible principle of action, it is something new to be told they are lacking in party discipline, or in those arts by which elections are often more easily won than by a fair and open appeal to the electors. The mortification arising from defeat may inspire a lugubrious view of the situation, but what the advice now tendered means, is, that every possible resource is to be strained in the coming municipal contests to retrieve, or to lay the foundation for retrieving, the disaster to which the organ practically confesses. The course to be taken by Reformers is therefore plain. If our opponents will not concede that in municipal affairs there can be a common platform, they must be met on their own ground, and not be allowed to gain one advantage they can turn to account elsewhere. This, as it is true, is a strange commentary on the "no party" cry, on which they once relied to snatch a temporary triumph. Not for the first time have they, to gain some supposed advantage, turn their backs upon themselves, and sought to out-Herod Herod in pushto extremes what they had most condemned. However, the warning has been given in time, and Reformers everywhere must take care to be found ready.

An example to Canadian Railway Managers has been shewn by the General Superintendent of the Michigan Southern Railway. That officer has forbidden the sale of whiskey, ale, beer, or other intoxicating liquors along the line of that road in any of the eating houses attached to the stations. This action was induced by the frequency with which accidents and mishaps occurred through the use of intoxicating liquors.

As a prominent instance of enterprize, it may be mentioned that the village of Renfrew, the rateable property of which is valued at only $120,000, will in a few weeks vote on a by-law granting a bonus of $30,000 to the Canada Central Railway Co., to be raised on debentures payable in 20 years.

The bakers have threatened a strike in England. What with high prices of meat and high prices of coal, a bakers' strike would pretty nearly empty the larder. A compromise is now under consideration with a prospect of being accepted by both sides.

Probably the greatest movement of population in modern times caused by the sentiment of nationality alone has just taken place in the newly acquired German provinces of Alsace and Lorraine. The time granted by the German Government to the inhabitants of these provinces to choose between German and French citizenship having expired, the exodus during the last two weeks was simply immense. The railway lines into France were crowded, and yesterday so large was the amount to carry all who wanted to go, 15,000 persons left Metz to seek homes under French jurisdiction, and the population of that city now numbers only

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phthisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body and from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is last superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, billious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter. Druggists and Storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parell, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it.

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Reliever or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Killer on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

(To be continued.)

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

THE REASON WHY!

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALABAYA is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half of the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the of Bone, Muscle, and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite perfect digestion, create pure healthy, vitalizing blood and supply in the waste constantly going on the system as the result of mental and physical exertion. Being combined with Calisaya, the Peruvian Bark, the only specific for Chills and Fever, and that condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive disease it forms an elegant and agreeable, Invigorating Tonic purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstances, and all diseased conditions of the body, as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.

Sold by all Druggists at $1. Drawer 306 P. O.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certian fixed proportions to greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combination. Thus in the preparation, of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alchol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of Oils which they may contain.

The Old and the New.

BY HENRY BAKER.

We swept along the pine-clad shore,
'Mid looming hills that vaster grow,
And said—"Farewell, for evermore—
Farewell the One, we greet the New."

We came across the tossing foam,
Athwart the restless sea-walls borne,
And said—Adieu to thee, dear Home,"
With faces to the brightening morn.

The land grew large, and manifold
The shining valley vast and fair.
Sweet voices echo from the Old,
But yet I breathe a freer air.

The cycle of the long, long year,
The fleet slow-passing year of pain,
With weary pulses draweth near,
And echoes for the Old again.

Once more there breaks the occult glow
Of long fled golden memories,
And through my soul vibrations flow.
The heralds of sweet reveries.

I stand upon the rugged shore,
And look, and list across the main,
I mean—"Sinai! I see thee there more!"
And yet mine eyes with yearning strain.

I stand upon the rugged shore,
And watch the homeward ships go by,
And hearken through the breakers' roar,
For music that will never die.

There is sweet music fancy bred,
That softly calls across the sea,
Like voices from the happier dead,'
For truly dead they seem to me.

The shadows flee, back rolls the pall,
There stand the maidens on the shore,
They wave their beckoning hands, and call
To one who loves them more and more.

Transfigured in the shining track,
After their radiant faces shine,
They breathe—"O summer winds bring back
Our friend, long lost, across the brine."

O white winged sea bird flying far,
Take my fond love-words o'er the wave,
To where green downs and roses are,
And tell them yet my will is brave.

Before me waves a shadowy throng,
Behind, the snow-clad arnales lurk,
But evermore doth float the song—
"Ride thou thy time, endure and work."

I draw my hand across mine eyes,
And turn a sad heart once again
To life,—now kindlier gleam the skies,
The earth seems brighter for the rain.

GOOD BUTTER.

If you fail to sell your butter at the highest market price, you may be certain that it is not of the best quality and that the fault is all in the making. There are a few simple rules, which, if followed strictly, will insure good butter and top prices—the first and most important of which, is perfect cleanliness in every stage of the process of making. Without this, all other conditions will be fulfilled in vain.

1—Your milk-pails, pans, cream pot and churn, must be washed perfectly clean every time they are emptied, and then thoroughly rinsed in boiling hot water, wiped with a clean towel and dried in the sun and fresh air.

2—Before milking, brush the cow's bag before you set the pail under, and get off all the loose fine hairs, which will otherwise fall into the milk, and if the teats or bag are dirty, wash them clean with cold water.

3—Set your milk in a cool, airy place where it will be sure from smoke, soot, ashes, dust and flies, and take off the cream before it turns to clabber. To get all the cream before the milk turns, it is an excellent plan to set the pails into kettles over the fire with a little water in them, and heat the milk nearly to the boiling point, and stir it before straining. By this means you will get all the cream in twelve hours perfectly sweet and free from lumps of clabber.

4—Every time you add fresh cream to the churning, stir the whole well together, and keep the cream excluded from all manner of dirt and foul or hot air.

5—When churned, work the butter milk thoroughly out of it. To do this, some work it in cold water, believing that it requires less manipulation to accomplish it, and results in less injury to the grain of the butter, which is injured by excessive working, but if water is used care must be taken to work that out, or it will be as bad as the buttermilk in its effect upon the butter. Pure rock salt, if ground fine is as much better for butter as it is for pork in the coarse state. Salt freely, but not excessively. Butter that is too fresh is insipid, however perfect it may be in other respects.

6—Pack closely in perfectly tight, clean crocks or tubs, scalding them thoroughly just before they are brought into use, and keep the butter covered with a strong brine of rock salt..

These rules faithfully followed will cause your butter to be sought after at the highest prices. But if, on the contrary, you wash your milk things in tepid, greasy dish water, wipe them with a greasy dish cloth, and set them for use without scalding—if you let all the hairs and dirt go in that will in milking, strain through something that has holes as large as your finger, set your milk where your bacon should be and where it will catch all manner of dirt, and let it stand till it will stand alone before taking off the cream—you need not wonder that nobody wants to buy your butter.—Wis. Farmer.

CORN SOUP.—Cut down the middle of each row of corn from twelve ears, and scrape each cob with a knife. Boil the cobs in just water enough to cover them, and season them with a teaspoon ful of salt and a little pepper. Boil for half an hour. Turn in two quarts of sweet milk, boil fifteen minutes more. Stir two tablespoonfuls of butter into two of flour, until well mixed up, add a little water to make it perfectly smooth, mix with the soup, stirring well. Beat three eggs to a foam and stir rapidly into the soup, serve directly. This is a most delicious soup, and adds greatly to a poor dinner.

CORN OYSTERS—After cutting the corn from three dozen cobs, scrape off the remaining pulp with a knife; put it all into a deep dish, and add six even tablespoonfuls of sifted flour and four eggs well beaten, add one teaspoonful of salt, drop in oblong cakes from a tablespoon into a frying pan of boiling hot lard and brown quickly. A more spongy cake is made by adding half a teacupful of sweet cream, or sifting a small teaspoonful of carbonate of soda or saleratus, into the flour. This makes a delicious dish for breakfast or supper.

Fashion, Fancy and Fact.

Why are the women more pale-faced girls now than when our mothers were young? Why are puny delicate women growing up to be no comfort to themselves or anyone else? Because they are sickly. Look at the tiny waists into which vanity and ignorance have deformed women's naturally graceful figure, and these questions are answered without stopping to consider a number of other causes of them.

To feel well, have good health and strength capable of accomplishing anything worth striving for, there must be a free circulation of the blood! What possible chance is there for it with an eighteen or twenty inch corset compressing not only the flesh but the bones all out of place!

True crushed and crowded, blood cannot circulate freely, neither can the breath be deep and perfect. It is not surprising that men amount to much more in the world than women. The only wonder is that women do not die off much earlier than they do, victims of their own pride, frivolity and ignorance.

What kind of men could live and gain a reputation as a farmer, inventor, civil engineer, architect, machinist doctor, lawyer, or any other vocation, in the numerous avenues of usefulness, if he wore corsets six inches too tight, number three boots where fives would fit the feet more comfortably, six and a half kid gloves where eights corresponded better with the actual size of the hand, and went with the limbs and lungs half clad against the changes of climate?

He would be the crossest, most fretful, sickly, disagreeable creature on earth, and would not in a year make enough to pay his own funeral expenses.

Women stand these self-inflicted torments like martyrs, and prove themselves made of sterner stuff than they have credit for when called the "weaker sex." Why does it take so long to correct a false idea of fashion? For two years the most stylish dresses have been made very loose about the waist, giving breathing space and room for deformities from tight lacing to disappear, yet the abuse continues extensively to exist.

Every woman who wears tight corsets ought to have a book on physiology placed in her hands, to teach her what the natural human form is, and then a book of art, from which to learn how near to nature's laws the greatest painters and sculptors design and chisel. Learning wisdom from these sources, she would blush at her former ignorance and appreciate what a great fool she was to lace herself down like a pedlar's pack until the cords of fashion became instruments of agony.

A gray eye is still and sly; a roguish is the brown; the eye of blue is ever trite; but in the black eye's sparkling spell, mystery and mischief dwell.

Take away half of 13 and have 8 remain. Answer—Write XIII, rub out the lower half and VIII remains.

A MISTAKE—Charles to the altar led the lovely Jane, and to her father's house returned again; where, to convey them on their wedding tour, already stood a brilliant coach and four. When lo! the gathering showers at once descend, clouds roll on clouds, and warring winds contend; this moves him not, but in he hands his bride, and seats himself enraptured by her side; when thus to cheer the fair one he began:—"I hope we soon shall have a little sun." But she, to whom the weather gave no pain, who heeded not the blast nor pattering rain, but most about her future state bethought her, replied, "My dear, I'd rather have a daughter."

There is a man living back in the woods, who, being invited to a New Year's dinner, eat so much bear's meat that he went home and hugged his wife —a thing he had never been guilty of before.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Chance is an unseen cause.

The fear of ill exceeds the ill we fear.

Children are the to-morrow of society

Patience is the key of contentment.

The May of life blooms only once.

Study the past if you would divine the future.

To know how to wait is the secret of success.

A word spoken in season is the mother of ages.

Lies are hiltless swords, which cut the hands that wield them.

Reprove thy friend privately! commend him publicly.

Graves are but the foot-steps of the angel of life.

All power, even the most despotic, rests ultimately on opinion.

Men blame themselves only for the purpose of being praised.

If thou art a master be sometimes blind, if a servant, sometimes deaf.

A secret is too little for one, enough for two, and too much for three.

No one ever knew what friends were worth until they had lived without them

Better make penitents by gentleness than hypocrites by severity.

Temperance is corporal piety, it is the preservation of divine order in the body.

Offer up not love, no love is genuine whose altar asks the sacrifice.

It is more difficult and calls for higher energies of soul to live a martyr than to die one.

No man ever did a designed injury to another, without doing a greater to himself.

The master of superstition is the people, and in all superstition wise men follow fools.

Better than fame is still the wish for fame, the constant trainings for a glorious strife.

The religion of Christ is peace and good will, the religion of christendom is war and ill will.

Nature has sometimes made a fool, but a coxcomb is always of man's own making.

Every real thought, on every real subject, knocks the wind out of somebody or other.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTORS IN FAELIAMENT.—His Honor Judge Stuart, on Tuesday last, rendered a judgement of some interest. A notary named Mr. Dupont, of St Rock des Aulnets, has raised an action against the Hon. Mr. Cauchon, to recover the penalty imposed by law against members of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, who continue to hold their seat while having a contract with the Government. The Furnour offered to prove that Mr. Cauchon has an interest in the Beauport Asylum contract, and in that for the Official Gazette. Mr. Cauchon replied to this motion with an exception as to form; but the Quebec Superior Court refused this exception. It follows, therefore, that the Court will have an opportunity to decide the question as to whether Mr. Cauchon was interested in the above named contracts.

COUNTY TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, } BY Virtue of a Warrant under the Hand of the Warden
to wit: } and Seal of the County of Peterborough, and to me directed, bearing date the Nineteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, I am commanded under the authority of an Act of Parliament of the Province of Ontario passed in the Thirty-second year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter thirty-six, entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law respecting the Assessment of Property in the Province of Ontario," to levy on the lands hereinafter mentioned and described, for the Arrears of Taxes due thereon, with the Costs, as hereinafter specified, as directed by the said Act.

These are therefore to give notice, that unless the said Arrears and Costs are sooner paid I will proceed to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the COURT HOUSE, in the Town of Peterborough, on

THURSDAY the FIFTH day of DECEMBER, A.D. 1872,

AT THE HOUR OF NINE O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON,

The said Lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred in and about such Sale, and the collection of the Taxes:

THE REASONS WHY
LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's
CELEBRATED
Perfected Spectacles,
AND EYE GLASSES,
have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:
1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.
2nd. Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.
3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.
4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirement of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.
5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.
6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.
Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.
A full and complete assortment has been supplied to and always kept on hand by

Pumps Pumps.
To the Public in General and Farmers in particular.

Henry Owens
Begs leave to bring to your notice once more his truly celebrated SWING and FORCE PUMPS, which have already received five Provincial First Prizes, and have hitherto met with unparalleled success. There can be no reasonable doubt now after a years trial of the superiority of this pump over all others. H. O. has purchased the sole right under four patents, for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and will keep a large stock on hand if possible, which he will sell at very cheap rate. He has increased his facilities for making all kinds of pumps, having lately added to his machinery a new and first-class pump boring machine. Every thing in the pump line can be furnished on the shortest notice, and Repairs carefully and promptly attended to. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL
Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.
There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and professing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alchol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of Oils which they may contain.

TRUST.
I do not ask that God shall always make
My pathway light,
I only pray that He will hold my hand
Throughout the night;
I do not hope to have the thorns removed
That pierce my feet,
I only ask to find His blessed arms
My safe retreat.

If He affects me, then, in my distress,
Withold His hand,
If all his wisdom, I cannot conceive
Or understand,
I do not think to always know his why
Or wherefore, here;
But sometime he will take my hand and make
His meaning clear.

If in His furnace He refines my heart,
To make it pure,
I only ask for grace to taunt His love,
Strength to endure;
And if fierce storms beat round me, and the heavens
Be overcast,
I know that he will give his weary one
Sweet peace at last.

How They Succeeded.
THE ANTI-TOBACCONISTS WOMEN AND THEIR HUSBANDS—A HEN PARTY IN COUNCIL.

Some eight or ten days ago at a meeting of newly married ladies at a house on Maria street, at which they resolved upon adopting some means of preventing their husbands from smoking tobacco. The party met last Monday night according to agreement, to narrate their experience in the missionary work. Until to-day we were unable to obtain a report of the proceeding of the meeting, but at length we are enabled to give the following :—

The party after partaking of the cup which cheers, but not inebriates, drew their chairs together and held sweet council pretty much to the following effect :

The lady who had suggested the counter-irrant opened the proceedings. She said she had purchased some assafœtida at a drug store, taken it home with her and dosed her night cap with it pretty liberally. She went to bed early—before he came home. He entered the room quietly so as not to waken her, and turned in for the night. "Hello," he said, on smelling the drug, "what the d——l's up? That confounded cat's in the room to-night again." Where upon he hopped out of bed, lit the lamp and began to make explorations in the wardrobe and under the bed. He discovered no cat, and his wife appearing to be very sound asleep he contented himself with opening the doors and windows before turning in a second time. Scarcely had he got under the clothes when the vile smell saluted his nostrils again. "Wife, wife," said he shaking her, "what's wrong? There's a most intollerable stench in the house." She yawned a little and told him to go to sleep. "But I can't" said he, "there's such a smell in the room." "O, may be its your own breath said she, I'll warrant you've been smoking that nasty tobacco to-day. Go to sleep and dont make a fool of yourself. The husband appeared to be perplexed, and he sniged and sneezed for some time before he spoke again. At length he ventured to ask her if she didn't "find a vile smell in the room." No, she replied, nothing worse than your breath after your filthy tobacco smoke, and I won't turn round to smell it. O nonsense, said he, tobacco doesn't smell bad. He didn't conclude the sentence for just then the loving spouse moved her head suddenly back, bringing the drug in contact with his nose. He sprang out of bed as if stung by a bee, carrying the bed clothes with him, while she sat up in bed and fairly roared with laughter. He smelled more than a drug—he "smelled a mouse" and called for explanations. She stated her grievance and the mode she had adopted to illustrate it. Now, said she, you can form some idea of how I suffer from the nasty smell of tobacco every night. They agreed upon a treaty on the spot, he consented to drop the weed if she would destroy the offensive nightcap at once. The treaty was ratified by the victorious lady taking off her nightcap and throwing it out of the window. There was a raffle of a stock of meerschanm pipes next day.

HOW NO. TWO SUCCEEDED.

Well, said another of the ladies, if the rest of you succeeded no better than I did, I'm afraid it will be a failure. In the first place, after leaving Mrs. L——'s house, Saturday evening, I went to a drug store and I purchased an ounce of assafœtida, which I considered would be quite sufficient to outstink the worst tobacco smell that could be raised, I went home with my purchase, and had time to make all my arrangements before bedtime. As I expected, my husband did not come home at the usual hour for retiring. I took the oldest and worst nightcap I possessed, and having made a neat little package of the drug, I placed it by mistake in the front part of it in readiness for his arrival. What I suffered during the hour before he came to bed I have hardly words to relate. The stench of the assafœtida was almost overpowering, but I bore it like a martyr. He came at length, and as he entered the room he exclaimed, "What in thunder is up? Say, wife, have you been eating a whole bed of garlic? Good heavens this is awful! Such a smell." I answered meakly that I had been indulging my weakness for onions a little and ventured to hope that he would not feel annoyed, as I had endured so much on account of his smoking. We must give and take a little, you know dear, said I somewhat bitterly. Do you know now I believe the brute actually saw through my little plan at once, for he replied sarcastically, certainly my love. I don't mind putting up with a little inconvenience if it pleases you. By the way, he continued, I feel a little peckish, and I think I will eat something before I retire. He went down stairs and I'm blessed if he didn't eat half a dozen of the strongest onions he could find in the pantry, and he then came as complacently as possible to my room. Now wife, said he, I've taken an antidote, and I do not mind that smell, so that it don't annoy me in the least. I found the smell though if he didn't, the combined stench of the onions and assafœtida was overpowering and before, ten minutes I had to get up sick and retire to another bed for the night, which was no joke when you consider what a cold spell we had about that time. I'm afraid the plan is a failure. I won't try it again.

WHAT HAPPENED THE OTHERS.

Three of the dear creatures confessed to having failed to keep their promise, and they listened meekly to a lecture on their weakness from the victorious lady.

There was only one other to be heard from, and she seemed indisposed to mention the matter at all. Of course, that only aroused the curiosity of the others, and they at length succeeded in beguiling her of the following plaintive tale :

"Well, you see, Bob is a little cross when he comes home very late at night with his brains in a whirl from hard work. I've seen him so tired often, that his voice was thick and quite changed and the poor fellow so weak from over exertion that he couldn't walk straight. I often told him it was that horrid tobacco that was injuring him, and I have implored him often not to work so late at night, but he only laughs at me and talks about the necessity of attending strictly to business if one wishes to succeed. Last night I tried the assafœtida, and I confess to you it was with some misgivings I put it in my nightcap. I was fast asleep when Bob came home. It was very late, and he was tired as usual. I knew he must be cross, and I wished I had not put the drug in my cap. He smelled it at once and asked where the stench came from. I told him I didn't know, and he got mad and said I was very stupid. When he came to bed he found where it proceeded from, and he asked me sternly to explain what I meant by it. You know Bob is a good fellow, but when he is vexed he is awful, so I told him all about it and began to cry. He said some awful words and kicked me out of bed. I spent the night on the lounge in the parlor, but I do not intend to try assafœtida any more. It does not work well."

The Printer's Estate.
We find the following remarks, which all printers and publishers will agree in calling sensible, in an exchange and commend them to the attention of the reader. They will apply to all localities in which newspapers circulate.

The printers dollars—where are they? A dollar here and a dollar there, scattered over the numerous small towns, all over the country, miles and miles apart: how shall they be gathered together? The paper maker, the journeyman compositor, the building owner, the grocer, the tailor, and all assistants to him in carrying on his business have their demands, hardly ever so small as a single dollar. But the mites from here and there must be diligently gathered and patiently hoarded, or the wherewith to discharge the liabilities will never become sufficiently bulky. We imagine the printer will have to get up an address to his widely scattered dollars something like the following :

"Dollars, halves, quarters, dimes, and all manner of fractions into which you may be divided, collect yourselves and come home. You are wanted. Combination of all sorts of men that help to make the printer a proprietor gather in such force and demand with such good reasons your appearance at this counter, that nothing short of you will appease them. Collect yourselves, for valuable as you are you will never pay the cost of collecting. Come here in single file that the printer may form you in battalion, and send you forth again to battle for his and vindicate his feeble credit."

Reader are you sure you haven't a couple of the printer's dollors sticking about your clothes? If you have order them home immediately.

Oriental Sentences.
"This man is one of us, that is a stranger." Thus speak ignorant souls. This world is but one family.

What was born must die, that which dies will be born again. Man thou knowest not what thou wast learn what thou now art, and wait patiently for that which thou shalt hereafter be.

My son, let not friendship with the bad, the indifferent and the good, be the same with thee. A drop of rain fell upon the glowing iron and was no more. Another fell upon a flower and shone like a pearl, and remained a drop of dew, and how the silver moon gently quickens them with dew; a third fell at a favorable hour into a shell and became a pearl indeed; so the refreshing rain falls upon the earth unsought. Such also, is the blessing of the good.

Like a drop of falling rain is the life of man, scarcely a moment—and a breath of air has carried it above.

To harm no one, to lend assistance to all, to be to every one a holy altar, this is religion. And this friend goes with us when all else forsake us.

For labor, love and improvement was life given us. If these be wanting what has man in life? If he possesses these what can he want, and wherefore should he complain?

In a Virginia city, an ingenious youth of some nine seasons, to whom is sometimes entrusted the care of a younger brother, recently led his youthful charge to a paint shop, and proceeded to decorate him according to his idea of a Sioux brave as he should be. He then exhibited his work of art upon the street as the infant son of Spotted Tail, and succeeded in attracting an admiring audience wherever he appeared with his show. A neighbor of the new spotted Tail finally happening to pass along put an end to the performance, and handed the whole monument off home.

The youthful showman then had an interview with his mother, since which time he looks for a cushioned chair when about to seat himself.

An Oriental Tradition.

During our brief stay in Jerusalem, on the Nile, my friends and I were wont at sundown to perch ourselves on some commanding height above the temple and watch the changing tints on crag and pinnacle of the opposite range across the river. Battlement and bastions, fancyous stones. I never gazed at that wonderful transformation since without its calling up to my mind St. John's vision of New Jerusalem.

One evening the Professor told me a pretty oriental tradition. We were saying the Easterns got their passions for jewels from them gorgeous sunsets, and that the embroidery of their fairy tales and their noted skill in the arrangement of colors, might be traced to the same source. This tradition, he said, which I will tell you is certainly out many centuries old. It states that there was inspariding a temple built up of precious stones, "Mr. Lord" [illegible] ter its splendors. Deep in the palms of Eden it stood, angel built, a dual sanctuary. Out first parents sung their vesper songs in the twilight shadows of its courts. For there were pillard courts and cloists of emerald and pearl: where fountains sprung aloft in the silent noon, and long luminous vistas, were hand in hand those two first lovers walked in their sinless beauty. Then there were pinnacles and domes of saphire, blazing at noon and glittering with reflected starlight, when

"Visions of glorey ne'er forgot,
That tell, like the gleam on a sunny sea.
What once has been, what now is not.
But oh! what again shall brightly be."

A Slight Mistake..Using Glue for Cologne and the Ludicrous Result.

Two West-end youths, on their way to church on Sunday evening, took a fancy that it would be nice to smell sweet, and stopping at a drug store called for a bottle of cologne, pronouncing it 'kloon,' with a slight ommission in the sound of the terminating 'n.'

They mean glue,' thought the druggist, and he at once furnished them with a bottle of mucilage brush attached, and an explanation that the latter was to be used in spreading it on.

An out-door investigation revealed the fact that it didn't smell like 'kloon,' but, hoping an application to their 'kerchief might bring happier results the brush was freely used, and the two soon after entered the church.

Twenty minutes later one remarked to the other, speaking without using his nasal organ.

'Shon, I say, my nose pees stuck so fast as I preethe so mhoch as nothing.'

Taid Shon: 'so was mine, and it pees so s-l-e-e-k as it it never was somedimes ven I don's know.'

The glistening organs of smell had already attracted a attention, and, and being able only to sent a mices in their late transaction, the hurried back to drug store, and with a hearty laugh from all parties at the mutual mistake, they were presented with a bottle of the genuine stuff that will make them smell sweet for a full week.

A BRAVE BOY.

A few years ago, a lad who was left without father or mother, went to New York, alone and friendless, to get a situation in a store as errand boy, until he could command a higher position. But this boy had fleen in bad company and had got into the habit of calling for "bitters" and cheap cigars.

On looking over the papers he noticed that a merchant in Pearl street wanted a lad of his age, and he called there and made known his business.

"Walk into the office, my lad," said the merchant, "I'll attend to you soon."

When he had waited upon his customer, he took a seat near the lad, and espied a cigar in his hat. This was enough. "My boy," he said, "I want a smart, honest, faithful lad, but I see you smoke cigars, and, in my experience of many years, I have ever found cigar smoking lads to be connected with various other evil habits, and if I am not mistaken, you are not an exception. You can leave, you will not suit me."

John held down his head and left the store. As he walked along the street a stranger and friendless, the counsel of his poor mother came forcibly to mind, who, upon her death-bed, called him to her side, and placing her emaciated hand upon his hed, said. "Johnny, my dear boy, I'm going to leave you. You well know what disgrace and misery your father brought upon us before his death, and I want you to promise me, before I die, that you will never taste one drop of the accursed poison that killed your father, nor tobacco. Promise me this and be a good boy Johnny and I shall die in peace."

The scalding tears trickled down Johnny's cheeks. He went to his lodgings, and throwing himself upon his bed, gave vent to his feelings in sobs that were heard all over the house.

But John had metal courage. He had energy and determination, and ere an hour had passed he had made up his mind never to taste another drop of liquor nor to smoke another cigar.

He went straight to the merchant. Said he, "Sir, you very properly sent me away this morning for habits that I have been guilty of, but sir, I have neither father or mother and tho' I have occasionally done what I ought not to do, and have not followed the good advice of my poor mother on her death-bed, yet I have now made a solemn vow never to drink another drop of liquor, nor to smoke another cigar, and if you sir, will only try me, it is all I ask."

The merchant was struck with the decision and energy of the boy, and at once employed him. At the expiration of five years, this lad was a partner in the business, and is now worth ten thousand dollars.

☞ Remember the Firemans Conversazione in aid of the Benevolent Fund, on Tuesday Evening, November 5th.

BIG POTATOES.—Mr. Leahy of this town showed us potatoes grown in Douro, several of which weighed from 2lbs to 2lbs 9oz and 2lbs 10oz. Mr. A. B. Kidd shewed some at the East Riding Show that weighed 2lbs 14oz if we remember aright. All will admit that these are potatoes of considerable dimensions. Who can beat them?

OUR STREETS.—The Town Council is positively destroying Water Street, and greatly injuring the property on the west side of it. They are now putting on a heavy cost of sand mixed with large round stones. The sand will in less than a year become mud, and the stones will require to be removed in the spring to prevent the unsightly appearance of the street and to render travel possible on it. By all means let our streets be improved, but this cannot be done with fine sand and boulders. What Water street requires is rounding off, and side drains to carry the surface water away, instead of causing it to flood cellars and injure private property. Costly buildings are erected on the west side of it, and nothing unnecessary should be done to their injury.

ROSA D'ERINA.—This celebrated cantatrice gave two very pleasant and recherche entertainments last week. The audience on both occasions was select and appreciative, and every one who heard her were delighted. Her rare ability in introducing the "Music of Many Lands," and her graceful delivery, wins the audience, but her song fairly captivates even those who cannot boast of any musical taste, with the fulness and melody of her voice and her perfect easy in singing Italian, Spanish, French and German song as well as that of her own land. Her instrumental playing of English, Irish, and Scotch airs on the Piano and Organ could with difficulty be equalled.

To protect the understanding of humanity there is nothing like leather fastened together by Cable Screw Wire. Boots and Shoes made this way never rip, or leak, or come apart.

THE STEAMER WHISTLE-WING.—We have been requested to state that the Whistle-Wing has ceased her regular trips this season, but will continue to run as business may require. The traveling public wil do well to make a note of this.

Lord Dufferin has made himself exceedingly agreeable during his visit to Ontario.

BUTTER.—Merchants complain that butter this year is of a very inferior quality, arising no doubt, from careless untidy habits in too many butter makers. Merchants at Seaforth are taking steps to bring about a better state of things if possible. A government Inspector in every town, who would carefully examine and grade the different qualities, would soon produce a change in the quality.

Rumors are afloat that Sir. Francis Hincks is about to take the management of a Banking Institution in the city of Montreal, indicating his intention not to represent those 16 electors in Vancouver, at the expense of his honor, and standing in the House. He is not prepared to face the Opposition with only 16 electors to fall back on. His sense of danger if not his pride, forbids it; and hence his wise choice to free himself from the fickle public as well as from John A.

REV. M. PUNSHON will Lecture in the Methodist Church here on Wednesday evening, 13th of November, subject "The Men of the Mayflower" or the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers. On the 14th there will be a Tea Meeting in connection with the Church. The proceeds of the Lecture and Tea are intended for church extension in Peterboro. All who can, should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the Rev'd Gentleman Lecture. At the same their mite will assist in the good work of increasing church accommodation. It is a pleasing sign of our progress as a town that religious denominations are compelled to enlarge their church buildings. And it is the interest of all to assist in the good work to the best of their ability.

AUBURN MILLS.—Divine Service will be held (D. V.) on Sabbath next 3rd Nov, in the School House adjoining the above establishment, by the Rev. Mr. Maclennan of St Andrews church, at the hour of two o'clock p. m. As this service is in connection with an effort to establish a Presbyterian Mission in the district, a full attendance of those favourable to that object is desired.

FIREMEN'S CONVERSAZIONE.—The Firemen intend holding a Conversazione on Tuesday Evg., 5th of November, in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Brigade. The programme will consist of Readings, Vocal and Instrumental Music, Recitations, and a grand Fire Tableau, (Life of a Fireman.) We hope to see a large attendance on the occasion, as the object is worthy one, and we feel sure that the performances will give entire satisfaction. Tickets can be obtained at the Bookstores and from members of the Committee, price, 25 cents, to any part of the Hall. See Programmes and large Posters.

The Hon. Mr. Blake is to be present at the Electric rejoicing at Cornwall, to-day.

The Kingston Tory papers complain sorely that the New Normal School is to be erected at Ottawa, and in their compliantsall the Grits hard names. What has John A. done for Kingston? nothing.

CHANGE OF GUAGE.—The Buffalo and Goderich section of the Grand Trunk Railway is to be changed to the American guage by the 5th of November. It is the intention of the Company to change the guage to Montreal within a year or so, yet the Government of the Dominion persist in making the Intercolonial a broad guage. Could anything demonstrate more fully the blunder they are making to continue the perpetration of jobbery.

The friends and admirers of the late John Sandfield Macdonald propose erecting a monument to his memory, over his grave at Cornwall. The consent of his family has been obtained towards that end.

The Americans are advocating Reciprocity. At a late meeting of the U. S National Board of Trade, after the routine business the following resolution was carried with but two dissenting voices:—

Resolved,—That the Executive Council memorialize Congress to make an appropriation for the appointment of a commission to act in conjunction with the State Department, in negotiating a treaty with Great Britain for reciprocal trade with the Dominion of Canada on a broad, comprehensive and liberal basis, which shall also include the enlargement of the Canadian canals by the Government of Canada, and the right of American vessels to navigate the said canals under the same conditions as are imposed upon Canadian vessels.

MURDER.—A man named James Workman, of Moorstown, near Sarnia, was found murdered, on the 28th inst. His wife and a colored man named Butler, are suspected of being the murderers, and are in Sarnia Jail, awaiting trial. The fate of Phœbe Campbell can have had no good effect on Workman's wife.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP.—It gives us pleasure to mention that a gentleman, who feels a warm interest in the subject of general education, more especially as it is promoted by the general schools in operation in the district of country around us has offered a Scholarship of the annual value of $25 to be competed for by pupils from the common schools of the County, and of the Town alike. After consultation with practical educationalists, it has been decided to conduct the examination on which the scholarship shall be awarded in January next, at the time of the examination for entrance into the classes of the Collegiate Institute, and in the principal subjects of study pursued in Common Schools, of average excellence. It will not be necessary for the holder, (although it may be very desirable for his own advantage) to become a pupil of the Col. Institute—the object more immediately aimed at, being the establishment of some mode of testing the relative proficiency of the pupils of the various Common Schools within the County and the Town, on the basis prescribed for admission into High School classes, and the promoting of a more intimate acquaintance with, and interest in each other on the part of the authorities and pupils of our various schools. The subjects and after conditions of the proposed competition will be made known shortly

MANITOBA.—From a well written letter in the British American Presbyterian from Manitoba, we learn that the Province of Manitoba represents but a small portion of this territory, there being room in it for the erection of at least twenty Provinces of equal size. Manitoba contains the whole of the Red River Settlement which, including Fort Garry and the town of Winnipeg, numbers a population of some 14,000 souls—about 5,000 of whom are French half-breeds, about 7,000 English and Scotch half-breeds, and the remainder pure whites and pure Indians.—The traders beyond the boundary of Manitoba proper do not exceed 2,000.

Hard up for a Case.

The Mail is even surpassing itself in its tirades against public men, who differ from its master in Politics. Not content with abuse of Blake, McKenzie, McKellar, E. B. Wood, and every body accused of sympathy with the Ontario Government, has made onslaught on Hon. Mr. Mowat hinting that during his office of judgeship his decisions must have been dictated by partizan and political views. It is all right for Tory Judges to attend political meetings, make political speeches, and write political letters to the newspapers—but it is wrong for Mr. Mowat to resign his position as Vice-Chancellor and become Premier of a Reform Government. It is wrong, merely because it is leaving the chances of Tory ascendancy doubtful for a long time to come. What would the Mail say to a County Judge attending political meetings, and at anniversary gatherings make political speeches—yet such has been the case not many miles from Peterboro and no one complained except to point out the inconsistency of making those annual gatherings scenes of political strife and bickering, and who but the subservient creature of John A. Macdonald who manufactures the slanders in the Mail, would call in question the decisions of a Judge because of his political bias.

We trust that our judiciary is so far above the party rancour and malic engendered during election contests, that they can decide questions coming before them according to Law and Justice, and without fear, favor or affection to or for litigants. Every honest Journalist in the Dominion should frown down the attempts of the Mail to blacken the character of men, because of different shades of political opinions.

POTATOES.

Sheriff Hall has kindly furnished us with the following table giving exact amount and varieties of Potatoes grown by him, and the number of each. This same family, in each case, being planted at the same time, the 14th of April, and on the same quality of soil.

Early Rose	46 lbs.
Peerless	36½ "
Rose House	41½ "
Climax	35 "
Breese's Prolific	31½ "
Dundee Kidney	31 "
Millard's Seedling	29½ "
King of the Earlies	26 "
Jackson's Whites	26½ "
Garnet Chili	24 "
Early Goderich	24 "
Flukes	20½ "
Cape Nile	23 "
Mechanic's	20 "
Excelsior	17 "
Peach Blows	12½ "
Pink Eyes	17 "
Haggart's Purple	18 "

Other varieties were under 17 lbs.

The Sheriff can show varieties against any one in the County.

THE UNION.

In our last issue we gave a statement of the standing of the two Municipalities, the Town and Ashburnham. Our statement showed that the Town liabilities were about $35,000 greater than the assets Since that, the Town Committee have printed and circulated a statement, made out by Mr. Edwards, Town Clerk, which shows the Town liabilities to be $62,000 in excess of their assets.

The discrepancy arises in part from the fact that the Town has borrowed $4,000 from the Corporation for which no tax is levied this year. This amount was for the construction of the New Bridge across the Otonabee river.

As figures can be made to speak differently in different hands, so, other statements could be made, with perhaps a good show of reason, both for and against a union. But the question after all is,—Will a union increase the taxes in the Village? Let us calculate as closely as we can.

The actual amount of the taxes of Ashburnham this year is $2,449.35. The total assessed value is $126,040.

The Town Rate is 13 mills on the dollar, while the Village Rate is 15 mills.

Therefore, at 13 mills on the dollar, the Village would require to be assessed at $188,415 to raise $2,449.35, what is raised this year, at its low rate of valuation. Hence the union might increase the valuation (as to compare with the Town) to $188,415 before there could be any increase of taxes, and when we take into consideration that this year the Town Council has had to levy additional sums to meet deficiences of last year, so as to remove obstacles to a fair union, this is an exceptional year on the Town.

The Ratepayerr of Ashburnham cannot blind their eyes to the fact that if union takes place, their valuation will be increased, but the rate on the dollar will not be so high as at present, and therefore the difference in the amount of taxes will not be increased, or if so, not perceptibly increased.

A union would do away with the present system of Statute Labor, which falls heaviest on the poor man, and the impetus likely to be given to building and improvement as a consequence of the station being in the Village, and the employment of men there, would, it is believed, soon cause the place to assume an appearance of activity and prosperity entirely new to the inhabitants.

The superior advantages of the Union School and Collegiate Institute would be open to every citizen of the Village on the same terms as to the people of the Town, and, while there is no necessity to under rate the present School advantages of the Village, all will admit that they cannot be equal to those of the Town. Indeed, several citizens of the Village even now pay from $3 to $7 and $10 fees to enable them to send their children to the Institue. We need not tell them that a union would be a saving in that direction as the rate for all school purposes in the Town is only 2½ mills in the dollar.

Petitions have been in circulation during the week with the object of obtaining an Act of Parliamen to unite the Municipalities, and already a majority of the ratepayers have attached their names to it.

A counter petition is also in circulation we understand, and, no doubt, a number will sign it too, as some of the ratepayers are opposed to union. The majority are, however, in favor of it.

It is the intention of the Council to call a public meeting on Wednesday evening next, for public discussion, and to get the further sense of the people. In the mean time it is not known what action the Council will take in the matter.

If a union is advisable or possible a few weeks will decide the matter. In the mean time let all interested consider the subject so as to give an intelligent opinion when required.

The Ontario Government.

THE HON OLIVER MOWAT, VICE-CHANCELLOR PREMIER.

As soon as Mr. Blake returned he tendered his resignation to Lieutenant Governor Howland, together with that of Mr. Mackenzie. His Excellency accepted them, and by advice from Mr. Blake sent Mr. Mowat to form a New Ministry. Mr. Mowat, who had just previously resigned the Vice-Chancellorship, accepted the task and in a day or so was able to announce the New Ministers as follows:

Hon Oliver Mowat, Premier and Attorney General.
Hon. A. Crooks, Treasurer.
Hon. A. McKellar, Commissioner of Public Works.
Hon. R. W. Scott, Commissioner of Crown Lands.

Hon. Mr. Pardee, Secretary. Mr. Gow desiring to withdraw from the cares of State.

In the person of Mr. Mowat, the people of the Province have a guarantee that the business will be carried on and conducted in the most constitutional manner. He has been a life long Reformer. His character is so high that nothing can be manufactured against him, except by the Mail slander Manufacturer. His eminent ability as a lawyer, and his sound judgement as a judge will ensure for him the respect of all parties, and eminently fit him to be the successor of Mr. Blake All friends and lovers of their country rejoice at his return to Public life, and fully commend the choice which Mr Blake has made, and will unite in giving him as hearty a support as they did to his predecessor.

It will be seen that the only changes are, that of Mr. Mowat for Mr. Blake, and Mr. Pardee for Mr. Gow, except the change in departments necessary in the taking in new men; and that Mr. Howland combines in himself that of Premier and Attorney General, Mr. Crooks, Treasurer, Mr. McKellar Secretary, Mr. Scott, Minister of Crown Lands, which was held by Mr. Mowat. Public opinion and confidence have obtained a sure basis, albeit illustrious heads and pens are no longer to be relied upon to bring about the ability to bring them into their ranks.

The movement has cast a gloom over the Tory ranks. All their surmises and predictions went for nought. They had fancied Mr. E. B. Wood, Mr. Bethune, Mr. Wells, and numerous other gentlemen on the Treasury benches, and the active brains of the slanderer were at work manufacturing all sorts of lies and calumny against the coming men—no matter who they might be. In the selection of Mr. Mowat as Premier, they are non plussed, and are compelled to await developements or manufacture slanders out whole cloth, but the Mail can do this.

Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie will now be able to give their whole attention to Dominion matters, and let us hope that are the first session of the second Parliament of the Dominion be over they will have succeeded in giving John A. Macdonald his quietus, by defeating and pompeiinghim to retire into private life, when the country will be freed from the corruption that has so long clogged the wheels of Canadian progress and enterprize.

Just as Expected.

The Grand Trunk is to be rapidly changed from a Broad Guage to the American Guage of 4 feet 8½ inches. Part of it will be done on the 5th of November, the remainder within a year or so. The Material, Rolling Stock, Engines, &c., not useful on the narrow guage, is to be sold to the Dominion Government for the Intercolonial, which is being constructed on the Broad Guage principle.

A HUGE SWINDLE

May therefore be expected, in which the Dominion will no doubt suffer. The old and almost worn out material of the Grand Trunk, will be palmed off on the Dominion, for almost enough to make the change in the Grand Trunk Guage, and the country will be fleeced in this indirect way But this is not the whole evil. It is admitted by all, that the Intercolonial will yet have to be changed into a narrower guage than it is being constructed, and some think that this will require to be be done in four years at most. The Government has been made aware of this, and yet in the face of all the warnings and protests, the Macdonald Cartier Government continue their blundering. Their supporters too are beginning to openly advocate the purchase by the Government, of the old material, under the plea that it must be worn out or a great loss will be entailed on the Grand Trunk Company.

But why should the Dominion be called upon to pay the losses occasioned by the mismanagement of any Corporation? Should the Company not be compelled to bear the expenses incurred in the change of guage, just as the Great Western and other Companies have done; or is this huge political corporation to continue to plunder the country at will?

The blunders of the John A. Macdonald Government will be producing fruit for many years to come, no matter who may control the affairs of the country.

Just as the Blake-Makenzie Government in Ontario had to assume promises to Railways of the John Sandfield Government, so will the successors of John A. and Cartier have to contend with the errors of the corruption that has existed so long—ever since the formation of the Macdonald-Carter Combination to rule the Province.

If the country could be rid of the incubus of their misrule, thousands of dollars would be saved annually, for the development of the Great West and for works of public utility, the greater part of which is now wasted, and hence lost to the country.

Who will Represent West Peterboro?

The Conservatives of East Durham on Friday evening, 18th ult., had a Celebration and Dinner in honor of Mr. Joseph Staples, M. P. for North Victoria—Among the guests we find the name of Mr. Cluxton, of this Town. Mr. Cluxton made a speech, which we find reported in the Port Hope Times, as follows:—

The Vice Chairman gave the toast—"The House of Commons and the Local Legislature."

Mr. Cluxton, of Peterboro' in responding to the toast, spoke with great tact of his present uncertain position, and eulogized the high character of his opponent, Mr. Bertram, who would probably represent Peterboro' in Parliament, at the next session. He said that he rose to pay his respects to Mr. Staples, whom he had known for more than twenty years, and whom he had always esteemed as a man of great integrity and rectitude. He thought that men of Mr. Staples' calibre were wanted in Parliament,—men of practical knowledge; too long the parliament has been a house of lawyers. He wished to impress Mr. Staples with the necessity of providing a good election law and a tariff to tax American goods.

This is just such a speech as we would expect on the occasion. Mr. Cluxton has been forced into his present unenviable position, and but for the evil spirits that surround him, we feel certain he would utterly disclaim any intention of endeavoring to obtain a seat in Parliament against the wishes of a majority of the electors of the Riding. In an evil moment he gave way to the advice of unprincipled tricksters and he now, no doubt, feels his uncertain position. We have always held that a gentleman possessed of his high sense of honor, and self respect, would, as soon as possible, shake off the shackles of the evil genius that advised the wrong steps, and in unmistakable terms, declare Mr. Bertram duly and honorably elected, and that he, Mr. Cluxton, would be no party to the dishonorable trick by which it was sought to deprive Mr. Bertram of his seat in parliament and thus to disfranchise the Electors of West Peterborough. Our readers will be ready to infer from Mr. C's. speech at Millbrook, that even he considers Mr. Bertram duly Elected, and the man who will represent the Riding in the next Parliament of the Dominion.

SUPPORT LOCAL PAPERS.—The New York Times very properly says: "Persons might nearly as well forget their churches, their academies and school houses as to forget their local papers. It speaks to ten times the audience that your local minister does. It is read each day from beginning to end. It reaches you all, and if it has a lower spirit and less wisdom than a sermon, it has a thousand times a better chance at you. Lying as it does, on every table, you owe it to yourself to rally liberally to its support, and extract from it as able, pure a character as you do from any educational power in your midst. It is in no sense the paper of any [illegible]

Railway [illegible]

[illegible] accordance [illegible] agreement that [illegible] NEWAPAPARS for [illegible] some [illegible] mile of the timber limits [illegible] the [illegible] of unsettled country [illegible] Huron and Superior, [illegible] country covered by these "limits," is 6,211 square miles, the number of berths 205, and the amount realized, $324,041, with $10,063 annual ground rent. The sale took place in the Parliament Buildings Toronto, and was largely attended by Capitalists and Lumbermen from all parts of the Dominion, and from the United States. The bidding on some berths was very spirited reaching over $1,000 per square mile.

This sale it must be understood, was not a sale of the lands, but merely of the right to cut the timber upon them. The lands themselves still remain as crown property, to throw open to settlement whenever there is any demand for them. Most of them, however, are worthless for agricultural purposes, and at present, unsurveyed and almost inaccessible.

We call attention to this matter because the Government organ in Toronto, has been raising a howl of indignation because the Ontario Government has seen fit to take the course it has done, and as usual, the said organ has not scrupled to entirely misrepresent the matter, in order to bolster up charges against Scott, Blake and Mackenzie. We could hardly expect anything else, from a journal specially established to slander and abuse, and if possible divide and defeat the Reform party. In that purpose, however, it has failed miserably, and has the melancholy satisfaction of seeing all its curses coming home to roost.

The objections it and other Government papers make to this sale of timber limits are that it is premature, and a sacrifice of valuable property foolishly, under no pressure, and consequently without any justification, and in urging the plea, they manage either wilfully or stupidly to convey the idea that the public domain is being forever alienated to speculators and lumbermen to the great injury of immigrants and intending settlers generally.

It is almost unnecessary to say, that all this is the merest rubbish, inspired by party spite, and with the one purpose of having a fling at the Local Government. That said Government can do nothing right, and that whatever it does, must at any sacrifice of sense and logic be proven wrong, being the leading feature of the Mail's policy.

Under the Sandfield Macdonald Government, and all previous Governments, no attempt was ever made to open up the territory. Timber berths it is true were sold, but they covered actually settled territory, and their sale was a great wrong to the residents, and a piece of very small meanness on the part of the administration, to wit, robbing the poor settler of the pine on his farm, to swell the Government revenue, at a time when there was a surplus of over four millions in the treasury. This was the policy of the Crown Lands Department under Richards and Cameron. It did nothing for the settlement of the country—for the territory included was principally taken up—it merely harassed the poor immigrant, and often destroyed his last chance of making a stand on his location. Meanwhile this vast tract of country included in the recent sales, was being left to be plundered of its timber by irresponsible parties and each year growing, if possible more wild and worthless.

Instead therefore of being premature, the action of the Government is most timely, inasmuch as without injury to any one, it is getting well sold what would be in the course of ten or twelve years be pretty nearly all burnt or stolen.

As to there being no necessity for the sale, we suppose that there was not in a merely monetary point of view. With the Mail and its party, poverty and absolute popular compulsion, are the only things that create necessities. The necessity of present action, with a view to future good, seems beyond their comprehension. Yet this is the very necessity that exists here. It is absolutely necessary that something should be done to open up that country, so that its real mineral and agricultural worth may become known. For these purposes, placing it in the hands of the lumbermen, is the very best means that could be devised. Roads, bridges, wharves, and victualling stations will soon be established. A market for the crops, and the labor of the earlier settlers created, and in fine the necessary pioneer work preparatory to placing the land in the market for settlement, will be effectually accomplished without a dollar of public expense. The result will be, we venture to predict, that in less than a score of years, this vast Lake Huron tract, now an unknown howling wilderness, will be thoroughly explored and very largely settled.

This one act—to wit, dealing with the Lake Huron tract in so vigorous and judicious a way, shows that in the Crown Land Department, Mr. Scott is the right man in the right place, and furthermore, that the present Reform administration is taking hold of the business of the province with a vigor and business shrewdness, that amply vindicate the popular confidence.—South Simcoe News.

Justice to Catholics.

We are pleased to learn that our countryman, J. L. P. O'Hanly, Esq., of Ottawa, Civil Engineer, has been appointed by the Ontario Government, a commissioner in behalf of this Province for determining the Boundary between Ontario and Quebec. We congratulate Mr. O'Hanly on his appointment to this very important public trust, and we congratulate the Government in having secured the services of a gentleman who deservedly occupies a first rank in his profession in this country.

We invite the special attention of our readers to this subject, as evincing the liberality of the Reform party and Government towards Irish Catholics. Will any one believe, if Orange Tory clique, whose head quarters are in Ottawa, were in power here, that we would be enabled to have the pleasure of recording the appointment of a fellow countryman and co-religionist, as Boundary Commissioner for the Province of Ontario? We are well aware that Mr. O'Hanly has not been selected because of his race or creed, but because of his ability and professional competency. We are also equally well aware that the Liberal party ostracize no man because of the accidents of birth or persuasion. Their motto—a principal for whose recognition in the administration of public affairs we have ever contended—is "fair play" and no favors, equal justice to all irrespective of the mischievous distinctions of race or creed, clime or color. If a man be competent they never inquire where he was born or where he worships We may well be thankful that the reign of the party, whose motto is "No Irish need apply," is fast drawing to a close, and we are proud that our people have materially assisted in bringing about this welcome consummation. May the evils which they did, be buried with them, and if so, their record will be a brief one and easily told.—Freeman.

"The Grits propose establishing an Inebriate Asylum, probably as a 'retreat' for certain members of the party after each election."—Guelph Herald.

Yes. And as this they follow the prudent example of their Tory predecessors in office, in establishing the additional lunatic asylum in London. The wisdom of that step is becoming apparent in the cases of scores of howling office seekers and editors, who are almost ready to that "retreat"—Ottawa World.

The Ottawa Reformer says:—Last week we recorded the death of Mr. [illegible] caused by his jumping off the [illegible] Whitby, while in [illegible] day morning, near [illegible]

In the San [illegible] cans have got the best of [illegible] The Island is declared in the [illegible] States Territory, the channel being to the west of it, as determined by the Royal Arbitrator, in Europe.

We copy the following remarks anent this subject, from the Daily Globe of yesterday:

The Hudson Bay Company first settled it. About the year 1850 some Yankee squatters came to the Island. A squatter shot a hog belonging to the Company. A dispute arose between him and the agents of the Company. General Harney, commanding the United States troops in Washington territory, saw in the dead hog a pledge of glory and popular applause. So he sent a company of soldiers to San Juan, "to afford adequate protection to American citizens in their rights as such." In other words, to protect a robber. The Hudson's Bay agent remonstrated, stating that the Island was the property of the Company. The answer to this was the sending for the American man-of-war "Massachusetts." Governor Douglas of Vancouver's Island went to San Juan to see how matters stood.—Captain Pickett, the American officer, stated he was acting under orders—"that he would prevent any inferior British force from landing, fight any equal force, and protest against the landing of any force superior to his own." Governor Douglas, with great judgement, prevented hostilities, and succeeded in landing in a different part of the island a force equal to the American. Thus was established the joint occupancy, which now must finish.

Looking calmly at the whole case, it is impossible to admit that the Americans have any claim to this island, either through priority of discovery and settlement, or by common fair play, or even by the letter or spirit of the Treaty of 1846. That instrument may be regarded in two aspects. Either the American negotiators knew that the Canal of Haro did exist, but were loth to acknowledge the fact, lest it might have been to the advantage of Great Britain, and so trusted to the uncertainties of the future to decide in their behalf; or they did not know that it existed. In the latter case, the equity of international law

CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER.

A Family Medicine, well and favorably known for the past ten years, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction where the directions have been properly followed, but on the contrary all are delighted with its operations, and speak in the highest terms of its Virtues and Magical effects.

THE CANADIAN PAIN DESTROYER has won for itself a reputation, as a blood purifier, alternative stomach tonic, unsurpassed in the history of medical preparations. It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Kidney Complaints, Acid Stomach Phathisic or Asthma, and restores to vital activity the system debilitated by suffering and disease.

Its magical and wonderful success in curing sudden colds, sore throat, coughs, Diptheria, pains in the side, loins and back, neuralgia, toothache, rheumatic and other pains in any part of the body suffering from whatever cause, has given it a place in every household and is fast superseding all other preparations of the kind.

It is also an effectual and prompt remedy for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, chilblains, cholera morbus, billious cholic, cholera infantum, dysentery, &c.

Price only twenty-five cents per bottle.

Husband:—I shall know them better hereafter. Druggists and storekeepers are doing not only themselves a great deal of harm, but their customers also by inducing them to buy an article unknown and without merit. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer has been before the public for over thirty years, it is known in every quarter of the earth, and is sold by every Druggist and most storekeepers and grocers. As a Cholera specific and Diarrhœa medicine, its reputation has no parall, I am surprised that we have lived so many years without it

Wife:—Charles, the reason you have been taking whatever the storekeeper would recommend, we have always had a bottle of Pain Cure or Reliever or Pain Remedy or some such trash in the house, we have tried them over and over again.

Husband:—And that is just the reason I objected to try the Pain-Kil er on my Rheumatism, I thought it was like those other things a humbug.

(To be continued.)

Be sure and get the genuine Pain-Killer, only 25 cts. per bottle. Beware of counterfeits.

Sold every where, price 25 cts. and 50 cts. per bottle.

THE REASON WHY!

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALASAYA is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half of the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the Bone, Muscle, and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite perfect digestion, create pure healthy, vitalizing blood and supply in the waste constantly going on the system as the result of mental and physicial exertion. Being combined with Calisaya, the Peruvian Bark, the only specific for Chills and Fever, and that condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive diseases it forms an elegant and agreeable, invigorating Tonic purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstance, and all diseased conditions of the body as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.

The Brave Old Plow.

A song to the plow, the brave old plow,
That hath ruled the wide world o'er,
For life and food fare on his strong steel share
Shall depend for evermore.
There's a strength in his beam, as the toiling team
Turns the furrows so long and deep,
While it mellows the sod, we have trust in God,
That his promise he will surely keep.
Then a health to the plow, the brave old plow
When a thousand years have flown.

They best seen the time when no pealing chime
Was heard the wide world through,
When the King's broad ball, or the cottage stall,
Of a Christmas never knew,
And many a day along the highway
Have hundreds a-striving lain;
They are dead, and to earth's bosom borne,
But the plow it still doth reign.
Then God speed the plow, the brave old plow
Who hath fed all nations gone,
And glory as now, to the brave old plow,
When a thousand years have flown

Thou hast seen the time in many a clime,
When the bread was hard to win,
When great and small, at hunger's call,
Were led in deadly sin
But then ne'er can say thou hast seen the day
When want bowed the strong man's head,
The righteous man's seed in his greatest need
Never begged his daily bread.
Then God speed the plow, the brave old plow
Who hath fed the nations gone,
And may the glory as now encircle the plow
When a thousand years have flown.

Agricultural.

New Process for the Preservation of Alimentary Substances.

In a communication recently made to the French Academy, M. Sacc described his process and submitted specimens of meat and vegetables so prepared. The food to be preserved is placed in a barrel, with layers of powdered acetate of soda, in the proportion of one fourth by weight.

In winter, the temperature must be raised to 20 degreen C. After twenty four hours, the barrels must be turned, and after forty-eight hours the process is complete, the salt having absorbed the water of the meat, which may then be headed up in the pickle, or dried in the air.

If the barrels are not full, they are to be filled up with brine of one part acetate of soda in three parts water. The pickle is evaporated down to half its bulk, crystalizing and regenerating for use one half the salt employed.

The mother liquors form an excellent extract of meat, representing three per cent of the total weight and must be preserved and poured over the preserved meat when prepared, so as to restore the original flavor of the fresh meat, of which it is otherwise bereft by the retension of the potassic salts in the pickle.

For cooking, the preserved meat must be steeped for from twelve to twenty-four hours, according to size, in tepid water containing ten grammes of sal ammoniac perliter. This salt decomposes the acetate of soda contained in the meat, forming salt, and also ammoniacal acetate, which causes the meat to swell, and restores to it the odor and acid reactions of fresh meat.

The bones also yield an excellent and tasty soup. By adopting the precaution of simply removing the intestines, animals, etc., may thus be preserved whole. Fish, poultry, and game have been so treated, with excellent results. Meat may be dried in a stove loosing one quarter in weight thereby, in addition to one quarter lost in pickling, but, in general, fish cannot be dried at all.

Vegetables are similarly prepared, losing generally five sixths of their weight: before salting, they should be heated until they lose their rigidity In twenty four hours they may be pressed and dried in the air. For use they must be steeped for twelve hours in fresh water, and then boild as if fresh. Potatoes must be steamed before salting.

Finally, all food thus prepared must be kept perfectly dry, as the salt absorbs moisture from the air.

How to Drive a Horse.

Young man, I see you are about to to take a drive this morning, and will offer you some advice. Your horse is restive, and wants to be off before you are ready; you may as well break him of this now, as at any other time, and hereafter you will find it has been a half hour well spent. Just give me the reins, while you put your foot on the step as if to get in, the horse makes a move to go; I tighten the reins and say whoa. Now put your foot on the step again; the horse makes another move, I hold the reins and speak to him again. The horse is getting excited. Pat him a little on the neck and talk to him soothingly. Put your foot on the step again and repeat the process until the horse will stand for you to get in, and adjust yourself in your seat and tell him to go. A few such lessons will train him so he will always wait for your order before starting.

Now, as your horse had just been fed drive him at a very gentle pace for the first two or three miles, until he warms up body becomes lighter. But before you start let me show you how to hold the reins. Take them in your left hand, have them of equal length from the bit and to cross each other in your hand, the off side one resting on your first finger, the other on the fourth finger, the back of the hand upwards. Now in guiding the horse you have only to use the wrist joint, which will direct them either right or left as you wish. Keep your hand steady, with a gentle pressure on the bit—no jerking or switching of the reins. If more speed is wanted, take the whip in your right hand, to be gently used for that purpose—be careful not to apply it any harder than is necessary to bring him up to the required speed.

Speak to him gently, and intimate in the most gentle manner what you want him to do, and he will try to do it. So noble an animal should not be handled roughly, nor over driven.

When you return, have the harness removed at once, and the horse rubbed down with a wisp of straw or hay.—Give him a bit of grass or hay, and let him cool off before being watered or fed. Every one who handles a horse, or has anything to do with one, should in the first place cultivate his acquaintance, let him know that you are his friend, and prove it to him by your kind treatment; he needs this to inspire confidence, and when that is gained he is your humble servant.

If your horse gets frightened at any unusual sight or noise, do not whip him, for if you do, he will connect the whipping with the object that alarmed him, and make him afraid ever after. If he merely shies at an object give him time to examine it, which, with some encouraging words from the driver, will persuade him to pass it. You get frightened, to, sometimes, and would not like to be whipped for it.

Waste in Farming.

Not less than twenty per cent. of the entire capital employed in farming in this country is wasted. This is a low estimate, for on many farms the amount of waste is more than doubly the sum named. Perhaps the intensity and high prices of labor in a few localities may be considered a reasonable excuse for this loss, but a skilful farmer should understand more than he can accomplish without waste. The first and most prolific source of waste can readily be traced to large farms, as raising out of every ten of our large farmers often or productive to work twice as much land as they are able to, with any sort of credit of profit to themselves or others.

In spring, many toom, potatoes, and crops requiring culture during the period of growth, are put in than can be attended to, and the result is that having and harvesting of grain cannot be attended to, and the result is that having and harvesting of grain cannot be attended to, and the result is that having and harvesting of grain cannot upon hoeing, and [illegible] on all sides. Scarcity of labor is always put of forward as an excuse for this waste, but the farmer was well aware that he could not obtain the required amount long before his crops were put into the ground, and should have known just how many men were required to take care of and harvest any certain number of acres of any particular crop. We are not disposed to excuse a man for waste on the score of ignorance, especially in farming, because the business is well understood.

Contrary to the general idea, we believe that the curse of American agriculture is cheap lands, producing a low standard of farming, and encouraging a grasping disposition to possess broad acres, with a corresponding neglect to the same when once they are obtained The first thought of the farmer or his sons is, how much land can I purchase? not, how much will my capital permit me to buy and improve! In ninety-nine cases out of one hundred, a man puts his entire capital into land, and then runs in debt for a few acres more, receiving no help whatever with to make improvements or purchase stock. A merchant who would put his entire capital into a building and leave himself with no capital with which to commence trade would deserve no pity if he did fail in business; and yet this is just what a majority of our farmers have been and are still doing. The result of such system is a slavish life for a term of years in order to procure stock, implements, barn, and finally a comfortable home for the wife and family.

Now there is but one way to remedy this wide-spread evil, and that is to own less land; make it produce better crops and thereby prevent a waste of time and labor. A man should never put more than half his capital into land no matter how much or how little he may have. We can offer no better proof of this wide spread evil of owning more land than can be judiciously cultivated, and than the average yield of of our principal farm products. The average yield of corn. for instance, in some of the Middle and Southern States, is not above ten bushels per acre, and in Illinois seldom above twenty; while those farmers who plant only on good, rich, land and attends to the culture, in these same localities, obtain from fifty to one hundred bushels per acre. These results prove conclusively, that thousands of acres are annually planted with this grain, and the labor expended thereon is almost if not entirely wasted. The same is true in regard to all kinds of grain cultivated in this country. A man starts out in spring to plant twenty acres of corn, when really he has not sufficient help to put in ten, and the result is a very small return for the labor expended, and less than than would have been obtained on ten acres, with seventy-five per cent. of the capital expended thereon. Man ure is wasted by being spread so thinly over a large surface of ground that the benefit is scarcely to be perceived while if a less area received the entire amount, it would not only bring in immidiate and a large increase in the crop grown, but be permanently enriched.

We frequently rear the old story of unfavorable weather, and that the wheat suffers want of or anuperabundance of moisture; which means simply the ground has been hurriedly prepared for the reception of the seed, being neither warked deep, subsoiled, underdrained nor otherwise put in condition for to secure a good crop in favourable or unfavourable seasons. Meadows and pastures fail from the same cause, and climate comes in for all the blame. If land owners could be persuaded to sell one half their real estate, and expend the amount on the other half, they might obtain greater profits and more leisure hours. Money and labor are wasted in fearful amounts upon poor stock and cheap implements, as well as upon poor lands and light crops of grain; in fact we are a nation of spendthrifts, although few are willing to confess it in their own case, but can readily see that some neighbor is sailing in the boat we have described.—New York Sun.

LAY PREACHING.—"I want to tell you," said an American minister, "what a laymen did for me in Greenfield, Mass. I was only sixteen years old. My mother had died in the previous December. I was driving the cows home towards the evening through a slight rain. A man with an umbrella over took me, and holding it over me, said,

"'My boy those are fine cows.'

"'Yes,' said I, 'they are fine.'

"'Why, that one with the short horns and broad back is a Durham.'

"'His interest in what interested me won me. After a while he asked,

"'Have you got a mother?'

"'No sir,' said I, 'she died las winter.'

"'What was the last thing she said?

"'O, sir, the last thing she said was,

"'May God have mercy on these children!'

"'Well, My boy, aint you a christian?

"'No sir.'

"'Why aint you?

"'I expect it is because I love sin so much.'

"Fixing his eyes earnestly on mine, and shifting his umbrella so as to grasp my hand with his right hand, he said,

"What, my boy, are you not a Christian;'

"'No, sir,' said I, with streaming eyes, 'but I want to be.'

"And then he talked with me so gently and kindly that I shall never forget it. O, the preaching of a season able word! It was lay preaching."

A young woman once married a man by the name of Dust, against the wish of her parents. After a short time they began to quarrel, and she tempted so to return to her fathers house; but he refused to receive her, saying—"Dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return," and she got up and walked.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL
Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.
There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alchol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of Oils which they may contain.

FALLING LEAVES.

They are falling, slowly falling.
Thick upon the forest side;
Severed from the noble branches,
Where they waved in beauteous pride,
They are falling in the valleys,
Where the early violet spring,
And the birds in sunny summertime
First their dulcet music sing.

They are falling, sadly falling.
Close beside our cottage door,
Pale and faded, like our loved ones
That have gone for evermore.
They are falling, and the sunbeams
Shine in beauty all around,
Yet the faded leaves are falling,
Falling on the mossy ground.

They are falling on the streamlet,
Where the silvery waters flow,
And upon its placid bosom
Onward with the current go,
They are falling in the churchyard,
Where our kindred sweetly sleep—
Where the idle winds of summer
Softly o'er the loved ones creep.

They are falling, ever falling,
Where the autumn breezes sigh,
When the stars in beauty glisten
Bright upon the midnight sky.
They are falling when the tempest
Means like ocean's hollow roar,
When the toneless winds and billows
Sadly sigh forever more.

They are falling, they are falling,
While our saddest thoughts still go
To the sunny days of childhood,
In the dreamy long ago.
And their faded hues remind us
Of the blighted homes and dreams,
Faded like the fallen leaflets
Castupon the icy streams.

A Newspaper Advertisement

Some years ago a Quaker, knight of the shears and thimble, who exercised his avocation in Canterbury, was imposed upon by an adroit scoundrel, who contrived to get a suit of clothes on credit, and afterwards decamped without paying for them. The Quaker was too poor to loose the debt, but like too many others of his cloth, he had apparently no other alternative. The amount was placed on his books and soon forgotten. About five years afterwards he was examining his old records of debts and credits, profit and loss, when his attention was attracted to this account, and all the circumstances attending it came fresh to his mind. Suddenly an odd thought presented itself.

"I'll try an experimen," said he to himself, "perhaps I may succeed in ridding the rogue and getting my pay."

He immediately prepared an advertisement, in substance as follows, which he inserted in the Kent Herald.

"If Mr. Henry Webber, who was in Canterbury about the month of August in the year 1842, will send his address to the editor of this paper, he will hear of something to his advantage."

Having instructed the editor not to disclose his name to the rogue if he should call, but to request the latter to leave his address, the Quaker waited patiently the result of his experiment. In a short time he was informed by a note from the editor that the individual alluded to in the advertisement having arrived from London, might be found at the "Rose Hotel."

The tailor lost no time in preparing a transcript of his account, not forgetting to charge interest from the time that the debt was incurred. Taking a bailiff with him, who bore a legal process suited to the to the occasion, he soon arrived at the lodgings of the swindler. The bailiff was instructed to stand off at a little distance till a signal should indicate the time for him to approach.

The Quaker now entered the coffee room and rang the bell, and when the servant appeared, requested him to inform the gentleman of whom he was in search, that a friend wished to speak with him. The waiter obeyed the summons, and soon both debtor and creditor were looking each other in the face.

"How dost thou do?" kindly inquired the Quaker, in a bland tone. "Perhaps thou dost not know me."

"I don't believe I have the pleasure of your acquaintance," politely answered our hero, with a forced smile.

"Dost thou remember purchasing a suit of clothes several years ago of a poor tailor in this city, and forgetting to pay for them?" asked the Quaker.

"Oh no," said the gentleman, blushing slightly, you must be mistaken in the person. Is cannot possibly be me you wish to find."

But the Quaker was not to be shaken off by this denial of his identity.

"Ah, Henry, I know thee well. Thou art the very man I wish to see. Thou hast on at this moment the very coat that I made for thee. Thou must acknowledge it was of good stuff and well made, or it could not have lasted thee so long."

"Oh yes," said the gentleman, appearing suddenly to recollect himself, "I do remember now the circumstance to which you allude. Yes, yes, I had intended to call and settle that little bill before leaving Canterbury, and you may depend on my doing so. I have come here to take possession of a large amount of property which has fallen to me by will. See! here is the advertisement which apprised me of my good fortune."

Here he handed the Quaker a copy of the paper containing the advertisement whose history we have given above. The Quaker looked at it with imperturbable gravity, and continued "Yes, I see thou art in luck, but as my demand is a very small one, I think I must insist on payment before thou comest in possession of thy large estates."

A tap at the window here brought the bailiff into the presence of the parties. The swindler was particularly astonished at the appearance of this functionary, who immediately began to execute his part of the drama.

"What!" exclaimed the rogue in an angry tone, "you surely have not used me?"

"Yes I have," replied the Quaker, and thou should be thankful that nothing worse has happened to thee."

"Come in, then," said the debtor, finding himself fairly caught, "come in, and I will pay you if I must."

The three went into the house together and the slippery gentleman having ascertained the amount of the bill, paid it in full. The tailor, having signed the receipt, placed it in the hands of his creditor, with feelings such as may readily be imagined.

The swindler took it, and for the first time glanced at the various items of which it was composed. He said nothing until he came to the last charge which was "for advertising," when he broke forth—"Hallos, what is this? 'For advertising,' That is an old charge in a tailors bill. You are cheating me!"

"Oh no," coolly resplied the Quaker, "that is all right. I have charged the cost of publishing the advertisement which thou just showed me."

Here the swindler savagely demanded. "Do you mean to say that you caused the publication of that advertisement?"

"Truly I did," replied the Quaker, with most provoking coolness.

"You have told a falsehood in it," quickly retorted the rogue.

"Convince me of that," said the imperturable Quaker, "and thou wilt find me ready to confess my fault."

"You said in your advertisement that I should hear of something to my advantage if I would come here."

"Thou art mistaken," immediately replied the Quaker. "I only promised that thou shouldst hear 'something to advantage,' and is it not the advantage of a poor tailor to collect an old debt."

"If I catch you in the street," said the swindler in the deepest rage, "I'll give you such a thrashing as will not leave the breath in your body."

"Nonsense," said the Quaker, "if thou really intend to do anything of that sort, we had better step out in the back yard and finish the business at once."

The rogue was completely abashed by the coolness of the Quaker, and stood speechless, almost petrified.

"Now," said the tailor, good naturedly, "let me give thee a piece of advice. When next thou hast occasion to get a suit of clothes thou had better not attempt to cheat the poor tailor, but pay him honestly, for then thy conscience will not disturb thee, and thy sleep will be sweet and refreshing. Farewell."

Beautiful Forever.

We do not know to whom the reader is indebted for the following lines, but think few will read them without pleasure, and that some may profit by the lesson they teach.

How to be beautiful when old?
I can tell you maiden fair—
Not by lotions, dyes and pigments,
Not by washes for your hair,
While you're young be pure and gentle,
Keep your passions well controlled,
Walk, work, and do your duty,
You'll be handsome when you're old.

Snow-white locks are fair as golden,
Grey as lovely as the brown,
And the smiles of age more pleasant
Than a youthful beauty's frown.
'Tis the soul that shapes the features,
Fires the eye, attunes the voice,
Sweet sixteen, be these your maxims,
When you're sixty you'll rejoice.

Our young maidens should, as Cicero says, "follow Nature as a Divinity." Powders, paints and washes but help the destroyer, Time, to fade the fairest brow, and rosiest cheek.

'Tis the soul that shapes the features,
Fires the eye attunes the voice;

"Snow-white locks are fair as golden." There is no use in trying to be what one is not. "Follow Nature as a Divinity." She must not be caricatured. Age has beauty as well as youth. Who will deny this to the well-spent life? Though the body grow old and infirm, the mind may glisten, and age be most beautiful without the gloss of art. We find fault with what is spurious only. The beautiful in Nature is essential to the pleasures of the well-organized mind, and that mind which is most matured and enlightened is most susceptible of it. If beauty were not essential to the mind we would not have the flowers of the field to "minister delight to man and beautify the earth." "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these"—not even arrayed like that little flower, on the ruins, of which Mrs. Hemans says, "it gilds destruction with a smile and beautifies decay."

We repeat—"Follow Nature as a Divinity. Let the girls learn lessons of modesty and beauty from the innocent flowers. Even in their dress they may copy innumerable designs from the flowers, and learn of the harmony of colors and charms of light and shade, but away with your dyes, powders, paints, washes and "waterfalls."

Lying and Swearing.

Old Parson S. of Connecticut, was a particular kind of person. One day he had a man plowing in his field, and he went out to see how the work was getting on. The ground was very stony and every time the plow struck a stone the man took occasion to swear a little. "Look here," cried Parson S. "you must not swear that way in my field, sir."

"Well I reckon you'd swear too," said the man, "if you had to plow such a stony field as this."

"Not a bit of it," said Mr. S. "Just let me show you."

So the Parson took hold of the plow, but very soon had considerable trouble with the stones. As stone after stone struck the plowshare, Mr. S. ejaculated "Well I never saw the like."

And this he repeated every time a stone stopped his onward way. As soon as he had plowed around once he stopped and said to the man:

"There now, you see I can plow without swearing."

"But I guess it's pretty near as bad to lie," answered the man, "And you told dozens o' lies. Every time the plow struck a stone, you said, I never saw the like,' when the same thing happened a minute before."

Social Progress in New England.

It is well, in a hurry and turmoil of our modern life, to sometimes pause for a moment and consider the changes which have been brought about in the methods of our daily life, and in the social, the moral, and the industrial conditions of the people, during little more than half a century. The insolation of the hamlet life of New England has disappeared almost as entirely as the wigwams of the aboriginal Indians. The race of farmers who wring from her sestile soil, by ceaseless toil, a moderate support is no longer to be found. Before the hurry and bustle of our modern life their contented independence has passed away with the conditions which created it. The rapidity and ease of intercommunication have increased the scope and the activity of our sympathies, and the new spirit of modern times is nowhere more strikingly illustrated than in the changes it has produced in the social and industrial relations of New England.—The spirit of unrest is abroad through the length and breadth of the land; and the insatiable desire for activity which has made the "Yankee" ubiquitous has destroyed the quiet contentment with the insolation of village life as it was only two generations ago. When Benjamin Franklin, in his capacity of colonial postmaster-general, proposed the startling innovation of a weekly stagecoach between Boston and Philadelphia, a coach to start from each end of the line, he was thought to be in advance of his times. Now however even our village gossips are disappointed if their morning paper does not contain full telegraphic advices from all parts of the world.

With this change in the activity of our social relations the industry of New England has undergone an analogous transformation, and her villages have become the seats of various manufactures. The traveller by railroad sees here and there a specimen of the spacious old farm-house, surrounded with its colony of barns, which formerly was the home of the well-to-do farmer, with his cattle, and formed the chief object of interest to the casual passengers of the stage coach. But these are now rare, and his intention is chiefly attracted by the villas of the successful manufactures, with their pretentious variety of Americo-Italian, trans-alantic Tudor, and nineteenth century Gothic styles of building.

If, however, our supposed traveler is a person in the habit of observing closely and is interested in the condition of the people knowing full well that the comparative comfort of the labor of a country, rather than the display of its wealthy class, is the only sure criterion for judging of its real progress, his experience will at the first glance lead him to question whether this era of industrial activity is an unmixed blessing. Clustered about the mill, with their ugly uniformity of brick and their tall chimneys, he will see collections of squalid cottages, or rows of tenement-houses redolent of poverty and disfiguring the landscape like blots upon an otherwise fair page These are the structures, crowded, unventilated, undrained, infectious with no proper sanitary regulation, which have replaced the cottages in which the labor of seventy years ago found its home. As in the olden times about the castle stronghold of some feudal lord were gathered the huts and hovels of the peasants, who sought within the shadow of its walls safety and protection from the predatory incursions of some neighboring robber knight, so in this age, which threatens the introduction of an industrial feudalism, labor gathers about these chimneys and these "iron-mills," in search of the means of living.

It is unquestionably a fact that the industrial advance of the last seventy years has been a most necessary and important step in social revolution.—The organization of production and the application of steam, together with scientic methods, have secured to society the ability for a more universal distribution of the material conditions for well-being and comfort than the world has ever before enjoyed. But the truth of Goldsmith's lines is none the less applicable for us to day than it was for his contemporaries.

"Ill fares the land; to hastening ills a prey
Where wealth accum ulates and men decay."

—From "An Industrial Experiment at South Manchester," by EDWARD HOWLAND, in Harper's Magazine for November

The Power of the Affirmative.

The power of positive ideas and the power of the positive affirmation and promulgation of them move the word. Breath is wasted in nothing more lavishly than in negotiations and denials. It is not necessary for truth to worry itself, even if a lie can run a league while it is putting on its boots. Let it run, and get out of breath, and get out of the way. A man who spends his days in arresting and knocking down lies and liars will have no time left for speaking the truth. There is nothing more damaging to a man's reputation than his admission that it needs defending when attacked. Great sensitiveness to assault, on the part of any cause, is an unmistakable sign of weakness. A strong man and a strong cause have only to lead an affirmative life, devoting attention whatever to enimies. win their way, and trample beneath their feet all the obstacles that malice, jealousy, or selfishness throws before them. The man who can say strohgly and earnestly "I believe," has not only a vital and valuable possession but he has a permanent source of inspiration within himself, and a permanent influence over others. The man who responds: "I do not believe what you believe,', or "I deny what you believe," has no possession, and no influence except a personal one.

In nothing is this principle better exemplified and illustrated than in the strife of political parties. The party that adopts a group of positive ideas, and shapes a positive policy upon them, and boldly and consistently affirms and promulgates both ideas and policy, has an immense advantage over one which undertakes a capital to operate upon a capital of negations. The history of American politics is full of confirmations of this truth. No party has ever had more than a temporary success

It may well be allowed [illegible] vitality and originality in [illegible] opposition and negation. Formal and straightforward affirmation has a power in itself, independent of what it affirms, than negation when associated with all the influences it can engage.

The Author of Christianity understood this matter. His system of religion was to be preached, proclaimed, promulgated. Its friends were not to win their triumphs by denying the [illegible] raids of infidelity, but by consistently affirming, explaining and applying the truth. With this system of truth, in his hands—so pure, so beneficent, so far-reaching in its results upon human character, happiness, and destiny—the Christian teacher commands the position. Infidelity and denial can make no permanent headway against faith, unless faith stop to bandy words with them. That is precisely what they would like, and what would give them an importance and an influence which they can win no other way. Why should an impregnable fortress exchange shots with a passing schooner? Silence would be a better defence than a salvo, and deprive the schooner of the privelege of being reported in the news papers. The world whirls on toward the sun, and never stops to parley with the west wind. The great river, checked by a dam, and rolling over it, grasps the occasion for a new exhibition of

Editorial Items.

To protect the understanding of humanity there is nothing like leather fastened together by Cable Screw Wire. Boots and Shoes made this way never rip, or leak, or come apart.

Mr. John Snell of Edmonton, Ontario, died on the 1st inst. He was one of the most successful importers and breeders of Durhams and Long Wooled Sheep in Ontario.

John Francis Maguire, one of the members for Cork in the British House of Commons is dead. He was for years editor and proprietor of the Cork Examiner, a Roman Catholic Journal of influence in the south of Ireland.

The Mail says: Mr. Mowat is about to seek election in South Bant. Mr. E. B. Wood resigning for that purpose. It may be so.

CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.—It is said that Mr. C. R. Stewart of Haliburton has purchased the Bobcaygeon Independent and will soon assume the charge of the paper. The Independent, under Mr. Hand, has been very ably conducted. He commenced Independent and he has maintained his independence to the last. It affords us great pleasure to be able to say this, for we had our doubts, at one time as to the possibility of his doing so. But now that after nearly three years Mr. Hand has proved himself still independent in the management of the paper, it is due to him to bear testimony to his having fulfilled his promises when starting the paper. We hope Mr. Stewart will succeed equally well in maintaining the character of the Independent.

The steamship "Missouri" was lately burned at sea. She was bound for Havana at the time. It is probable not a single life would have been saved had it not been for James Culmer, a passenger, who launched a boat that was on deck and swam to it, and eleven others followed and were saved.

Cholera has appeared in Ireland, and fears are entertained that it may also reach Canada.

Sir Francis Hincks has tendered his resignation of the office of Finance Minister, and accepted the Presidency of the Metropolitan Bank Montreal.

We understand that it is the intention of the Maple Leaf Cricket Club to give a Grand Concert in the course of a few weeks. Full particulars will shortly be made known.

SCHOOL BOARD.—There was no meeting of the School Board on Tuesday—no quorum. Present only Messrs. Edwards, Edmison, McLelland and Stevenson.

ASHBURNHAM.—The Council of the Village of Ashburnham met on Monday and appointed Friday Evening, 15th inst. for a public meeting, to consider the proposed Union with the Town. The meeting will be held at 7.30 p.m. in the Ashburnham Drill Shed. Two thirds of the Ratepayers have already signed a petition to Parliament praying for the Union.

THANKSGIVING.—Lieut.-Gov. Rowland Has appointed Thursday the 14th inst., as a day of General Thanksgiving

THE CONVERSAZIONE.—The Conversazione on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Fire Brigade, was a complete success. Long before the hour for commencing, the Hall was well filled by an appreciative audience. The Quadrille Band opened the proceedings, and Mr. W. H. Scott followed with a short address, instead of a reading as intimated on the programme. The Misses Gerrie, Kennedy, Johnston, and McCarroll and Mr. Gallottly rendered much to the attractions of the evening by their finely rendered songs and music. The Readings of Messrs. Haggart and Black were well received, and the recitations by Messrs. Quinsy and Chalmers were admirably delivered. The comique by Mr. John Robertson proved that—

"A little nonsee now and then,
Is relished by the wisest men."

The Tableaux prepared for the occasion was good, but what was almost an accident deprived it of some of its best effect. The entertainment on the whole was successful, and we are sure we but speak the mind of the Firemen in saying that those outside of the Brigade rendered efficient services in securing the success of the evening's entertainment.

R. Thompson & Son. invite attention to their card this week. We had the pleasure of visiting their gallery and rooms and found a very extensive stock of mouldings, frames, pictures and mirrors, complete in every department. Their enlarged photographs are very fine, sufficient to induce even ordinary mortals to order one. An examination will well repay any one, and this the more as it can be made free of charge. See their advertisement.

IMPROVING STOCK.—Mr. Martyn of Martyn's Mills has just purchased an Improved Berkshire Pig from the celebrated breeders, John Snell & Sons, Edmonton. The animal is ten months old, and was imported by Messrs. Snell, from England. We understand that Mr. Martyn paid $100 for him. See advertissement in another column.

ST ANDREW'S CHURCH.—We have been requested to state that the service in the forenoon of Sabbath next, (10th instant), will be conducted, (D.V.) by the Rev. F. P. Sym of Beauharnois, P.Q.

AUBURN MILLS.—The Rev. Mr. Sym will also officiate in the Schoolroom near the above Mills on Sabbath next, at 6.30 p.m.

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH for November has a rich table of contents. Among the interesting articles are, Popular Physiology, illustrated; Drugged to Death, by Howard Glyndon; Physical Culture; Dislocations with Illustrations; An interesting article on the different Medical Systems; Intelligent Cookery; Offensive Breath, and how to make it Pure; The use of Oatmeal for Human Food, and how to Cook it; Something about Sundry Humbugs; The Cure of Stammering; Women Physicians in England, with rich miscellaneous matter, which is full of useful hints on Health, making the No. worth many times its cost; only 20 cents, or for the year, $2. The Publisher offers the last three numbers of this year, on trial, for 25 cts. Address, S. R. WELLS, 389 Broadway, New York.

BURGLARS.—Three Burglars were arrested in Toronto on Friday night. They were just in the act of coming out of the store where they had been at work, when detected and secured.

Samel Bowen and Wm Downing were fined on Saturday for fishing in Wilmot's creek. These were the parties, who two years ago severely beat Mr. Wilmot while in the prosecution of his duty.

At Penetanguishine, on the evening of Hallowe'en a row was brought about by parties who had been celebrating the evening and had taken "forty-rod" freely One of them, named Delaney, lifted a gun and fired a shot at the others. A woman passing on the side of the street received the shot, and is in a precarious state in consequence.

Rev. Mr. Punshon will Lecture in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, on Wednesday evening, on "The Men of the Mayflower," or the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers. On Thursday evening there will be a Soiree, when Mr. Punshon and others will address the meeting. Go and hear him it will be his last visit to Peterborough.

The Method of Assessing Property.

Some time since we endeavoured to draw the attention of our Municipal authorities to the anomolous method of assessing property. It is true that Peterborough County is not the only Municipality in which it prevails. Every County and Township in the province was equally guilty, if guilt it might be called. As we pointed out then, there is no necessity for continuing the error of underrating the property of the Country for if the assessments are now in fair proportion to real value, to increase the whole, and hence the parts, 100 per cent will not increase the individual rate of taxation, nor yet the aggregate rate. The County Council felt that the aggregate assessment was very much below what it should be, and they attempted to remedy the evil by adding 15 per cent to the amount of assessment. All must be aware, however, that even by so doing, they could not do away with the obligations of Assessors; and to continue the system of undervaluing property, is only leading official and municipal sanction to evading the intentions of the law, as well as of solemn declarations.

The Parliament of Canada saw the irregularities referred to, some time past, and provided for appointing County Valuators, with a double purpose, no doubt, of securing a fair valuation of the County, and also, of securing a proportionate value of the Townships.

To carry out this provision would cost no more than the present system of assessing, and would ensure a fairer valuation. But even if it did cost more it would be only ensuring individual justice to all the ratepayers.

At present each Reeve comes to the County Council, and finds, in his judgement, Township Assessments unequally made. This is not to be wondered at as every Township has its own Assessor, or Assessors. The Council finds that this is the case, and has to make the best of it by equalizing, as fairly as possible, the assessments. These men know very little about much of the lands of neighbouring townships, and have to take the opinion of others in the matter. They find it impossible to even satisfy themselves, but they do the best they can under the circumstances. A personal inspection and valuation of every lot would do away with this, and would, if competent persons were appointed, secure a reasonable and proportionate value for all portions of the Municipality.

The system of apportioning Statute Labor also requires remodeling. At present the small property holder pays twice in proportion than his rich neighbor, the scale by which it is fixed not being in fair proportion to value, as all know. In the County Municipalities a man assessed for $2000 has six days statute labor to perform, while a man with $10,000 worth of property has only thirty-five days statute labor to perform.

It is generally admitted in all other taxes, for statute labor is a tax, that $10,000 should pay ten times as much as $1,000, and if so, which would be just, and in the spirit of our Municipal institutions generally, the man worth $10,000 would have to perform sixty days work instead of thirty-five.

It is evident, therefore, in the interest of justice and of the poor man, that the whole system should be remodeled. To do so need not necessarily increase the statute labor of the Municipality, it only requires to be fairly proportioned by the Clerk, the same as all other taxes, leaving the Council to fix the necessary number of days of statute labor for the Municipality, in the same manner as they do the other outlays.

It may be said that the sooner the statute labor system of the past and present is done away with the better. More work would be secured for half the money if properly laid out. But the difficulty of obtaining laborers to improve the roads of the country will necessitate the continuance of the Ratepayers, for their own sakes doing the work. But this need be no barrier to bringing about an equitable division of labor according to value of property.

Some changes are expected to be made in the Municipal Laws of Ontario during the approaching Session, when it is to be hoped that our Legislators will remedy some of the evils of the past enactments and secure the assessment of property according to cash value, and a proportionate division of statute labor in the same way as other taxes are levied. There is no necessity, now, that the poor man should pay any part of the more wealthy man's taxes, no matter what form it may assume. Nor is there any good reason for compelling men to spend a certain number of days on the roads for their amusement, or perhaps worse, cultivating habits prejudicial to their interests and very often "burning bacca" behind a stump, as an old farmer once remarked, instead of roadmaking.

Political.

The following piece of news from very good authority will not greatly surprise our readers:

Mr. Clinton's Committee during the late election have still great trouble to keep him from publicly, through the press, disavowing his intention to take Mr. Bertram's seat at Ottawa. The objects of the committee are to secure the seat merely till the House opens. They well know that they can do so no longer. They hope that the arch trickster, Sir John A. Macdonald, will be able to get a vote declaring the election of Mr Clinton void, and then he will order a new election.

Mr. Clinton's higher sense of honor prevents him entering into this petty scheming, and has declared his intention to be no party to it, it is said.

This at least has the appearance of reason about it, and Mr. Clinton's speech at the Millbrook gathering foreshadows something of this sort. We expected, all along, that he would not allow the advice of designing politicians, to divert him long from the path of honor, as all know that no honorable gentleman could retain his honor and Mr. Bertram's seat at Ottawa. Many were prepared for his open repudiation of any participation in the Act placing him in such a dishonorable position. If dame rumor be true, he will do so shortly. The Committees dread this course, and are doing all in their power to prevent it.

The seat is Mr. Bertram's by the will of the people, and to deprive him of it would leave an indellible stain on the character of the party and the man who would permit his political leanings or party to divert him from the path of honor and political rectitude.

Peterboro as it is.

"Peterboro wants another policeman. Its streets are infested with loafers, who congregate on the corners, obstructing the side walks and impeding pedestrians."

The above item is taken from the Port Hope Guide, copied perhaps from a Peterboro source of information. In honor of the citizens of Peterboro, it may be said that in no other town of its population in Canada are there fewer loafers, or less impediments on the side walks or street corners, and one policeman finds no difficulty in securing good order and complete personal safety to every citizen and every stranger who visits the town. There is not a more law abiding people in the Dominion than those in Peterboro.

It is true, that we have one or two citizens whose visual organs are not always free from the effect of what makes loafers and who not unfrequently converse with or pursue a host of little fellows not generally visible to other mortals.

If the nooks and corners of some people's imaginations could be freed from those things, Peterboro would not require to be thus referred to by newspapers in our sister Towns.

Disordered imaginations produce much of the disorder spoken of.

Reform Demonstration at Cornwall.

On Thursday last a grand Reform Celebration was held in the Town of Cornwall, to celebrate the victories of the party in that Riding, and in the Eastern sections of Ontario. The meeting was a grand success. Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie were present and both delivered masterly speeches on the position of parties in the Dominion, and boldly declared that they are confident that John A. Macdonald will not be able to retain power much longer than the opening of the approaching session.

Of John A. Macdonald's policy, Mr Mackenzie said:

He thoroughly believed in party government—he believed it was essential to the prosperity of the country—and he was able to quote all the most distinguished English statesmen, including the present head of the Conservative party in England one of England's ablest sons, Benjamin Disraeli, in favour of strict vigorous organization as political parties in the government of the country. This was essential; but when there was an attempt made, as there had been systematically in this country, to disguise under the name of Conservatism, or Liberal Conservatism—or other names expressing their proclivities, for which the political nomenclature of the century had been ransacked—a mere attempt to retain power; when they found the so called head of the Conservative party in this country merely attempting to retain office, and to retain it, politically speaking, by the vilest possible means, it was time for honest, independent Conservatives to refuse any longer to yield allegiance to such a chief.—(Cheers) What had been the tactics of that chief? They had not been to spread the principles of his own party, nor to expose the principles of his opponents as wrong but simply to build up what he would not dignify with the name of a political party but would call a political faction. He had been devoting himself not to acquire strength by an expression of principle, by securing the adherence to himself of those who had opinions in common with his own, but he had endeavoured to secure himself in a position of power by the very tactics by which the slave-driver in the south of this continent sought to increase his wealth. Instead of rearing up in his own young men who held Conservative principles, and embueing them with his own doctrines, he had resorted to pandering unto his purposes, and training them for the dirty work he had for them to do. (Applause.) They had admitted against [illegible] political meeting for years. He [illegible] had [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE REASON WHY!

DR. WHEELER'S CONCENTED ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half of the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the Brain, Muscle, and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite perfect digestion, create pure healthy, vitalizing blood and supply in the waste constantly going on the system as the result of mental and physical exertion. Being combined with Calisaya, the Peruvian Bark, the only specific for Chills and Fever, and that condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive diseases it forms an elegant and agreeable, invigorating tonic purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstances, and all diseased conditions of the body as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.

Troublesome Neighbors.

First, Mrs. McGinty came over to know
If a pailful of coal she could borrow,
Her husband had ordered a ton from the yard
She'd surely return it to-morrow.

Then came Mrs. Martin, from over the way,
Who said she stepped over to see,
If 'twould oblige her till afternoon
With only a drawing of tea.

Next came Mrs. Johnston, who'd like very much,
If I'd lend her for an hour or two,
A couple of irons, as she had on hand
Some work she was hurried to do.

Then came Mrs. Thompson, a neighbor next door,
A troublesome, cranky old dame—
Who wanted to borrow for that afternoon,
The loan of my new quilting frame.

Scarce had she gone when widow Jones,
Who said she was going to scrub,
Came into my room and wanted to know
If I'd lend her the use of my tub.

Then Mrs. Wilson came over in haste—
In her hand a pitcher she bore,
Her molasses fell short, she had'nt enough,
And would like to borrow some more.

Next came Mrs. Hernando, who wanted to know
If the late paper I had read through,
As would feel much obliged to me if I would
But loan it an hour or two.!

And even at night when going to bed,
There came to the door Mrs. Doyle,
Who had to sit up—her daughter was sick—
And wanted some kerosene oil.

With patience exhausted, I'm forced to declare
That in future I'll lesson my labors,
By refusing to lend everything I possess
To improvident, troublesome neighbors.

Agricultural.

Fall Plowing For Potatoes.

Ever since the period of the appearance of the potato rot in this country, farmers have been studying, more or less closely, the potato crop, and we believe we speak within the bounds of truth in saying, that all who have had the best opportunity to judge have decided that the application of mineral manures will give the best result, and the use of strong horse, or other fermenting manures, the poorest return, Especially does this prove true in seasons when rot is most prevalent. In New Jersey the green sand marl used lavishly, supplies all the mineral elements. In other localities, where this cannot be obtained, ashes, lime, plaster, and superphosphate of lime are employed with certainty, when properly applied in sufficient quantities.

All strong soils yield a better crop of potatoes when plowed, and completely pulverized in autumn, and we suppose this to be mainly due to the elimination of the mineral elements consequent on the comin tuition of the soil. and its exposure to atmospheric influences during winter. In the spring the more thoroughly the ground is again plowed, the better for the crop.

Planting Fruit Trees.

Whether spring or autumn is the best time for planting fruit trees, is a vexing question. How it may best be done is of most importance. Many think the question of expense settled by the cost of the trees, yet every man who does not spend double, triple, or quadruple the cost of the trees in planting them, is making a great mistake.

Nothing that is worth doing at all is worth doing so well as planting fruit trees. Wherever a tree is to be planted the soil should be enriched to a depth of at least two feet, and not less than six feet across. This preparation should precede planting at least a month. No raw manure, or other substance liable to ferment while decomposing, should come in contact with the roots. Don't hesitate to postpone planting one or two years in order to make thorough preparations. This is the way to get fruit quickly. Apple trees properly planted often bear in in four years, and pear trees in six, and they never die prematurely, as do thousands planted in the slovenly fashion that prevails.

The scarcity of trees, for a few years past has stimulated propagation to an extent that we fear will lead to low prices, and th'n in its turn to excessive and careless planting in the future, as in the past. Let us respect the feelings of our children's children, and in their interest as well as our own, "turn over a new leaf" in the matter of planting fruit trees.

Live and Dead Weight of Animals

The amount of meat obtained from a domestic animal sold by its live weight is very variable, and experiments have recently been made in Liverpool to ascertain the proper allowances to be made. From the statistics to be derived from the public slaughter-houses, or abbatoirs, of Paris and Brussels, it appears that the race and the condition of the animal beside many other circumstances affect the result, and that certain animals yield as much as 70 per cent. of meat, while others only give 50. The mean weight of meat produced, however, is calculated at 58 per cent. of the live weight in beef cattle. In the case of sheep the proportion varies from 40 to 50 per cent. From experiments made, it appears that the different products obtained from oxen and sheepare as follows:—An ox of the live weight of 1,322 pounds yields, meat, 771.4 pounds; skin, 110.2, grease, 88; blood' 55.1; feet and hoofs, 22; head, 11; tongue, 5.50; lungs and heart, 15.33; liver and spleen, 20.05; intestines, 66.15; loss and evaporation, 154.322—making the total of 1,322 pounds. The products from a sheep weighing 110.2 pound are as follows:—Meat, 55.1; skin 6,71; grease 5.51; blood, 4.408; feet and hoofs, 2.204; heod. 4.408; tongue, lungs, heart, liver and spleen, 4.408; intestines, 6.612; loss and evaporation, 19.836—making the total of 120.2 pounds.

Wearing Flannel.—The majority of people are not aware of the beneficial effect of wearing flannel next to the body both in warm and cold weather. Flannel is not so uncomfortable in warm weather as prejudiced people believe. Frequent coughs and constant hacking coughs have been cured by adopting flannel garments. There is no need of great bulk about the waist, which condemns the wearing of flannel with those who prefer wasp waists to health for in that case the flannel can be cut as loosely fitting waists, always fastening at the back. There are scarcely any of the bad effects of sudden changes of weather felt by those who wear flannel garments, and mothers especially should endeavor to secure such for their little people, in preference to all those showy outside trimmings which fashion condemns.

Putting on Lighter Clothing.—All changes to lighter garments should be made at dressing in the morning, and it in any case the change leaves the body chilly, or if, soon after it is made the the weather changes to be much cooler, by all means promptly, without halt an hour's delay, resume the full winter dress. The old the young, the invalid, in short, all persons of feeble constitutions, of small vitality, should be especially careful to heed these suggestions, inattention to which gives rise to the very frequent announcements in the morning papers in the early Spring, "Died suddenly, yesterday, ——— of pneumonia."

The Chicago Tribune asserts that corn is delivered at railway stations only 150 and 200 miles beyond Chicago, 10 cents, and one of 8 to 9 cents a bushel; and that wheat sells at a proportionately low price, as compared with what it brings at Liverpool. What would Canadian farmers say to such prices as these? Produce of all kinds is exceedingly high in Canada, and farmers are getting rich rapidly. In our cities, however, rents, fuel and the productions of agriculture being all excessively dear, the industrial classes feel the drain upon the results of their labor with great severity.

Gems of Wisdom.

Let your promises be sincere, and as prudently considered as not to exceed the reach of your ability. He who promises more than he can perform is false to himself, and he who does not perform what he has promised is false to his friend.

Pins not modern.—A collection of twenty-five pins, very well made, has just been placed in the Louvre, Paris. They were found in the subterranean vaults of Thebes, and were made more than three thousand years ago, showing that the modern invention is only a re-invention.

Compensation is a law of Nature. Every improvement brings its drawbacks with it, and railways in exchange for speed and comfort robbed us of a world of picturesqueness.

Be not diverted from your duty by any idle reflections the silly world may make upon you, for their censures are not in your power, and consequently should not be any part of your concern.

Adversity exasperates fools, dejects cowards, draws out the facilities of the wise, puts the modest to the necessity of trying their skill, awes the opulent, and makes the idle industrious. Much may be said in favor of adversity, but the worst of it is, it has no friend.

A correspondent of the Musical Standard calls attention to the curious fact that very many of the greatest composers are—or have been—childless For instance—Handel, Haydn, Beethoven, Corelli, Pergolesi, Rossini, and in our own time, Auber, Wagner, and Schumann.

Superstition.—Voltaire says that superstition is to religion what astrology is to astronomy, the very foolish daughter of a very wise mother.

We talk of the extravagance of modern ladies. Herodotus says that the revenues of Anthylla, in Egypt, a city of considerable magnitude, were always given to the wife of the governor for her expenses in shoes.

When is a rifleman better than his rifle? When he caps it.

Electricity and Love-making.

We have it on the best authority that there are people who make love by telegraph. Messages have superseded billets. Tender nothings are whisked along the wires, and languishing responses wafted back by the electric current. The amorous Strephion invests a shilling in the first whisper of affection; Chloe responds on the same terms; a declaration follows "nearer to wast," and the return mes-age settles the business. In case of rejection, a couple of messages will suffice. There is none of the old coyness, the standing off on the part of the lady to inspire advances on the part of the lover, the six months sighing and the year's waiting. Clearly all that is out of the question when people correspond with lightening speed; but on the other hand there is an advantage in the way of no lover's quarrels no jealousies no shilly-shallying or making other people uncomfortable through uneeemly "spooning." There is no time for all that; at least we suppose not, for we can hardly suppose Mr. Soulamoro to mean that people use the telegraph for making love in the old fashion ed way. They surely do not 'wire' letters of eight pages, crossed with all the poetry and ungrammatical fervour proper to such epistles, and take the Queen's Post Office department into their confidence touching the state of their heart, and furnishing prospects. That is incredible. The telegraph must be used by business young people, or those who are very much in a hurry. The love telegram is surely something short, crisp and to the purpose, on the model of of those in respect to gray shirting or the fluctuations in mines. The whole correspondence, with the exception, perhaps of the preliminary skirmishings, would, we should imagine, shape itself after this fash on: "Will you have me, dearest?" "Yes love." "Please name the happy day" "Wednesday week," impassionate one books the appointment in his office diary, and that remarkable transaction is settled. There is something striking in the way in which lovers have thus revenged themselves on the telegraph. It was a sad enemy to runaway adventures, outstripping in speed the swiftest postchaises, and heading express trains themselves. By its agency fugitive couples found themselves unexpectedly detained and their adventures brought to an ignominious climax. But as love aughs at locksmiths, so it has ingeniously turned the hrteful wires to its account, and the national revenue is swelled by tra nsactions in love as well as in politics, commerce and domestic news.—English Newspaper.

Sunday Liquor Law in Chicago.—On Sunday last the law prohibiting the sale of liquor in Chicago on that day, came into force, and was almost universally observed, one or two beer saloons alone violating the law. The Chicago papers state that there was a marked absence of drunkeness and disorder on the streets, and the arrests on Sunday night were nine, against forty-one of the previous Sabbath under the old system. The friends of law and order are much gratified at the result.

Tory Ideas of Fitness or Unfitness for Office.—The sole argument against the Hon. E B. Wood, for the Treasurership of Ontario, constantly urged by the Tory press, is that he deserted his colleagues during the late Session of the Ontario Legislature. It is not urged the he deserted or neglected his Department; but simply that he followed the expressed wishes of the people—that the Sandfield Government should give place to Mr. Blake It will be conceded that for the amount of noise made about it. the pretext is very lame—very Queen's Counsel.—The Tory papers are making a great ado about the alleged illegality of the action of Mr. Blake in creating Queen's Council, and they are now to make some capital out of the report that the Judicial Committee in England have decided that the Local Government had no power to create Queen's Counsel, and that it was the prerogative of the Dominion Goverment. To all of which a contemporary effectively replies as fellows:—1. That Sir John A. Macdonald has not ventured to create any Queen's Counsel since confederation, which is a presumptive proof that he has not the power to do so. 2. That Sir John Macdonald has not ventured to publish the text of the alleged decision of the Judicial Committee. which is presumptive proof that no such decision has been rendered. 3. That all the Courts and Judges in Ontario have recognised the Queen's Counsel created by Mr. Blake. which is proof presumptive, if not pos'ive. that the appointments were legal and constit utional.

COUNTY TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, } BY Virtue of a Warrant under the Hand of the Warden to wit: } and Seal of the County of Peterborough, and to me directed, bearing date the Nineteenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, I am commanded under the authority of an Act of Parliament of the Province of Ontario passed in the Thirty-second year of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter thirty-six, entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law respecting the Assessment of Property in the Province of Ontario," to levy on the lands hereinafter mentioned and described, for the arrears of Taxes due thereon, with the Costs, as hereinafter specified, as directed by the said Act.

These are therefore to give notice, that unless the said Arrears and Costs are sooner paid I will proceed to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the COURT HOUSE, in the Town of Peterborough, on

THURSDAY the FIFTH day of DECEMBER, A.D. 1872,

AT THE HOUR OF NINE O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON,

The said Lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred in and about such Sale, and the collection of the Taxes:

THE REASONS WHY

LAZARUS, MORRIS & Co's

CELEBRATED

Perfected Spectacles,

AND EYE GLASSES,

have met with such extraordinary success and are so much in demand:

1st. Because they are found to possess all the qualities claimed for them.

2nd Because they will reclaim sights abused by the common glasses, and will often be found to restore failing sight to its natural state.

3rd. Because no glimmering or dizziness is experienced in their use, and being fitted on optical and scientific rules, they are guaranteed against injury to the Eye Sight from improper selections.

4th. Because the system of fitting is an unerring guide to the true requirement of each purchaser—our agents are furnished with this system—solely our own.

5th. Because the never tire the eyes and last many years without the necessity of change.

6th. Because being the best they are the cheapest.

Innumerable testimonials might be here given but the use of these Spectacles and Eye-Glasses will best prove their inestimable value.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times it's Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people of any length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best. Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered.—Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small of Oils which they may contain.

Select Poetry.

So Goes The World

Our varied days pass on and on,
Our hopes fade unfulfilled away,
And things that seem the light of life
Are taken from us day by day.
And yet through all the busy streets
That crowd of pleasure seekers throng,
The puppets play, the showman calls,
And gossips chat the whole day long,
And so the world goes on.

Our little dramas come to naught,
Our lives may fail, our darling plan
May crumble into nothingness,
Our firmest castle fail to stand,
And let the children sing and dance,
The money-makers laugh and cheat,
The cruel unmindful, still shine bright,
Unconscious that our light is out,
And so the world goes on.

The house grows sad that once was gay,
The dear ones seek their Blessed Home,
And we may watch and wait in vain
To hear their well-known footsteps come,
And yet the sunlight checks the floor,
And makes the summer shadows long,
The rosebods at the casement bloom,
The bird pours forth his cheerful song,
And so the world goes on.

And God goes on, and with our woe
Weaves golden threads of joy and peace,
Guarding with His heart of hearts
Our days of pain, our days of ease.
He makes them all—the seeds, the sheaves,
The laugher's smile, the mourner's tears
And keeps them safe, his children all,
Through all the great eternal years
And so, thank God, the world goes on.

Railway Reform.

The Canada Pacific Railway

BY DAVID MILLS, M.P.

—From the Canadian Monthly.

The construction of Railways marks the beginning of a new commercial epoch. Railways create new political and social forces, which may affect injuriously Parliamentary Government. They revive some of the phenomena of mediæval society. To-day industry pays tribute to private railway corporations, as it once did to the sword. There is still the application of force, but it has assumed another form and is of a more subtle character.

It is still true that the price of liberty is vigilance. There are other means by which it may be lost than by brute force, and it is not unfrequently the case, that when it seems most secure, it is in greatest peril.

When the dynasty of the Stuarts sought to establish an aristocracy in America, it was at a period when the House of Commons was rising in power and importance. Any corps de ballet was in other undertakings. This statement is not borne out by the facts. There are but few points touched by rival railways, and except at those points railways are practically monopolies If the different railway trains running upon each road were run by different corporations, then there might be general competition, but not otherwise. Experience proves that combination is not an improbable thing between managers of rival railways. The number of these corporations must ever be so limited, that combination will always be practicable. The charges on railways, both for freight and passengers, wherever they are private property, are ill-regulated and variable. It is to the interest of the public to have the greatest amount done at the least possible cost. The reverse of this is to the interest of the railway companies. If a company, by diminishing charges, could increase their business, it would not be voluntarily done unless the ratio of increase of business was greatly in excess Every one who has taken the trouble to look into railway statistics, knows well that it has been a common occurrence to increase the earnings by a reduction of the rates. This increase was not brought about by drawing away traffic from rival lines, but by the stimulus given to commerce, that rendered travel and traffic profitable, which were not so before the reduction was made. It is said that the receipts per train, at a penny fare, from Shrewsbury to Upton Magna, in England, were £11 15s. 8d., and at a fare of 3½d., the receipt fell to £4 4s. 11d. per train. The receipt per train from Shrewsbury to Walcot, at a penny fare, were £14 17s 7d., and at 6d. fare they fell to £4 5s. 5d. We do not refer to these statistics to show that the railways of Canada would, in all cases, largely gain by a considerable reduction in their charges. If it were believed that this would be the immediate effect of reduced rates, the reduction would be made. There can be scarcely a doubt, from the results of such trials elsewhere, that the ultimate gain here would be considerable. But men who wish to dispose of railway stocks and bonds, are not likely to consider what may be advantageous to a company after they have ceased to have any personal interest in its welfare.

It is not in the management of railways alone that the interests of railway companies are against the interests of the public. They endanger, if the do not destroy, the independence of Parliament. Corruption taints the majority of railway enterprises from their inception to their completion. Charters are sought, not infrequently, for purposes of speculation. Sometimes they 'are used to blackmail existing railway lines. However much a railway may be needed a charter is seldom obtained without difficulty and stock is bestowed for Parliamentary support. The names of well-known railway men are sought to give credit to the projected enterprise, a number of shares are tendered them for their "eminent services" and they are seldom declined. At every step taken, some one is paid for his support, or some other for his opposition. When a railway scheme is fairly launched, it finds a large number of friends—engineers and professional contractors, the owners of rolling mills and the builders of cars and locomotives The gratuity of land grants, and the tendency in railway stocks, all come to its aid, and, it may be, experience its heavy. These constitute the grand army of a private railway enterprise. Besides these, there is a numerous band of camp followers, who expect, in a variety of ways, "to reap where they have not sown," but about whose special services nothing need be said. It is this numerous host of allies and followers which "can kill or keep alive" a railway project, and because they have this power, must be paid, that add to the cost of every rival railway undertaking.

It is not our purpose in this article to discuss the general question of railway reform. We have simply indicated our conviction that the question of ownership is yet an open question and that there are considerations, both commercial and political, unfavorable to the system of private ownership. There can hardly be a doubt that if the Canadian Parliament and the Provincial Legislatures were to take the whole subject of railway economy and railway management in hand, and secure a full report, not only of the traffic, but of everything relating to the railways of the country, they would confer a substantial benefit upon the public. But this is not all. The people of Canada will be forced to consider, if they wish to avoid being led on to disaster, the the relation in which the public men stand to gigantic railway enterprises. Who has not become familiar with the history of Fisk's Erie Railway speculations, of Tweed and Sweeny's peculations and City Hall contracts, of Judge Barnard's prostitution of a Court of Justice to railway rings? We cannot say that these things are impossible here. It is true the like have not happened. But it must not be forgotten that the opportunity has been wanting. These things were so not because men were wanting in intellectual capacity, but because great temptations were presented and they were too strong to be resisted, Human nature is, in all civilized communities, much the same. What has happened in New York is likely to happen in Montreal and Toronto under similar circumstances. The country ought to have—it is possible—a triple guarantee for the upright conduct of those to whom they entrust the management of the affairs of state—the high character of public men, a healthy public opinion, and an efficient law. The law ought not to allow a representative of the people to be put in a position that he may be suspected of acting in a particular way, not from considerations of public utility, but for his own private advantage. A member of parliament is a trustee of the country, and the policy of the law which forbids a trustee dealing with himself on behalf of his cestui que trust, is equally applicable to him. It is not enough that a public man shall act honestly, it is important that the public should think so, and in order that this may be the case, care must be taken that his public duties and his private interests are not made needlessly to conflict with each other. In the case of the Canadian Pacific Railway enterprise, it would seem that this and other important principles of parliamentary government scarcely received sufficient consideration at the hands of the first Parliament of Canada. It is the most gigantic railway ever undertaken, and its relation to the Government and parliament ought to have been well considered. From the eastern extremity upon the Upper Ottawa, to Victoria in British Columbia, the distance is not less than 2,700 miles. A road of this length requires a large population to furnish it with the ordinary amount of local traffic. At present there is a population of less than 30,000 in the country it will traverse In its construction 6,600,000 cross-ties, and at least 270,000 tons of iron will be required. It will take 340 locomotives, of 65,000 horse power, and 8,000 cars properly to equip it. It will consume yearly 270,000 cords of wood, and to keep the road in repair, 40,000 tons of new or re-rolled rails, and 800,000 cross-ties will be needed. This is no exagerated statement. The Union and Central Pacific Railway, extending from Omaha to San Francisco, a distance of 1,904 miles, has 334 locomotives and 6,549 cars. The New York Central measuring the length, and its equipment 1,500 miles in motives and 9,603 cars, not counting dummy engines, city passenger cars, or gravel cars for the service of the road. The operating expenses of the Union and Central Pacific Railway in 1871 were about ten millions of dollars and the gross earnings upon through traffic, $6,650,000. When we consider the length of the Canadian Pacific and the unsettled country through which it will run, $13,000,000 a year will not be thought an extravagant estimate for operating expenses, and yet it is nearly twice the amount of the gross earnings of the American road upon its through traffic. The roughly-estimated cost of the Canadian road is $100,000,000—less than one-half of the actual cost of the only Trans-continental railway yet completed, which is at least 700 miles shorter. We are aware it is said that the gradients upon the Canadian line are much easier, and the mountain passes much lower and that the cost of construction must be proportionably less. But these estimates afford but very imperfect data for estimating the cost of building a railway. From Truckee to Ogden City, a distance of 628 miles, the American road passes over a table-land about 5,000 feet above the sea level, and from Wasatch summit to Cheyenne, a distance of 462 miles, it is nearly one and a half miles above the sea level. From the Missouri River to Cheyenne, a distance of 517 miles there is a uniform grade of about ten feet to the mile, Cheyenne being about 5095 feet above Omaha. From Cheyenne to the summit of the mountains the distance is 32 miles and the grade eighty feet to the mile "The elevation," says Mr. Poor, "of this vast plain from which the rocky mountains rise, is so great that these mountains, when reached, present no obstacles so formidable as those offered by the Alleghany ranges to several lines of railroad which cross them."

British Columbia has been described as a sea of mountains. The whole province consists of a succession of mountain ranges, rising, it may be, to no extraordinary height, but being not the less formidable obstacles, on that account, to the construction of a cheap railway. The country between the Upper Ottawa and Lake Winnipeg is of a rough an unimproved kind. THE MAYORALTY.—We are glad to learn that Mr. Cox has consented to be a candidate for re-election. During the year he has occupied the Civic Chair, he has done so to the satisfaction of the people. Opposition to him at the present time is harmless. There was a whisper of it, but we believe it is not now seriously entertained.

MUNICIPAL.—We learn from pretty good authority, that Jas. Millar, Esq., will be a candidate for re-election as Reeve of Otonabee, and will no doubt be elected.

For Improvement of Stock Mr. W. A. Hall, advertises two Berkshires this week, they both took prizes at the late fall shows, the Berkshire is undoubtly a fine animal. See advertisement.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday, whilst Martin Kennelly, son of Mr. John Kennelly, of Otonabee, was handling a young colt about 2 years old, somewhat of a pet, he received a kick in the lower abdomen, which, we regret to learn, has proved fatal. Dr. O'Sullivan was immediately sent for, but the hurt was of such a nature that medical skill was of no avail.—He died yesterday, about 2 o'clock. Deceased was about 14 years of age.

The people of Stratford are now seeking to re-unite the County of Perth for purposes of Registration. The late John Sandfield Macdonald divided the County so as to create offices for his friends, but so unpopular is the division that the Mitchell Advocate says:—"The people who are exerting themselves to obtain a union are deserving of the thanks of every ratepayer in the two Ridings, with the exception of those two in St. Mary's, and [illegible] Councils in the different municipalities will give them all the aid possible towards the consummation of the work undertaken. Since the division was created by the late Sandfield Macdonald, the annoyance caused thereby to property holders in Mitchell, Fullarton, Hibbert, Downie and South East Hope, is almost beyond description."

The Epizootic is spreading over the world rapidly, and its effects are severely felt in the large cities of the United States and Britain.

Port Hope has had a visit from several burglars. Not much was missed after their departure. The constable, however, missed the scoundrels which is a pity.

The corner stone of a new Bible Christian church was laid in Belleville on last Friday. Rev. C. Baker conducted the religious service, and M. Bowell, M.P., officiated in laying the corner stone.

Sir Francis Hinch' wife and family removed to Montreal on Monday last, where they will reside for the future.—Pretty sure evidence that Sir Francis will not have much more to do at Ottawa.

One of Daly's U. Peg. lambs, in North Perth, was on Thursday last sentenced at the Stratford Assizes to four months imprisonment, and to pay a fine of $50, for riotous conduct at the recent election in that riding.

The Woodbridge station of the Toronto Grey and Bruce railway was entered by burglars on Friday night last, the safe blown open, and about $30 stolen. Two other establishments were burglarised, but nothing of account taken.

A report comes from Fort Garry to the effect that the boundary line commission have found the Canadian Customs House at Pembina to be on the American side of the line, which is said to be run between the Custom House and the Hudson's Bay Company's post.

FLOGGING.—The first application in Eastern Ontario, of the lash, as a means of correction on convictions, took place at the Belleville gaol last week. Andrew Townley, who was convicted last spring of an attempt upon the person of a small girl, received twenty lashes, which he bore without a groan, though suffering great pain. He admitted that he deserved twice as much punishment, but whiskey, he said got it for him. Whiskey is the cause of more stripes and sorrow than all other causes combined.

MELANCHOLY AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday, while the eldest son of O. E. Shaw, Esq., of Beckhorn, aged 7 years, was playing with a loaded revolver which had been left on the table in his father's office, it went off; the ball penetrating the chest over the region of the heart, thus causing death almost instantaneously. Great sympathy is felt in the neighborhood for the afflicted parents. Dr. Kincaid was sent for to investigate the cause of death, but after reaching the spot and in view of the facts declined to hold an inquest, considering such a proceeding unnecessary.

AUCTION SALE.—W. Fairweather & Co will have a very extensive auction sale of Household Furniture on Wednesday the 20th inst., at the residence of Mr. Thos. Davis, Simcoe Street. The Stuff is almost all new, not having been in use over three months.

The nomination of Hon. T. B. Pardee, Lambton, took place yesterday.

AN IMPOSTER.—A Barrister, hailing from Millbrook, has been deceiving a number of gullible gentlemen in various parts of the country, who were over credulous in believing his representations.—At Sydenham he called himself the Hon and Rev. Mr. Neville. He was not long a resident of Millbrook, and besides a few trifling accounts is not likely to have left any strong memento of his honorable revenge. He has just escaped Penitentiary for hiring a livery rig in Port Hope and selling it, the owner failed to appear to prosecute, and hence his narrow escape from deserved punishment.

INSURANCE.—We have much pleasure in recommending to public favor the Sun Mutual Life Insurance Company. It is thoroughly Canadian. Its stock holders, officers, &c., being all Canadians. They are all men of commercial standing and responsibility. Mr. Fred. C. Taylor, formerly of the Union School here, is Agent for Peterborough and surrounding Counties, and as he is well known in the community he will, no doubt, do a good business.

MANITOBA.—Governor Archibald has resigned, and Col. Coffin, a man almost unknown in public life, is to succeed him.

U. S. Grant has been re-elected President of the United States.

Lord Dufferin will visit Montreal about the 20th instant for the purpose of unveiling the statute of the Queen.

A man named Hasking, has just recovered $250 damages against the County of Perth, for a broken leg caused by being thrown out of his buggy last spring, while crossing a fallen tree, on his way home from Mitchell.

The public meeting in Ashburnham to discuss the proposed Union with Peterborough, will be (to-morrow,) Friday evening, in the Drill Shed, at 7:30 Go and hear what is to be said, both for and against the change.

The Bank of England has raised its rate of discount to seven per cent.

Speculations on Wall Street has taken so much gold out of the country that the Banks are not willing to grant the usual accommodation to business men, and this will be continued to a certain extent, so long as one half, and one percent a day even can he realized in gold gambling in New York.

Owing to the fact that Messrs. Mackellar, Crooks & Scott, have merely changed offices in the Ontario Ministry, they do not require to seek re-election from their constituents. This will be a great disappointment to the Union for Prog Party.

MUSIC HALL.—Hendron's Opera House Co perform in the Music Hall every Evening this week.

Remember the Soiree in the Methodist church this evening.

Mr. W. C Nicholls will have a sale of Village and Park Lots, at Joubert's Hotel Lakefield, on Monday evening 25th inst.; at 7 o'clock p. m.

The names of over 700 pupils were enrolled on the books of the Collegiate Institute and Union School last month, with an average of 625. The attendance at the school has doubled in about three years. This speaks well for the popularity of the Institute and the success of its management.

THE EXTENTION.—As our readers are aware the limits of the Town will be extended on the 1st of January 1873. But the Proclamation of the Lieut-Governor makes no provisions for enabling [illegible] Electors within the proposed extension, to take part either in the nomination of Mayor or Councillors, nor yet in their Election. They will have a right to vote on the 1st day of January, but there is no provision for securing a Voters' List. It does appear reasonable that the power which effected the extention could also fix the others preliminaries in regard to nomination and list of voters, it would not cost much to find out. The Electors in the proposed extention may, otherwise, be prevented exercising there prerogative in the election of muncipal representatives for next year. The evil is not a great one, but if it can be remedied it should be at once, so that no cause for complaint may be afforded. The parliament will meet early in December, and perhaps Legislation could be obtained, if necessary, in order to meet the exigiences of this particular case.

Organize.

This is the watchword of the party of Union and Progress as set forth in the Mail, and echoed by all the lesser lights of the party. In a late issue the Mail congratulates itself on the progress made in this direction. The object is to take hold of every office in the country, if possible, and become the general dispensers of favors and patronage, and in this way secure the affection of the people, so as to regain their political position in Ontario, at the next general election.

During the last Municipal Elections in this County the principle was tried and failed. The good sense of the people spurnde the idea of forcing political strife into every contest for office. What would be the state of the Country if every Councillor, every School Trustee and every Pound-keeper must wear the badge of Conservatism before he can be fit to act, not even in the capacity of a School Trustee, or must there be some institution for manufacturing Conservative School Teachers to suit the narrow and unpatriotic cause of that party?

The system of terrorism held over the fears and positions of many and the hopes of office held out to the faint-hearted secure the sympathies of some whose political principles were weaker than their desire for peace or office. To continue this terrorism is not calculated to benefit the Dominion or ensure an intelligent and free expression of the Electors. In the present state of the Country, and in view of Conservative political philosophy as issued from the Conservative press, (with the single exception of the Cornwall Freeholder) the electors would do well to show their detestation of dragging political contention into Municipal Elections, by rejecting every man of any party who is known to attempt it.

The party of Union and Progress must feel their waning influence, when they advise the perpetration of eternal party strife in order to secure a little advantage for designing demagogues—who would rain our country if thereby they could secure their own selfish ends. The Mail and kindred spirits who would inaugurate the system of political strife in all our elections, are no better than political incendiaries who would set our country on fire to secure an opportunity for plunder; and they deserve no better fate than those who are caught setting fire to property, with a view to rob and steal in the general confusion, during the conflagration.

Great Conflagration in BOSTON.

The City of Boston has suffered from a fearful conflagration that commenced on Saturday night about two o'clock and continued till Monday morning without cessation.

Seventy acres of the business part of the city is destroyed. Property to the amount of $100,000,000 consumed, and 930 Stores. 60 Lodginghouses, 2 Churches and some other buildings are completely destroyed.

The Insurance Companies are endeavouring to calculate their losses and several of them will have to suspend business Below we give a list of the Companies which are involved in the losses, which are variously estimated at from seventy five to one hundred millions of dollars.

New York, Nov. 11.—Knots of people assemble on the streets to day conversing upon the disaster to Boston and general expressions of sympathy are heard everywhere. All the Insurance Companies have bulletined statements of their losses and their standing, of which the annexed is a copy of many of them. Ætna, of Hartford, loss less than a million, assets $3,150,000; Relief of New York, loss $50,000, capital unimpaired; Williamsburg City, loss $90,000, assets $580,00; Resolute, loss $10,000, Commercial loss $104,000, assets $340,000; Columbia, loss $15,000, assets $446,000; Star, loss $150,000, assets $400,000; Mechanics, loss $5,000; Firemens, loss $5,000; Lafayette, loss $5,000; Phœnix loss $450,000, assets $2,032,191; Adriatic, loss $15,000, assets $80,000; Niagara, loss $30,000, assets $1; 00,000; Liverpool and London and Globe, loss $-0,000; (This Company received a despatch from London to pay losses and draw on the Liverpool office.) The Queen's, of Liverpool and London, loss about $300,000; Hope, loss about $50,000; Fire Association of Philadelphia, no losses; American Central of St. Louis, loss $15,000; Farmer's Mutual of York, Pa, loss $5,000; Lancaster of Lancaster, Pa, no losses; Pennsylvania Underwriters loss $15,000; American, loss $300,000, assets $1,250,000; London Assurance, loss $100 00; Pennsylvania, loss $300,000, assets $1,250 000; Globe, loss $15,000; Orient, loss $15,000; National, loss $150,000; Exchange, loss $15,000; Ætna of New York, loss $30,000; Tradesman's, loss $24 ,000, assets $455,000; St. Nicholas, loss $15,000; National loss, $120,000, assets $675,000; Brewer's loss $45,000, assets $375-000; The Guardian of New York, $50,000; The Amazon and Triump $60,000 each. The Washington, of New York will lose its surplus; the Montauk, $5,000; the Merchant's of New York, $50,000; the Stuyvesant, nothing the International, N.Y., $300,000; the Home, N.Y., $600,000 risks. The Providence Companies will lose heavily without exception

BOSTON, Nov. 11—The number of firms and business houses burned out is 930. The number of dwelling and lodgingbouses is 60. Four insurance offices report their losses as follows —Fireman's Fund of California, $125,000; Commerce of Albany, $15,000; Queen's of London net $400,000; Ætna of Hartford $600,000. These companies will pay in full The North British, Hartford, Phœnix, and National report that all their policies will be paid in full, and they will continue business. A general visit to Boston insurance office this morning reveals the fact that they have been hardly able to do anything towards estimating and determining future steps.

The first news of the fire represented matters worse than the Chicago fire, but although bad enough, it does not reach one-half the losses sustained in the Chicago conflagration. The loss to the City will be felt for a longer period, as it is not likely to be rebuilt so rapidly as the Western City.

A Telegram from the scene of the fire says, the Conflagration was got under control about one o'clock on Monday morning. Having in the space of fifteen hours destroyed hundreds of the costliest and most substantial warehouses in the country, and temporarily paralyzed three of the leading merchantile interests, the shoe and leather, wool and dry goods trade. It is said there is not one wholesale shoe and leather establishment left in Boston. The wool trade has sufferd in an equal degree, and the dry goods jobbing houses left are few and far between.

Slander Refuted.

For some months the organ of John A. Macdonald, the Mail, has been persecuting its readers and patrons with the most systematic course of slander of Public men, whose public and private character have been unblemished. The Mail was brought into existence by the Tory leaders for that purpose, and faithfully has its mission been carried out so far.

The meanest and filthiest stories that could be cooked up by hireling correspondents in every part of the country have found abundant space, with leads and capitals to set them off in the columns of the slandermongers' organ, and its readers have been treated to the delectable mental pubulam of lies, of base and groundless insinuations, and charges sufficient to satiate even John A. and the subsidised scribblers who do the dirty work for him.

During the election contest, Mr. Blake was the object of their vilest attacks, but finding that those attacks tended to his popularity, they ceased to abuse him and turned their attention to Mr Mackellar imagining that as Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie were about to withdraw from the Ontario Ministry, and supposing in that case, that Mr. McKellar must become Premier, their vile efforts were made to blacken him if possible.

Disregarding their own cry in 1867, that the past must be forgotten, and that the new order of things should be commenced with clean slates, the Mail and almost the whole Tory press ransack the private histories of individuals for nearly thirty years past to find something that might be hurled against their opponents. Mr. McKellar still being the object of their hate.

About 1846, if we remember aright, the Rev. Mr. King commenced what is known as the "Elgin Association" for the purpose of securing homes for negroes who had escaped from slavery. The Presbyterian church with laudable desire to aid the good work begun by Mr. King, made it a special part of their work to provide for the spiritual wants of those people, and at that time, every Presbyterian considered it his duty to aid the Buxton Mission, as it was called. Mr. King was earnestly engaged in providing for the education of those whom he had freed, and others who came to him from time to time. Dwellings had to be built, school houses and churches provided, teachers and ministers paid, and the only way to obtain the means was by appealing to the generosity of the people of Canada and Great Britain.

Mr. King in a late number of the Globe declares emphatically that Mr. McKellar had no connection whatever with the Mission other than as a contributor to its funds.

Mr. King by special invitation visited Ireland and addressed various meetings on behalf of his Mission, and funds were raised, but the Rev. gentleman asserts that with these funds, or even soliciting them, Mr. McKellar had nothing to do whatever and of himself, Mr. King says in the Globe of the 11th inst.—

"To carry out my plans a home and a Christian education were required. The Elgin Association supplied the former, and the Canada Presbyterian Church the latter. I commenced my operations in 1849, and went silently on with my work. In 1857, Prof. Gibson, of the Belfast College, and the Rev. William McLeod of Londonderry, visited me and spent several days in examining the settlement and the whole work in which I was engaged. To them I made known my plans and they heartily approved of them, and invited me to visit Great Britain and Ireland and make them known, and the means I required to carry on the work would be forthcoming. I went to the General Assembly of the Irish Church which met in Dublin, in July, 1859, and addressed that venerable body on the religious and educational part of the work. On the 13th of July a public meeting was held in the Metropolitan Hall, Dublin, at which the Lord Mayor presided. Upwards of three thousand persons attended, composed of the principal citizens and ministers of Dublin with the members of the General Assembly. At that meeting I explained my whole scheme, and distinctly stated at that, and at all my subsequent meetings, that I asked nothing for the temporal support of the settlement; that the colored people were able and willing to support themselves, that four thousand pounds were raised by subscription in Canada, under the direction of the Association, the affairs of which were managed by a President, a Treasurer, and Board of Directors, with the funds of which I had nothing to do. The object of the Association was simply to hold the lands until the colored people could pay for them themselves.

In explaining the educational part of the work I stated my object was to place the schools of the mission on a permanent and efficient basis, and for that purpose eight thousand pounds would be required which I proposed to be raised by subscriptions to be paid annually to the Treasurer of the Church in Toronto. At that and subsequent meetings, both in Ireland and Scotland, subscriptions were raised by persons appointed and by them paid to a general Treasurer, who transmitted the sums, when gathered, to the Treasurer of the Church in Toronto. These subscriptions amounted to five thousand dollars, besides six hundred dollars a year of an annual contribution from the Irish Church. A few years ago, when the church was built, the sum amounted to nearly six thousand dollars Two thousand seven hundred dollars was used in building the church, and three thousand dollars are still in the hands of the Treasurer.

My object in visiting Ireland and Scotland was not so much to raise funds at that time, as to give information with regard to future operations, and to enlist the co-operation of Christian and benevolent men in the scheme of planting Christian colonies on the coast of Africa. With that view I assisted in forming the African Aid Society in London, with such noble-minded men as Lord Churchhill, the Earl of Shaftsbury and Lord Brougham. That society was to do in Africa what the Elgin Association was doing in Canada; to secure the lands on the coast of Africa under British protection for the Christian settlements until the settlers themselves could pay for them in the cultivation of cotton and sugar, and if necessary to provide farming implements.—Whatever aid they got was only as a loan to be repaid again. We believed that the coloured man was able and willing to support himself and family, when placed in favourable circumstances and protected in his rights. All that he required was only a fair field for his enterprize, and he asked no favour. But these schemes were all suddenly brought to an end. God, who rules the destiny of nations, had decreed that slavery in the United States should come to an end. In 1859 President Lincoln was elected, the South in its madness rebelled, and the first shot fired at Sumter was the death knell of slavery. The sword had been drawn from the scabbard, and all right thinking men could see before it would be returned again slavery would be abolished and freedom proclaimed throughout the land to all the inhabitants thereof.

Such was the work in which I was engaged in my visit to Great Britain and Ireland: to aid in adopting plans for the overthrow of the slave trade and slavery, which was now happily come to an end. What part had Mr. McKellar in that mission? None whatever. He, with myself, has been paraded in the Mail, and other journals of a kindred nature, during the last three months, as travelling through England, Ireland and Scotland, raising funds for the benefit of fug tives in Canada and appropriating them to our own use. The whole story is utterly false, a vile calumny, and the Mail knew this when it uttered it. I have hitherto treated these calumnies with silent contempt, for there are men, like the member for Kent, of such low instincts and grovelling desires, that they see in no scheme of benevolence for the good of our fellow-men any thing but money, and they imagine that all who engage in such work are actuated only by mercenary motives. From such men the world can expect little good and the men of benevolence little sympathy.

Further on in his letter Mr. King says

"Mr McKellar attended only two meetings one in Londonderry and one in Edinburgh. When I was holding my last meeting in Ireland, in Londonderry, Mr. McKellar arrived that same week in one of the Allan steamers (as I mentioned in my former letter, on business of his own) I invited him to take a seat on the platform, with the gentleman and ministers of the town who were present, which he did. He left the next day for Scotland, to visit the Duke of Argyle, on whose estate he was born. He spent several weeks in the Highlands enjoying the scenery and recruiting his health. When I went to Edinburgh, where I held the first meeting in Scotland, I requested Mr. McKellar to attend. I had two reasons for it: one was I wished him to indentify himself with a cause that was popular in Edinburgh, as he had indentified himself with the same when it was unpopular in Chatham. Another reason was I desired him to be present when I answered foul slanders that had been uttered against me in that city, nine years before, and which I had no opportunity of meeting till then. In 1846 a deputation consisting of Messrs. Thomson, Buffum and Douglass came to Edinburgh and assailed the Free Church for receiving a few thousand pounds from the slave States. On one of the nights of the meetings, I was denounced as a "slave owner living in splendour in Edinburgh on the sweat and blood of the negro in Louisiana." The deputation had received false information with regard to my position then, just as the Mail has received from the member of Kent now. Mr. Frederick Douglass, a colored gentleman, one of the deputation, has had the magnanimity to visit me since in Canada, call a public meeting, and there confess that I had been slandered by him in Edinburgh, from wrong information which he had received. I hope the Editor of the Mail will have the same honourable principle, confess his faults and sin no more.

The meeting in Edinburgh was held in the Music Hall, The Lord Provost presided, and the professors of the College with the ministers of the city and many of the town councillors were present. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity.—After I had spoken, Mr. McKellar made a few remarks bearing testimony to the industry, sobriety and general good conduct of the settlers. There was another gentleman from Chatham in Edinburgh at the time I held the public meeting, whom I invited to attend, but he chose to decline the honour. It would never do to indentify himself with a cause that was so unpopular in Chatham. That was the first and the last meeting that I held in Scotland at that time. Shortly after, Mr McKellar left and went home.

When I held my other meetings in Scotland and England Dr. Burns was with me, and Mr. McKellar was at home attending to the interests of his farm, and knew nothing of what funds were collected until he saw it stated in the Financial Report of the Treasurer of the Church."

After this plain, explicit statement of the working and management of the funds of the Buxton Mission, and the positive declaration of Mr. King that Mr. McKellar had no connection with it, other than as a friend of the Mission, will the Mail and lesser lights have the magnanimity to acknowledge their error, and honestly acquit the Minister of Public Works? It need not be expected. The Johnny Macdonald regime has been synonymous to corruption, slander, and villification to opponents. It can exist only in the atmosphere of these means, and therefore it is useless to appeal to honorable, honest, and manly sentiments of an opponent in cases that can be looked for from the party. There are, however, men in the party who condemn the course pursued by the Mail and who are daily becoming alienated from them by

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers for sale his Farm,

Lot 16, and the West Half of Lot 17, in the 7th Concession of Smith.

The Farm contains 300 acres, more or less, about 150 acres are cleared. The Cobourg Railway runs through the lot, which is only about a mile from the Mud Lake terminus of the road.

There are two dwelling houses, and barns, stables, sheds and wells attached to each, so that it is suited for two farms. There are also two orchards on the lots. The property is about 7 miles from Peterboro, and admirably suited for Dairy purposes. It will be sold in whole, or in parts to suit purchasers.

Terms Liberal. For further particulars apply to

THE REASON WHY!

DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALASAYA

Is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half of the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the of Bone, Muscle, and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite perfect digestion, create pure healthy, vitalizing blood and supply in the waste constantly going on the system as the result of mental and physical exertion. Being combined with Calisaya, the Peruvian Bark, the only specific for Chills and Fever, and that condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive diseases it forms an elegant and agreeable, invigorating Tonic purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstance, and all diseased conditions of the body as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.

Peterborough, [illegible] 1872. 4-tf

ment of the sums to which the company may have become entitled, but it has provided no certain basis of determining what this sum is. The road is not divided into sections of greater or less difficulty by the law. No degrees of difference are indicated by the amount of bonus per mile assigned to different parts of the road. It is not stated that the estimates of the engineers shall form the basis of the calculation in determining the amount of bonus to which the company may have become entitled so that the Ministry have a very wide margin of discretion in dealing out the bonus to the company. Land grants to railways have hitherto been a favorite way of aiding railway projects in the United States. Upwards of 10,000 miles of railways have been built that have been so aided, and there are several thousand more in process of construction. At least 2:0,000,000 acres of public domain have there been applied in this way, and it is now extremely doubtful whether the public have been served by this policy It is quite clear that this will be the policy of the Federal Government no longer, as we find both candidates for the Presidency pronouncing decidedly against it. The Illinois Central Road was one of the first aided in this way. By an Act of Congress, passed in 1850, 2,595,000 were granted to aid in the construction of the road from Cairo to Chicago and Duluth—707¼ miles of road in all.

Up to this time 2,179,390 acres have been sold from which the company have realized the sum of $25,000,000, and the 415,910 acres unsold, are held to be worth $12,50 per acre. The company are likely to realize from the sale of these lands a sum greater than the cost of the railway. Congress granted to the Kansas Pacific Railway 6,900,000 acres in Kansas and Colorado, within three years 615,625 acres were sold for $1,676,059, and three millions more were mortgaged for $5,500,000. The lowest price was obtained during the first year when they averaged $2.51; in 1869, the year following the average was $2.62, in 1870 $3.13, and in 1871 $4.31 per acre. And this, too, in a tract of country known as the great American Desert. The average price realized by the Union Pacific Railway Company for lands sold prior to January, 1871, was $4.46 per acre. Every year the price of land, in districts ceded to railways, is enhanced in value, and, after the settlement of a sparse population has been secured, the railway companies do not make haste to sell unless their financial circumstances force them to put their lands into the market. There can be no doubt then, that a bonus of 50,000,000 of acres is an immense contribution towards the construction of a railway. Assuming that, of this vast arear, but one fourth is fit for settlement these 12,50,000 acres, at the price for which the Senoon Lands in Minnesota sold seven years ago, would bring $87,500,000. We believe it would have been preferable had the Government promised the comany a fixed sum for every settler that might locate within twenty miles of the railway, upon such terms and conditions as would best secure an immigration into the country. The company then would have had a powerful motive to promote the settlement of the country—much greater than at present. The volume of immigration from Europe to Canada is not likely to be very largely increased. Since the abolition of slavery in the United States, the south and the south-west have been thrown open for settlement, and the tide of population is flowing more and more to the south. An effort which would have at one time secured for us a large population from Europe had it been put forth, will do so no longer. A gentleman who held a high position in the confederate army says "we have a steady, though as yet a small stream of good English immigration into Virginia. Those coming here are almost without exception men of intelligence and character, who are able to purchase and pay for comfortable homesteads. They are most cordially welcome, and are well satisfied with the country and people." Englishmen are in like manner finding their way into other states of the south, and the sooner we appreciate the difficult task we have before us in turning any considerable portion of the current towards Canada, the sooner we shall provide against the embarassments our present policy is storing up for the future. Our policy should be at once both wise and vigorous.

We fear in dealing with the Pacific Railway, we have mistaken the way which leads to prosperity, and have laid the possible foundation for transactions like those which have made Hall and Tweed notorious. We think it is deeply to be regretted that any member of Parliament should be a stockholder in this enterprise. He cannot, at the same time serve the public and serve himself in a contract with the public agents. He must either support or oppose the Ministry with whom he contracts, and in either case, a consideration of his gain or loss by the course he may pursue must influence his conduct. Will any one say that Ministers might properly be stockholders, and why not ininisters as well as other members? Ministers are but a committee of the House enjoying their confidence and carrying on the affairs of the country in a way sanctioned by a majority of their fellow members. Parliament is responsible for what is done by Ministers, and no member can enter into contract with a Ministry without knowing that upon him ultimately depends the right to approve or disapprove, in his public capacity of the act of the Ministry in dealing with him as a private citizen. What if the Government should think his bonus insufficient and should propose to increase the amount will those members with whom the Government contracted be in the position of other members of Parliament. Can there be any difficulty in predicting how they are likely to vote? If the fate of a ministry depends upon these railway members, does any one doubt that they would undertake to improve a bad bargain? From whatever point their position is viewed, it will be seen to be an indefensible one. and every consideration of public policy which calls for the exclusion of a salaried officer of the Crown from the Parliament requires equally the exclusion of these men. This is necessary lest it should become the policy of Parliamen to grant aid to railways and other enterprises ostensibly to promote quasi public works, but really for the purpose of enriching a few members at the expense oi the nation.

Young Fitzimizzel was the owner of an incipient moustach, of which he was exceedingly careful and not a little proud. On one occasion at an evening party, his much-beloved lip adornment became the subject of conversation with some friends near him. "Very fine moustache, that,' remarked one. 'A little light, though,' chimed in another. "Pshaw!" said the third. "I would require a microscope to discern it." "Oh! no gentlemen," now spoke up Fitzizzle. "You would be obliged certainly, in this case to use a telescope because my moustache belongs to one of the heavenly twins.'

The Maiden For Me.

Just fair enough to be pretty.
Just gentle enough to be sweet,
Just sassy enough to be witty,
Just dainty enough to be neat,
Just tall enough to be graceful,
Just slight enough to be fay,
Just dressy enough to be tasteful,
Just merry enough to be gay.

Just true enough to be trusted,
Just pious enough to be sad,
Tones soft enough to remember,
Your heart through their cadence made glad;
Just meek enough for submission,
Just bold enough to be brave,
Just pride enough for ambition,
Just thoughtful enough to be grave.

A tongue that can talk without harming,
Just mischief enough to tease,
Manners pleasant enough to be charming,
That put you at once at your ease;
Disdain to put down presumption,
Sarcasm to answer a fool.
Cool contempt enough shown to assumption,
Proper dignity always the rule.

Flights of fair fancy ethereal,
Devotion to science full paid.
Stuff of the sort of material
That really good housewives are made.
Generous enough and kind-hearted,
Fare as the angels above,
All from her may I never be parted,
For such is the maiden I love.

An Astronomical Act

Two persons were born at the same place, at the same moment of time. After an age of fifty years they both died, also at the same place, and at the same instant, yet one had lived one hundred days more than the other. How was this possible? Not to keep our friends in suspense, the solution turns on a curious, but with a little reflection, a very obvious point in in circumnavigation. A person going around the world towards the west loses a day, and towards the east he gains one. Supposing, then two persons born together at the Cape of Good Hope, whence a voyage round the world may be performed in a year. If one performs this constantly toward the west, in fifty years he will be fifty days behind the stationery inhabitants; and if the other sail annually toward the east, he will be fifty days in advance of them. One, therefore, will have seen one hundred days more than the other though they were born and died in the same place, and at the same moment, and even lived continually in the same latitude and reckoned time by the same calendar.

The Montreal Evening Star warns its readers against a miserable counterfeit of the Canadian half dollar piece. It was passed off upon the door-keeper of the Palace Musical recently. It was taken in a crush, when examination was well nigh impossible, but as many more similar counterfeits are now in circulation the public would do well to be careful.

A trick was played at Strathroy last week by somebody. According to the Despatch, a gentleman, who lives a short distance from town, received a sealed envelope on that day containing five tickets for the concert to be held in the Town Hall that evening, with a note stating that he and his family should not fail to be in attendance, as they would there see a person who could tell them something to their great advantage, adding that if, was necessary that the whole family should be present. Not seeing the drift, and thinking it could do no harm at any rate, the kind invitation was accepted, and the concert was visited. Nothing occurred while there to explain the matter, and the gentleman left for home just as much in the dark as ever. When the house was reached, however, the object of the donor of the tickets was made plain, for during the absence of the family from the house it had been ransacked from top to bottom. Nothing luckily was missed, as some money which the gentleman had received and for which the search had evidently been made had very fortunately been removed by the forethought of the lady of the house.

Sheep Killed by Cats.—The residents in a small settlement several miles back of Buckingham village have been for some weeks past in consternation at the loss of their sheep. Night after night the flocks were visited by some blood thirsty animal, and the settlers awoke in the morning to find one of their lambs killed, each animal bearing the same mark, a small hole below the ear through which the lamb bled to death. Every time a sheep was found dead a search was made for some trace of the animal that committed the depredation but no track or clue could be found. The wound was not like what a dog or wolf would make and a bear would not only have eaten a large hole in his victim but would also have left the tracks of his feet in the mud. The settlers at length found it necessary to fasten their sheep in pens over night to save them. Those who had closely housed flocks always found them safe in the morning, but those who only enclosed their sheep in yards near their houses continued to have their lambs killed. The mysterious depredation continued for some time puzzling the settlers, some of whom attributed them to supernatural agencies. Last Sunday morning just before dawn one of the settlers, a German, heard a racket amongst his flock which were penned in a small enclosure alongside of his house. Hastily taking his double barrelled gun from the wall he crept out softly to the corner of the pen and saw one his lambs struggling in the agonies of death in one end of the enclosure, and two small animals holding a tight grip on it by the throat. The German drew a bead on one of the objects and fired. He heard an unmistakable "mew" and to his astonishment he found on examination the animals that were killing the lambs were two huge cats. the one he had shot was a very large black and white tom, strong enough to face any dog in the country, and with a comrade like himself to assist him it was no wonder they could so easily master a sheep.—Ottawa Citizen.

Is your throat sore, or are you annoyed by a constant cough? If so, use promptly 'Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers.' They will give you instant relief. They relieve the air passages of phlegm or mucus, and allay inflamation, and no safer remedy can be used for coughs, colds, or any complaint of the throat or lungs, and it takes in time their efficacy will soon be proved. Sold by all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cents per box

Have you a cough, cold, pain in the chest, bronchitis, or consumption? If so know that relief is within your reach in the shape of Dr. Wistars Balsam of Wild Cherry, which, in many cases where hope had fled, has snatched the victim from the yawning grave.

Married ladies under all circumstances will find "Parson's Purgative Pills" safe; and, in small doses, a mild cathartic. They cause no griping pains or cramp.

Loss of memory is ever the first indication of a disorder or degeneration of Nervous ement. The rapidity with which the mind is restored by the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is perhaps the best proof of its power in re-establishing the strength of the nervous system.

If you are suffering from rheumatism, lame back, cholic, bowel complaints, burns, &c; decidedly the best thing to get is a bottle of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer." Sold by all medicine dealers.

Horse dealers who are supposed to know what effects their interest, purchase Dargey's Condition Powders and Arabian Leave Remedy by the dozen and feed it to their horses for the purpose of improving their condition, which it always does—others should profit by their example—Remember the name, and see that the Signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada.
